A. H. ELLER FOR KITCHIN.

The Successful Manager of Governor Glenn's Campaign Predicts Victory for the Congressman.

(Special to News and Observer.)

Winston Salem, N. C., May 21.

—It has become known here that Hon. A. H. Eller, who so successfully managed the campaign of Governor Glenn, is now taking a very active part on behalf of Hon. W. W. Kitchin. Mr. Eller's well known political ability makes this news of more than minor importance. This afternoon Mr. Eller issued a letter to his friends in which he predicts that Mr. Kitchin will be victorious and in which he sets forth his reasons for supporting him, as follows:

"1st. Mr. Kitchin is undoubtedly the people's choice, and his nomination will not violate the party custom of rotation between the East and the West.

"2nd. He will carry to the executive chair more prestige and national renown than any man since the war except Vance. His abilities as a campaign speaker are pre-eminent, and our party requires this year for its standard bearer an aggressive leader who can meet in debate the ablest Republican and arouse enthusiasm for Democratic principles,—one who has always been a Democrat and who has never known defeat.

"3rd. Equal rights to all and special privileges to none is with him a living principle. If he has erred, his party erred before him. For its declared principle he has fought a good fight and kept the faith.

"4th. Admitted abuses have not yet been corrected, needed reforms have not yet been accomplished; it is not the time for the people to yield to a reactionary movement and permit a Republican panic to overwhelm Democratic principles. When Thomas Jefferson and his co-peers dared to sign the Declaration of Independence. There were those who said, 'Don't do it it will hurt business.' We have some of their descendants and disciples with us today, and they are all against Kitchin.

"5th. Without injustice to any private or corporate interest, he does possess that decision and stability of character, of all qualities most important in the governor of a State. The charge that he is dangerous comes from those Democrats who have either opposed the platforms and candidates of their party or who now consider him dangerous to their personal ambition.

"6th. Opposition to his nomination seems to have been planned by an astute politician, by combining the local pride for a Western candidate, the anti-Kitchin corporation influence of the middle section, and the zeal of those men, specially interested in the splendid prizes of governor and senator for 1912 from the east.

"7th. The memorable victory of Vance over the Elder Settle in '76 was recalled by the signal victory of Kitchin over the younger Settle in '06, when he redeemed the Fifth district in the midst of Fusion rule; nevertheless the fight against him goes on in his own district. The magnificent defense made by him for Crawford, the tenth district member, unseated by a Republican congress, has not been forgotten, yet it is boasted that Kitchin cannot have a vote from the tenth district.

"9th. It is said, 'He has held office,' and so he has, with others; and under every test he has rung true and every temptation he has remained clean. On such public servants the people are in no hurry to call time

"9th. Kitchin's support is positive, not negative, based on love for their candidate, not hatred for other candidates. The people know that he has the keeping of his own mind, and that his heart beats in sympathy with their rights and aspirations, and in due time they will speak.

"10th. The call of early conventions in counties that are easily fixed, is the method of a weak candidate, on the idea that the fixed wagon will frighten some and draw others into its trail. A survey of the field shows that when a few more counties in the Center and East shall speak. Kitchin will take his place in the lead and hold it until he is nominated."

Miss Winstead has taught music in the Tarboro graded school for several years, and ranks in the highest class a musician. Her many friends here will regret to learn of her departure, but will wish her the greatest happiness in her future life.—Tarboro Southerner.

May 26th a Memorable Day.

"May 26th should go down in history as a memorable day in North Carolina," remarked Mr. D. C. Moore to The Reflector man this morning. "Just ten years ago today, on the 26th of May, 1898, on just about such a looking day as this, the Democratic State convention met in Raleigh and made that notable declaration for 'White Supremacy' that swept the State like an avalanche in the election two years later. Today the State is making more history in an election that frees North Carolina from the evils arising from the manufacture and sale of whiskey. Yes, May 26th is a history making day in North Carolina."

Social Meeting.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will hold their social meeting with Mrs. E. G. Flanagan Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Every member of the church is urged to come and bring their friends. Admission 10 cents. 5 23 3td

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., May 26, 1908.

Miss Blanch Cannon is able to be out again, from her recent illness, to the delight of her many friends.

Mrs. Ormond, of Greene county, is visiting her children, Mrs. Elias Turnage and Mrs. H. C. Ormond

Miss Arah Davis, who has been teaching school in Beaufort county, came home Monday night.

Commencement at the seminary this week and people are beginning to arrive to attend all the exercises. Hon. Locke Craig will deliver the annual address Thursday, 28th. The occasion promises to prove interesting and the attendance of a large crowd is anticipated.

Rev. C. W. Howard delivered two splendid sermons in the Christian church Sunday. He is an excellent preacher and greatly admired by our people regardless of sect.

The ladies of the town gave a free temperance entertainment in the opera house last evening. They were assisted by a number of little girls and the occasion was as successful as enjoyable. All seemed to have a good time.

W. L. Browning and wife are visiting in Martin county.

Mrs. S. R. Smith and daughter, Miss Myrtie, are visiting relatives in the country.

The protracted meeting at the Free Will Baptist church under the conduct of Rev. St. Claire, has resulted in several conversions and additions to the church. A good feeling has been aroused and we are sure much more good will result.

Hyman Buck came home Sunday from the University to spend vacation.

The Masonic sermon preached to the Masons in the Free Will Baptist church, last Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. E. L. St. Claire, the blind evangelist of Georgia, is spoken of in high terms. All those present are united in their praise, especially the Masons, who declare it was the grandest effort on the subject they ever listened to. Mr. St. Claire is a fluent, polished speaker and when he becomes enthused does not have the appearance of being blind. His sermon was not only pleasing and beneficial but he brought out facts truly interesting and unknown to the Masonic fraternity here.

The infant child of J. T. Smith, Jr. who has been sick so long, died Saturday and was buried Sunday in the cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. W. Howard.

D. C. James, W. B. James and little son, of Greenville spent the day here yesterday.

B. T. Jackson and wife, from the country, spent Sunday with J. F. Smith.

H. B. Smith and wife have been visiting relatives in Ayden during the past week.

Election in town today. Prohibition stands a good chance of being elected.

Charlie Ross will return to the University in order that he may take in the commencement.

There were services conducted in the Episcopal church by Rev. Mr. Dubcan. After the sermon Mrs. Maggie Butt, of Winterville made a short talk which we have heard very highly complimented. Mrs. Butt comes of a very talented family and anything she says is worth hearing.

ELECTION DAY EVENTS.

The Women Pray, the Children Parade and Sing, and the Men Vote for Prohibition.

Today dawned bright and beautiful, and with the rising of the sun pealing church bells reminding men that this was the day to declare their manhood, for their homes, and redeem the State from the evils of whiskey. At 7 o'clock a largely attended prayer meeting was held in the Baptist church, another was held in the Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock, in the Christian church at 3, and the closing service in the Methodist church at 6.

About 10 o'clock this morning a large number of children gathered at the graded school building and were led by the Bryan Grimes Drum Corps in a parade. The children carried banners and flags and sang as they marched along. Following the children was a wagon on which were several young ladies dressed in white bearing a banner "Protect Us." The procession stopped in front of the court house where the children sang several songs. At every hour of the day the church bells rang to advise the men at the ballot box the women were praying that they might vote right.

The result will be eloquently told in the returns that come after the counting of the ballots tonight.

Taft Would Eat With Negro in Dining Car.

The Fayetteville Observer, one of the leading and best edited newspapers of North Carolina contains the following in regard to Secretary Taft, the Republican presidential candidate, and a party of his friends:

"Solicitor N. A. Sinclair returned last night from Savannah, Ga., where he went to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Sinclair McNeill. On the train with Mr. Sinclair was Secretary of War Taft, leading Republican candidate for the presidency, and three attendants, two white men and a negro.

"The secretary of war and party boarded the train at Charleston, having returned from a trip to Panama. The secretary ordered four covers laid on the table, for dinner, and on account of the great bulk of the secretary, the table which is intended for four people, had to be extended. When the great man and his three companions appeared in the dining car and were preparing to take their seats, the conductor came on the scene and informed Mr. Taft that in South Carolina colored men had to wait until after all the whites had eaten, and despite the secretary's protest, his negro companion had to retire.

"Taft is certainly bidding high for the negro vote, and we wonder if he can wean them back with such bait."

A Musical Treat Awaits You.

Greenville people may rest assured that a rare musical treat is in store for them in the coming of the Madrigal Club, of Norfolk, in a concert here Wednesday night. This club is composed of a quartette of trained singers of one of Norfolk's leading churches, and people who have heard them frequently tell us their singing is superb. Every member of the club is a musical artist. Seats are now on sale at Reflector Book Store. The club comes under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias and should have a large audience.

A Billion Dollar Half-Congress

Nearly all of us remember Speaker Reed's "Fillion Dollar Congress" and the part it played in politics. Now we have the first or long session of a Congress reaching billion proportions. It is estimated that the appropriations for the session now near an end will aggregate $1,026,000,000. The Postoffice Department leads, of course. To it is appropriated $221,765,000. Next come pensions, swollen by recent extensions to the enormous total of $163,000,000—this, forty-five years after the great war closed. In order follows $154,000,000 for permanent annual appropriations; $122,662,000 for the navy; $120,000,000 for the objects named in the sundry civil bill; $95,000,000 for the army; and a job lot of smaller appropriations, including $25,000,000 for public buildings, $11,642,000 for agriculture, $11,500,000 for the District of Columbia, and $4,000,000 for the diplomatic and consular service. Nothing, thanks to Speaker Cannon, is spared for an Appalachian and White Mountain forest reserve. It will be seen that despite some cheese-paring economy where no political end was in view the aggregate is sufficiently impressive.—Charlotte Observer.

Special Sale.

TUESDAY, MAY 26, 1908.

If you are looking for a place in which to locate, Greenville's opportunities are worth considering.

May the white ballots "Against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors" predominate in today's election.

The Reflector's prediction is that Pitt county will honor herself today in a majority of not less than 500 for prohibition.

After the ballots are counted there will be rejoicing throughout North Carolina over the splendid victory for prohibition.

You have a perfect right to your opinion in the contest for governor, but bear in mind that the other man has an equal right to his opinion.

Keep your eyes on Greenville. Our paved streets, the training school and the public building are things that will push the town forward as never before.

In the multitude of other matters claiming attention, Greenville should not overlook the fact that it is important to nominate good men for aldermen in the ward primaries to be held Friday night.

The Raleigh Times has raised its voice against the enormous unnecessary expense surrounding the present day graduation of a boy or girl in college. And the Times is right. There is entirely too much expense for show, social doings and other things unnecessary, and the burden falls heavily on parents not able to bear it. The colleges would do well to encourage the students to reform in this particular.

The campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor grows more and more disgusting. It is making strength faster for the Republican party in North Carolina than anything the Democrats have ever done before. There are three good men aspiring for the nomination, yet the supporters of one malign the others just as if they were enemies instead of belonging to the same party, and vice versa. Some want to make the support of a certain man a test of Democracy, and some think everybody is a rascal who does not agree with them. The campaign for the nomination is a reflection on the party by which the enemies to Democracy are profiting. If the State convention was a month or two further off we believe the people would rebuke such a campaign by nominating a man who is not in the race. It will be much the safer course for the party to take at Charlotte.

Fair tonight and Sunday.

THE AGE OF CHIVALRY.

It is Now Rather Than In the Days of Knights Errant.

When we speak of the age of chivalry we are apt to imagine the existence at an earlier period of a finer sense of honor, of loftier ideals, of sublimer courage and of more devoted unselfishness than are found in the practical workaday world of today. As a matter of fact, "very gentle parfit knights," such as Chaucer describes, who rode about with squires, rescuing distressed damsels and redressing wrongs generally, were very few. The age was comparatively a harsh and cruel one. Oppression and violence prevailed, and human rights and justice were little regarded. Poverty was more general and the condition of the poor more abject than anything we know, and the richest enjoyed little of the comfort which is today well nigh universal.

People were supposed to bear the ills to which they were born, and all the efforts of a dozen knights in mail and plumed helmets did not go as far toward alleviating misery in a month as do the ministrations of a single visiting nurse now. We live in an age of chivalry vastly expanded. Where there was one worker for others in the knights' days, there are a hundred now, and chivalry permeates the spirit of all the good causes which enlist so many willing hands.

Between the tenth and fourteenth centuries it was but in the bud. Now it is in flower, and later on the full harvest of fruitage will come. There never was a time when there was such universal war against oppression of the weak and helpless, when every form of cruelty was so indignantly frowned upon, when womanhood and childhood were more studiously championed and protected, when the poor and sick were so tenderly regarded and cared for or when the lower animals were made the object of such solicitude and shelter from harm and suffering. Above all was a time when, at once as well as with all the world, there were more constant exhibitions of quiet, modest courage and splendid heroism than are constantly occurring in the records of our daily life. In all sorts of accidents—by fire and flood, by the forces of nature, by travel and by the operation of great industries—there is always some one ready, generally some unknown, unheralded person to risk his life in order to save others. If that isn't chivalry there never was such a thing. We do not get by any means possess all the virtues, but courage and self-sacrifice in some of its forms are very good to build on.—Washington Post.

Obesity and Genius.

The annals of genius are filled to overflowing with the names of men who toiled and achieved fame under a full habit. Nothing can be more unjust than the gibe about "fat and folly" and fatness and indolence. Martin Luther was as fat as Calvin was thin. Ernest Renan's obesity did not obscure his insight and brilliancy. Many writers and speakers have too long spoken invidiously of fatness, but the best report we have been able to glean in our researches into this weighty subject is that of C. H. Spurgeon, the famous preacher. "People," said Spurgeon, "say I am fat. I am not fat. I am bone and flesh. My limbs, thank God, are amply clothed, and I am in my right mind."—Strand Magazine.

Walking.

Firm, regular steps are said to denote a steady, reliable nature, while jerky, uneven movements indicate the reverse. The energetic person walks quickly and stops suddenly. The dreamer saunters along with slow, abstracted mien. The obstinate man goes straight ahead, refusing to turn aside for anybody. On the other hand, the person who is ready to step out of any one's way is not necessarily weak willed. He may be afflicted with too much courtesy. The long, swinging step usually marks the generous, broad minded person, while the small, petty tread shows the walker to be of a mean and narrow character. This last rule applies, of course, far more to men than to women.

Big Trees.

The tallest tree in the world is the Australian eucalyptus, reaching a total altitude of 480 feet. The biggest are the mammoth trees of California, some of which are 376 to 376 feet in height and 108 feet in circumference at the base. From measurements of the rings it is believed that some of these trees are from 2,000 to 2,500 years old. The oldest tree in the world is said to be on the island of Kos, off the coast of Asia Minor. It is several thousand years old, but just how many no one has dared to say. The tree is carefully preserved by a wall of masonry around it, and the trunk is thirty feet in circumference.—Minneapolis Journal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, proved Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. What Is the First Law of Nature?

"Self preservation is the first law of nature," answers Johnny Jones.

Correct, Johnny. Go right up to the head of the class. This law applies to a community as well as to an individual. Under the severe operation of this law a town that does not take care of itself, that does not look after its own interests first, that does not look out for Number One, soon falls into a bad way.

That's just as sure as shootin'. It's the law.

We must obey the law or take the consequences. If we in this town and community do not work together for our own good, the mutual good of all of us, in all lines of business, we have only ourselves to blame if the place slides down the inclined plane instead of climbing the golden ladder of prosperity and progress.

For instance, if we do our retail trading with big city stores that have no interest in us except to get our money and keep it, local trade must suffer and shrink, town property values and farm land values must decrease—and there you are!

Johnny Jones, who knows the law, is a wise lad, but how about his papa and mamma?

Do they obey the first law as applied to the old home place? If they don't, Johnny may have to apply the law to himself when he grows up. He may have to go to the city to make a living.

Let's all think it over.

WANTED THEIR GOATS.

A Curious Adventure Among the Natives of Africa.

Mrs. Constance Larymore, author of "A Resident's Wife in Nigeria," recounts this curious adventure in Africa: "The sahib, as from ineradicable Indian habit I still commonly call my husband, had gone out at sunset after deer, and during his absence the entire population of the village came streaming up the hill to the rest house, all talking loudly and at once and evidently under the influence of strong excitement. I was by that time well accustomed to creating a sensation whenever I appeared, no white woman having been seen previously, but these people struck me as having more than salutations in their minds and on their clamoring tongues. I had been six weeks in the country. My knowledge of Hausa was confined to salutations and a few simple words, so I summoned our interpreter to help me to entertain my visitors.

"They chattered, shouted and gesticulated at Paul, who eventually explained to me smilingly that they had never seen a white woman before and were anxious to offer me a personal welcome. I nodded and smiled in high gratification, thanked them cordially and when I had exhausted my small stock of polite salutations told the interpreter to give them leave to go home. This they did, somewhat reluctantly, I thought, but after describing the interview with some amusement to the sahib I dismissed the matter from my mind.

"Six weeks later we passed through Lukpa again on our way back to Loko-Ja and found it deserted—not a man, woman or child, not a goat, not a fowl—all gone, obviously fled into the bush. I felt distinctly hurt at this churlish behavior on the part of my late admirers and learned long afterward that on our first visit our precocious interpreter and others of our party had seized and killed every goat and fowl in the village. The wretched owners had rushed up to the rest house to complain, and all they got was 'Thank you!'

"I am not ashamed to confess that I cried when I made that discovery. The lesson, however, went home to us both and drove us to work ceaselessly at the Hausa language, knowing there could be no security for ourselves or justice for the people until we could be independent of dishonest interpretation."

AN INDIAN ATTACK.

One In Which Custer and a New York Broker Were Mixed Up.

Charles Osborn, a New York broker, and General Custer were intimate friends, and Osborn annually visited the general at his camp on the plains. During one of the Indian campaigns he invited Osborn and a party of friends to Kansas and after giving them a buffalo hunt arranged a novel experience in the way of an Indian scare. As Osborn was lying in his tent one night firing was heard at the outposts and the rapid riding of pickets. "Boots and saddles!" was the order in the disturbed atmosphere of the night, and Custer appeared to Osborn loaded with rifle, two revolvers, a saber and a scalping knife.

"Charles," he said in his quick, nervous way, "you must defend yourself. Sitting Bull and Flea In Your Boots, with Wiggle Tail Jim and Scalp Lock Skowheban, are on us in force. I did not want to alarm you before, but the safety of my command is my first duty. Things look serious. If we don't meet again, God bless you!"

The broker fell on his knees. "Custer," he cried, "only get me out of this! I'll carry a million shares of Western Union for you and let you into the firm to get me home! Only save me!"

But Custer was gone, and the camp by shrewd arrangement burst into a blaze, and shots, oaths and warwhoops were intermixed until suddenly a painted object loomed on Osborn's sight and something was flung into his face—a human scalp. He dropped to the ground and said the Lord's Prayer backward and sideways until the noise died away and there was exposed a lighted supper table with this explanation on a transparency: "Osborn's Treat!"

A Strong Maid.

A cooking expert tells this story: "Only the other night, dining with some friends of mine, I saw a maid drop and break a superb platter that contained two roast canvasback ducks. Our host did not permit this accident to ruffle him. While we waited for some other course to be substituted for the last one he said: 'You must excuse that maid. These accidents happen almost daily with her. I think it is a disease. She was, I believe, a dairy-maid originally, but she had to abandon that occupation on account of her inability to handle the cows without breaking their horns.'"

Beware the French "Tabac."

A suggestion: If you are a smoker and are going to tour France take your own tobacco and pipe or cigars, for no American can smoke the "tabac" sold in France. Cigars are unobtainable outside the large cities, and the smoking tobacco is of international quality—you smoke it in one country and smell it in another.—Outing Magazine.

Popping the Question.

"Hello!" said the corn. "Was that you whispering?"

"Yes," replied the wind. "I've been trying to catch your ear for some time."—Bohemian Magazine.

Discreet.

Lawyer (to applicant for position)—Yes, I need an office boy. Are you truthful? Boy—Yes, sir, but I ain't truthful enough to hurt your business.—Chicago News.

BERLIN RESTAURANTS.

They Are Divided Into Two Classes, Beer and No Beer.

The German likes his beer, as the world has been taught to believe; but, whether he likes or dislikes it, the fact remains that he cannot get it in the fashionable restaurants of Berlin. If you go to so fine a hotel as the Bristol and there order beer with your meal it may be that the maitre d'hotel, purely from the goodness of his heart, will send out and get it for you, in which case it will be brought to you in a beautiful little stone jug, and you will pay for it five times over. But if you have the temerity to order your favorite brew at such a restaurant as Hiller's, in Unter den Linden, or Der Reichshoff, in the Wilhelmstrasse, you will come such a copper as did the American who asked for plum pudding at the Cafe Riche, in Paris.

"Monsieur," said the stately maitre d'hotel on that occasion, "this cafe has never served, does not serve and never will serve plum pudding!"

Not quite so bad as that in Berlin, for if you are willing to first order a bottle of wine, which you may drink or give to the waiter or put in your pocket, as you please, you will then be graciously permitted to drink as much beer as you have a taste for. If you are a teetotaler or won't order wine, then you can get neither food nor beer, and may the devil take you for troubling them. For this the Berliner has to thank the wine trust, which controls the fashionable establishments of the city and has led to the significant division of all restaurants into two classes—the "wine restaurants" and the "beer restaurants."—Famous Cafes and Restaurants Abroad, by Aubrey Lanston, in Bohemian Magazine.

No Ghosts Could Fool Him.

A naval officer who held a civil employment at Rhode Island during the American war of independence and who was of a remarkably spare, skeleton-like figure was stopped by a sentinel late one night on his return from a visit and shut up in the sentry box, the soldier declaring that he should remain there until his officer came his rounds at 12 o'clock.

"My good fellow," said Mr. W., "I have told you who I am, and I really think you ought to take my word."

"It will not do," replied the soldier. "I am by no means satisfied."

Then, taking from his pocket a quarter of a dollar and presenting it, "Will that satisfy you?"

"Why, yes; I think it will."

"And now that I am released pray tell me why you detained me at your post?"

"I apprehended you," said the soldier, "as a deserter from the churchyard."

Why He Couldn't Stay.

There is an amusing story about Matthew Arnold in his character as school inspector told in a book by a brother inspector. Arnold's district consisted of Westminster and Edmonton, "a ridiculous grouping."

His official address was "The Athenaeum," and he lived, I believe, at Esher. By the treasury rules, if his work at Edmonton required his attendance for two or more consecutive days, he was bound after the first day to spend the night there or to refrain from charging his train and cab fares home again. Being a poet, of course he returned home and charged his fare every day. "The knight of the blue pencil," as he called his enemy, sharpened his blue pencil and wrote, "Mr. M. Arnold, H. M. I.—Why not stay at Edmonton?" And the great man plaintively replied, "How can you expect me to stay at Edmonton when John Gilpin couldn't?" The account was passed.

What Makes a Bank Strong
In judging a Bank, always remember that it is Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits that give security to the depositor, because that money is what stands between you as a depositor and any possible shrinkage in the securities held by the bank.
Few banks in the State have a larger margin of safety than THE BANK OF GREENVILLE which, with the watchful interest of a very capable and conservative board of directors and the constant inspection of the Corporation Commission, has built up here one of the best financial institutions in the county, one, whose

The Love of the Dog.
Ouida, the novelist, wrote: "The sympathy of your dog is unfeeling, unobtrusive. If you are sad, so is he, and if you are merry, none is so willing to leap and laugh with you as he. For your dog you are never poor. The attachment of the dog to man outweighs and almost obliterates attachment in him to his own race. There is something shocking to our high opinion of him in the callousness with which he will sniff at the stiff body of a brother dog. He will follow his master to the grave and sometimes die on it."
The Japanese Smile.
Lafcadio Hearn says a people who smile naturally cannot wear the expression of the Japanese. A Japanese can smile whenever he wants, even in the jaws of death. It is a law of etiquette elaborated and cultivated for many centuries until it has become a silent language. They smile in the face of sorrow and suffering, paradoxical as this seems. This smile says: "I do not wish you to suffer with me. I bear my sorrow, suffering and trials alone."
