RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Adopted by Tar River Lodge Knights of Pythias.

On the beautiful Sabbath morning May 31st, God sent the angel of death to bring to His throne the soul of Brother George S. Prichard, who was ready to obey the summons, his life having been spent for the upbuilding of humanity. Therefore, be it resolved by Tar River Lodge No. 93, K. P. assembled in its Castle Hall, that we sincerely sorrow over the loss of our brother from our conventions. That the Pythians have lost a brother who lived their principals, doing all the good he could for others.

That the world has lost a man that was always ready to extend the helping hand to those in need and may we follow in his footsteps so that we may also hear the plaudits "well done good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

That we extend to the family of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the Supreme Ruler of the universe who doeth all things well and who has promised to be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy spread upon our minutes and a copy published in The Reflector.

Mrs. C. L. Tyson and children, of Renston, came Saturday to visit relatives and returned Sunday evening.

Eld. S. W. Sumerel preached good sermons at Smith's school house Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. There were good congregations at each service especially Sunday. There was a good many from Farmville and Marlboro section and some from Greenville and other places.

Eld. Sumerel left for his home Monday morning in Lenoir county.

B. J. Pulley, of Greenville, was in the neighborhood last Thursday evening on special business, spent the night with Ivy Smith and returned home Friday morning.

It looks like the farmers have concluded to try to save some hay. There are six or eight mowers in this immediate neighborhood and in the last few days there have been two new ones purchased and brought in. I think they are wise in so doing for nothing pays much better than raising hay.

Splendid Music.

Worshippers at Memorial Baptist church Sunday enjoyed delightful music at both services. Recently the church decided that the collection for each Sunday night should apply to purchasing music for the choir, and this Sunday being the first on which the choir was to receive this encouragement, the members made special effort to make the music of the day as enjoyable as possible. The congregations were the gainers by this and expressed appreciation of the good music.

When there is anything to be done the drum corps is always ready. So help them to get uniforms.

A Leech as a Weather Glass.

A leech confined in a vial of water, says G. S. in the Scotsman, will prove an excellent weather prophet. If the weather is to continue fine the leech lies motionless at the bottom of the vial and rolled together in a spiral form. If it is to rain, either before or after noon, it is found to have crept up to the top of its lodging, and there it remains till the weather is settled. If we are to have wind the poor prisoner gobbles through his limpid habitations with amazing swiftness and seldom rests till it begins to blow hard.

MONDAY, JUNE 7, 1908.

Mr. Kitchin cannot complain of what Pitt county did for him, neither can Mr. Horne.

With ten passenger trains a day Greenville folks don't have to walk as long as they can raise the price of a ticket.

The agony in Pitt is over, but the friends of the different candidates are busy watching the returns from other counties.

It is evident that the other precincts in the county did not turn out and vote in Saturday's primaries in as large proportion as did Greenville.

Both the other candidates now see very plainly that the Horne delegates will have considerable to say as to who gets the nomination. They certainly hold a good balance of power.

Greenville is feeling very much let out in the world with ten passenger trains a day, six on the Norfolk & Southern and four on the Atlantic Coast Line, all of them running convenient schedules.

As the primaries have been held in Pitt, it is now time for the friends of the different candidates to quit saying things about each other. You will all be needed working together some of these days.

It costs so much to be a candidate these days that unless a man has a good sized war he has to keep out of the race. A pretty good argument that the primary system puts too heavy a tax on candidates and ought to be abolished.

You business men of Greenville bear in mind that there are some matters the Chamber of Commerce should be attending to, and be ready to attend a meeting that will likely be called at an early day.

There is plenty of guessing going on, but it is by no means sure who is going to be nominated for governor. Therefore it is best not to be saying anything against anybody that you may be sorry for and have to take back afterward.

CARLOTTA AND NAPOLEON.

How the Crazy Empress' Curse Came to a Fulfillment.

General Henrico d'Almonte was from 1863 to 1866 the ambassador of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico to the court of Napoleon III. The most interesting and most pathetic episode to which D'Almonte was a witness and which is vividly described in his memoirs is the meeting between the scheming French emperor and Maximilian's wife, the beautiful and ambitious Carlotta, who shortly before the catastrophe at Queretaro had come to Paris to invoke Napoleon's aid for the tottering throne of her husband. But Napoleon III, who for his own perfidious purposes had by promises and allurements induced Maximilian, then archduke of Austria, to accept the "restored" throne of Montezuma, faithlessly abandoned the unfortunate prince to his cruel fate as soon as he realized his schemes to be impracticable.

Even at her arrival in Paris Carlotta's mind was already in such a high state of irritation that it was deemed advisable to have General d'Almonte at her side during the meeting with Napoleon, which took place in the empress' apartments at the Grand Hotel de Paris.

What lends special interest to that interview is the fact that the empress, crazed by desperation and fear for her husband's safety and by Napoleon's unsympathetic attitude, hurled a curse at the latter which in time was indeed fulfilled to the very letter.

"The empress," says General d'Almonte, "pleaded, partly on her knees and in the most beseeching terms, with the stony Frenchman to no avail. Then it was that I witnessed the most harrowing and dramatic scene of my life. Frantic with grief and excitement, the empress, with drawn mouth and flashing eyes, sprang to her feet, extending both her hands toward the retreating emperor.

"Leave me," she yelled in a voice which cut through me like a sword—'leave me, but go laden with my curse—the same curse that God hurled at the first murderer. May your own house and throne perish amid flames and blood, and when you are humbled in the dust, powerless and disgraced, then shall the angel of revenge trumpet into your ears the names of Maximilian and Carlotta!'"

At Sedan and by the revolution in Paris Sept. 4, 1870, the unhappy Carlotta's curse was fulfilled to the letter. —Captain Charles Kiefer in Los Angeles Times.

Strength of Rings.
 Some elaborate calculations, backed by experiments, have been made in England, to determine the breaking strength of rings. It appears that a ring of ductile metal, like malleable iron, will be pulled out into the form of a long link before it breaks and that the ultimate strength of the ring is virtually independent of its diameter. Fracture finally occurs as the result of almost pure tension, and the resistance to breaking is a little less than twice that of a rod of the same cross section subjected to a straight pull. As the ring increases in diameter there appears to be a slight approach toward equality, with double the strength of a bar. Thus a three inch ring, made of three-quarter inch iron, broke at nineteen and one-half tons, a four inch ring at nineteen and nine-tenths tons and a six inch ring at twenty tons, the strength of a bar of the same metal being ten and one-half tons.

Worse Than Too Bad.
 The suburbanite stood on the back platform of the car smoking his morning cigar. He struck up a conversation with the conductor when that brass buttoned gait was not busy.

"Whatever became of that basket of eggs that was left on your car?" he inquired.

"I took them home," gloomily replied the conductor.

At the astonished look from the passenger the conductor explained:

"You see, any article left in my car is mine if no one puts in a claim for it within six weeks. The six weeks were up yesterday, and the company told me to take the eggs away."

"Too bad," said the passenger.

"Totten," said the conductor.—Kansas City Newsbook.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.
You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demnition bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, anti-trust business?

Hey!

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

HOW OUR WEIGHT VARIES.

The Way a Person Will Gain and Lose in One Day.

Don't get worried every time you notice a slight decrease in your weight. Of course there may be something wrong, but don't jump to conclusions too quickly. Just take into consideration the fact that the weight varies throughout the day.

Scientific investigation shows that the average healthy man is always gaining or losing weight throughout the day.

At 9 a. m. before breakfast he weighs, say, 155 pounds 8 ounces. An hour later, after breakfast, he has gained one pound twelve ounces, but by noon he loses fourteen ounces of this, only immediately to make it up and to add two ounces by lunch, which brings his weight to 157 pounds 6 ounces. Then the fall begins again and slowly continues till dinner time, though the chief meal of the day puts on two pounds two ounces, fetching him up to his maximum weight.

He is at his lightest just before breakfast and at his heaviest immediately after dinner.

There is a big drop during the night. It amounts on the average to three pounds six ounces, but the loss varies from two pounds to four pounds, according to idiosyncrasy and the season of the year. In making deductions from the results of the experiments touching variations in weight allowance must be made for special exertion, whether bodily or mental.

That mental strain quickly tells on the frame has been established in connection with examinations. Comparative tests show that students in the high classes, where the effort is necessarily greatest, lose several pounds more than those in the lower classes.

The loss of weight due to physical exertion is sometimes a little surprising even to those who have devoted attention to the matter. For instance, Burgess, the swimmer, in trying to cross the English channel, notwithstanding the large amount of food he took while in the water, lost nearly one pound per hour.

Even a degree of exertion within the capacity of well high anybody is an important factor in reducing weight. It is easy to lose about two pounds by taking a turn at a home exercise, while a brisk walk may involve a loss of three pounds or four pounds.—Philadelphia Press.

Facts About the Bible.

The first book printed from movable types was the Latin Bible in the year 1455. The first Bible printed in this country was in the Indian language in 1663, by John Eliot. The first English Bible printed in this country was in 1782. The first Bible printed in New York city was in 1782. George Washington owned a copy. The Bible is now printed in more than 500 different languages, representing the speech of eight-tenths of the population of the world. In the thirteenth century a Bible cost £3,000, which was more than the cost of the two arches of London bridge and as much as the entire earnings of a laboring man for fifteen years. Today the Bible is the cheapest book in the world. The entire Bible may be obtained for 16 cents and the New Testament for 6 cents.—Exchange.

Animal Nature.

Why does a dog when in slight alarm and listening lift up a fore foot from the ground? Sometimes it is the left foot, sometimes the right. The setter is usually depicted with all his feet on the ground; the pointer with one foot raised. The cat has the same habit of lifting up one fore foot when in a state of uncertainty. Is the hearing more acute with three feet on terra firma than with four? Interesting problems these for the student of nature to study.

Eight Oxen, One Wife.

To the Kafir a daughter is a vastly more valuable acquisition than a son. He feeds her until she is ten; then she earns her living either as a servant at a white lady's house or assists her father in hoeing the mealie and corn patch. As soon as she reaches a marriageable age suitors arrive. Beauty is a small attraction in the eyes of the Kafir lady killer. The father bargains with the suitor. A very fair price for a good girl is eight oxen.

Contradictory.

"I can't say as he is, doctor. He'll eat anything and everything as long as there's anything to eat."—Baltimore American.

THE SACK MOVED.

A Young Girl's Terrible Ordeal in a Lonely Farmhouse.

A young girl had a terrible experience at a lonely farmhouse on the estate of Count Karolyi, near Budapest. Early in the evening a man, apparently almost exhausted by carrying a heavy sack, knocked at the door of the farm and begged for a night's shelter. The only occupant of the place at the time was the farmer's young daughter. She naturally refused to admit him, but at his earnest entreaty allowed him to leave the sack. The stranger, depositing his burden in the kitchen, then left, and the girl continued her preparations for an evening meal.

A noise caused her to look around, and to her horror she saw that the sack was moving. Then the blade of a knife appeared, slowly cutting through the sacking. Thoroughly terrified, she picked up her father's gun and fired. The movement stopped at once, and blood commenced to ooze through the sacking.

The girl, now almost mad with alarm, fled from the house. As she tore down the road she fortunately met her father, and he, having obtained the assistance of two gendarmes, hurried home. The gendarmes speedily cut open the sack and inside found the dead body of a burly man, armed with a revolver and a knife, with a gunshot wound in the head, which had evidently caused death.

Suspended from his neck was a whistle, and, believing it was intended as a means of summoning accomplices, the police blew a series of calls. Almost immediately three men ran up and, seeing themselves trapped, opened fire with revolvers. A desperate fight followed, the gendarmes using their revolvers freely. One of the robbers was shot dead, and his two companions were captured.

Stanley Was a Waif.

Stanley, the famous explorer, was a waif, and his original name was not Stanley at all, says the Delinquent. The little boy's "real name" was John Rowlands. He was born near Denbigh, Wales, in 1810. When he was three years old he was put in a poorhouse at St. Asaph. It was ten years later that he sailed away to America as a cabin boy. In New Orleans a merchant by the name of Henry Morton Stanley adopted him, and the little boy was given his name. The "John Rowlands" was discarded from that day, and it was Henry M. Stanley, Jr., who served in the United States navy, won fame as a war correspondent in Turkey and with the British army in Abyssinia and as the crowning achievement of his life, after he had penetrated the darkest wilds of Africa and found Dr. David Livingstone, opened up the Congo region for intercourse and commerce with the world.

MAKES THEM ANGRY.
How a Skunk Captures Yellow Jacks with His Tail.

All agree that the skunk is the natural enemy of insects, and it is for this reason that the farmers in a great many agricultural districts have secured legislation for his protection, but did you ever think what ingenuity is employed by the little fellow in the capture of his prey? Does he charm like the snake? Does he lie in wait, or does he provoke them to assault? It is the latter. A skunk can catch any insect that he can get to fight him. On one occasion I went to the woods in quest of squirrels. It was a warm, cloudy afternoon in September. While standing on a log waiting for a squirrel I saw a large object moving through the woods toward me, which I first took to be a gray fox. I raised my gun and prepared to shoot, but as the animal advanced I noticed that it was not a fox, but a skunk, the largest I had ever seen, his color being much like that of a gray fox. When he first saw me he was about twenty steps away, but instead of making an effort to retreat he rose on his toes, fluffed up his hair and tail and jumped up two or three times, alighting on the ground stiff legged, after the fashion of a sheep on the entry of a dog to the barn lot, as a mad house cat will do. I kept him covered all the time with my gun.

In a few minutes his anger seemed to subside. He then walked a few feet away, and with his left paw he made a few quick digs in the leaves and then, turning around, began to slowly switch his tail over the place where he had scratched. At each movement I became more and more interested, and, watching, I saw a swarm of yellow jackets emerging from the ground. Hot and furious they darted at the little fellow's tail, which was kept constantly in motion, each one sticking tight to the long fur and doing no damage. I never shall forget his keen black eyes as he looked at me, as if to say: "Watch me. I have done it before."

With a tail covered with jackets, like so many bars, he walked a few feet away and began to pick them off and eat them as a hungry boy would so many berries. This act repeated once more, the little yellow warriors were gone, and their home, left defenseless and desolate, was dug out and carried away by the visitor, who left apparently without any fear that I would do him harm. And I, then a boy, now grown to manhood, am glad that I did not shoot.—Forest and Stream.

Landseer's Valet.
Sir Edwin Landseer, the famous animal painter, had an old servant—his butler, valet and faithful slave—named William, who was particularly assiduous in guarding the outer portal. No one could by any possibility gain direct access to Sir Edwin. The answer would invariably be, "Sir Hedwin is not at home." The prince consort himself once received this answer when he called, amplified on that occasion by the assurance that "he had gone to a wedding," an entire fiction on William's part, as the prince found out, for on walking boldly in and round the garden he noticed Sir Edward looking out of his studio window. This was the faithful attendant who, one day, when a lion had died at the zoo and his corpse came up in a four wheeled cab to be painted from, started his master with the question: "Please, Sir Hedwin, did you order a lion?"

Thackeray and Archdeke.
Thackeray got into trouble by copying some of his characters too closely from life, notably when he put his friend, Arthur Archdeke, into "Pendennis" as the ever delightful Harry Foker. Although Thackeray meant no unkindness, Archdeke never quite forgave him. One night, just after Thackeray had delivered his first lecture on "The English Humorists," Archdeke met him at the Cider Cellar club, surrounded by a coterie who were offering their congratulations. "How are you, Thack?" cried Archie. "I was at your show today at Willis'. What a lot of swells you had there—yes! But I thought it was dull—decided dull! I will tell you what it is, Thack—you want a piano."

The backaches because the kidneys are blocked. Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more. Let's of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

A. A. Tyson, 124 Lexington street, Rocky Mount, N. C., says: I feel it my duty to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as I used them and found them to be a valuable kidney remedy. For years my kidneys were in a disordered condition and their action was so frequent that I was obliged to rise several times during the night, thus being unable to obtain my proper rest. I also had dull pains across my loins and was bothered by a constant dull backache. Having heard about Doan's Kidney Pills I decided to try them and procured a supply. I had taken them but a short time when I could notice their beneficial effects and thus encouraged I continued their use until cured.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
