MR. KERR ISSUES BULLETIN.

Gives Statement That Makes Kitchin 295.51; Craig 280.93; and Horne 110.56.

To the Editor: I ask that you print the following bulletin. It contains as near the facts concerning the status of the candidates in the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor as it is possible to get them until officially promulgated by the county conventions. I have not yet reached the point in this fight where, as Mr. Craig's manager, I have become afraid to state the facts. I do not care to undertake to gain any advantage by exaggerated statements, and unfounded claims. The people have a right to expect the truth, and this I have honestly tried to give them in every bulletin.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT.

Adopted by Jarvis Memorial Sunday School

It was with deep sorrow that this Sunday school learned of the death on Sunday morning May 31st of its assistant superintendent George S. Prichard.

Brother Prichard had been the superintendent of this school since January 1905, at the last meeting of the quarterly conference on account of his health he tendered his resignation as superintendent which was accepted and he was elected assistant superintendent. He was always alive to the interest of the Sunday school and he carried it upon his mind and heart at all times.

It was mainly due to his efforts that we have such a beautiful and convenient school and class rooms. Nothing in his estimation was too good to use for the training of young minds to a Christian life. Recognizing his ability as a Sunday school superintendent and working to express our appreciation of the great and good work he has done, therefore be it resolved.

1. That this school has lost one of its most efficient workers, and while we grieve over the death of brother Prichard it is not as those without hope, for we are assured that he has gone to receive the crown that is promised to those who are faithful unto death.

2. That his life has been a blessing to those with whom he came in contact as he followed his Master's example going about doing what good he could.

3. That we will always cherish his memory try to follow his footsteps as he followed those of his Saviour.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this school, a copy sent to the family and a copy sent to The Reflector for publication.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Neway Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.
Ayden, N. C., June 9, 1908.
W. W. Kitchin spoke here Friday to about 500 people. It is needless for us to comment on his speech as all who know and have heard him can verify the fact that he is an orator far above the average. That his speech accomplished anything we cannot say as he was already very popular with our people as Saturday's primary showed. Mr. Kitchin was accompanied by a large crowd from Greenville and the band came along to make music for the occasion. For a young band it is exceedingly fine. The drum corps especially deserves mention. Our people, many of them had never seen one before and were very much taken with it.

At a meeting of the directors' of the graded school Friday evening the following were elected teachers for the school for next session: Principal, Prof. McArthur; assistants, Misses Alice Taylor, Laura Cox, Hennie Brown, Annie Barnes, Lena Dawson.

The primary here Saturday was the largest and by far the most enthusiastic held in Ayden for years. While excitement ran high at the time yet in the wind up, good order prevailed and every body was pleased and satisfied. It was all Democrat, and don't forget it.

In a game of ball here Saturday between Renston and the Juniors of Ayden the score stood 21 to 10 in favor of Ayden. John Coward came home Friday from the university to spend vacation.

J. T. Keel spent Sunday at Morehead.

The tax listers are busy. There is plenty for them to do. Our people are no poor folks. They've got a plenty and are making more.

Miss Nannie Lawrence, and old resident of Greenville and one whom all the older citizens of that town were well acquainted with, died at the home of relatives in Greene county Sunday morning. She was taken suddenly Saturday night, previous to which time she was enjoying unusually good health, and her death came unexpectedly to those by whom she was surrounded. We have known Miss Nannie all our life and knew her to be a good, gentle, kind and loving lady. Always pleasant in her manner, with a friendly word for all she was greatly beloved. We extend to her family, all of whom are our special friends, our sincerest sympathy in their bereavement. Miss Nannie was buried Monday evening at the Frizzelle burying ground. She was a sister of Mr. L. W. Lawrence, of Greenville.

The infant child of T. R. Allen, living near here, died Sunday and was buried yesterday.

Fate McCullen and family, of Kinston, have been visiting relatives in Ayden and Greene county.

W. F. Moseley has moved his family here and is running the J. R. Smith Co. & Dixon electric light plant. Mr. Moseley is an old Aydenite and we are glad to have him back with us.

W. L. Browning and wife have returned from their visit in Martin and Mr. Browning, we are pleased to state, is very much improved in health.

LaFayette Cox and wife, from the country, spent the day here Monday with their daughter, Mrs. Robert Davis.

The Baptist Tabernacle Sunday school, of Raleigh, will pass through here on the Norfolk & Southern railroad, next Tuesday morning, on an excursion to Washington. Greenville might give them a welcome as they pass through.

TUESDAY, JUNE 9, 1908.

After the State convention is over county politics will warm up all the more.

It is getting time for seaside resorts to come forward with sea serpent stories as a drawing card.

Those papers that are discussing a cabinet for Mr. Bryan are a little premature. The election must come first.

It will not be such a hard undertaking to enforce prohibition and break up blind tigers if the people just make up their minds it shall be done.

Georgia has plenty of common names, but the primary in that State last week gave Brown the ascendancy while Smith dropped down in the scale.

It is getting close to the Republican national convention in Chicago, and some of the advance guard are already gathering there to investigate the numerous contests between delegations.

While claims are being made as to local majorities in the recent prohibition election, it is worth remembering that Pitt gave the largest majority for prohibition of any county east of Raleigh.

The executive committee of Wake county levied a tax of $20 each on candidates to be voted for in the primaries there last Saturday. One candidate for a State office, T. G. Cobb, of Morganton, who is seeking the nomination for commissioner of labor and printing, respectfully declined to be made to step up and deliver the price. And Mr. Cobb was right.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

(By Contributor.)

The theory that there is no such thing as hydrophobia has its general acceptance retarded by the fact persons still die from hydrophobia.

Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, is getting just close enough to make things interesting, but he has gone far beyond the dark-horse category.

The president is said to be "perfectly familiar with six different languages." Still Congress doubtless thinks he can say the greatest sufficiency in one in his messages.

An Illinois minister has been praying for the Uncle Joe Cannon boom, but it begins to look as if the Taft forces have been preying on the allies' preserves with better results.

The western attorney who has been sustained by the court in his argument that stock yards are "a hotel for hogs and other live stock" possesses qualifications to fit him for the position of customs appraiser.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

THE SAILFISH.

It Takes Great Skill to Land Him With Reel and Rod.

The small number of sailfish annually taken in Atlantic waters is partially explained by the uncertainties and difficulties to be encountered in locating their presence as well as the great skill, experience and endurance required in handling them with rod and reel.

Although infrequently seen near the Florida keys, they seldom leave the vicinity of the warm gulf stream, whose waters approach within five miles of Palm Beach.

One usually finds them on warm, sunny days, swimming with their great dorsal fins slightly out of water, and immediately a school is discovered all power must be used to forge ahead of them, cross their path a hundred yards in advance, then stop and allow the boat to drift slowly, when a lively fresh bait should be cast.

While they often strike at cut bait or a spoon in trolling, they are seldom well hooked, owing to the peculiar character of their jaws. As a rule they bite very quietly and must be given thirty to forty feet of line before striking, as their mouths are small, hard and bony, not unlike the tarpon in their internal structure, and can rarely be captured unless the bait is well swallowed.

When hooked they create a terrific commotion, first endeavoring to peel the most powerful reels in their rushes, then making perpendicular leaps in rapid succession, clearing the waves by many feet, trying desperately to shake out the hook and finally making long side dashes just under the water, somewhat like a kingfish.

These movements are occasionally interrupted by low, rapid flights just above the water, when their immense sail seems to play its part in aerial navigation.—Forest and Stream.

Free Candy.

A gentleman connected with a large confectionery establishment in the heart of the city finds the free candy luncheon the greatest nuisance about the place.

"Half a dozen young women will come in together to buy candy, and every one of the lot will make a tour around the candy counter, sampling every variety until by the time they buy the crowd has eaten from half a pound to a pound of the choicest candy in the store. Why they should make free with candies and other delicacies I never could understand. When they go to a ribbon counter they do not take the clerk's scissors and snip off a piece of ribbon from every bolt, nor when they are at the notion counter do they pick up and carry away the little articles of a hundred kinds that are sold there, but the idea that sweets are free seems thoroughly to pervade the young female mind; hence in many candy stores all the candy boxes and loose candies are placed under glass."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Some Superstitions.

When starting for the river, says a writer in London Field, if you have to turn back and get something that you have forgotten, you are sure to catch little or nothing that day. This is an article of Devon folklore, and I am inclined to think the west country folk right herein. The disappointment, the hurry and the bringing of wrong things always act prejudicially upon what ought to be the unruffled, even temper of a successful angler. He becomes hasty and rash, most often with ill results to his basket. In the western highlands it is currently believed that if you see a colt with its back to you when starting in the morning on a fishing excursion it is the worst of luck, only to be exceeded should you hear a cuckoo before breakfast.

The Volley at the Grave.

Every one who has attended a naval or military funeral will remember that the last thing is a volley which is fired over the grave of the departed comrade; then the bugle call "taps" is sounded. This is a relic of the dark ages. It was believed that noise kept away the evil spirits, and for this reason a bell was sounded. When firearms were invented volley firing was substituted for the bell, the belief being that the sound of battle was more efficacious for the soldier.

Nine Points of the Law.

Jimmy came running in to his mother from where he and his little brother had been playing with a football and in apparent excitement held up his right hand. "Oh, mamma," he exclaimed, "George can't use this hand!" "Mercy!" excitedly exclaimed his mother as she started for the door. "What in the world is the matter?" "Nothing's the matter," explained Robbie, getting out of the way. "He won't want to use it 'cos it's mine!"—London Answers.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Paying Debts in Japan.

Foreigners in Japan find a great opportunity to purchase curios at the beginning of each new year. Every one in Japan is expected to clear up his books and pay his debts by the last day of the old year. The tradesmen send in their yards—more often miles—of bills to "the honorable lady of the house," and presents are politely exchanged all around. Shopkeepers hold bargain sales to enable them to pay the wholesale houses, and if a man cannot raise sufficient money to pay his creditors it is not an uncommon thing for him to sell off sufficient or even all of his property at a sacrifice to enable him to meet the new year with a smiling face. The only other honorable way out of his difficulties is for him to commit suicide.

The Exact Figures.

"Well, suh," said the old darkey in reply to a question of the judge, "I dez 'bout ez ol' ez what de ol' tree is what stan's in my white folks' yard."

"And how old is the tree?" "Well, suh, ter git down exac', dat tree is de same age ez de brick house whar de white folks live at, which is 'bout ez ol' ergin ez what de barn is an' twice ez ol' ez de mule stable!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demerit howwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey?

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

ATE HIS FILL.

The Sharp Traveler Had His Money's Worth and Caught the Coach.

There was a coach that used to run between Nola Chucky and Paint Rock, a matter of some forty miles. For lunch the coach stopped at a halfway house in Tin Can, and here a good fifty cent meal was put out—cake and pie, coffee and tea and all the cold meats you could mention.

But the landlord of the halfway house had a mean little secret dicker with the driver, whereby as soon as the travelers had paid for their lunch and got fairly settled to it a call would come for an immediate start. So off they'd all go, grumbling. They'd have paid for 50 cents' worth of food and only eaten, you see, about 5 cents' worth.

But along came one day a traveler with a sharp, bright eye. The landlord found this chap some ten minutes after the coach had started on again still tucking in pie and ham at a terrible rate.

"Why, man," he said, "you've let the coach go without you."

"I know it," said the traveler calmly. "I was too blessed hungry to stop eating."

Suddenly the landlord's face paled. "Good gracious," he said, "all my silver's gone!"

It was too. Not a knife, fork or spoon was left except the sharp eyed man's.

He said as he kept on eating that he had noticed a suspicious looking character among the passengers, a man with a red beard, a hump and a limp—oh, very suspicious!

The landlord sent a hostler off to overtake the coach and bring it back.

In about forty minutes the coach returned. Then the sharp eyed man came forth, wiping his mouth. But he made no effort to identify the suspicious looking passenger. Instead he got aboard the coach, took his seat and said coolly:

"Thanks, landlord, for the good food. You'll find the spoons and things in the coffeepot. Now, driver, off we go ag'in."—Washington Star.

PAYING BY CHECK.

References Required to Open a Bank Account in England.

"I like the American custom of carrying money loose in the pocket," said D. H. Lieban, a retired banker of London. "In England gentlemen and business men carry very little money with them. Nearly everything is paid for by check, except, of course, money enough to pay the small incidental expenses of a day."

"If a man goes into a store to buy a hat, he does not pay money for it, but gives a check. If he is dining at a public place, he very likely pays for his meal with a check. The system of credit in England is different from that in this country, and the mere fact that a man has an account in a bank serves to give him standing."

"One cannot open an account with a bank in England merely by carrying money to the bank and depositing it. He must have two first class references before a bank will accept his account, and when reference is given it means that the person giving it would endorse or stand for the person to whom it is given."

"A reference in England means more than a mere phrase. Checks on banks in England cannot be obtained for the mere asking, and a man must have an account in order to get checks from any bank. They cannot be picked up on bank counters or in public places."

"Private accounts in English banks are not accepted unless they are paid for, the general charge being $50 a year. There are one or two banks in England which discriminate so carefully in the accounts they accept that when a person is fortunate enough to be permitted to open an account with them he can get credit in any city in England or the continent of Europe."—Washington Post.

Disease Has Freaks.

No medical man needs to be told that even disease has its freaks and that recovery has occasionally been brought about by means inexplicably trivial. One of the most remarkable of these unaccountable eccentricities of disease took place at Halver, in Westphalia. The case was that of a boy who, as the result of a very heavy fall backward on his head while skating, had for a year and a half been deaf and dumb. One morning his brother went to awake him and, finding him sleeping heavily, tapped him lightly on the forehead. To his amazement the deaf and dumb boy awoke with a loud cry. Both speech and hearing had been restored.—Kansas City Journal.

Between Fifty and Sixty.

The sixth decade of life has been most prolific in human achievement and may well be designated as the age of the master work. In action alone its accomplishments have revolutionized history, and it would be most difficult to conceive what would be the present status of the world's affairs had these ten years of individual life never existed.—W. A. N. Dorland in Century.

Brought the Tears.

"Have you seen De Murky's latest battle piece? It's the most pathetic thing he has ever done."

"No, but I've seen Von Dawber's 'Horse-dish Grinder.' Nobody can look at it without crying."—Cleveland-Plain Dealer.

Arranging Matters.

"Here is a map of the route we shall take."

"Did you make two of them?"

"No. What for?"

"So papa will be able to overtake us and forgive us."—Houston Post.

GREAT PEAKS OF ALASKA.

Some of the Most Imposing Snow Mountains in the World.

The fact is not generally known that some of the most imposing snow mountains in the world lie within the limits of the United States. I refer to the great peaks of Alaska, at least one of which, Mount McKinley, is over 20,000 feet high, while Mount St. Elias is over 18,000 feet and, being situated within twenty-five miles of the coast, can be seen in its entire height from the deck of a vessel.

Other magnificent peaks, as Mount Fairweather and Mount Crillon, lie very close to the shore, and, since the line of perpetual snow in these northerly latitudes is at 3,000 feet or even less (in the case of Mount St. Elias it is virtually at the water's edge, for the base of this mountain is surrounded by vast glaciers which flow down to the sea), continuous snow and ice surfaces may there be seen rising from 15,000 to 18,000 feet above the spectator. I think I am not mistaken in saying that few, if any, such sights can be witnessed in any other part of the world.

Mountaineering expeditions to these Alaskan peaks are very interesting, but at the same time very laborious, not because of unusually stiff rock or snow work—neither is probably as difficult as that encountered in the Alps—but largely because they are situated in a wild, unexplored country at great distances from any proper base of supplies, so that before their ascent can be even attempted much time and effort must be expended in the solution of various perplexing problems not pertaining to climbing proper. And this I understand to be also true in a general way of mountaineering in the Himalayas, the Andes and the Caucasus. All of these great ranges still offer what the Alps no longer can—new fields to conquer. These have unquestionably a fascination peculiar to themselves, and every one should go in search of them. To a certain extent the absence of such new fields may be said to detract from the pleasure of mountaineering in the Alps.—William Williams in Scribner's.

London Word Butchers.

Time is required by an American ear to accustom itself to English "as she is spoke" in London. The cockney who had no difficulty of corrupting the Norman French, making Route de Roy "Rotten row," and Marie le Bon "Marylebone," and Beauchamp, who was one of the principal lieutenants of the Conqueror and was rewarded with the lands at Warwick, into "Beecham," would readily call High Holborne "Ighobon" and Langate Hill "Lugutill." Indeed, the English of the cab and bus driver, bright as they are in their own employments, is not readily understood. One has to ask a bus conductor more than once as to the identity of the place to which he is bound, for in calling out the names there isn't the faintest resemblance to what he considers the proper pronunciation.

A Bad Symptom.

"Has George ever hinted that he had thought of you as a possible wife?" asked the anxious mother.

"No," replied the girl, a faraway look in her eyes, "and I'm afraid he never will."

"Why," said the mother, "I thought—"

"It doesn't matter what you thought, mamma, dear," interrupted the daughter. "Only last night he complained of feeling drowsy, and it wasn't 9 o'clock."

What They Did at Last Regular Meeting.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session on Thursday night, 4th, seven of the members being present.

J. R. Moye requested the board to establish the street line in front of his property on Fifth street, as he wished to put down curbing and wanted it to be on proper street line so it would not have to be disturbed later. The matter was referred to the street committee.

A representative of the Atlantic Coast Line railway appeared before the board and solicited the shipment of brick ordered for street paving over that road. This was referred to a committee consisting of Aldermen Harding, Flanagan and Bowen.

The cemetery committee reported that the cemetery had been cleaned out and was in good condition.

J. S. Corbett asked that reduction of $100 in valuation be made on his property on the tax list, which was referred to committee consisting of Aldermen Harding and Flanagan.

Aldermen F. J. Forbes and Flanagan were appointed a committee to offer for sale the horses belonging to the town, and to report any offers received to the board.

The office of building inspector was combined with that of first assistant police, and the salary of the chief of fire department was made $100 per year.

Aldermen Carr and Harding were appointed a committee to investigate the legality of making property owners pay for paving adjacent sidewalks.

Aldermen Bowen, Carr and Flanagan were appointed a committee to raise finances to pay for granolithic paving.

Orders were drawn in payment of accounts amounting to $2,393.47. The meeting then took a recess to Monday night, 8th.
