STONEWALL JACKSON MEMORIAL

MANUAL TRAINING & INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

King's Daughters Laboring Earnestly for Its Promotion and Solicit Aid in This.

While our people have taken a noble stand and fought valiantly in the battle for prohibition, and won by their deserving effort in the contest for the Eastern Training school for our young women, they must not be content to rest on their laurels until some effort is made, some interest aroused in behalf of its great work which is now before our people, viz The establishment of the "Stonewall Jackson Manual Training, and Industrial School" for our boys. In other words an institution that will give the youthful offender, the incorrigible, the youth criminal, an opportunity for reformation; making for him a home, where he will be subjected to a firm though gentle Christian discipline. Giving him an opportunity to re-establish his good character, and self-respect; endeavoring to develop those qualities of heart and mind which will make him a good citizen; and perhaps be an honor to his State; on the contrary, statistics show that where the young criminal has been condemned to serve out a term in our prisons; whose only companionship is that of vicious hardened men; becomes more and more like those with whom they are associated, and when discharged, were more depraved than when first found guilty. We can readily understand this, when realizing how susceptible are the young to the influences of daily surroundings, while the character is not yet formed, and often have not the strength to resist evil. The effort of this training school will be directed not only towards giving the boys excellent educational advantages, but to instruct them thoroughly in some line of industrial work which will enable them to earn an honest living, and be a safeguard against temptation and evil, after leaving the institution. The reports from those who have charge of like homes from other States are most satisfactory showing that over ninety per cent. of the boys discharged after remaining the full length of time allowed them at the institution, have made good useful citizens. Is not this result worth an effort?

After repeated and earnest appeals, for five years from "The King's Daughters" and others who realized the great need of this work and the blessing which would result to our State, The "general assembly" of 1907, appropriated ten thousand dollars for this purpose. While this donation was most thankfully received, still, this sum could scarcely start the work, and did not the executive board feel that the great public heart was in full sympathy with the effort and would respond cheerfully to the need; they would feel paralyzed in the great undertaking. But we believe in our people, and never yet has the strong heart and benevolent spirit of the average North Carolinian, shirked a duty or been indifferent to an appeal for her unfortunate ones.

Our people will be glad to learn that a beautiful site of 227 acres of ground has been secured in Cabarrus county, in which to erect the school. It is an ideal location 750 feet above the sea, 17 miles from Charlotte and three miles from Concord. There has been a donation of $1,000 cash. The King's Daughters also contributed $1,000 during the past year, and have united to make this their State work. The buildings are to consist of an administration building, a school building, work shops and cottages. Each cottage to cost not more than $5,000 and to accommodate 25 boys, an officer and his wife. This is preferred to housing all the boys in one large building. The idea is to develop the home feeling, make the boys feel that their cottage is their home and become interested in making it attractive. The executive board has been most fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Walter J. Thompson as superintendent, a gentleman in every way suited for the place, his whole soul is in the work and no one will give better service or be more loyal to the cause. The school fully expects to be in operation during the fall. At the State convention of "The King's Daughters" in Henderson on May 1-2, 1907 an association was founded, known as the "Stonewall Jackson Association." The object of this association is to be the promoting of the "Stonewall Jackson Manual Training and Industrial school," and to solicit subscriptions for the support and maintenance of said school. Any person who may feel an interest in the work of the association and pay an annual fee of $1.00 shall be eligible as members. The Reflector will receive any donations however small, from any friend who is interested in the cause, and on the payment of $1.00 their names will be forwarded to the secretary of the association for membership, if so desired. Please Address all communications to Stonewall Jackson Training School, care Editor Reflector.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., June 11, 1908. Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity—Trade conditions are about as they have existed for the past month. Dealers in building material have reported increased sales. Agricultural implements and supply dealers have had a satisfactory season. Dry goods and shoes are dull; however, some filling in orders are noted this week. Collections continue slow. Retail trade is fair.

In Virginia winter wheat is being harvested, the crop is reported the best since 1891. Tobacco planting is completed, and an increased acreage is reported. Crop conditions generally are reported good throughout Virginia and North Carolina.

As to Personal Notes.

With twelve passenger trains a day at Greenville it is impossible for us to meet them to get personal notes, as it would keep one person occupied all day going to trains. It would be very easy, however, for those who are going away or return from a trip, or who have guests to arrive or depart, to phone the names to The Reflector office. We always appreciate such items and are glad to have them for the paper.

Fine Cow.

Deputy Sheriff S. I. Dudley has purchased a fine cow to add to his dairy stock. The cow has a record of 27 1/4 quarts of milk a day, and the price paid for her was $140.

A GRACEFUL REPLY.

The Young People of Greenville Complimented by a Distinguished Lady.

By the advice of their leader the T. J. Jarvis Children's Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy sent a check for $10 to Mrs. W. H. S. Burgwyn as a contribution to the Stonewall Jackson Training school, and the following graceful letter was received by Miss Essie Ellington, their treasurer, in reply.

Weldon N. C. May 29, 1908.
My Dear Miss Ellington,

The generous contribution of $10.00 which I received today, from the T. J. Jarvis Children's Chapter, U. D. C., for the building fund of The Stonewall Jackson school, was most highly appreciated. I extend to each one of you, sincere thanks for this aid. Yours is the first chapter in the State, to make as a donation, and I think this is especially appropriate and admirable, that the young Daughters of the Confederacy should help to care for the unfortunate children who will be the pupils of The Stonewall Jackson Training school. I hope that your noble example will be followed by other chapters. With love and best wishes,

Very sincerely yours,
Meggie C. D. Burgwyn.

Best Investment City Can Have.

The best investment a city can have is a live, up-to-date newspaper, that by its very appearance of prosperity and news matter, more eloquently than words, tells the world of the prosperity of the city.

No city can grow unless it continuously adds new life, new energy and new capital, and who wants to live in a city not able to sustain a good paper?

Paved streets are all right, paved roads are all right, and so are other improvements that denote progress and prosperity, but the people on the outside watch the paper and the advertisements therein, more than anything else to ascertain the real prosperity of a community.

Don't say it does not pay to advertise. If you can't see where the paper brings you directly one dollar's worth of trade, it will pay you to keep an "ad" in its columns in order to help sustain it, that the community may be benefited as a whole. For out of the whole you receive a share of the lump.

Our people don't think of these matters as they should. They are not as liberal with their newspaper as they should be in the volume of business given to it. We are progressive in every thing else. Why not as to the support of a newspaper?—Wilson Times.

Grand Lodge K. of P. Notes.

A. B. Ellington representative of Tar River Lodge K. of P., returned this morning from the meeting of the grand lodge in Raleigh.

J. R. Turnage, of Ayden, was appointed D D G. C. for the second district.

A. B. Ellington was appointed a member of the finance committee.

The matter of establishing an orphanage was referred to a committee to report at the next meeting of the grand lodge which will be held in Hendersonville.

DEMOCRAT COUNTY CONVENTION.

RESOLUTIONS FOR GRIMES, SMALL AND ABERNETHY.

Delegates Selected to State, Judicial and Congressional Conventions.—F. C. Harding, Chairman.

The Democratic county convention was called to order at noon today by F. C. Harding, chairman of the county executive committee, who in a brief speech stated that purpose of the convention was to select delegates to the State, congressional and judicial conventions.

The secretary called the roll of townships for delegates and noted those present. A quorum being present the chairman stated that the convention was ready to proceed with its business.

J. D. Cox, of Contentnea, presented the name of H. W. Whedbee for permanent chairman, who was elected by acclamation. In taking the chair Mr. Whedbee urged harmony and fairness on the part of convention.

J. L. Fleming moved that W. L. Brown, J. J. Harrington and D. J. Whichard be selected permanent secretaries.

J. L. Fleming offered a motion that the chair appoint a committee on resolutions, to which an objection was raised and the motion was withdrawn.

R. R. Cotten offered the following resolution:

"Whereas, we recognize and appreciate the strong, able and efficient manner in which Hon. John H. Small has represented the people of the first congressional district,

"Therefore be it resolved by the Democracy of Pitt county in convention assembled, that we do hereby endorse him for re-nomination, and do hereby instruct the delegation from Pitt county to cast its unanimous vote for Hon. John H. Small for congressman of the first congressional district."

Mr. Fleming again offered his motion to refer this and all other resolutions to a committee on resolutions. This was objected to and the immediate passage of the resolution called for, when the motion to refer was again withdrawn.

The resolution instructing for Mr. Small for congress was then unanimously adopted, Chairman Whedbee alone requesting that he be recorded at voting no.

O. L. Joyner then offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

"The Democratic party of Pitt county in convention assembled desires to go on record in our unqualified endorsement of the administration of our countyman, Hon. J. Bryan Grimes, as secretary of State

"It is with much pleasure that we heard of such unanimous and generous support of his administration since he assumed the duties of the office throughout the entire length and breadth of the State.

"By his courteous and polite attention in the discharge of all his duties and the correct and business like methods which he has established he has won the admiration and confidence of the entire state.

"It is therefore with pride that we again present his name to the Democratic State convention for the nomination for this office which he has so admirably filled and it is the sense of this convention that the delegates of this county, to the State convention be instructed and they are hereby instructed to vote as a

In the midst of it all, just watch Greenville grow.

There is talk of Cortelyou being a running mate for Taft on the national Republican ticket.

Wilmington is going to give the firemen a big time when the State association meets there next week.

The opposing candidates are not only claiming everything in sight, but a good deal that is not in sight.

The Confederate Veterans have had a great reunion at Birmingham this week. Memphis gets the reunion next year.

It does seem strange that men who would scorn a dishonest act, will help to engineer an unfair movement in a political convention.

If the scientists succeed in getting rid of all the flies, there will be no further need of the expression "when fly time comes."

Dishonest and unfair methods in getting delegates to conventions come to light sometimes and are apt to be a boomerang in the long run.

Mr. Horne's candidacy might have been regarded by some as a joke at first, but it is now evident that the others are very much afraid of him.

The future of North Carolina does not depend at all on which one of them gets the nomination for governor, and there are plenty of people who do not care a rap which one the convention names.

The Raleigh News and Observer must be good to the "Red Sox" boys or else be put to the necessity of climbing up a neighboring telegraph pole to see the games.

The judicial convention of the ninth district, held at Durham this week, took 576 ballots before making a nomination for solicitor. The prize finally went to J. M. Fuller, of Durham.

Possibly that Durham convention that took 576 ballots before nominating a solicitor is just a foretaste of what the State convention at Charlotte is going to be in nominating a governor.

The fifth district congressional convention met in Greensboro Wednesday and nominated A. L. Brooks for congress on the first ballot. This is Mr. Kitchin's district and Mr. Brooks was the former solicitor.

WOODS IN A PIANO.

The Different Varieties Used in Making the Instrument.

As many kinds of wood are used in the making of a piano as in the making of a house or an ocean-going steamship. Certain woods possess qualities demanded by piano manufacturers, and no substitutes will be taken.

The sounding board, for instance, is never made of anything but spruce. It is a thin piece, more frequently several pieces glued together. The whole thing would hardly make enough kindling for a fire if a hatchet were used on it. But it is the one essential thing, and without it there could be no piano.

It is selected with care, seasoned in the most painstaking manner, cut and shaped by experts, and it becomes the soul and life of the instrument. Had the spruce used in a sounding board gone to the pulp mill instead of the piano factory it would have made about enough paper for a couple of sheets of music.

The piano's frame—the part which holds the strings and endures the incessant strain of several tons—is usually of elm. Bicycle rims are of the same wood, and the enormous load which a thin strip weighing a few ounces can carry is well known.

The visible part of the piano is the veneer—the thin shell of wood glued over the outside of the frame. The music would be as fine and the frame as strong without the veneer. But it adds beauty, and for that reason a beautiful wood is selected and is stained, varnished and polished. It may be walnut, mahogany, oak, ash, maple, cherry or rosewood. It is as thin as eggshell, but it hides the heavy poplar planks to which it is glued. Yellow poplar is nearly always used for the backing of piano veneer.

Maple and cedar are commonly used for bridges, levers, hammer shanks, backstops and other small mechanisms, while white pine is excellent for keys. Perhaps not more than one or two of the states grow all the kinds of wood used in making one good piano. Suitable materials must be brought together from distant places, but all of those necessary are found in sufficient quantities in the United States, though considerable amounts of the finest foreign woods are brought in for veneer of high grade instruments.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Ole Mis' Moon."

Mrs. Fairfax was wont to stand on the porch of her old Virginia home and rejoice on moonlight nights in the beauty. "There's my moon," she would say as it rose from behind the eastern hills. "Look, Dahlia! See how beautiful it is." And her tiny colored maid, who was ever at hand with shawl or fan for her beloved mistress, would answer enthusiastically, "Your moon certainly do look pow'ful handsome tonight."

When Mrs. Fairfax journeyed to the city to visit her son, Dahlia, looking out of the window with wondering eyes on the first evening of her life away from home, exclaimed in a voice of mingled astonishment and relief: "Well, I declare to goodness if ole Mis' Moon ain't done come along to Washington wif me and ole mis'! We can't be home-sick nohow wif ole Mis' Moon shining 'on us!"—Youth's Companion.

Babies often inherit left handedness from their parents, and when a mother is aware that this runs in either side of the family she should keep a careful watch of the child, so that the habit may not have a chance to form. The mother in carrying the baby should change from one arm to the other, so as to give the child the use of first one arm and then another, and not keep the same arm pinned down against her side. If a child shows a disposition to take things which are handed to him in his left hand the mother should take his left hand in hers and hold it so that he has to take it in his right hand. There is absolutely no reason why a child should not be taught the equal use of both hands if his training is commenced in the early months of his life.—Exchange.

The Fussy Woodsman.

Did you ever find yourself in the woods with a "fusser"—that is, a man who only sees the disagreeable side of everything and publishes his views early and often? For such a man the trail is frightful. The woods that occasionally slap him playfully across the cheek are, anathema, the water is too wet, his rod or cast or something or other gets broken or lost, his shoe pinches one foot. About an hour before dark, just at the time when it is worth a king's ransom to be beside the favored waters, he wants to get back to the boat, and as you unwillingly wind up your line to prepare to depart your disgust is too deep and sacred for common words.—Forest and Stream.

Where the Compass Came From.

The earliest references to the use of the mariner's compass are to be found in Chinese history, from which we learn how in the sixty-fourth year of the reign of Hoangti (2634 B. C.) the emperor attacked Tchiyeon on the plains of Tchoulou and, finding his army embarrassed by a thick fog raised by the enemy, constructed an instrument for indicating the south, so as to distinguish the four cardinal points, and was thus enabled to pursue his adversary and capture him.

The power of the loadstone to communicate polarity to iron is said to be for the first time explicitly mentioned in a Chinese dictionary, finished in A. D. 121, where the loadstone is defined as "a stone with which an attraction can be given to the needle."

The Chinese appear to have once navigated as far as India by the aid of the compass.

A Fable of the Future.

In 1920 A. D. the Stingiest Man in Stringtown carted his Household Goods to the Depot and bought a ticket for Millionville, the Metropolis.

"Why are you moving to Millionville?" inquired a Citizen.

"To save postage," replied the Stingiest Man. Whereat the Citizen marveled mightily.

Now, be it known that the Stingiest Man in Stringtown was wise in his Day and Generation, for along back in 1907 A. D. or thereabout it became the Settled Habit of the Stringtown people to purchase Large Sheets of Little Stickers bearing portraits of G. Washington, B. Franklin, W. McKinley and other Late Illustrious Ones, which Specimens of Art they straightway stuck on envelopes and sent to a Large and Luring Mail Order Concern in Millionville. Wherefore it came about that the Seven Stores in Stringtown Shut up Shop, one after the other, until along in 1919 A. D. the Stingiest Man found it incumbent upon him to begin purchasing these Small Specimens of Art to present to the Maw of the Monster in Millionville, and the Aforesaid was Simply too Stingy to stand for the Same.

WARNED BY SPECTERS

One Person's Three Experiences With Ghosts.

THE SPIRIT OF HIS SISTER.

How an Apparition From the Unseen World Aided the Brother in Deciding an Important Legal Question—The Phantom on the Grave.

Three times in my life, each instance separated by an interval of years, have the experiences here told been mine.

I come of a family of different members of which have become visible at times those appearances which for want of a better name are known as "ghosts." It is at least possible that the superstition regarding the second sight of one born with a veil may have some foundation in scientific fact, for my uncle was thus veiled at birth, and all his life from infancy vacant space was peopled to him with forms, which he would describe so accurately in dress, appearance and manner that listeners would instantly recognize departed friends, gone over years before my uncle's birth in many instances.

It was not till he was a large boy that he realized that the forms seen by him were not visible to others. Pages could be written of his experiences, but I am not here to give hearsay evidence, but my own personal experiences, the sights seen with my own bodily vision.

The first instance was so early in my life that I do not recall it, but my mother relates the circumstances.

Our home was in Brooklyn, and we had gone for the summer to Greenfield Hill, Conn. I was so young that I still wore dresses and was in charge of a nursemaid who was in the habit of receiving visits from Annie, a girl of her own class, so that I was well acquainted with Annie.

She died suddenly and was buried in the country churchyard, but I was not told of her death, being considered too young to understand.

As I walked with my nurse past the cemetery one evening in the edge of dusk her superstitious horror can be imagined when I cried, pointing directly to Annie's grave: "Oh, Maggie, there is Annie! She is waving her hand for us to come over to her!" I broke away from my nurse and ran to the cemetery fence. She caught me up and ran in a panic to the house, nor would she ever again pass the cemetery after dark.

The only idea in my mind was that of a familiar friend whom I had not seen for some time.

The second instance was at the most unromantic age possible to a boy—about thirteen. I was attending boarding school in Dedham, Mass.

A school friend, a boy of about my age, had left the school some days before for his home in the west, leaving in perfect health.

At about 9 in the evening I sat on the edge of the bed removing my shoes when the wall of the room seemed to part and open, showing the night outside, with the dim forms of the trees gently waving in the wind. As I sat spellbound at this strange sight in the rift of the wall against the background of the night stood my friend as I had last seen him, just as in life. He waved his hand to me in token of farewell, stood looking at me a moment, and gently the vision faded.

I said to my roommate, who had seen nothing: "Charlie is dead. I have just seen him." The next morning a telegram to the school said that he had died the night preceding.

In the third instance I had grown to manhood—a normal, healthy man, over six feet tall and weighing nearly 200 pounds. I am a civil engineer, the hardy outdoor life being far removed from dreariness and morbid imaginings.

It was on one occasion necessary for me to consult a lawyer, and one evening I met the lawyer in his Boston office to talk over a matter of business in the course of the conversation he asked me a question which I was undecided about answering. I stopped a moment before replying, for consideration, lowering my eyes, and, when I raised them, there stood behind the attorney a favorite sister, dead many years.

Her eyes were fixed on mine, her fingers on her lips. I instantly absorbed the idea conveyed by her suggestive pose and did not give the lawyer the information he asked. As afterward proved, it was greatly to my interest not to do so.

The lawyer shivered slightly as the visitant stood behind his chair and said that there was a draft through the room.

He never knew that the sensation of cold conveyed to his nervous system was a breath from an unseen world.

Science has proved that light, sound and color are all the results of vibration of greater or less rapidity. Some of these vibrations affect our senses and we see, hear or feel their effects. But what of the vast space filled with those vibrations which affect none of our senses, yet are unknown to science? Could our senses respond to them what secrets of the unseen might not be revealed, and who can say but the secret of these strange sights which sometimes greet the eye of mortals is hidden in this unknown range of vibrations, hiding a world that is all about us, mingling with and overlapping, surrounding and telescoping our common humdrum daily life and only in rare moments of attunement drawing the veil aside for a glimpse into the unknown.—New York Herald.

Advertising For Federal Building Sites.

Treasury Department, Office of the Secretary.

Washington, D. C., June 8.
Proposals will be received, to be opened at 2 o'clock p. m. July 2, 1908 for the sale or donation to the United States of a suitable site, centrally and conveniently located for the Federal building to be erected in Greenville, North Carolina. A corner lot, of (approximately) 120x130 feet, is required. Each proposal must give the price, the character of foundations obtainable, the proximity to street cars, sewer, gas, and water mains, etc., and must be accompanied by a diagram indicating the principal street, the north point, the dimensions and grades of the land, the widths and paving of adjacent streets and alleys, whether the alleys are public or private, and whether or not the city owns land occupied by sidewalks. The vendor must pay all expenses connected with furnishing evidence of title and deeds of conveyance. Improvements on property must be reserved by the vendor; but pending the commencement of the Federal building they may remain on the land upon payment of a reasonable ground rent. The grantor must, however, remove all improvements on thirty days' notice to do. The right to reject any proposal is reserved. Each proposal must be sealed, marked "Proposal for Federal building site at Greenville, North Carolina," and mailed to the Secretary of the Treasury (Supervising Architect), Washington, D. C. No special form of proposal is required or provided.

Democratic County Convention.

unit for Col. Grimes for the nomination of Secretary of State and continue to vote for him until he is nominated."

R. R. Cotten then offered a motion that after all the resolutions are in the convention take a recess of ten minutes for the friends of the different candidates for governor to retire and select delegates to the State convention in accordance to the strength of each in the county.

This motion brought forth a warm and prolonged discussion, J. L. Fleming offering an amendment that the county send to the State convention 11 Kitchin delegates, 3 Horne and 1 Craig.

The strength of each in the county is in reality Kitchin 10.40, Horne 3.20, Craig 1.40.

After much discussion it was agreed the chairman and secretary certify to the State convention in accordance with the foregoing and the vote of the county be cast for governor at the ratio stated, the amendment was accepted and the motion passed that 11 Kitchin, 3 Horne, and 1 Craig delegate be sent to the convention, the vote for each candidate to be 10.40, 3.20, and 1.40 respectively.

R. R. Cotten moved that the friends of Kitchin retire and select 11 delegates and alternates, the friends of Horne 3, the friends of Craig 1.

D. L. James offered an amendment to this that the friends of Kitchin do not retire, as they already had a list of their delegates, and wanted to present them to the convention at once. The amendment and motion were both adopted.

The Kitchin delegates and alternates were then read and ratified.

The following resolutions was offered by M. T. Spier:

"Be it resolved that this convention instruct its delegates to the judicial convention to cast their vote in said convention for Hon. Charles L. Abernethy for solicitor of the third judicial district."

This was unanimously adopted with the exception that the chairman again asked that he be recorded as voting no.

The friends of Horne and Craig then retired to select their proportion of the delegates to the State convention. After returning and reading the list which were ratified, the motion was made that the several township select their proportion of delegates to the congressional and judicial conventions. These were all reported and ratified.

Col. J. Bryan Grimes secretary of state, was called for and made a stirring speech that was applauded. He thanked the people of the county for the support it had given him.

The Marks on His Barrels.
"You will get there yet," an admirer once said to Explorer Peary. "You become a better explorer every trip."

"Well," said the other, "there are tricks in every trade, of course, and as we live we learn. I knew an old grocer in Cresson who had learned a lot. I stopped before his shop one day and looked curiously at a great line of barrels of apples, some marked with an A and some marked with a Z. 'Why are these barrels marked differently, Uncle Josh?' I said to the old man. 'They seem to be the same kind of apples.' 'They is the same kind, son,' the old man replied, 'but some customers want a barrel opened at the top and some at the bottom.'"

Imperialistic Notions.
Some of the "excuses" which schoolteachers receive from late or absent pupils are weird and wonderful. Here are a few:

"Sir Frederick can't come today, as he ain't got any nickers, and if the bord man fetches him he'll have to come naked. Yours respectful."

"Sir, I must strictly forbid you to punish Thomas again for anything he does, as we never do so except in self defense."

"Dear Sir—I strongly object to my boy learning Algebra. In my humble opinion the only letters to put with money are £ s. d. Perhaps you'll be kind enough to inform me how much this is, Ab4—wqx5—ydg pounds. I'm plain by name and plain by nature and won't have any newfangled imperialist notions put into his head. Yours without offense, James Plain." — London Scraps.
