"SLUMBERLAND" SOON.

Splendid Entertainment in Store for Greenville People.

The King's Daughters and the End of the Century Book Club, have secured Harry Foote, of New York City, to produce for their benefit, "Slumberland" known as a mammoth musical extravaganza. Rehearsals have already commenced at the opera house and will continue for two weeks when the play will be ready for presentation. "Slumberland" has been given with great success in every large city in the South and East and its success is assured here.

Mrs. Richard Williams and Mrs. A. L. Blow have the entertainment in charge and will leave nothing undone to make "Slumberland" the largest and best amateur production ever presented here.

It is estimated there will be at least 200 in the cast including children and young ladies and gentlemen.

Mr. Foote, the owner and producer of Slumberland carries his own costumes for all but the very small children and also carries the electrical effects and calcium lights.

He has had considerable experience in producing entertainments and his newspaper clippings from all over the country are full of praises regarding the merits of Slumberland.

Mr. Foote came direct from Fayetteville where the play was given last Wednesday and Thursday nights, and Friday matinee.

Slumberland is conceded by all to be the best amateur show ever seen in this country, the music and dancing ensembles over a feature of the play. It will be given July 1st.

A Model Presiding Officer.

The whole State will applaud State Chairman Chatham for requesting Hon. Thomas J. Jarvis to act as temporary chairman of the State Convention at Charlotte next week. His acceptance of presiding over the greatest political convention ever held in North Carolina is guarantee of fairness and justice to every candidate and to every interest, and also insures a key-note speech that will start the campaign upon high lines for a sweeping victory in November.

For nearly fifty years Thomas Jarvis has been a leader—first in his county from which he entered the Confederate Army, where he received wounds that have denied him the use of his arm all his life. Later as member of the House, as Speaker of House, as Lieutenant-Governor, as Governor for seven years, as Minister to Brazil and as United States Senator he has filled every position of trust with honor and fidelity. But the highest claim he has to distinction is that in his old age he has as a private citizen in his home town led in education and religious activity and development and in uplift of this and coming generations.

North Carolina is rich in able and impartial sons who would meet the demands of the occasion at Charlotte next week, but the selection of "the grand old man" of Pitt will give universal satisfaction.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Mecklenburg's Primary

The primary in Mecklenburg county Tuesday gave Horne 995, Kitchin 617, Craig 588. That county has 22 votes in the State convention.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO CHARLOTTE.

Via Norfolk & Southern and Seaboard Air Line June 23rd.

On account of the Democratic State convention which meets in Charlotte on the 24th, the Seaboard Air Line will run special trains on the 23rd to accommodate the large crowds desiring to attend the convention. The train that the people of this section are interested in and over which they will take the trip, will leave Raleigh at 11:30 a. m. and reach Charlotte at 5:30 p. m. This train will make connection with the Norfolk & Southern train at Raleigh. The Norfolk & Southern's train that morning will start from Washington, instead of from Greenville, and will leave Washington at 6:20 a. m., passing Greenville at 7:10 a. m. arriving at Raleigh at 10:40, connecting with the Seaboard Air Line special leaving Raleigh at 11:30 direct for Charlotte, reaching that city the afternoon before the convention meets. The round trip fare from Greenville is $10.30.

A good show last night; a good one for tonight at the Dixie.

Mrs. E. S. Greene Dead.

Mrs. Evelyn S. Greene died about midnight, Tuesday night, at her home in LaGrange. Mrs. Greene was a native of Greenville and lived here until a few years ago when she went to LaGrange to make her home with a son there. She was 67 years old and is survived by six children, Messrs. Robert and W. B. and Dr. Edward Greene and Mrs. F. M. Hodges, of Greenville, and Dr. J. C. Grange and Miss Betsy Greene, of LaGrange. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. M. A. Bernard, Mrs. Beasy Johnson and Miss Hannah Smith, all of Greenville. She also had a great host of friends who esteemed her highly.

The remains will reach Greenville on the 4:30 train this afternoon for interment here, but we have not learned at what hour the burial will take place.

A. B. Ellington & Co., are needing money and have decided to give their customers one more opportunity to buy goods cheap on Monday June 22nd, and continuing during the week they will offer special bargains in China, Glassware and other household goods. Cotton Blossom.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., June 17, 1908.

Mrs. Maggie Butt and family have returned from a visit to Beaufort county. We are glad to have them home again.

We all enjoyed very much Mrs. Butt's excellent article in The Reflector a few days ago. We hope our people are soon to learn that the training of the brain and the development of the moral life are matters of supreme importance and breaks the bonds of slavery to fashion.

Heber Mumford, from near Ayden, was visiting in town Sunday.

Fountain Cox passed another of those annual milestones in his life Monday, also Miss Dora Cox passed one Tuesday. A family reunion helped to make these days notable. We remember when we, like our young friends, counted the days and sighed for a birthday to come. It did take so long to come, but that was in the long ago. A few streaks of gray tell us we are not so young, even if we do feel so, and the years pass so rapidly we almost forget the month in which we were born, to say nothing of the day.

Miss Lala Chapman returned home Sunday, to the delight of her many friends. She had been visiting Miss Lela Roach at Coxyville.

The young people of Winterville and community have organized a "Young People's Christian Union" with John R. Carroll president, W. A. McGlohon, vice president, and Miss Miriam Johnson, secretary and treasurer. Its object is mental and spiritual improvement and what nobler aim could it have? The meetings commenced regularly every Saturday at 8 p. m. We wish them much success in this great work.

The Baptist Sunday school has elected Prof. F. C. Nye and Miss Dora Cox delegates to the union Sunday school convention to be held in Ayden June 26.

B. A. Highsmith, who kept the meat market here, has moved to Mt. Olive. He is succeeded in the business by Ed. Nelson and Clinton Smith. We expect splendid service from these clever young men. Much success, be theirs.

Last Sunday morning elder Corbett filled the regular appointment in the Free Will Baptist church. He preached an excellent sermon. We were glad to notice the great improvement made by plastering the walls and so nicely painting the interior of the church. Here is our hand and best wishes brethren.

Miss Kate Chapman has returned after several days' visit to Misses Cora and Sadie Carroll, of Cox's Mill. We are glad to have her again in our midst.

"Bud" Joe says they are curing tobacco over his way and surely some are preparing for it from the way flues and trucks are leaving the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. on trains, on wagons, on carts, both rail bed and box body, they go. Last Saturday 105 trucks were shipped and still the orders come. The hands are singing and whistling and turning out about 65 or 70 trucks per day. The people have learned how much labor is saved by using trucks and how much better it is to handle the tobacco without bruising it. So it's good bye old hamper basket and tow sack apsons. You served the best you could, but your day is done. Whooping-cough galore. The

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Whereas, The great Spirit has seen fit in His all wise providence to take from the home of Brother Denmark Seymour his little child, therefore be it resolved:

1st. That we extend the sympathy and condolence of our tribe, and we would point him to the Great Spirit who doeth all things well.

2nd. We would ask the aid of the Great Spirit, to help him bear the trouble that has befallen him.

3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the brother, family and a copy be published.

Sounds Like a Street Car.

You just naturally dodge to get out of the way of an imaginary street car when you hear that going on the ice wagon sound, and the wheels come rattling along on the paved street. It sounds for all the world like a street car.

Let us all meet at the Dixie Theatre tonight.

little fellows are having a tough siege. The whoop is heard in almost every home, but all seem to be getting along very well. The latest case is A. G. Cox who has the cough, but seems to have forgotten how to whoop. In fact, we think when his cold is better he will conclude that only once in life do we have the opportunity to whoop as the little fellows are now doing.

Already many requests have come for catalogues of Winterville High school. They will be ready to mail in a few days. Much improvement will be shown in course of study this year. There will also be more cuts than usual. The excellent work done by this school under such wholesome moral influence has made it the pride of this section of the State and as usual we expect it to be filled to overflowing with bright boys and girls seeking to train themselves for the responsible duties of life.

Our Fires a Disgrace.

One conflagration destroying $4,000,000 worth of property makes a great display in the newspapers, and yet fire losses aggregating that every week occur in this country year after year. Last year the fire losses were not quite $4,000,000 a week, the year round, but for the past five years the average loss has been $5,000,000 every week, a total for five years of $1,500,000,000. That owners of property were partially indemnified by insurance does not affect the fact that the country as a whole suffers this enormous and preventable waste. Most of our building is a gamble between the owner and the insurance company. The enormous fire losses amount to a national disgrace, for other countries do not experience any such waste.—Philadelphia Record

It Will be Great.

Mr. Foote has begun rehearsals with home talent for the operetta that is soon to be given under the auspices of The King's Daughters for the benefit of the Stonewall Jackson Manual and Industrial school, and the outlook is that it is going to be great.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1908.

The bankers may take on some water at Morehead.

The day in which Greenville does not grow some is a dull day.

The papers report Evelyn and Harry making up about three times a week.

A daughter of Col. Bryan is to be one of the delegates to the Denver convention.

You can make up your mind to the fact that Taft and Bryan will head the two tickets.

One week from today, the 24th, all interest will be centered in Charlotte and the State convention.

As Powers has been pardoned, that may be the last heard of the famous Kentucky feud. Hope so.

After the very best claiming that all of them can do, there is no certainty as to which will get the nomination.

If Chicago did complain of the smallness of her convention, we will just bet that Charlotte has no cause to do likewise over the gathering there next week.

The kind of primaries that most of the counties held are a regular farce. They should either be legalized and held all over the State at the same time, or they should be abolished entirely.

Mecklenburg county giving half its vote to Horne shows what bad guessers some of them are. We expect there is also going to be some surprises in the State convention before it gets through.

From the result in the Mecklenburg primary it is very evident that the joint discussion in Charlotte between Kitchin and Craig did them both harm. If such debates had been general, both the gentlemen would have been out of it by the time the convention meets.

Political Advertising.

Newspaper advertising has become to be recognized as indispensable to any successful business enterprise. The man who would be successful as a manufacturer must advertise his goods. And the newspaper is the medium through which he reaches the people.

Political advertising has come to be recognized today as the best possible means of publicity by candidates for office, and the newspapers are quick to realize that it is a part of the business end to secure this advertising.

The candidate can reach the people through the columns of the press every day and tell the people what he stands for and what he proposes to do. In other words, he uses the best publicity vehicle to reach the men, whose votes he solicits.—Ex.

WHEN THE ICE BROKE.

Description of an Old Time Spectacle on the Hudson River.

The breaking of the ice on the Hudson river is described in "Memoirs of an American Lady" as a "sublime spectacle." A hundred and fifty years ago the whole population of Albany deemed it a sight well worth some effort to see. The first noise of the breaking ice, like a long, loud peal of thunder, sent every one hurrying to the riverside, and if it happened to be an early morning hour there was a grotesque assemblage.

No one who had a nightcap on waited to put it off. As for waiting for one's cloak, it was a thing out of the question. You caught the thing next to you that you could wrap around you and ran. On the way you saw every door left open and pails and baskets without number set down in the street. People never dreamed of being obeyed by their slaves until the ice was past.

The houses were left quite empty. The meanest slave, the youngest child, were to be found on the shore.

When arrived at the show place the multitude, with their eyes all bent one way, stood immovable and silent as death until the tumult ceased and the mighty commotion ended. Then every one tried to give vent to the vast conceptions with which his mind had been distended.

The swelling of the waters under the ice, increased by rivulets, enlarged by melting snows, led to the general bursting of this mighty mass of ice. Conceive a solid mass from six to eight feet thick bursting for many miles in one continued rupture, produced by a force inconceivably great and in a manner inexpressibly sudden.

Thunder is no adequate image of this awful explosion. The islands and lowlands were all flooded in an instant by an impetuous torrent, bearing down, with incredible and tumultuous rage, immense shoals of ice, which, jammed together in some places, in others erecting themselves in gigantic heights for an instant in the air, seemed to combat with their fellow giants and, falling together with an inconceivable crash, formed a picture animated and various beyond conception.

Knew What He Was Doing.

For once the American had discovered something British that was better than anything they could produce "across the pond." His discovery was a fine collie dog, and he at once tried to induce its owner, an old shepherd, to sell it.

"Wad ye be takin' him to America?" inquired the old Scot.

"Yes, I guess so," said the Yankee.

"I thoct as muckle," said the shepherd. "I couldna pairt wi' Jock."

But while they sat and chatted an English tourist came up, and to him the shepherd sold the collie for much less than the American had offered.

"You told me you wouldn't sell him," said the Yankee when the purchaser had departed.

"Na," replied the Scot; "I said I couldna pairt wi' him. Jock 'll be back in a day or so, but he couldna swim the Atlantic." — Pearson's Weekly.

Only Loving Them.

A smart baby carriage stood outside a small shop in Ealing, in the outskirts of London. In it slept a pretty dimpled baby, and beside it lay a fat pug puppy, its nose almost touching the baby's cheek.

Beside them stood a little ragged waif, whose tattered garments barely covered her with decency. In turn she stroked the baby and the puppy.

A lady passing noticed the strange picture—the beautifully dressed baby, the pug puppy and the ragged child. The baby's mother was in the shop.

"Are you looking after them?" she inquired kindly of the waif.

In a moment the child's face was glorified by a heavenly smile.

"No, ma'am," said she, "I'm only loving them."

A GREAT GAME.

Walking Suits Every Mood, Softens Trouble and Tempers Sorrow.

There is no substitute for the art of walking. It permits no proxies. Books may be retold by the reader, sermons repeated by the hearer, pictures may be described by the art critics or the humbler visitor. No one can portray the pleasures of walking, nor can its advantages be secured at second hand. It must be one's own individual employment. Walking is game for any mood. The sad, the downhearted, the exultant, the serenely content, all, and those in any other mental condition, may find satisfaction in wandering out upon the earth. Walking softens sorrow, tempers trouble and adds a halo unto happiness. It gives health and vigor to body and mind. Many a headache has been chased away by walking and many a heartache lifted or lightened. The best thing for the inside of a man is the outside of the earth. Unlike other games, walking may be played in company or alone. It may be for one, two or more. It is at its best, of course, when played by two who are really one. Yet a solitary journey is better far than a continual stay in the house at toil or in company gay. Better loaf and invite one's soul than work or play overmuch and leave one's spirit atrophied. Sunshine and fresh air are twin agents in the promotion of happiness and health and peace.

Every man who walks should be a lover. He should be not merely a lover of his companion, but of the birds and buzzing bees, the bursting leaves and the blue ceiling of the sky beyond. One may walk in winter days full of frost and in summer when the days are full of fire. 'Tis in the year's rosy dawn, when nature is robing in garments of green and gold, that she gives most of her beauty to him who loves and worships her. The man who slowly walks adown the street or through the country fields may then, if ever, look through the nature up to the nature's God.—Walter Williams in Columbia Herald.

Active Girls.

From an early age the girls of Japan are instructed in physical exercise, with the result that at maturity the women are almost as strong as the men. It is not an unusual sight in the mikado's empire to see a company of girls who are strolling along a country road step back a few yards for headway and then, following a leader, all nimbly clear a five foot fence by leaping over it.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demnition bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey!

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

A STORY OF HEROISM

WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. Most of the Crew Were Lost and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the colonnade a simple memorial tablet, placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 20, 1852. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking re-enforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 476 men for the troops engaged in the Kaffir war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the cape. On board were also 100 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where ten officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in an orderly and as quietly as on the barrack square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board, impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The services of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain pumps on the lower after deck and told off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on to the tackles of the paddle box boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to ease the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander next ordered the officers' chargers to be pitched out of the gangway. The plunging and terrified horses were got up and cast over, five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew man's pay and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat and crushing the men on the tackles. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up.

The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out, "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to, as the boat with the women and children would be swamped. They were young men in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine, but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage as in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued, but of fourteen officers and 458 men no fewer than nine officers and 340 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every woman and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the King of Prussia for the account of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment in his army, and it was spoken of in every school in Prussia and Germany.—London Globe.

WHEN FOOD WAS SCARCE.

Prices That Ruled in Paris During the Siege of 1870.

The following interesting statement of the prices that were paid for food during the siege of 1870 is taken verbatim out of the journal of a French officer stationed in Paris at the time: "Toward the middle of October we had to make up our mind to sacrifice the animals of the zoological garden. The elephants and many other beasts were bought by M. Dehos, the owner of the English meat shop in Av. Friedland. The meat of the elephants was sold, from $10 to $12 a kilogram (two pounds), the trunk commanding the highest price, $16 a kilogram. The trunk and feet were both declared delicious by all gourmands. In the same shop a pair of young wolves were sold for $2.50 per pound. The meat was soft and without taste. The biggest price was paid for a young live lamb that had been swiped by a 'franchiseur' from the enemy. One hundred dollars was paid for it.

Two pounds of horseflesh.....	$5.00
One ham.....	15.00
A whole cat.....	3.00
A rabbit.....	10.00
One turkey.....	20.00
One egg.....	1.00
A rat.....	.50
A pigeon.....	2.00
One pound of butter.....	6.00
A pound of beans.....	1.50
A peck of carrots.....	2.00
One cabbage head.....	3.00
One stick of celery.....	2.00
Wood to burn (300 pounds).....	.50

"Even the rich had to live on the meagerest diet and to take into their menu things that till then only the trapper in the virgin forests was supposed to eat. I leave it to you to imagine what kind of meals were served in the small restaurants and boarding houses.

"Moreover, everybody had to submit to the strictest orders. People stood in file before the butcher and baker shops to wait for their turns. Each household was furnished with a card from the municipality authorizing the bearer to buy a certain amount of meat and bread. The cook, the housewife, the young girl, the little child (men never go shopping in France), were posted for hours before the shops in rain and snow, with wet feet, shivering with cold. The unfortunate ones endured without a murmur these hardships. Women throughout the time of the siege were setting an example of courage and self abnegation not always followed by men.

"It was a sad and touching spectacle, these long files of women, nearly all dressed in black, grouped before the doors of the dealers, watched by the national guard, with whom they at first were laughing and chatting, till the sufferings from the cold had silenced the laugh and sometimes brought forth the tears.

"But in spite of all precautions the stores one by one were exhausted, the provisions, put in too late before the siege, were used up, and, while the babies, deprived of milk, died in great numbers or, fed on sweet wine and bread, pined slowly away, the big people tried to find new resources to prolong their lives."

Generous Mrs. Crewe.
A gambling story is told of Charles James Fox that rather reflects on his honor. He was one of the ardent admirers of Mrs. Crewe, a noted beauty of her day, and it is related that a gentleman lost a considerable sum to this lady at play and, being obliged to leave town suddenly, gave Mr. Fox the money to pay her, begging him to apologize to her for his not having paid the debt of honor in person. Fox lost every shilling of it before morning. Mrs. Crewe often met the supposed debtor afterward and, surprised that he never noticed the circumstances, at length delicately hinted the matter to him.

"Bless me!" said he. "I paid the money to Mr. Fox three months ago."
"Oh, did you, sir?" said Mrs. Crewe good naturedly. "Then probably he paid me, and I forgot it."

A GHOST STORY.

The Spectral Horseman That Visits Wycollar Hall.

This ghost story is contributed by a correspondent of an English magazine: Wycollar Hall, near Colne, was long the seat of the Culliffes of Billington. They were noted persons in their time, but evil days came and their ancestral estates passed out of their hands. In the days of the commonwealth their loyalty cost them dear, and ultimately they retired to Wycollar with a remnant only of their once extensive property. About 1810 the last of the family passed away, and the hall is now a mass of ruins. Little but the antique fireplace remains entire, and even the legend cannot now be identified. Tradition says that once every year a spectral horseman visits Wycollar Hall. He is attired in the costume of the early Stuart period, and the trappings of his horse are of a most uncouth description.

On the evening of his visit the weather is always wild and tempestuous. There is no moon to light the lonely roads, and the residents of the district do not venture out of their cottages when the wind howls madly. The horseman can be heard clashing in the road at that speed, and, after crossing the narrow bridge, he suddenly stops at the door of the hall. The rider then dismounts and makes his way up the broad oak stairs into one of the rooms of the house. Distant screams, as from a woman, are then heard, which soon subside into groans. The horseman then makes his appearance at the door, at once mounts his steed and gallops off.

His body can be seen through by those who may chance to be present; his horse appears to be wild with rage, and its nostrils stream with fire. The tradition is that one of the Culliffes murdered his wife in that room and that the spectral horseman is the ghost of the murderer, who is doomed to pay an annual visit to the home of his victim. She is said to have predicted the extinction of the family, which, according to the story, has been literally fulfilled.

THE CRITICS.

These Observers Were Wholly Personal in Their Judgments.

"The critical faculty is rare," said an editor and critic at a Philadelphia art club. "It must be impersonal. But most of us incline to be wholly personal in our criticism. The fact was brought home to me at one of the exhibitions at the Academy of Fine Arts."

"Passing from picture to picture, I overheard many criticisms. Thus a lady in a rich gown said:

"What a superb portrait of a young girl! It should certainly win the Carnegie prize. It is easy to see that the gown was made by Paquin."

"A fat, red nosed man in a fur lined overcoat halted before a picture entitled 'The Luncheon.'

"This still life," he exclaimed, 'is the most admirable I have ever seen. Terrapin, canvasback, champagne, lobster, even Perigord ple-ah, what a genius!"

"In this historical painting, I heard an antiquary say, 'the costumes are accurate in every detail. The painter is a second Raphael."

"That horse there," said a young polo player, 'is exactly like my Podasokus. It's the best picture in the exhibition."

"An athlete uttered a cry of delight before a daub called 'The Gladiator.'"

"What shoulders! What arms!" he said. "I bet anything the jury gives this painting the highest award."

"And half the throng, departing, said: "The picture in the last room is the best. No, we didn't see it—couldn't get to it, in fact—but it draws far and away the biggest crowd."

Mole Superstitions.

According to tradition, if you have a mole on your chin you may expect to be wealthy, while if you have it under your arm it promises you wealth and honor as well. A mole on the ankle indicates courage. On the left temple a mole indicates that you will find friends among the great ones of the earth, but if it be placed on the right temple it warns you of coming distress. A mole on a man's knee means that he may expect to marry a rich woman. A mole on the neck promises wealth. If you have a mole on your nose you are going to be a great traveler. A mole on the throat indicates health and wealth.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time, but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swelling below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Greenville prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. J. S. Stokes, cor. Twelfth and Evans Sts., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered severely from kidney complaint. The kidneys were very irregular in action and at times caused me great annoyance. I had bearing down pains through my abdomen and sharp shooting twinges through my loins causing me untold misery. There was a tender spot across my kidney regions and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was so much impressed that I procured them at Wooten's drug store. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and limbs, restored the secretions to a regular and normal condition and at present I am feeling a great deal better in every way. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for the great improvement in my condition."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sale agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
