ASTOR RESIGNS HIS CHARGE.

Rev. J. E. Ayscue to Leave Memorial Baptist Church.

Some weeks since Rev. J. E. Ayscue, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, requested the church to grant him a vacation of about six weeks, as he wished to take a summer course at the University of Chicago, and the request was granted. At the Sunday morning service about two weeks ago he stated from the pulpit that he would leave for this vacation the first of July, and added that he might be gone six weeks or six months, or might not return at all, this latter statement taking the church and congregation by surprise and leaving much conjecture as to what were his intentions.

Since then the matter was discussed briefly between the pastor and deacons of the church, and at the Wednesday night prayer meeting service he presented a resignation asking that his resignation as pastor of the church be severed at the end of this month, as he could not say how long a vacation he would want to spend in the university. His mind being made up to take the course of study, there seemed no other alternative for the church but to accept his resignation, though to do so was regretted by every member of the congregation, for during his three years' pastorate he has greatly endeared himself to the church and entire people of the community.

Trade Report.

Bradstreet's, Saturday, will report for Richmond and vicinity; Trade conditions generally show little change from those that have recently existed.

Travelers are out with full supplies of dry goods and notions, and ordering is light, filling in orders has been small.

Produce is in fair demand. The market is well supplied with vegetables from near by districts. Fair shipments of vegetables to Northern markets are reported.

Robbers of shoes report sales for the month smaller than a comparative period of last year. Many mechanics and laborers are unemployed, and idle cars are numerous.

The wheat crop which is reported the best in many years is practically all harvested. Throughout Virginia and North Carolina corn, tobacco and oats are reported in excellent condition. In North Carolina the cotton crop is reported good, however, in some sections it has been injured by heavy rains. Roads are reported bad for the season year. Retail trade is fair and collections slow.

Funeral of Mrs. Greene.

The remains of Mrs. E. S. Greene, who died in LaGrange Tuesday night, reached Greenville on the 4:30 A. C. L. train Wednesday afternoon and were buried in the Episcopal church. The funeral service was conducted in the church by Rev. J. H. Smith, of Kinston, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the interment following. The pall bearers were Messrs. G. B. W. Hadley, A. J. Griffin, James Brown, W. B. Wilson, W. S. Bernard, C. C. Vines, Frank Wilson and W. L. Brown.

MILTON IS DRIED.

Danville Drank Too Much and the Supply is Cut Off.

An item that seems to have been missed in the papers, is the drying up of Milton which has long been as wet to its inches as any town has been.

Milton is near Danville and that city took the cold water cure several months ago. But Milton became a sort of Mecca for the Danvillian thirst and the town was over-ridden by folks that had to have it. Recently the commissioners of Milton have been bombarded with petitions to put the saloons of that town out of business and after July 1st there will be no license issued.

Milton is one of the first towns of the State to be dried before the general prohibition law takes effect, perhaps the only one made so by act of commissioners. The little place itself has been well behaved. The foreigners made it undesirable as a dispensary of ardent spirits—Durham Herald.

Little Bobbie was so tickled he couldn't hold still because the Teddy bears and other toys cut such capers at the Dixie theatre last night.

Better Wait.

Those who are in a hurry to declare that prohibition will be a failure in North Carolina better wait until the law has been in effect a year or two. It is hardly probable that the vote for prohibition which is to take effect next January will have the tendency to curtail the sale of intoxicating liquors six months before the time. The rather will the tendency be to increase the sale of liquor from now until January. Perhaps some who are quite fond of it and think they will be unable to get it after January may drink more than usual to make up for what they think they will lose after the law becomes effective. And there are doubtless some who will be simple enough to think they can bring prohibition into disrepute before the time by encouraging free use of liquor for the next few months.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Everybody who went says the program at the Dixie theatre last night was fine. New pictures every night.

Four Scotland Neck Items.

Miss Lina James, who has been visiting relatives here returned to her home in Pitt county last week.

Miss Jessie Brinkley, of Greenville, came up Monday evening on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. R. C. Josey.

Miss Marguerite Higgs, of Greenville, is here visiting her grand mother, Mrs. Margaret Shields.

EVANS-CURTIS.

Miss Tessie Evans Becomes the Bride of Rev. W. M. Curtis.

A marriage in which a great deal of local and State interest centers occurred in the parlor of Greensboro Female College today at high noon, when Miss Letitia Evans and Rev. W. M. Curtis were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. S. B. Turrentine, presiding elder of the Greensboro district. Miss Maude Evans, of Goldsboro, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Rev. A. L. Stanford, of Lexington, acted as best man. The marriage was a quiet, simple affair attended by only the relatives and a few friends of the young couple.

Rev. Mr. Curtis and bride left on train No. 36 at 1.15 this afternoon for a wedding trip to Washington and New York. Upon their return they will reside at Rev. Mr. Curtis' home, College Place.

The bride is a native of Greenville and graduated from Greensboro Female College in 1903, since which time she has been registrar of the college. She is an accomplished young woman and has a wide circle of friends who will be interested in the announcement of her marriage. Rev. Mr. Curtis is a member of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference. For the past two or three years he has been secretary and treasurer of the board of trustees of Greensboro Female college. Mrs. Lucy H. Robertson, president of Greensboro Female college, entertained a few friends informally at the college last night in honor of the couple. Among those present from out of the city were Mr. James Evans, of Greenville, brother of the bride; Miss Ruth Hughes, of Raleigh, and Mr. Winston Davis, of Raleigh.—Greensboro Record.

The bride is a Greenville girl and daughter of Mrs. A. M. Evans. Her host of friends here extend best wishes.

Looking After the Crowd.

H. S. Leard, of Raleigh, a representative of the Seaboard Air Line railway, was here today in the interest of the special train to be run to the State convention in Charlotte next Tuesday. He says every arrangement will be made for the comfort of all who go, and a great crowd will be carried.

In Honor of Greenville Girl.

Miss Annie Evans entertained last night in honor her company, Miss Maggie Savage, of Greenville. Delicious refreshments were served. Quite a number of young people gathered and all enjoyed themselves.—Tarboro Southerner.

IF FLEET WERE SOLD.

Think What a Lot of Things the Cash Would Buy.

The $180,000,000 invested in the war ships now in San Francisco harbor would irrigate 60,000,000 acres of arid land, and provide homes for 120,000 families, giving to each family 50 acres of land. That amount of money would build a railroad from the Atlantic to the Pacific and such a road owned by the people run for the benefit of the people would squeeze every drop of water out of the railroads of the country.

That amount of money would build and equip a national telegraph and telephone system, which conducted for the people, would squeeze every drop of water out of the privately owned telegraph and telephone systems.

That amount of money properly spent, would go far towards relieving the people of the tremendous monopoly burden now resting on their backs.

That amount of money would build from 60 to 100 electric power plants for the people, and free them from a monopoly that is now skinning them.

Instead of building more war ships isn't it time to call a halt? With tens of thousands of our citizens begging for an opportunity to earn a living, isn't it time to call a halt on this wicked waste of money and energy. If we are going more and more into the warship business, let us be honest and pull down our churches. If we are to glorify war, let us quit glorifying the Prince of Peace.

Let us quit being hypocrites.—San Francisco Star.

The Field of Friendship.

The field of friendship is a wide one, and all our neighbors, both near and far, should be candidates for admission there. The appearance of cold esteem, the passing salutation, empty of everything save chill formality, have larger possibilities behind them than we are wont to imagine. At any rate, to believe so, honestly and conscientiously, is an indication of an active faith, and is far wholesomer than the suspicions that do their utmost to master us. It is only through this belief that we shall bring ourselves in contact with some of the finest issues of life, and come to understand the unities and harmonies of existence. Nevertheless, it is well to bear in mind the important fact that man is not our only friend and neighbor. Neither patience nor investigation is necessary to the discovery that all things about us are capable of inviting neighborliness and dispensing it to those who are wise enough to take advantage of the hospitality that is constantly proffered. The towering trees (though they do not seem to tower as high as they did when we were younger), the humble creeping vines, the delicate flowers that spring up in a night, casual and ravishing, the whole movement and rush of Nature in her vigorous and insistent moods, belong to neighborliness in the most significant and satisfactory sense. It is something of a relief to discover that we need not depend entirely on man for companionship—though beyond all doubt, the best of his kind are to be treasured in whatever relation or condition they are found.—Joel Chandler Harris, in Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine for June.

Avoid Dandruff.

Dandruff is infectious. Many men get the germ from the brushes and combs used in barber shops and women from those used in hair-dressing establishments. There is great danger of this kind. In some places there is no doubt that the brushes and combs are thoroughly cleansed and soaked in antiseptic solutions each time they are used, but these places are very rare. Even at home the dandruff germ may be passed from one member of the family to the other by the interchangeable use of combs and brushes without first cleansing them thoroughly.—Harper's Bazar.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1908.

It is all guess work now.

Testing laws seems to be a fad these latter days.

The fellow who has no rather about it, but is willing to abide by what the convention does, is not worrying much over how the candidates stand.

There were 132 applicants before the State board of medical examiners in session at Winston-Salem this week, and 93 of them passed the examination and were given license to practice.

Mr. Horne showed much wisdom in keeping quiet and profiting by the speech-making of the other candidates, for it is very evident that the more they talked the more they hurt themselves.

The Durham Herald wants to know "for whose benefit is the Southern running those specials to Charlotte?" We take it that all of the roads are doing it for what they can make out of hauling the crowd of passengers.

Now that all the county primaries have been held, a correct statement of how the different candidates for governor stand is eagerly looked for. But even then it is very uncertain as to who will get the nomination, as it is going to be a convention fight.

There will not be as much excitement and turmoil in the election campaign as there has been in the one for choosing delegates to the State convention. As soon as the nominations are made much of the interest in the matter will be lost. There will probably be a very tight vote polled next fall. The people have had so much of politics and elections this spring and summer that they have grown tired of the whole subject.—Wilmington Star.

Words truly spoken, and there is danger of such indifference working disaster to the Democratic party.

Charlotte papers say the reports which have gained currency that Charlotte hotels are going to charge advanced rates to delegates and others attending the State convention, are entirely without foundation, as at the time the convention was invited to Charlotte a schedule of hotel charges was furnished the State executive committee and these rates would be lived up to. With this we do not see that any one going to the convention need fear that exorbitant prices will be charged them. For the hotels to do otherwise would be very damaging to Charlotte, and the "Queen City" is not going to hunt for any criticism.

AN INSOLENT DOCTOR.

Instances of the Rudeness of the Famous Abernethy.

The Duke of Wellington, having insisted on seeing Dr. Abernethy out of his usual hours and abruptly entering his room, was asked by the doctor how he got in. "By that door," was the reply. "Then," said Abernethy, "I recommend you to make your exit by the same way." He refused to attend George IV. until he had delivered his lecture at the hospital, in consequence of which he lost a naval appointment. To a lady who complained that on holding her arm over her head she felt pain he said, "Then what a fool you must be to hold it up!" He was fond of calling people fools. A countess consulted him, and he offered her some pills, when she said she could never take a pill. "Not take a pill! What a fool you must be!" was the courteous reply.

A farmer of immense bulk came from a distance to consult him, and, having given an account of his daily meals, which showed an immense amount of animal food, Abernethy said: "Go away, sir! I won't attempt to prescribe for such a hog!" A loquacious lady he silenced by telling her to put out her tongue. She having done so, "Now keep it there till I have done talking," said Abernethy. A lady having brought her daughter, he refused to prescribe for her, but told the mother to let the girl take exercise. Having received his guinea, he gave the shilling to the mother and said, "Buy the girl a skipping rope as you go along."

When the Duke of York consulted him he stood whistling, with his hands in his pockets, and the duke said, "I suppose you know who I am?" "Suppose I do," was the uncourtly reply. "What of that?" To a gentleman who consulted him for an ulcerated throat and wanted him to look at it he said, "How dare you suppose that I would allow you to blow your stinking, foul breath in my face?" But sometimes he met a Tartar.

A gentleman who could not succeed in getting the doctor to listen to his case suddenly locked the door, put the key in his pocket and took out a loaded pistol. Abernethy, alarmed, asked if he meant to murder him. No. He only wanted him to listen to his case and meant to keep him a prisoner till he did. The patient and surgeon afterward became great friends.

Editorial Repartee.

A western weekly prints the following: "Paterfamilias asks, 'How can I get an article into your esteemed paper?' It all depends on the article you want to get into our paper, Pater. If it is small in bulk, like a hairbrush or a tea caddy, spread the paper out upon the floor and, placing the article carefully in the center, neatly fold the edges over it and tie with a string. This will keep the article from slipping out. If, on the other hand, the article is an English hatter's or a cloth-horse you will find it more suited to one of the New York Sunday papers."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Pyramids.

Two principal theories have been advanced for the erection of the pyramids of Egypt. One is that each king on ascending the throne began to build a pyramid as a tomb and monument to himself. This was usually laid out upon a comparatively small scale, so that if the builder had but a short reign his tomb might be complete. As time passed successive layers were added, and the size of the monument was thus proportioned to the length of the builder's reign. This theory is combated by Petrie, who believed that each pyramid was begun and carried out upon a definite design of size and arrangement.

Celluloid.

Celluloid is a plastic material composed of gun cotton and camphor. The gun cotton, or nitro-cellulose, is made by treating tissue paper with a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids. The product is mixed with camphor and various pigments to produce the desired color, and the materials are thoroughly incorporated by means of heated rolls. It is subsequently submitted to great pressure. It is afterward molded into form by means of heated dies under pressure. It is very hard and elastic and takes a high finish.

Impossible.

Mr. Wickwire—What ridiculous, impossible things these fashion plates are!
Mrs. Wickwire—I know they used to be, but most of them are reproduced from photographs nowadays.
Mr. Wickwire—This one can't be, I'm quite certain. Here are two women going in opposite directions, both with brand new dresses on, and neither is looking back at the other.—Exchange.

SIGN OF A BEATEN MAN.

Runner Who Looks Behind Almost Sure to Lose the Race.

"There are many more good distance runners now than in my days," said an old time champion after watching a three mile scratch race at the New York Athletic club games. "But the habits of the runners have not changed any, for I noticed one little trick in the race that bore the significance that used to attach to it."

"To the casual onlooker there was nothing to choose between the two leaders when they were beginning the last quarter of a mile. Right from the crack of the pistol they were running almost stride for stride with the low, graceful, easy action of the real long distance runner."

"Neither had called into use the reserve power which must be utilized in the final sprint for victory when they turned into the stretch for the final lap. Then one of them slightly turned his head to see where the third man was."

"That man is beaten," was the thought which occurred to me at once, and it proved true, as always, for when the dash for the finish began he allowed his rival to get a lead of five yards before going after him in earnest pursuit."

"From that point to the finish there was no perceptible difference in the speed of the men, but the man who had turned his head to make sure that he would get second place, instead of bending every energy to win, of course tended where his thoughts placed him."—New York Sun.

The Gun Barrels Grow.

In the early days in the northwest, when the Hudson Bay company laid the foundations of great fortunes by trade with the savages and a gun paid for as many beaver skins as would reach to the muzzle of it, the skins packed flat and the gun held upright, it was alleged that the barrel of the weapon grew and grew with each successive year until the Indian, after he had bought it with the peltry, had to borrow a file and cut off a foot of useless metal.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demerit bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gourmandizing upon it, 'till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey?

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

A CLERK'S BLUNDER.

Its Effect Upon the Fortunes of Our Revolutionary War.

The element of chance as exemplified in the blunder of a copyist had an important bearing on the result of our war for independence. As is well known, the crisis of the military between Great Britain and the revolting colonies was reached when General Burgoyne's campaign was planned in London. The object was to strike a tremendous blow at the center of the Revolution. The British forces were to take possession of the Mohawk and Hudson valleys by a concentric march from Lake Champlain, Oswego and New York on converging lines toward Albany. The ascent of the Hudson by Sir William Howe's army was essential to the success of a scheme by which New England was to be cut off as by a wedge from the southern colonies.

Orders were sent out from London for the advance of Burgoyne's and St. Leger's forces from Canada. At first Sir William Howe was merely informed of the plan and was armed with discretionary powers, but finally a dispatch was drafted positively ordering him to co-operate in the movement from New York.

A British clerk made a hasty and very careless copy of the dispatch, which the minister, Lord George Germaine, found great difficulty in reading. He angrily reprimanded the culprit and ordered a fresh copy to be made without flaw or erasure. Being pressed for time and anxious for a holiday, Lord George posted off to the country without waiting for the fresh copy.

The military order was laboriously copied in the clerk's best hand, but when it was finished the minister was not there to sign it. It was pigeon-holed and overlooked when he returned and was not sent to America until long afterward. Howe, being left with full discretion, allowed himself to be drawn into military operations against Washington's army near Philadelphia. Burgoyne's army was entrapped, cut off from retreat and forced to surrender at Saratoga.

Thus the fortunes of the Revolutionary war turned upon the carelessness of a British clerk.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SOAP BUBBLES.

How Some Pretty and Marvelous Effects May Be Produced.

There are degrees of skill in all pastimes, but one would hardly think that there were specialists in the art of blowing soap bubbles. An article in the Windsor Magazine by Meredith Nugent, however, shows that some very pretty and marvelous effects may be obtained by the exercise of care and patience with soap and water.

The first step is to make a solution by rubbing pure white castile soap into a bowl partly filled with water until a lather has been formed. Then remove every particle of lather, dip a clay pipe into the cleared solution and start to blow a bubble.

If you can blow one six inches in diameter so that it will hang suspended from the pipe and will allow your forefinger covered with the solution to be pushed through into the bubble without breaking, then the mixture is ready for use.

Six bubbles may be blown, one inside the other. This is performed by dipping the end of a straw in the soapy water and after resting the wet end upon an inverted plate or sheet of glass, which should have been previously wet with the solution, blow a bubble six inches in diameter.

Then dip the straw into the solution again, carefully thrust it through into the center of this first bubble and blow another. Continue in this manner until all the bubbles are in position. Great care must be taken that the straw is thoroughly wet with solution for fully half its length before each bubble is blown. With practice ten or twelve bubbles may be placed inside of one another.

No Tears Nor Hills.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clergymen bearing the name of Tears came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment. The parson said: "Goodby, my lord. I hope we may meet again, but if not here in some better place."

The bishop replied: "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the plains of paradise, but never of any Hills there."—London Queen.

Australian Bushmen.

Although the bushmen of Australia are the very lowest in the scale of ignorance, they possess a rare instinct that equals that of many animals and is in its way as wonderful as man's reason. It is almost impossible for them to be lost. Even if they be led away from their home blindfolded for miles, when released they will unerringly turn in the right direction and make their way to their nest homes, and, though these are all very similar, they never make a mistake.

Fool and Sage.

The fool and his money are parted, not long did they stay in cahoots, but the fool is the cheeriest hearted and gladdest of human galeots. His neighbor is better and wiser, six figures might tell what he's worth, but, oh, how folks wish the old miser would fall off the edge of the earth!—Emporia Gazette.

Nothing preaches better than the ant, and she says nothing.—Franklin.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

The Fat Man Who Was a Model of Patience and Perseverance. Persistence in undertaking is a laudable virtue, but it can be a bit overdone sometimes, as in a case described by Y. L. Molloy in "Our Autumn Holiday on French Rivers." Mr. Molloy and his friends, longing for a good dive, went to a swimming school on an island in the Seine. They donned their rented costumes and were preparing for the plunge when a man with ropes came along and insisted on tying them about their waists. It was according to police regulations, and, although they made an indignant protest, they were obliged to submit.

While we were dressing, says Mr. Molloy, we asked the two swimming masters for an extra towel. "Pardon," they replied, "we must attend to our monsieur." Then we saw that there had come upon the platform a short and absurdly fat man dressed in bathing costume, swimming sandals and a billed cap. "Let's see him go in," said we. "What a splash he'll make!" The swimming masters received the new arrival at the middle of the platform. There he balanced himself on his stomach on a wooden stump two feet high. The masters seized him by his hands and feet and with slow and deliberate movements made him strike out with the action of swimming. They kept this up for a quarter of an hour, and the perspiration rolled off him in great drops. "He'll be awfully hot to go into the water after that," said I. But he did not go into the water. The swimming lesson over, he moved toward the dressing room, saying: "I have done better today." "Ah, yes," answered one of the masters. "Your progress is admirable." The fat man beamed with complacency and went in to dress. I called the swimming masters aside. "Does 'our monsieur' practice often like that? He must have great perseverance." "Perseverance! He has worked like this for five years, and he has never been in the water!"

Spring Cleaning, Spring Cleaning
The prevailing rage now, in domestic life, is Spring Cleaning. While you are at that, get out your spring dresses, suits, etc., and have them cleaned up-to-date and ready to wear. Also have your winter clothes cleaned and treated with my special chemical solution to prevent moth eating, and pack them away until winter. RIGHT NOW IS THE TIME.
Yours to please,
