PROFESSIONAL NURSING.

Is Hard Work—Its Duties and Requirements are Very Enacting.

The young woman who wishes to take a nurse's training should first be sure that she does wish it, says Minnie Goodnow in July DESIGNER: This seeming paradox is a necessary bit of advice. Probably the day has passed when girls think that nursing consists of "soothing the fevered brow," fanning a handsome man or feeding jellies to an appreciative woman; yet none the less, the girl who aspires to the appellation of graduate nurse should sit down and hold a reckoning with herself. Can she face hard work, a certain amount of drudgery, military discipline and constant contact with a class of people who are not her own and whom she may even dislike? Blest be she if as she does this she answers, "Others have done it. Why not I?" As a matter of fact, few sensible girls who are firmly persuaded that they wish to be nurses fail; yet it is always wise to count the cost.

The decision arrived at, the question comes, "What are the requirements for entering such a training?" The answer is briefly this,—good health, good education and proper age.

Good health does not mean that one must be unusually strong nor remarkably robust. One should be free from any serious hereditary disease, notably lung trouble; and be quite sure that there is no pelvic trouble. These two being non-existent, one needs only what is known as "ordinary good health." The regularity of hospital life is frequently of much value physically, and I have known many a nurse to come out of her training in much better health than when she entered.

In the matter of education, the standards of different hospitals vary. All require a common-school education, as it is practically impossible to take up a nurse's studies without it. A knowledge of Latin and chemistry desirable, and if one has not had them it makes her task more difficult. The better hospitals are now insisting upon a high school diploma or its equivalent; and an attempt is being made in several places to attract college-bred woman to this field of work. In any case, the best educated woman stands the best show for acceptance.

New reels are put on every night at the Dixie Theatre unless by special request one of the previous night's program is shown; and then it is shown extra making in all three reels.

Convenient Schedules.

A business man remarked to The Reflector that Greenville's many passenger trains and the convenient schedules on which they run is almost as good as if Pitt county had a trolley car system. You can run out to almost any town in the county transact business and get back within an hour or two of the time you left home. Both the Norfolk and Southern and Atlantic Coast Line are giving us fine schedules.

Tobacco Planters' Organization.

In the fall of 1904, there was formed at Guthrie, Kentucky, an organization of planters who raise practically all the dark tobacco grown in the world. Their products are shipped to all the chief markets of Europe, but despite the fact that they had almost a monopoly, they were procuring for their tobacco less than the cost of production. They agreed to pool their crops until they could procure a price that would give them a living profit. Today this tobacco is selling at an advance of 100 per cent. About the same time the growers of the Burley District, of central and eastern Kentucky combined under the banner of the Society of Equity, and today burley tobacco is 50 per cent higher than it was four years ago. The Henderson Stemming and the Green River Districts likewise organized and in both of these districts practically the entire crop has been sold at a price entirely satisfactory to the farmers. The American Tobacco Company, with its one head controlling many branches, has taught the growers the lesson of organization. The trust maintains that the increase in price is due to the operation of the law of supply and demand, but the growers declare the pool has regulated this law. Realizing, however, that even this law works in a mysterious way, its wonders to perform, especially when a monopoly is at the business end of the works, the growers, particularly those of the Burley District, are taking no chances, and as a result hundreds of them in the richest portion of Kentucky, representing nearly 100,000 acres out of an estimated 150,000, agreed not to raise any tobacco in 1908.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., June 19, 1908.

Miss Mattie Hardee, of Ormondsville, is visiting Miss Junie Turnage.

Mrs. Ferebee, of Camden county, is here visiting the family of Capt. D. G. Berry.

Mrs. Ed. Mumford, after spending sometime with relatives in and around Ayden, left Tuesday for her home at Morganton. Her husband, also who had been here on a visit, returned home several days ago.

Ola Forbes, of Greenville, was here one day during the week.

A gentleman criticizing another the other day told he had made a mistake in voting for Kitchin, that he ought to get on the big side. The other replied that from the best information he could get, it did not always prove so, and as one instance he would refer him to the Good Book, which plainly intimates the big side are going to hell and he would ask to be excused, on that occasion at least.

Miss Fannie Mosely, of Kinston, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. J. R. Turnage.

Mrs. R. H. Garris, from the country, has been spending the week with her daughter here, Mrs. W. E. Hooks, who has been quite sick for some time.

On the evening of June 17th the young gentlemen and ladies of Ayden, gave an entertainment in the opera house entitled "Forbidding the Bans." The rendition of this play by our home talent was not only excellent but a more delighted audience has not been seen in Ayden in a long time. Every character was well placed, all thoroughly knew their part and every turn and act showed a thorough knowledge and appreciation of their purpose. To specially select one from the number as the leading star, where each and all did so well, would be a task so difficult we would never make the effort. Surely though we believe, all will pardon us in saying Miss Rosa Bland got there as "Dinah," every time. She never failed to catch the house and the pleasure it manifested proved soothing to rheumatics. To make special mention of Miss Jessie Hodges whose performance in front of the foot lights was just charming, we know we will be pardoned. Her singing and acting was superb and never failed to win an encore. The entire play was a perfect success and we challenge any city, town or hamlet to produce from home talent anything near so good. The receipts were between $35 and $40. The entertainment was for the benefit of the band.

G. F. DeBilis, of Chicago, has accepted a position in the barber shop of J. N. Alexander.

Indictments Against Owners of Distillery.

Richmond, Va., June 17.—Indictments were returned by the Federal grand jury to-day against Fred Cox and David E. Carter, former owners of the Fair Oaks Distillery, in this county, charging intent to defraud the government of the tax on distilled spirits. It is stated in the indictments that the government was swindled out of the tax on about 135,000 gallons amounting to approximately $150,000.—Charlotte Observer.

The crowds continue to be large every night at the Dixie Theatre.

There will be choir practice at Jarvis Memorial church at 8 o'clock. All the members should be present.

It does not cost anything to look on the outside of those water-melons down the street, but to get inside of one will make you whistle.

This kind of temperature will cause many people to take advantage of the special N. & S. train to spend Sunday at Morehead or Beaufort.

A gentleman from South Carolina came in today and had a shipment of several crates of peaches to come by express on the same train. It took only a short while to sell all he had.

Of Interest to Land Owners.

The department of agriculture is preparing to issue a pamphlet of all farms for sale in North Carolina, the pamphlet to be distributed in the North and West. Secretary Carr wishes all persons with farms for sale to send in a description of the same so that the department can give prospective buyers a definite idea of what they are to get. Cuts illustrative of the farms will be appreciated and there will be no charge for thus advertising the lands. The literature will be distributed throughout the North and West, and it is hoped that a fine class of farmers, many of them native Americans, may be induced to buy homes in this State.

Sherman Gets Second Place.

A bulletin from Chicago about noon today says that the convention nominated Congressman Sherman, of New York, for vice president on the first ballot. So the ticket is Taft and Sherman.

You want to look at that large ad of F. V. Johnston on third page. And if you visit his new feed store into which he recently moved you will be convinced that he can do as he advertises.

The Dixie Theatre is certainly a treat to the little folks.

FRIDAY, JUNE 19, 1908.

No doubt the president is de-lighted.

Now the thing to do is turn the trick and beat Taft.

If the Democrats had not told so much on each other there would be less danger.

It matters not who gets it at the convention, there will be somebody on hand to say "I told you so."

They all had a speech made for them in the Chicago convention, but Taft got the nomination on first ballot.

It is noticeable that what bragging they do now is not with so much gusto. Fact is they all feel pretty much at sea.

If the census of Charlotte could be taken next Wednesday that city would certainly be ahead of all Greensboro's directory makers.

Of course they knew just what they were going to do in Chicago, but they took a long time about it to let the other fellows feel good a little and to give the hotels a chance.

A lady pushed herself into prominence in the Republican national convention at Chicago by getting in front of one of the delegations and singing a song or two. The mention the dis-patches made of her was that she was a lady gowned in white and wearing a merry widow hat. That was some notoriety.

The Pitt county friends of Charlie "Cotton" Moore are pleased at his fine prospect of being nominated at the State convention for commissioner of agriculture. Mr. Moore has done a great deal for the farmers of the State and they feel that he should have this office for which he is so well qualified, and it is gratifying that expressions favorable to him have come from so many counties. The farmers of the State will certainly be pleased if the convention nominates him.

Those ninety-three new doctors just licensed in the State means that many more trying to make a living in an all ready crowded profession. The best equipped and most ambitious ones will succeed, but the majority will find up-hill business building up a practice will support them. The same thing can be said as to the army of new lawyers that are turned out every year. We are not saying this to discourage any who desire to enter crowded professions, but it looks like the State has many more business avocations that hold profitable inducements. We believe good, intelligent farming is best of all, and that is one industry that is not over crowded.

THE TARANTULA.

An Abstemious Creature That Has Been Much Maligned.

The great tarantula of the south-western part of the United States, like many another poisonous creature as well as some that are quite harmless, is much maligned. It is not aggressive upon man, nor is it often intrusive, though many an old miner or prospector has "shaken them out of his blankets or boots in the morning." Strange to say, tarantulas thus dislodged are usually "the size of a saucer."

It is often stated that the spider frisks about in the sunshine on the hot sands of the desert, but in reality it avoids sunshine when it is hot and remains well down in its burrow in the ground. About sundown it comes up to the opening and lies in wait just below the surface. It assumes this position whether it desires food or wishes only to get a bit of fresh air. It does not travel about in quest of food even when hungry, but remains quietly in the attitude described, often for hours at a time. At the near approach of a caterpillar, grasshopper, beetle or almost any creature of like size other than its enemy, the wasp, it rushes out and seizes it, but rarely goes farther than a few inches from the opening.

Should the prey when first arrested simulate death, which often is the case, since usually it is not at once wounded, the spider, unless it is very hungry, remains quiet until the insect moves, when the needle pointed fangs are thrust into it. By pausing it learns the nature of the object seized. The spider then retreats with it into its burrow to feast, where the prey is ground up by the powerful mandibles and the liquid portion, upon which the spider subsists, is sucked out. One fair sized insect a week is sufficient to satisfy its hunger because of its inactive existence, while it can live several months without food, even when most active, provided it has water. The spider will fight and destroy its own kind, but when equally matched the combatants spar for an advantage and rarely clinch unless one relinquishes its vigilance, when the other buries its fangs in it. It does not relinquish its hold until the helpless captive dies of paralysis, induced by the poison injected. Death results in ten or twenty minutes. There are approximately seven or eight females to each male. The adult males are highly energetic and, unlike their phlegmatic mates, cannot be kept long in confinement. They wear themselves out in ceaseless endeavor to escape. This striking degree of activity is an essential attribute, since the females live often remote from one another and take no initiative in the courtship. — Scientific American.

General Grant's Reserve.

Seeing General Grant so frequently, I had reasonable opportunity for studying his moods and becoming acquainted with his views on many subjects. The topics were for the most part introduced by himself, and there was a freedom in their discussion that was in strange contrast with his general reputation for studied reserve. His insight into character and motive was the outgrowth of long and varied experience with men and circumstances and was always edifying to the listener. In recognizing fully the hopelessness of his physical ailment and that the mortal issue was a mere question of time there was a sad sincerity in his reflections that allowed no doubt of their weight and accuracy. At times he appeared to talk for posterity, that he might leave behind him some testimony that would be suggestive or useful to others.—Dr. Shradly in Century.

The Declaration of Independence. The committee appointed June 11, 1776, to draft the proposed Declaration of Independence consisted of the following members: Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston. Lee, the mover of the resolution for independence, being called home before the appointment of the committee, Jefferson was put in his place, and it therefore fell to him to draft the Declaration. The document prepared by Jefferson was freely discussed in committee, and general verbal changes were made, but in substance the famous paper is today just as it was when handed in by Jefferson.—New York American.

An Economical Cook. A Chinaman will bake a dinner for a dozen with a mere handful of fuel. The boiler he uses is large and coffee shaped, being sometimes two feet in diameter and one foot deep. It covers the fire with merely a small portion of the lower part of the case, but the heat and flames infold the rest. Water and rice are put at the bottom, with a frame over them, and on this are placed dishes of fish, fowl and vegetables to boil. The whole is covered with a wooden cover, in the center of which is a hole about four inches in diameter, and in this another dish is often placed, the contents of which are cooked by the steam.

Making It Clear. Lovely Daughter—Pa, Mr. Niccelfo proposed to me last night, and I referred him to you.

Pa—Well, I really don't know much about the young man, and I'll have to—
Daughter—When he calls to see you about it you are to receive him kindly—real fatherly, remember—and help him along all you can until he asks for my hand, and then you are to look alarmed and talk about what an angel I am and how many millionaires and dukes and princes I've refused, and then you are to reluctantly consent and give him your blessing.

"Oh, I am, am I? But suppose I don't. Then what?"
"I shall marry him just the same."

Fixing His Status. A waiter spilled some soup on the clothing of a portly, choleric old gentleman dining with his wife in an up-town lobster palace the other night, whereupon the old gentleman jumped to his feet and, calling the manager, burst into a tirade which ended with the somewhat anticlimactic charge that the waiter was "no gentleman."
"This man is not supposed to be a gentleman," said the manager coldly. "He is merely a waiter."

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demdition bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gormandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey!

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

Delicious Banana Cream.

This recipe is highly recommended by one of our correspondents; try it for dessert tomorrow.

Pee five large bananas, rub smooth with five teaspoons of sugar. Add one teaspoon sweet cream beaten to a stiff froth, then add one 10c package of L. M. J. E. L. O dissolved in 1-2 tea cups boiling water. Pour into mold when cold garnish with candied cherries. Serve with whipped cream, or any good pudding sauce. JELL-O is sold by all Grocers at 10c per package.

THE FREAKISH WIND.

Pranks It Has Played With Smoke, Dust and Grain.

During a volcanic eruption in the Hawaiian Islands the smoke rose to a height of between five and six miles and then drifted away to the northeast. At a distance of 600 miles it settled on the surface of the sea and was then carried back by the northeast wind to its place of origin, where it arrived a fortnight after its original departure and covered the entire group of islands with its heavy pall.

Not long ago a steamer was on her way along the north African coast from Asia to England and had entered the Galita channel between the island of that name and the coast of Tunis when a fine dust began to darken the air and soon afterward to fall on deck. Some of this dust was collected and subjected to chemical analysis in Europe. Its constituents proved that it had been carried high in the air from the Sahara desert and had finally dropped into the Mediterranean.

More extraordinary still was a dust shower that fell in Hungary some years ago. Analysis showed that this dust was identical with the sediment of the Nile. The dust was believed to have been brought by the wind all the way from Egypt, a pretty long journey for a shower of that description to accomplish.

It must have been a high wind indeed that brought a shower of wheat on one occasion to the villagers in a place on the southern coast of Spain. The wheat fell like rain. There were so many witnesses of the occurrence that it was impossible to doubt that it had appeared. But for some months it could not be accounted for.

Then came the other side of the story. It was learned that shortly before this fall of wheat some farmers near the northern coast of Morocco had been thrashing wheat with flails when suddenly a tornado swept over the ground and carried all the wheat and chaff on the thrashing cloth into the air. The cloth was swept away by the storm, and the farmers fell to the ground, but were not injured. When the storm had passed they were horrified at discovering that the result of their labors had totally disappeared. There seemed little doubt that the wheat that fell in Spain was that which belonged to the Moroccan farmers. It had been blown clear across the Mediterranean.—Pittsburg Post.

His Defense.

How sweet is the innocence of childhood!

Tommy Jones, aged seven, and his mother were invited to tea by Mrs. Brinks. While the meal was being prepared Mrs. Jones wandered about the two yard square garden and admired the weeds.

Presently the absence of her cherished Tommy alarmed her, but shortly the truant reappeared contentedly munching a huge slab of cake.

In her relief, as is usual, Mrs. Jones began to upbraid the lad.

"Thomas," she said, "I'm afraid you've been greedy and asked kind Mrs. Brinks for that cake."

But the boy faced her fearlessly. "Oh, no, mother," he replied, "I wouldn't be so rude! I waited till she turned her back; then I snatched a piece!"—London Mail.

Water as a Headache Cure.

"The best cure I know of for a headache is to wash your face," said a bright looking man. "Yes, I believe suddenly to cleanse your face with cold water will open up the pores and probably start the blood in circulation, and I know it will relieve you of a headache in a jiffy. I have tried it myself a great many times and have always been successful. There is something in the nature of a stimulant in the cold water treatment that braces me right up. My head when it aches gets hot and throbs, and the water makes it cool and fresh."—Philadelphia Record.

Gothland.

In the Baltic sea, forty miles from the mainland, lies the Swedish island Gothland, a Mecca for students of early Gothic architecture. In Wisby alone, the chief town of the island, with its population of 8,000 souls, may be studied what remains of no less than ten churches, some of which date from the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The oldest of them is the Church of the Holy Ghost, completed about 1046.—Youth's Companion.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Rodrig, Ga. August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co.,
Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—
In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use Kodol occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.
May you live long and prosper.
Yours very truly,

The Gun Barrels Grew.

In the early days in the northwest when the Hudson Bay company laid the foundations of great fortunes by trade with the savages and a gun paid for as many beaver skins as would reach to the muzzle of it, the skins packed flat and the gun held upright, it was alleged that the barrel of the weapon grew and grew with each successive year until the Indian, after he had bought it with the peltry, had to borrow a file and cut off a foot of useless metal.

WHEN THE ICE BROKE.

Description of an Old Time Spectacle on the Hudson River.

The breaking of the ice on the Hudson river is described in "Memoirs of an American Lady" as a "sublime spectacle." A hundred and fifty years ago the whole population of Albany deemed it a sight well worth some effort to see. The first noise of the breaking ice, like a long, loud peal of thunder, sent every one hurrying to the riverside, and if it happened to be an early morning hour there was a grotesque assemblage.

No one who had a nightcap on waited to put it off. As for waiting for one's cloak, it was a thing-out of the question. You caught the thing next to you that you could wrap around you—and ran. On the way you saw every door left open and pails and baskets without number set down in the street. People never dreamed of being obeyed by their slaves until the ice was past.

The houses were left quite empty. The meanest slave, the youngest child, were to be found on the shore.

When arrived at the show place the multitude, with their eyes all bent one way, stood immovable and silent as death until the tumult ceased and the mighty commotion ended. Then every one tried to give vent to the vast conceptions with which his mind had been distended.

The swelling of the waters under the ice, increased by rivulets, enlarged by melting snows, led to the general bursting of this mighty mass of ice. Conceive a solid mass from six to eight feet thick bursting for many miles in one continued rupture, produced by a force inconceivably great and in a manner inexpressibly sudden.

Thunder is no adequate image of this awful explosion. The islands and lowlands were all flooded in an instant by an impetuous torrent, bearing down, with incredible and tumultuous rage, immense shoals of ice, which, jammed together in some places, in others erecting themselves in gigantic heights for an instant in the air, seemed to combat with their fellow giants and, falling together with an inconceivable crash, formed a picture animated and various beyond conception.

TIME TO ACT

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness Profit Greenville People's Experience.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swelling below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Greenville prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. J. S. Stokes, cor. Twelfth and Evans Sts., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered severely from kidney complaint. The kidneys were very irregular in action and at times caused me great annoyance. I had bearing down pains through my abdomen and sharp shooting twinges through my loins causing me untold misery. There was a tender spot across my kidney regions and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was so much impressed that I procured them at Wooten's drug store. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and limbs, restored the secretions to a regular and normal condition and at present I am feeling a great deal better in every way. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for the great improvement in my condition."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Spring Cleaning, Spring Cleaning
The prevailing rage now, in domestic life, is Spring Cleaning. While you are at that, get out your spring dresses, suits, etc., and have them cleaned up-to-date and ready to wear. Also have your winter clothes cleaned and treated with my special chemical solution to prevent moth eating, and pack them away until winter. RIGHT NOW IS THE TIME. Yours to please, FRANK HOPKINS Ladies and Gents Tailor 409 4th St., opposite marble yard Phone 61.
