RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORY OF

Dr. W. H. Bagwell, Adopted by the Trustees, Greenville Graded School.

Whereas, God in His Divine Providence, has seen fit to call from our midst, Dr. W. H. Bagwell, a member of the board of trustees of Greenville graded school;

Therefore be it resolved, by the board of trustees of Greenville graded school, that in the death of Dr. W. H. Bagwell, this board has lost a faithful, earnest and zealous member, who had close at heart the best interest of the school and community.

Be it further resolved, that in memory of Dr. W. H. Bagwell, this board cause a copy of these resolutions to be recorded on the minutes of the board of trustees, that a copy be forwarded to the family of the deceased, and a copy be given for publication.

Done at the regular annual meeting of the board of trustees, this the 2nd, day of July 1908.

D. S. Spain,
W. L. Brown,
R. L. Carr,
Committee.

Who Can Beat this Cow.

The editor has a cow that he believes would be an easy winner in a bovine anti-race suicide contest. She is not only a fine milk and butter cow, but an extra prolific calf producer as well. Six calves inside of three years is her record.

As a Fourth of July offering in 1905 she had twins. In 1906 and 1907 normal conditions prevailed—one calf for each year and again last week she had twins, making the remarkable record of six calves within three years to her credit. Who has a cow that can beat this?

It is not unusual for a cow to have twin calves although such occurrences are not very frequent, but we do not recall another instance where the same cow has had twins a second time. —Henderson Gold Leaf.

Compliment to Greenville Man.

The Charlotte Chronicle paid the following compliment to our townsman, Dr. D. L. James, who was president of the State dental meeting in that city last week:

The presiding officer, Dr. D. L. James, of Greenville, is a man of magnetic personality and pleasingness. He was delightfully at ease in the chair and lent a sort of easeful charm to the initial gathering of his associates and their friends who were privileged to be present. Dr. James has presence, voice and the touch of command that gave to him his high place before the State society."

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Adopted by Witalacoochee Tribe No. 35 I. O. R. M.

Whereas, it has pleased the Great Spirit to take the soul of Mrs. Sallie Greene, mother of our worthy brother, W. B. Greene, out of this sinful world to his own keeping. Be it resolved,

1st. That we extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to Brother Greene in this sad hour.

2. That we commend him to the keeping of the great spirit, who doeth all things well.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes and a copy be sent to Brother Greene, and a copy sent to the Daily Reflector for publication. Respectfully submitted,

D. C. Moore,
J. W. Brown,
W. L. Patrick,
Committee.

Ready for the Dollar.

Marjorie, aged nine, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said, "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone, Marjorie said, "Mama, am I very ill?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over a hundred, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears.

"Now, mama, I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get a hundred in anything."—The August Delineator.

Don't Run Down Your Town, Move Out.

Never run down your own town. If you can't say anything good about it the best thing to do is to say nothing. You can't expect to induce people with pockets full of money seeking investment for the same to move to your town if you spread broadcast the statement that business is dead, people moving away and more houses are becoming vacant. That is no way to induce manufacturers to establish industrial plants in your midst. —Wilmington Star.

Chamber of Commerce Tonight.

Every business man in the community owes it to himself and to his town to give an hour's time tonight to the meeting of the chamber of commerce. The time of meeting is 8:30 o'clock and the place is the mayor's office.

Died.

A little child, aged about 18 months, of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hill, died Sunday afternoon at their home in South Greenville. The remains were taken to Kinston on the midday train for interment.

Will You Have Something to Drink.

To the pupil I'd like to state That Harper's is right up-to-date Cigars, cigarettes of every kind. That are satisfying to every mind.

If it's something for your nerve Then go to Harper's and let him serve Ice cream, egg drinks, or a milk-shake, Or any other drink you would take.

If it's something for headache you need, Hasten to Harper's with great speed And get from him the best that's made A coca-cola, pepsi-cola or limeade.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Adopted by Witalacoochee Tribe No. 35 I. O. R. M.

Whereas, the Great Spirit, has seen fit in his all wise providence, to take the wife of Brother Heber Barber. Be it resolved,

1st. That the members of Witalacoochee Tribe extend to Brother Heber Barber their heart felt sympathy, in his sad loss.

2nd. We direct Brother Barber to look to him, who alone can comfort him, as he does all things for the best.

3rd. That a copy of these resolutions, be spared in the records, a copy sent to Brother Barber and a copy sent to the Daily Reflector, with request to publish.

A Newsy Letter.

A wholesome scorn of physical ills is a good thing, according to the philosophy of a boy in the State School for Dependent Children, who wrote his father thus:

"Dear Papa; We children are having a good time here now. Mr. Sager broke his leg and can't work. We went on a picnic and it rained and we all got wet. Many children here are sick with mumps. Mr. Higgins fell off the wagon and broke his rib, but he can work a little. The man that is digging the deep well whipped us boys with a buggy whip, because we threw sand in his machine, and made black and blue marks on us. Ernest cut his finger badly. We are all very happy."—The August Delineator.

It Pays to Waste a Little Time.

No one should use his daily supply of energy so lavishly that when there comes some extraordinary demand on his endurance he is not able to meet it, says the August Designer.

A man of muscle will not remain a man of muscle if he misuses his strength or neglects to store it up. We all need seasons of repose and the restoration of the powers that come through sleep. Working all day and dancing half the night, the life of many modern young people, saps the vital stamina and leaves no margin of strength to fall back on when one is attacked by ill health. To work and work to the point of exhaustion is poor policy. No matter how worthy the work may be.

One must really waste a little time each day.

New Rector.

Rev. F. B. Huske, the new rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, delivered his first sermons here Sunday morning and night. The congregation and people are delighted with him. Mr. Huske is a young man of handsome appearance and splendid address, and his sermons show careful study and thorough preparation. The church is fortunate in securing such a well equipped man for rector.

Large Crowds Go.

At the Norfolk & Southern station here Sunday morning 180 tickets were sold for Morehead and Beaufort. Many people take advantage of these every other-Sunday trains to spend a day at the seaside.

A list of those who went to Morehead Sunday would make a long string.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

The Fat Man Who Was a Model of Patience and Perseverance.

Persistence in undertaking is a laudable virtue, but it can be a bit overdone sometimes, as in a case described by Y. L. Molloy in "Our Autumn Holiday on French Rivers." Mr. Molloy and his friends, longing for a good dive, went to a swimming school on an island in the Seine. They donned their rented costumes and were preparing for the plunge when a man with ropes came along and insisted on tying them about their waists. It was according to police regulations, and, although they made an indignant protest, they were obliged to submit.

While we were dressing, says Mr. Molloy, we asked the two swimming masters for an extra towel.

"Pardon," they replied, "we must attend to our monsieur."

Then we saw that there had come upon the platform a short and absurdly fat man dressed in bathing costume, swimming sandals and billed cap.

"Let's see him go in," said we.

"What a splash he'll make!"

The swimming masters received the new arrival at the middle of the platform. There he balanced himself on his stomach on a wooden stump two feet high. The masters seized him by his hands and feet and with slow and deliberate movements made him strike out with the action of swimming. They kept this up for a quarter of an hour, and the perspiration rolled off him in great drops.

"He'll be awfully hot to go into the water after that," said I.

But he did not go into the water. The swimming lesson over, he moved toward the dressing room, saying:

"I have done better today."

"Ah, yes," answered one of the masters. "Your progress is admirable."

The fat man beamed with complaisance and went in to dress.

I called the swimming masters aside.

"Does your monsieur practice often like that? He must have great perseverance."

"Perseverance! He has worked like this for five years, and he has never been in the water!"

Doing as He Was Told.

It is not the plain or garden variety of husband alone who gives his wife "as much trouble as all the children." A very distinguished example figures in "Leaves From the Notebooks of Lady Dorothy Nevill."

He was a great scholar and had been a traveler in the far east, and one time, after he had become a lion in English society, he was invited to one of the great country houses in which England is so rich. The visit was to last three days. His wife carefully packed three spotless shirts in his traveling bag and bade him take particular care to put on one of them regularly every evening.

"I hope you did as I told you," were his wife's first words on his return.

"Of course I did, my dear," he said. "I put on a clean shirt every evening; so, with the one I started in, that makes four that I am wearing at the present moment."

His Glassy Eye.

Doctor—I diagnose all sickness from the patient's eyes. Now, your right eye tells me that your kidney is affected. Patient—Excuse me, doctor, but my right is a glass eye.—M. J. Magazine.

Simple.

Lawyer (at the theater on the first night)—I can't imagine how the piece can be drawn out into five acts. Author—Oh, that is very simple. In the first act you see, the hero gets into a lawsuit.

Queer Plants.

The searcher for curiosities among plants finds much to interest him in Kew gardens. There are primroses which blister the hand if stroked, leaves divided into two sections which snap together and imprison any insect which alights upon them, plants which live absolutely on air, without any root in the ground; walking plants, sleeping plants and plants which grow whiskers. And all these marvels can be seen by any visitor for nothing. —London Graphic.

Excursion to Raleigh.

The Memorial Baptist Sunday school will have an excursion to Raleigh on the Norfolk & Southern railroad next week, probably the 15th. It is going to be a fine trip, and all who can do so should go.

If it is as warm in Denver as here, the convention will have a hot time.

We can't see that Mr. Bryan needs to quit because Mr. Rider asked him to do so.

Perhaps Greenberry can get more than two votes after she gets her auditorium up.

Charlotte captured the Republican State convention, too, and the date for it is August 26th.

The Asheville visitor who was robbed of about $10,000 did not seem to mind carrying a wad with him.

With twenty-six candidates for vice-president before the Denver convention, there is no danger of the nomination going begging.

Joel Chandler Harris, the famous "Uncle Remus" in the literary world, is dead. He passed away at his home near Atlanta Friday night. He was among the foremost authors of the land and his writings were a source of pleasure to millions of readers. His death is a distinct loss to the South.

William seems to be a popular name for presidential timber. William Taft got the Republican nomination and William Bryan is going to get the Democratic nomination. Among those being mentioned for second place on the latter ticket is another William—ex-Gov. Douglass, of Massachusetts, known the world over as the shoe man.

Raleigh held the State convention for a great while—too long, in fact—then it switched off to Greensboro, and the last time Charlotte got a turn at it. Next time we say let Asheville have it, that is rotate it about so as to give the delegates a chance to learn something about the whole State. Many who were in Charlotte would never have known in reality what a fine town it is but for the convention. Some of these days we are going to move to bring it to Greenville.

RANDOM REFLECTIONS.

(By Contributor.)

Commander Perry is quoted as being "as confident as ever" that he will reach the north pole. So is Mr. Tom Watson "as confident as ever" that he will be elected president, no doubt.

It is said that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is to find employment with the United States Steel Corporation this summer—which is further proof, say the market gossips, that the big trust is playing politics more than ever.

Now that the political excitement is at least partly over, let us get down to the more serious side of life and inquire once more into the standing of the league teams.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. ## RUNNING AWAY FROM HOME.

The Gray Haired Man Remembers a Boy Who Tried It Years Ago.

"Whenever I read in the newspapers that a boy has run away from home to fight Indians or seek some other sort of adventure, it takes me back forty years," said the gray haired man in the club smoking room, "for I ran away from home once, just as I suppose every other youngster does, once at east, only in my case I wasn't seeking adventure. I was escaping tyranny."

"It seems foolish now, but it was all very real to me then. The tyranny consisted of the one fact that I got my first licking, and I guess there's no doubt that I deserved it. But I couldn't see it that way then. I was very bitter, and the one idea I had was to get away where life was free and tyrants were not."

"The impulse to depart on my travels was carried out so suddenly that I found myself wandering far away from the house before it dawned on me that I was ill provided for a journey. In fact, I had gone just as I was, with the smart of my physical as well as my mental wrongs still acute."

"As I went I pondered over the matter of provisions, and the idea came to me that I would make my first stand in a cranberry bog right on the farm. With this as a headquarters, I would make raids on neighboring orchards, and if worse came to worst I supposed the cranberries would support life."

"Well, I reached the cranberry bog presently and bivouacked. Here I should spend the first night under the friendly stars. I picked out a soft place for a bed and sat down to wait the coming of night."

"Now, cranberries are not very filling, especially in the raw, green state, but I managed to eat some of them. And then it began to get dark."

"Well, sir, the shadows fell quickly on the hills about me, and the air grew chill. Fantastic monsters reared their horrid heads on every hand. The free life began to pall."

"So it won't surprise you to learn that a very little boy ran home crying before the supper things had been cleared away and that he never ran away again."—Washington Post.

The Shadow.

Being hissed by a public meeting of Athenians, the Greek orator Demosthenes quieted them by announcing that he had a short story to tell them. "A certain youth," he said, "hired an ass in summer time to go from here to Megera. About noon, when the sun was very hot, and both he that hired the ass and the owner were desirous of sitting in the shade of the ass, they each thrust the other away. The owner argued that he lent only the ass, but not the shadow. The hirer replied that, since he had hired the ass, all that belonged to the ass was his." Demosthenes turned as if to go away, but the mob called him back and begged him to proceed. He began with this retort, "How comes it to pass that you are desirous of hearing a story of the shadow of an ass and refuse to give ear to matters of greater moment?" The orator then made his speech, but he never told how the question was decided.

Quaint Rents.

It would fill a book to cite the half of the quaint rents by which estates fair and goodly were granted to certain families. The Duke of Atholl holds certain possessions conditionally on his supplying a white rose upon the sovereign visiting him. Queen Victoria and her consort visited him years ago, when roses did not bloom in the garden and dire was the difficulty in procuring a couple. Evidently they did not then know much about rose culture under glass. A trickler rent was that upon which the Munros of Foulis held their property. It was that a snowball should be presented upon any day of the year it was demanded. Happily for the owner, snow lies in the form of a glacier in the chasms of Ben Wyvis all the year round, and there seems no danger of forfeiture by failure of the quit rent.—Dundee Advertiser.

Proof Positive.

"Are you sure that occurrence was on the 17th of the month?" asked the lawyer in a tone which seemed to imply that certainty upon such a point was almost beyond the reach of the human intellect.

"Yes," said the undismayed youth who was being cross examined, "it was the 17th."

"Now, remember," continued the lawyer, with increasing solemnity, "remember, you are under oath. How do you know it was on the 17th?"

"Because the day before"—

"Be careful what you say, now. Go on."

"—because the day before was the 16th and the day after was the 18th."

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one.

Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building In the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled. Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many?

Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it.

Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

BARNUM'S OLD LION.

How the Great Showman Turned His Death to Account.

Among the features of the parades of the Barnum circus there was for many one that never failed to attract attention. On the top of one of the wild beast cages lay an enormous lion. He was not confined in any way, and nervous people watching the parade would shudder at the sight and contemplate the terrible possibility of the lion springing into the midst of the crowd.

But the venerable old king of beasts had reached the leonine dotage, and stiffened muscles and blunted claws rendered him harmless. He was as mild as a kitten and in the winter quarters, where he was allowed to roam at will, sometimes had to be protected from the onslaughts of irreverent and mischievous puppies.

One night he wandered from the quarters. In the course of his travels he chanced on a barn where a meek-eyed cow was placidly chewing her cud. A faint flicker of the slumbering jungle spirit stirred his pulse, and, with a crashing blow of the huge fore paw, the cow was slain; then, lying down beside his victim, he went to sleep and dreamed of the time when he was a shaggy little whelp playing with his brothers under the bright sun of his far-off African home.

In the morning the owner of the cow, a stalwart female with the blood of Irish kings in her veins, entered the barn with milk pail in hand. She was filled with wrath at the sight that met her gaze. With a keen edged ax in her hand and grim determination in her eye she fearlessly approached the sleeping lion, and when the men sent out to search for him arrived he lay cold in death. Barnum promptly paid for the dead cow and engaged to appear on exhibition "the woman who in mortal combat had slain a lion."

Two Gifts to the Orchestra.

On one occasion when Von Bulow had to conduct an orchestral concert at which a piece written by an aristocratic amateur was to be performed the composer requested permission to direct a rehearsal and on obtaining it opened a parcel containing seventy pencils, which he handed to the members of the band, asking them to mark his intentions in their parts, as he would give them by word of mouth.

Hans von Bulow noted this matter of detail and left the hall. Presently he returned, also with a parcel, and on resuming his place at the desk gravely handed out seventy pieces of india rubber, with which the players were to erase the directions which the composer had given them.

A Bare Possibility.

In his diary, which is incorporated in the "Life and Letters of Sir Richard Overhouse Jebb," the great Greek scholar recorded a flash of his own wit which is of a most appealing variety.

At a dinner at Cambridge Sir Richard, then Mr. Jebb, took in a young woman, who got through the first course with little conversation. Suddenly she startled him by saying in the most unprovoked way while she was still dining with apparent good appetite:

"Professor Jebb, do you think women ever die of a broken heart?"

"Perhaps other organs may have something to do with it," he professed in reply.

Books.

When I consider what some books have done for the world and what they are doing, how they keep up our hope, awaken new courage and faith, soothe the pain, give an ideal life to those whose homes are hard and cold, bind together distant ages and foreign lands, create new worlds of beauty, bring down truths from heaven, I give eternal blessings for this gift.—James Freeman Clarke.

A New One For Him.

"The climate here is salubrious, isn't it?" remarked the tourist. "Say, friend," replied the native. "Just write that there word down fur me, will yer? I git tired o' swearin' at this climate in the same old way. That's a new one."—Philadelphia Press.

Test of an Egg.

Some folks who were going on a picnic once got one raw egg mixed up with the cold boiled ones and did not know how to detect it without breaking them all.

A visitor was equal to the emergency. According to St. Nicholas, he took an egg between his fingers and his thumb; he twirled it on the table, and it spun like a top.

"That egg," said he, "has been boiled." Another was tried, with the same result, and then he found one that he could not make spin.

"That," said he, "is the raw egg." And so the puzzle was solved.

THE OFFICE RAILING.

Its Various Uses Set Forth by a Man Who Works Behind One.

"The office railing," said an office man, "is, to be sure, intended primarily to keep people out. It is a barrier at which people can be held up and made to wait if they are not wanted within, and many a man has stood there and waited and twiddled his thumbs and choked down his impatience waiting for somebody inside to tell him that he could come in or to send word to him that he was to go away, while all around within the men keep on at work serenely.

"But the office railing has another use besides that of keeping people out. It is a barrier the passing of which may easily be counted as an honor by those who are invited in.

"Let some customer come along by chance that way or to see the boss or some member of the firm, and does he have long to wait? Perhaps the member from his desk sees him as he comes along, and he's at the gate in a minute with hand outstretched and—

"Why, Mr. Stiggby! How are you? Come right in!"

"And he fairly drags him in, he's so glad to see him, and he sets him down in a comfortable chair by his desk, while he himself forgets his own work and sits back in his own chair and smiles in his pleasure at meeting Mr. Stiggby again, and then:

"How are things going in Mudville, Mr. Stiggby? How does the outlook strike you at the present minute generally through the west?" and so on and so on.

"And does this friendly reception and prompt admission to the owner's sanctum, this taking of him in behind the railing and asking his opinion of things, have a tendency to diminish the size of the bill of goods that Mr. Stiggby buys?"

"No." "Oh, various are the uses of the office railing!"—New York Sun.

Preached on His Knees.

The pulpit in the nave of Westminster abbey has a movable floor, which can be raised or lowered at pleasure to suit the height of the preacher. One day a very short man was expected to preach, and the pulpit floor was raised considerably. Being prevented by illness or some other cause, he was unable to fulfill his appointment and at the last moment a substitute had to be provided. The clergyman who obligingly undertook the office proved to be a man of lofty stature, of stature much above the average. On reaching the head of the pulpit staircase he saw, to his dismay, that the official in charge of the simple machinery had apparently not been informed of the change of preachers. The cleric was equal to the occasion. He scrambled in on his knees and in that uncomfortable posture preached the sermon. No one in the vast congregation noticed the unusual position of the preacher.—London Telegraph.

The Magic of Odd Numbers.

"Even in the matter of weighing groceries there seems a magic in odd numbers," said a housekeeper. "Most of the packages of salt, sugar, coffee and other commodities that grocers keep on hand to facilitate trade contain an odd number of pounds. If you are in a hurry and ask for a made up package of almost any kind of groceries, tradesmen can accommodate you with a one pound, three pound or a five pound package. But the chances are that if you want two pounds or four pounds of anything it will have to be weighed to order."—New York Times.

Tiger "Whiskers" as Poison.

In the recollections of a well known big game hunter in India it is stated that after skinning a tiger it is always necessary to guard its whiskers, as the natives have an unpleasant habit of cutting them up very small and mixing them with the curry of those they dislike. The finely divided bristles set up an irritant poison, the result of which often proves serious.—London Globe.

The Best Man.

"Why is it," asked the dear girl, "that the bridegroom's attendant is called the 'best man'?" "I suppose it's because he is the best off," growled the fussy old bachelor.—Kansas City Newsbook.

Considerate Censorship.

"Does your father know I love you?" "No. Papa isn't very well, and we've kept it from him."—Harper's Weekly.

The Wonderful Strong Room Under the Bank of England.

There is a close analogy between the struggle of the locksmith against the burglar and the contest between armor plate and big guns. Time after time has the locksmith exhausted his ingenuity in devising apparently impenetrable chambers, and again and again have the marvelous skill and patience of the burglar foiled his efforts.

A hundred years ago the Bank of England kept its cash and securities in a great oak box clamped with iron. From this the strong room of today, constructed of armor plate, has been gradually evolved.

If a mob overcame the guards and "watch clerks" at the Bank of England, they could not possibly penetrate into the vaults, for their passage would be blocked by large reservoirs of water. The strong room here is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick.

Above this concrete is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron. The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

Many years ago, when the strong room was less rigorously protected, the directors were startled one morning by a letter from a man who said he had been in the vault.

Some days later a heavy chest, which had been abstracted from the "treasury," was returned to the bank by the writer of the letter, who had gained entrance from the sewers. He was rewarded and given a pension for life.

In the safe deposit, which has become a necessary adjunct of modern life, are to be found the most modern developments in strong room construction. One of the largest in London, which cost $1,000,000, consists of thirty-two great vaults, whose doors have no locks and are worked by hydraulic power.

When the doors are closed the mechanism is disconnected, and any one attempting to connect it would release 50,000 gallons of water and flood the place from floor to ceiling, although the strong rooms would remain absolutely dry. Many and varied are the valuables stored in these treasure houses.

At another London depository the writer was shown a room which contained $150,000,000 worth of securities. The next contained a collection of rare books worth $10,000 each, and another held a collection of old china. In a fourth were paintings worth $500,000, and a fifth contained tapestries which could not be duplicated for $250,000.—London Telegraph.

Her Sublime Admiration.

"Oh, dear, will you look at it again?" sighed Mrs. Howard Newcome in an ecstasy of bliss. "Isn't it magnificent? Turn this way now. A side glance brings out the traditional beauty. I have never seen anything so perfectly exquisite. Dear, do come over here and look at it from this view. One would never believe that such a lovely thing existed in the world. The perspective is simply grand. How inspiring and noble! Here is another view from the right. Doesn't it show off even to better advantage? I am simply entranced with admiration."

What is Mrs. Newcome looking at?

Some masterpiece in a picture gallery?

No, indeed. It is an old kitchen chair she purchased at a second-hand store, which she thinks is a "genuine antique."—Bohemian Magazine.

A Dinner in Japan.

The usual dinner hours of the Japanese are 4, 6 and 7 o'clock. When the guests are seated on the mats two and sometimes three small, low, lacquered tables are brought to each. On that immediately in front of him the guest finds seven little bowls, with, near his left hand, rice, near his right hand fermented bean soup, the others containing "roast" fish, roast fowl, boiled meat, raw fish in vinegar and a stew of vegetables.—"Food and Cookery."

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily; when unwell they remove only a few grains. Some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms, pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys:

Mrs. T. S. Scrman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any remedy I ever used. Prior to using the pills I suffered severely from a dull aching through the small os my back. There was also a soreness about my kidney regions and I was hardly able to get around on account of the sharp darting pains through my loins. When arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and during the day had but little ambition or energy. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wootch's drug store, the backaches and pains have entirely disappeared, I do not suffer from headaches and that tired languid feeling has disappeared. My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been so satisfactory that I do not hesitate to give them my endorsement." M. S.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
