BRYAN NOMINATED ON 1ST BALLOT

HIS NOMINATION MADE UNANIMOUS.

After All Night Session Nomination is Made at 3.45 This Morning—Speech by I. J. Dunn, of Nebraska.

Denver, Col., July 10.—After practically an all night session of speech making and demonstration, William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, was at 3.45 o'clock this morning named as the Democratic nominee for president of the United States. Only one ballot was taken the result of that being Bryan 892½, Johnson 46, Gray 59½, not voting 8. Immediately there was a motion to make the nomination of Bryan unanimous, and this was adopted in a demonstration that was long in subsiding.

The speech placing Mr. Bryan in nomination was made by I. J. Dunn, of Nebraska, and the convention and galleries engaged in an hour of wildest demonstration when he mentioned the name of William Jennings Bryan.

Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina, made the first speech seconding the nomination of Bryan. His speech also brought out tumultuous applause.

As many other seconding speeches were to follow, when Governor Glenn had finished a motion was offered and adopted that all other seconding speeches be limited to five minutes.

W. S. Hammond, of Minnesota, presented the name of Governor Johnson, of that State, and L. I. Handy, of Delaware, presented the name of George Gray, of that State. Each of these received a demonstration, but it was small in comparison to that given the name of Bryan.

Notice to Subscribers.

Subscribers to The Daily Reflector are asked to bear in mind that the postal laws do not allow daily papers to be mailed longer than three months on credit. This law went into effect April 1st, so those who paid up to that time should now make another remittance. We hope all who are as much as three months in arrears will make a remittance promptly without waiting for a statement to be mailed them, and thus avoid the necessity of any names being dropped from the list. You all want to keep up with the news now, so do not let your subscription get far enough behind for your name to be dropped.

Coast Line Not Interested in Norfolk & Southern—Official Statement.

The Star has received the following from President T. M. Emerson, of the Atlantic Coast Line, which is published with pleasure as denying certain reports from Norfolk that the Atlantic Coast Line would probably take over the Norfolk & Southern Railway in case the present scheme of reorganization does not materialize:

Editor Star: Referring to article published in the Star of July 4th, in regard to the Norfolk and Southern R. R.

I am authorized by Mr. Walters to say that the statement published in Norfolk that he had purchased any Norfolk & Southern R. R. stock or any securities of any kind in connection with that road is untrue.

I would state further that the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company has no financial interest in the property and does not desire any.

T. M. EMERSON,
President of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company.—Wilmington Star.

Wanted—A Man Who Will Do The Washing.

The man I wish to marry, says a contributor to the August Designer, is one who would, if necessary, when washday comes, roll up his sleeves and bend his back over the washtub; who would be the first to turn out on cold winter mornings and build the fires; who would be ready to walk the floor at midnight with a colicky baby; who would spend many of his evenings at home with me instead of loafing around barrooms, street corners, or other places of amusement, talking clap-trap and politics; who does not indulge in intoxicants of any kind, who does not consider that he is IT. In short, I wish to marry a MAN. As to looks and age, while they count, nevertheless they are a minor consideration.

Snow Hill Wins From Farmville.

Farmville met her Jonah Wednesday when she was defeated on the Snow Hill grounds by the score 1 to 0. Whitley for Farmville and Holden for Snow Hill, were in fine trim and pitched a great game. The support given them was superb. Several times during the game Snow Hill succeeded in filling the bases, but was unable to score until the ninth inning. Holden was like a needle in a haystack and could not be found by the Farmvillians. He allowed only one hit. The game was by far the snappiest ever seen on Snow Hill grounds.

Baptist Sunday School Excursion.

The excursion of Memorial Baptist Sunday school to Raleigh will take place on Wednesday, July 22nd, over the Norfolk & Southern road. The train will leave Greenville at 7.30 a. m. reaching Raleigh at 11 a. m. and returning will leave Raleigh at 7 p. m., giving the excursionists eight hours to visit points of interest around the capital. The fare for the round trip will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children between the ages of 6 and 12 years. Everybody is invited to go with the Sunday school and enjoy this excursion.

If the rain swells the river much, as will likely be the case, there will be trouble getting across the ferry.

DOINGS OF TAR HEELS AT DENVER

How Our Delegates Changed Position at Denver.

Denver, Col., July 9.—When the North Carolina delegates met for organization Monday night, the following led by Senators Simmons and Overman, Col. Paul B. Means and John D. Bellamy made it impossible for General Julian S. Carr and Col. Falc Arendell, alternates present, to act for any of the eight absent delegates. These two gentlemen were thus denied the privilege of participating in the organization of the State delegation, and the result was that the active friends of Mr. Bryan failed to get the committee assignments, which by general understanding, should have gone to them.

Last night the North Carolina delegation had its first opportunity to vote in the convention and the action of Monday night was reversed. The occasion for this change of position on the part of the controlling element in the delegation came with the motion to unseat the Guffey delegation from Pennsylvania. General Julian S. Carr was permitted to vote as a delegate and Col. Falc Arendell was invited to cast a vote, but he declined to do so. There was no protest from any of the Simmons following as there was on Monday night, when the important committees were to be filled with delegates not wholly in sympathy with Mr. Bryan.

Col. Arendell refused to vote last night for the reason that he desires to keep his record clean. He takes the position that his vote Monday night would have permitted the Bryan men to organize the delegation, giving North Carolina prominence in party councils, here, and that having been denied a voice on that occasion, it is not now necessary for him to take part in the deliberations of the convention, since the friends of Mr. Bryan are in absolute control.

There were only twelve out of the twenty-four North Carolina delegates present when the vote was taken for the ousting of the Guffey delegation. Twenty-two votes were cast to throw out Guffey, and two against.

One of the two opposition votes was cast by Mr. Bellamy, who represented one-twelfth of the State's vote. Mr. Bellamy, who was a member of the credentials committee that considered the evidence in the Guffey case, announced early in the afternoon that he would vote to throw out the Guffeyites. There was much surprise on the part of the North Carolina delegation when Mr. Bellamy appeared on the platform at the night session and spoke in favor of seating the Guffeyites. Mr. Bellamy said he did not think the interests of any candidate before the convention were involved in the contest from Pennsylvania. He spoke for ten minutes.

The action of the North Carolina delegation in denying to alternates the right to act for absent delegates is in striking contrast with the action of other State delegates, who have even authorized Democrats other than alternates to vote and represent delegates. The delegates who voted Monday night to prevent General Carr and Col. Arendell from voting in the organization of the delegation follows: Senators Simmons and Overman, Col. Paul B. Means, John D. Bellamy, Sol. Gallert, E. F. Lovell, R. R. Ross, W. J. Coker. Those who voted to allow them to represent

CHILDREN SHOULD LEARN

Use of Money—Begin Teaching Them at an Early Age.

I believe in teaching children at an early age to financiers; or, you may term it, to use money properly, says a contributor to the August Designer. We have made it a practise for two years, to give our boy, who is now eight year old, a certain stipulated sum every week for his spending-money. We find he has become a splendid "banker." Out of this fund he is required to buy all his incidentals, such as tablets, colors and pencils. In two years he has managed to save six dollars, which he now has out on interest. Of course, we buy his shoes and clothes and pay his big expenses. It is certainly surprising how well he has learned to compute interest and to "count well the cost" before he spends money.

We are just now beginning with our little girl of five years. I must not forget to state, also, that we have successfully used this method for two years with an orphan girl of fourteen who is making her home with us. We send her to school and board her, of course, besides giving her fifty cents a week to use for any and all expenses she may have. Out of this she buys her shoes, clothing and hats. I do her sewing and, of course, we give the children an occasional present "to help them along."

FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1908.

An hour and a half is some hollering.

Bryan certainly came mighty near having all of them for him.

The convention had a prayer every day. No doubt it was needed.

This weather may put a temporary check on the big run at the seaside resorts.

It will not take much more of this weather to ruin all the fine crop prospects.

Everybody is going to vote for William, and William will certainly get elected.

Mr. Bryan certainly has cause to feel good over it. He is the biggest man in the country.

The recent hot spell caused many deaths in the cities. In New York 42 people died in one day from heat prostration.

William is such a popular name for nomination this year that even all the county candidates with that name are taking courage.

As long as Peary has not promised to bring the North Pole back with him, there is no need of worry about what to do with it in case he finds it.

Frank Hitchcock, of Massachusetts, has been made chairman of the Republican national committee and manager of Candidate Taft's campaign.

The national Socialist party has nominated for president a man who is serving a 25 year term in the penitentiary. If they could elect him, wonder how they would think of going about to get him in his seat.

The National convention at Denver must have taken the tip from North Carolina in holding all night conventions. It gave Mr. Bryan the unanimous nomination at 3.45 this (Friday) morning.

We hope nominating Mr. Bryan on Friday morning does not mean a "hoodoo" for the ticket. Possibly things are going to turn around and show that Friday is the luckiest day of the bunch.

The uproar at Ephesus in the days of the Apostle Paul was only a three hour demonstration to Diana. Present day political conventions are approaching it in rivalry and it will only take a few more efforts to go ahead of it.

The Bryan demonstration in the Denver convention was thirty-nine minutes longer than the Roosevelt demonstration in the Chicago convention, and that is something to crow about. We just out-hollered the other fellows. If we vote in the same proportion in November it will be all right.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CRAFTY TOM BYRNES.

How He Kept an Unseen Eye on a Newspaper Reporter.

When Thomas Byrnes was the celebrated police inspector of the New York detective force he occupied a queer suit of rooms in one corner of the old marble police headquarters in Mulberry street. It was always a place of mystery. The inspector sat at a flat table at one end of the room. It was frequently covered with papers. On the walls, in glass cases, were odds and ends of criminology—bits of rope that had hanged notorious murderers, black caps, revolvers that had figured in infamous cases and other depressing objects.

One day the inspector left a newspaper reporter at his table and went into another room. He was gone half an hour. When he came back the reporter said:

"Inspector, did you have me watched while you were gone?"

"No. Why?"

"There are some pretty interesting papers on your desk, aren't there?"

"Nothing of any great value. Why do you ask?"

"What was to prevent my reading some of those letters and getting a mighty good story for my paper?" asked the reporter.

"Two reasons," answered the inspector. "In the first place, I never leave a scrap of paper on my desk that the whole world is not welcome to read; secondly, you could not have touched a sheet without my knowing it. Look at that penholder," pointing to a cheap affair laid carelessly across a bundle of papers. "Notice the direction in which it points. One end points at that doorknob and the other at that black cap. Now, you never would have noticed that, but I did before leaving the room, and if you had touched a single paper you would have displaced that penholder, and I would have known it."

It Served a Purpose.

At the top of the stairway in the Grigson dwelling there was a board that emitted a loud creak whenever anybody stepped on it. Mr. Grigson was always intending to "have the thing fixed," but never did it, and by common consent the members of the family usually stepped over it, particularly when the head of the family had gone to bed.

One night, very late, just as Mr. Grigson was dropping off to sleep, somebody stepped on that board, and it gave forth its customary loud protest.

"There you go again!" he angrily called out. "That's you this time, John! Pretty time of night for you to be getting to bed!"

John, the eldest son, made no response, but instead there was a rush and a jump down the stairs that brought the whole household into the hall just in time to hear the front door slam. A hurried investigation disclosed a bag of valuables which a frightened burglar had left.

The board still squeaks.—Youth's Companion.

What Is the First Law of Nature?

"Self preservation is the first law of nature," answers Johnny Jones.

Correct, Johnny. Go right up to the head of the class. This law applies to a community as well as to an individual. Under the severe operation of this law a town that does not take care of itself, that does not look after its own interests first, that does not look out for Number-One, soon falls into a bad way.

That's just as sure as shootin'. It's the law.

We must obey the law or take the consequences. If we in this town and community do not work together for our own good, the mutual good of all of us, in all lines of business, we have only ourselves to blame if the place slides down the inclined plane instead of climbing the golden ladder of prosperity and progress.

For instance, if we do our retail trading with big city stores that have no interest in us except to get our money and keep it, local trade must suffer and shrink, town property values and farm land values must decrease—and there you are!

Johnny Jones, who knows the law, is a wise lad, but how about his papa and mamma?

Do they obey the first law as applied to the old home place? If they don't, Johnny may have to apply the law to himself when he grows up. He may have to go to the city to make a living.

Let's all think it over.

WORKS OF JOHN YEGG

A Daring Burglar Who Attained Fame in His Line.

HIS NAME A POLICE LEGACY.

It Is Now Applied to the Most Dangerous Criminals With Whom the Officers of the Law Have to Contend. Nitroglycerin in Safe Bursting.

In the explosive slang that permeates police circles throughout the country, a "yegg" is one of the dangerous criminal class.

The question is often asked, "What is a yegg, and how did the expression originate? An answer to the latter part of the query will lead to an elucidation of the first.

Some years ago, when the United States government was experimenting with high explosives, wishing to secure some death dealing and destructive shell that would cause more damage than any before manufactured, some one suggested that nitroglycerin be tried. Up to that time this most powerful of explosives had not been utilized in this way.

The government experts went to work, and the results of their experiments were from time to time published broadcast through the community. At last they succeeded in making a shell in which nitroglycerin was the chief component part and which made all former ones sink into insignificance.

In a town in the middle west at the time there lived a man named John Yegg. In his earlier days he had been one of the most expert electricians as well as all round experienced mechanics in the country. Later, through drink and bad associates, he had descended to a life of crime, his principal art being that of safe blowing.

He was attracted by the published accounts of the experiments of the government authorities with nitroglycerin. The thought struck him, Why could not this be used in blowing safes?

The method at that time was to drill a hole in the safe to be wrecked, fill this with powder or dynamite and then touch the fuse. This method, however, required considerable time to pull off "a job" and was noisy and dangerous.

Yegg went to work on the nitroglycerin method. He tried it, and it was a complete success. Furthermore, after he had performed job after job he had the police of the country baffled. They did not know how the work was done. Yegg instructed others in the art, and soon from one end of the country to the other safes were being wrecked, but by what manner no one knew.

Yegg's method was to take some of the explosive which he and those with him called "soup"—and, by the way, this term is still extant—and pour it in the crack of the safe near the hinges of the door. The small aperture was then covered with soap to hold the explosive in place. The fuse was applied, and with the explosion off went the doors, slick and clean. The entire job took but a few minutes. It remained for a young Pinkerton detective to solve the matter on a safe that was blown in Coldwater, Mich., where a bank was wrecked and many thousands of dollars secured.

The crime was traced to Yegg and some of his companions, and they were found guilty and sent to prison. Thereafter those who employed the nitroglycerin instead of the older methods were called "yeggmen" or "yeggs."

This was the beginning of the term, but since that time the application of it has grown greatly. Today a "yegg" viewed from whatever aspect, is the most dangerous criminal with whom the police of the country have to deal. He is one who rides the country over on freight trains, working through the south in the winter and migrating to more exhilarating climes during the summer. He will beg when he is hungry and will steal and commit murder when he sees an opportunity of benefiting himself.

Today there are thousands of "yeggs" scattered throughout the country. Most of them belong to some certain band, each one of which has a leader. He is the king. It is his duty to enlist recruits. To him also is shipped all the loot, and he in turn converts it into money and places the amount to the credit of the member sending it in. For this the king receives a commission.

Most of the "yegg" gangs carry what is known as a "kitten" with them. The "kitten" is a boy, young man or cripple, whose duty it is to visit houses and places of business, apparently begging food or selling shoestrings, lead pencils, etc., and who then reports to the gang "the lay of the land" so that when the time comes for pulling off the job all are familiar with the premises. The "kittens" are often runaway boys and later become "yeggs" themselves, destined to follow a life of crime and degradation.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

MEXICAN POLITENESS.

In the State of Michoacan Chivalry is Compulsory.

"If any man opines that the days of chivalry and the true knight errant spirit have gone forever, let him start forthwith on a far southward journey, not halt his steps until he brings up in the town of Morelia, which is the capital of the Mexican state of Michoacan," remarked a travelling man.

"Having arrived in Morelia, he will at once see that the chivalrous spirit still survives. I was down there not long ago, and the gallantry of the men and their extreme readiness to extend courtesies to the fair sex pleased and surprised me. When I noticed the alacrity with which the native males jumped up on the crowded street car to offer their seats to the first senorita that entered, I thought to myself how much more gentlemanly are these Mexicans than many of my own countrymen. They do not wait to see if some other man is going to get up, but each tries to beat the other in courteously proffering his seat to the lady.

"I spoke about the matter to the proprietor of the hotel and immediately he began to laugh.

"You must understand, senor," said the innkeeper, "that the governor of our state issued a decree that if any man keep his seat in a street car, thereby compelling a woman to stand, he is liable to arrest and a fine. The police have been instructed to execute this order severely, and I think this has much to do with the prompt politeness of which you speak, since none of our population wishes to become involved with the police and to be publicly branded as lacking in gentility."

She Had Red Burns.

The philanthropic lady was visiting a Glasgow slum and had just been ushered into a house where the good wife was engaged washing. Her endeavor was to elevate the minds of the poor, and she asked, "Have you read Burns?"

In answer the good wife bared her brawny arm and displayed a large red mark, saying: "There's wan I got this morn wi' the steam o' the pot blin' ower. But, efter a', a burr's aye red!"

Must Have Had Experience.

"Never mind, dear," he said reassuringly as she raised her sweet face from his shoulder and they both saw the white blur on his coat; "it will all brush off."

"Oh, Charlie," she burst out, sobbing, hiding her face again upon his white shoulder, "how do you know?"—Somerville Journal.

The Wrong Bird.

One of the well known magicians not long ago had a queer experience, but the people in the theater had more fun out of it than he did. One of his tricks was to shake a sack to show that it was empty and then to draw out of it an egg, after which he would always reach in again and bring out the hen that laid the egg. Of course he had to have help in this, and one night he had a new man who did everything just as he had been told until it came to this act. Reaching into the bag, he drew forth the fowl at the usual time, but instead of the hen an old rooster hopped down on to the stage, ruffled its feathers and strutted around, crowing with all its might, while the audience laughed and the magician went out to hunt his new helper.—London Opinion.

Had Experience.

Not long ago there entered the office of the superintendent of a trolley line in Detroit an angry citizen demanding justice in no uncertain terms.

In response to the official's gentle inquiry touching the cause of the demand the angry citizen explained that on the day previous as his wife was boarding one of the company's cars the conductor thereof had stepped on his spouse's dress, tearing from it more than a yard of material.

"I can't see that we are to blame for that," protested the superintendent. "What do you expect us to do—get her a new dress?"

"No, sir, I do not," rejoined the angry citizen, brandishing a piece of cloth. "What I propose is that you people shall match this material."—Harper's.

Why, Indeed?

The five-year-old son was asking his father some severe questions about a recent addition to the family.

"That baby likes ma," said the youngster sharply.

"Oh, yes, he likes your ma," said his father, "but he likes me too."

Thereupon the five-year-old from whom great things were expected exclaimed:

"Likes you? Then why does he cry when he looks at you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

ART GLASS WINDOWS.

Why Lead is Used For Binding the Pieces Together.

In the making of art glass windows one of the most important things is the lead used for binding the different sized pieces of glass together. If two pieces of glass of different color or tint are placed side by side and viewed from the dark, the light passing through the glass into the spectator's eyes, the effect will be very unsatisfactory. Like magic this changes when a strip of lead is laid between the two pieces, each being luminous with its own individual color, yet blending beautifully with its neighbor.

It is customary for the art glass painter to make colored sketches for windows, drawn to one-half or one inch scale. After these sketches have been accepted as satisfactory, if it is for a figure window, he makes a full size cartoon on paper in crayon, showing all lights and shadows as well as the outlines. Early Italian painters used smooth whitewashed boards for this purpose, but now it is done on so called eggshell surface paper.

The full sized drawing is laid on a thin and a heavy sheet of detail paper. Between the design and middle, as well as the lower paper, there are thin sheets of blackened paper. All these are fastened to the drawing table with thumb tacks. Then all the lines are run over with a finely pointed ivory pencil. When done the drawing appears on the thin as well as on the thick paper, the former being the working drawing for the leader, while the latter is cut up by the glass cutter for his patterns to cut the glass to correct size and shape. If the paper were cut with an ordinary knife or scissors the glass with the lead would work out too large. To allow room for the lead a two bladed knife, with the blades set nearly one-eighth of an inch (the thickness of the core or heart of the lead) was formerly used, but the cutting is now done with three bladed scissors.

When the various kinds of glass have been cut the pieces are set together with came or glazier's lead. These are strands of lead with a groove on either side. The artisan who sets the pieces of glass together does this on the outline tracing or working drawing by first placing each piece in its proper position. He nails a straight edge along the edge of his work table nearest him, along which he places a strand or border lead, pressing the glass into the groove of the same and keeping the glass temporarily in place with wire nails tacked into the table. These he draws out when placing the inside lead and tacks them alongside the next piece of glass, and so on to the finish.

When the entire panel is thus leaded together the joints are soldered first on one side. Then the panel is turned, and the other side is treated in the same way. Next the cementers take the light in charge and rub in the cement (thin putty) with brushes and clean it off with sawdust, which is also manipulated with brushes, but these are of somewhat stiffer bristles. The cement fills up all spaces between the lead and glass, binding the two firmly together and making it weather proof. Strengthening or saddle bars are placed horizontally, so that the lights will withstand any windstorm.

The leading of all styles of art glass is done in the same manner. William Schroeder in Western Journal of Education.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 600 grains of impure matter daily; when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms, pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys:

Mrs. T. S. Norman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any remedy I ever used. Prior to using them I suffered severely from a dull aching through the small os my back. There was also a soreness about my kidney regions and I was hardly able to get around on account of the sharp darting pains through my loins. When arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and during the day had but little ambition or energy, since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooteh's drug store, the backache and pains have entirely disappeared, I do not suffer from headaches and that tired languid feeling has disappeared. My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been so satisfactory that I do not hesitate to give them my endorsement." M. S.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
