GRADED SCHOOL TEACHERS.

For the School Year Beginning Thursday September 24th.

Editor Reflecto:

Through the columns of your esteemed paper, permit me to transmit some information to the people of Greenville concerning the next session of the graded school.

By order of the board of trustees, the school will reopen on Thursday, September 24th. Following is a list of the teachers: first grade, Misses Irvine and Harding; second, Misses Heron and Mitchell; third, Miss McEnery; fourth, Miss Minor; fifth, Miss Bennett; sixth, Miss Eaman; high school, Misses Wright and Cox; drawing, Miss Lewis; music, Miss Gaston.

Those who are familiar with the school will notice that we shall have four new teachers. Three of these fill vacancies caused by resignations; the other an addition to the number employed heretofore. Miss Heron is a former teacher in the Greensboro schools. Miss Mitchell has been teaching in the Apex school for the past two years. Miss Minor was principal of one of the Cumberland county schools last year. Miss Lewis has been teaching in the Goldsboro schools for two or three years.

Our new teachers are well educated; they have had a broad successful experience, and I believe we may expect good work from each of them.

At a later date I shall have some further announcements to make relative to the entrance of new pupils, books, etc.

I am hopeful that all the pupils who graduated last spring will go to college this fall. I cannot so strongly urge them to go, and their parents to send them if they possibly can. Young people in our day and time simply cannot afford to deprive themselves of a college education. The expense feature is but a small item; the chief thing required is determination, and I hope none of our graduates are going to be lacking in this respect.

Trusting that the pupils of our school are having a most delightful vacation, and that they will be ready for a good year's work when school opens, I am,

Very truly,
H. B. Smith,
Superintendent.

Runners Reach Chicago.

Chicago, Tuesday, 21.—William McCabe, of Evanston, Ill., the last runner in the Y. M. C. A. 1,000 miles relay race from New York to Chicago, bounded up the steps of the city hall at 10:30 this morning and handed Mayor Busse's secretary a silver tube holding the message sent by Mayor McClellan, of New York. The runners clipped nearly twelve hours from the schedule, the total elapsed time being 119 hours, 36 minutes and 30 seconds.

An enormous crowd cheered Young McCabe as he completed the last lap of the greatest athletic feat of years. Bad roads and storms in New York and Ohio bothered the runners on the middle section of the route or even better time would have been made.

The Excursionists.

Just before going to press we received a telegram from the editor, who is in Raleigh today, saying that the crowd who went from here on the excursion is in fine shape and all are having a good time.

WINTERVILLE ITEM.

Address to the Democratic Press.

I wish every Democratic paper would begin the collection of a fund from its subscribers. There are very few Democrats who could not afford to make a small contribution and the people will never be able to control the government until they take on themselves the burden of supplying campaign funds. As long as a few men furnish the money to finance a campaign the men will exert an undue influence upon the government.

It seems that we have reached the end of corporate contributions, and this is a step in advance, but the individuals who control these favorseeking corporations may still dominate politics by furnishing the sinews of war. The Democratic party has struck a blow at this system by limiting contributions to $10,000 and providing for publicity before election. The Republican party has so far refused to join with us on this proposition, but public sentiment may yet compel it to do so. I have no doubt that the Democratic party will receive contributions from more individuals than ever contributed to any campaign, and there is no reason why the entire sum necessary should not be supplied by contributions from the masses. If every Democratic paper will take the matter up and lend a helping hand, we will soon have money enough in the treasury to provide for legitimate campaign work, and that is all we want.

Admiral Rojestvensky Dead.

Bad Nauheim, Germany, July 21.—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, who commanded the ill-fated Russian fleet, which was annihilated by the Japanese in the Sea of Japan in May, 1905, died here last night from heart trouble. It is believed that the heart affection resulted from injuries received by Admiral Rojestvensky in the battle of the Sea of Japan.

MRS. SARAH CRAMER

Died at Home of R. M. Zahniser this Morning.

Mrs. Sarah Cramer, mother of Mrs. Nina Zahniser, corner of Tenth and Cotarck streets, passed away this morning at 3 o'clock. She had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Zahniser since they came here from Grove City, Pa., a few years ago, and although she was well along in years, death was very unexpected.

She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a good Christian woman.

The entire community deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

The funeral will take place at the home this afternoon, at 4:45 o'clock and the interment will be in Cherry Hill cemetery.

The Play Was Good.

The Williamston amateur company, which presented "Imogene, or the Witch's Secret," here last night, acquitted themselves with much credit. They deserved a much larger audience than was present, and those who did not go missed a rare treat. The players did much better than most professionals that come here.

STATE HAPPENINGS.

Things Occurring Over North Carolina—Consented for Busy Readers.

The plant of the Carson Brick company, situated on the main line of the Southern Railway at the Catawba river, was partially destroyed by fire this morning between 4 and 5 o'clock. The plant was valued at $75,000, and the total loss is estimated at $25,000, with no insurance.—Charlotte News.

Miss Blanche King, of Goldsboro, a graduate of St. Mary's and of Peabody Institute, has been selected by the music committee to fill the place of music teacher for the Tarboro schools, made vacant by the marriage of Miss Mota Winstead to J. De Lane Carrelton, of Salisbury. Miss King is a musician of ability having made 100 per cent in her final examination at Peabody. She is a daughter of Mr. Ben King and is very popular, and Tarboro is fortunate in securing such an excellent teacher.—Tarboro cor. News and Observer.

Too Much Politics.

In the current issue of The Manufacturers' Record, its able editor, Mr. R. H. Edmonds, preaches this brief, but powerful sermon:

"Some years ago the writer was in one of the busy, hustling towns of Alabama, a town in which everybody was at work, a town which at that time was growing as fast as towns in the South had ever grown. During his stay of some days not a word was heard of politics, not a line concerning political affairs was seen in the local papers. Commenting on this striking fact to a citizen of the place, there came in reply to the inquiry as to this condition the statement: The people of this town are too busy to talk politics. What a blessed thing if such a condition could exist throughout the South! The people of that town were not only busy in building furnaces and machine shops, cotton mills and other industries, but they were busy in building schools and churches, and during that period of prosperity that town probably built more fine churches in proportion to population than any other town or city in the United States; in the construction of water works and an electric-light plant, good stores, splendid homes, and in every other line of work which meant human advancement. But they were too busy to talk politics. May heaven grant that the time shall soon come when that spirit will be found in every village, in every town and city, and on every farm throughout the south!"

Every patriotic citizen of North Carolina can echo a hearty "Amen" to that. It is just along the line of what The Observer has been preaching for some time. Let's build more churches and school houses and manufacturing enterprises and talk less about politics. There has been too much political unrest and agitation in North Carolina and its time to call a halt.—Charlotte Observer.

Convict Shot by Guard.

Winston-Salem, July 21.—Ed. Scott, a negro convict serving two years sentence on county roads for forgery, was shot by a guard and mortally wounded this morning while attempting to make his escape. One ball went through the left lung and the county physician says the patient will likely be dead before night.

GREENVILLE VS. WILLIAMSTON.

Score 12 to 11 in Favor of Greenville—Interesting Game.

In a game of ball yesterday between the local team and Williamston, the home boys won by the score 12 to 11. In spite of several errors on both sides the game was an exciting one from start to finish. In the third inning the score stood 6 to 0 for Williamston, but the home boys rallied and piled up twelve runs in her next five innings.

The features of the game were the fielding of Johnson, who robbed the visitors of several pretty hits, the fast fielding of Smith on third base, and the rooting of Joe Bartovitch.

The boys will play Kinston here tomorrow and have "got it in for 'em." Don't fail to see the game.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. ## DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Greenville Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. J. Frank Powell, living in West Bayboro, N. C., says: "I suffered a severe attack of LaGrippe which left my kidneys in a disordered condition. Standing on my feet so much during the day greatly aggravated the pains in my back, and frequently I was forced to sit down to relieve my trouble. A dull aching across the small of my back kept me in almost constant misery and whenever I attempted to stoop or lift anything sharp shooting pains would dart through my loins. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since, and my kidneys have been regular in action. I am pleased to recommend this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Garrying the News.

Before the advent of the telegraph news traveled slowly, and in times of war reports of victory or defeat were anxiously awaited and were at times long delayed. One writer, relating his own experiences, tells us of the exhilarating scene in Glasgow when the mail coach arrived bearing the news of some great victory, such as the battle of the Nile or the battle of Waterloo.

"On such occasions," he says, "the horses were decorated with laurels, and a red flag floated from the roof of the coach. The guard, dressed in scarlet, sounded his horn as they galloped through the echoing streets. Along Gallowgate they went with an ever increasing crowd till at the foot of Nelson street the coach pulled up, the guard discharged his blunderbuss into the air and communicated the news, which spread like wildfire."—Glasgow Times.

"Oh, he gave me one, but he had to take it back to get it fixed. The stupid jeweler made the inscription read, 'George to Genevieve,' instead of 'George to Dora.'"—Kansas City Newsbook.

WATERLOO.

The Immutability of the Famous Old Battlefield.

One of the most striking features of a visit to the battlefield of Waterloo today is the immutability of the entire scene in which one of the greatest battles of history took place. Notwithstanding the many years that have passed since the memorable day of June 18, 1815, the entire scene of the battle remains practically unchanged and untouched, and the very buildings around which the tide of battle surged the fiercest, save for the necessary restorations of the damage they sustained in the conflict, remain exactly as they were, nor has any encroachment of building or progress marred the historic field.

The battlefield of Waterloo is an open, undulating stretch of good farming land. On the day of the battle the greater part of it was covered with crops of rye, wheat, barley and oats, and the same crops are still grown there each season. The field is intersected by two highroads branching at Mont St. Jean, the one on the right leading to Nivelles, while that on the left, which lay in the center of both armies, led south to Genappe, Charleroi and Namur. Upon the crest of the ridge which formed the first of the allied positions a crossroad runs east and west. This road, on approaching the spot where the "Lion of Waterloo" now stands, ran through a cut in the crest some twelve to fourteen feet deep, and it was this point that was known after the battle as the Hollow Road. Some 500 yards to the southeast of the "Lion" is the farm of La Haye Sainte, while about 900 yards to the southwest stands Hougoumont, the old chateau, farmhouse, outbuildings, walled garden and orchard, which played such an important part in the fate of the day. These buildings are nearly 300 years old and were built with a view to their defense, as many old stone loopholes still to be found testify.—Robert Howard Russell in Metropolitan Magazine.

Insomnia.

Insomnia is the not uncommon fate of the brain worker who after years of continuous mental strain retires from active life. The reason is that mental activity demands a large supply of blood for the brain, and the blood vessels gradually accommodate themselves to this large supply. But when the hard work is over the brain does not always realize that it needs less nourishment, and hence the condition of excessive mental activity which is what insomnia is.—London Mail.

Delicious Banana Cream.

This recipe is highly recommended by one of our correspondents; try it for dessert tomorrow.

Peel five large bananas, rub smooth with five tea spoons of sugar. Add one teaspoon sweet cream beaten to a stiff froth, then add one 10c package of Lemon Jelly dissolved in 1-2 teaspoons boiling water. Pour into mold when cold garnish with candied cherries serve with whipped cream, or any good purring sauce. JELLY is sold by all Grocers at 10c. per package.

IN A RACING CAR.

The Sensation of High Speed in a Record Breaking Motor.

The driver of a racing car thus expresses the sensation of high speed:

"A man with nerves has no business in the tonneau of a record breaking motor car. It is difficult enough to keep one's person in the machine without being compelled to hold the heart in its proper place in the body.

"On a hill climb, when the car rushes across the starting line at sixty miles per, the feeling is one of intense exhilaration, but when the first bump is struck figuratively you descend to the earth again, but literally you perform quite the contrary action. Suddenly your legs become unmanageable, and, narrowly missing the head of the driver or mechanic on the front seat, your feet shoot into the air above your head. The descent does come in time, but it does not come without accident, for you are certain to strike the back of the tonneau on your way down.

"By this time you are so engrossed in maintaining your precarious hold on the car that the prospect of turning over worries you only as a remote and not unwelcome relief to the troubles which have already assailed you.

"There is a stone wall at the side of the grade, presumably as a safety precaution, but the fiendish way in which the man at the wheel holds the skidding machine toward it promises only a contest of strength which can have but one ending. But the turn is safely made, and the sigh of relief is lost in the final bump as the machine goes over the finish line.

"The official timers make a careful inspection to assure themselves that they are all there. Then the older one, glancing at his watch, says:

"A new record, but what a fool a married man is to make such a trip!"

"The younger is unmarried and therefore without wisdom. He says nothing, but reflects joyously that there is much in life to compensate him for his determination never to ride in a record breaker again."—Kansas City Star.

Recovered Her Dignity.

Queen Victoria once paid a visit to Parkhurst female convict prison. As soon as she entered the women's great ward, accompanied by Mrs. Gilson, the then handsome and stately superintendent, a great silence fell upon the vast assemblage of her suffering and erring sisters. Her majesty was greatly affected. And then an indescribable scene ensued. "The queen!" cried the poor convicts. "It's the queen herself! She'll pardon us! She'll set us free!" And, screaming and crying, they prostrated themselves at her feet.

For a few moments the queen lost her nerve and begged her attendants to clear a way for her to an adjoining room. Half an hour elapsed. Suddenly the door of the great room was thrown open again, and her majesty, with supreme dignity, with an unutterable farawayness about her and every inch a queen, walked through the women, now hushed into awed silence.—Mainly About People.

Red Blood and Blue.

Three-year-old Allan had a very aristocratic grandma, who prided herself on her own and her husband's blue blooded ancestry. She told him heroic deeds of them and warned him from ever playing with boys of low degree.

One day Allan came screaming upstairs to his mamma and grandma, holding his hand up covered with blood where he had cut his little finger. They were both greatly alarmed, as he was a child who rarely cried or complained when hurt. Mamma washed the blood off and, examining the cut, said:

"Why, dear, it's not so very bad. Does it hurt you so much?"

"I'm not cryin' 'cause it hurts," he said, "but 'cause it's only red blood, and grandma said I had blue."

—Philadelphia Ledger.

WONDERFUL MIRAGES.

False Peak of Tenerife and Illusions in the Dardanelles.

The peak of Tenerife is known among deep sea sailors as the "false peak." Owing to some peculiarity of the atmosphere it is always seen by mirage in exactly the opposite direction from which it lies, and only the fact that all captains know that the mirage appears long before the true peak is visible through the most powerful glass prevents many a ship from sailing many miles out of her course. It is hard for a greenhorn to believe that the majestic purple mountain towering astern or on the port beam apparently only a short distance off is in reality miles away in exactly the opposite direction and the seemingly solid earth at which he is gazing is only a reflection on the clear mirror of the air. Many weird tales are told of shipwrecked men who have steered for the false peak in the expectation of finding land and have perished of hunger and thirst while pursuing the phantom mountain.

Sometimes the passengers and crew of a vessel on the lookout for the false peak see a much rarer and more beautiful mirage, that of a ship in the sky. It usually appears about 10 o'clock in the morning, about ten degrees above the horizon and under full sail, every delicate spar and tapering mast clearly visible against the blue ether and even the play of light and shadow in the bellying canvas plainly discernible to the naked eye. It generally remains in sight half an hour or more before gracefully fading away. The oldest mariner can never remember having seen the mirage of a steamer in that latitude, but always that of a full rigged ship, and this peculiar fact has given birth to many romantic legends about the ship in the sky, all connecting it in some way with the false peak.

The vicinity of the Dardanelles is the real home of mirages, and it is seldom that any vessel sails along the Syrian coast without seeing one or more. Oddly enough, the mirages of the Dardanelles are always the reflections of objects that can be seen with the naked eye and are invariably distorted in grotesque and fantastic caricatures of the things reflected. It is certainly startling to see a steamer bearing down with her masts where her water line and should be and the water line where the tops of the masts and funnel ought to show, while her decks are in the right place, thus adding to her uncanny appearance, but this is a frequent sight near the Dardanelles. There is one peculiar feature of the mirages which hover near the false peak—the real objects of which they are reflections are so far away that very often they are never sighted until long after the reflection has vanished, and sometimes not at all.—New York Press.

The Lion's Attack.

As to a lion's method of attack Frederick Courteney Selous says in his book: "As a rule, I think, a lion seizes a sleeping man by the head, and in that case, unless it is a very old and weakly animal, death must usually be instantaneous, as its great fang teeth will be driven into the brain through the thickest negro skull." Similarly, when a lion attacks an animal it tries to get at the head or the throat—at the vitals of the animal. Says Mr. Selous: "My experience is that when a single lion tries to kill an ox or a buffalo it invariably seizes it near the muzzle with one paw and usually succeeds in either breaking its victim's neck or causing it to break it itself by its own weight in falling. When several lions attack an ox or a buffalo they will often bite and tear it all over and take a long time to kill it."

The Lancer Snake.

There is a snake called the lancer, which lives in South America and is very ready with its fangs. It is a small, brown, insignificant beast, but its bite induces a sort of imaginary swelling all over the victim's body. He feels as if every inch of him were being strained to breaking point, and the agony which results is too awful for words. Generally, however, the excess of pain drives the bitten man mad before very long, and in four hours he dies—a senseless imbecile.

Her Objection.

Mrs. Binks—Would you like to come to church with me this morning? You may sit in my pew if you like. Mrs. Jinks—Sorry, my dear, but my hat isn't trimmed for that side of the church.—Judge.

A Move at Last.

A noted humorist had often petitioned the council of the town where he resided to fill up a mud-hole near his house, but without result.

One night he heard a spluttering noise and sundry ejaculations unfit for publication, and, going to his door, he found a respected member of the town council floundering about in the mudhole.

"Good evening, sir. I am glad to see you stirring in this matter at last," and so saying he closed the door and left the poor councilor to extricate himself as best he could.—London Answers.
