WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

News Notes From Our Husting Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., July 25, 1903.

Tiberias Nelson expects to move back to Winterville next Monday. He was, for a long time, a resident of our town, but moved to Vanceboro a few months ago. He seems delighted to get back to his old home and to his old position with the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co.

Mrs. Noah Edwards, who lives near here, was in town yesterday and left on the morning train.

There was no preaching services at the Episcopal church Sunday, as their pastor Rev. N. C. Duncan is taking a vacation. This young pastor is very popular with our people and we wish for him a pleasant trip while enjoying his well-earned rest.

At the home of Mr. J. R. Bunting in Bethel, a house party was held a few days ago, and in obedience to the kind invitation of Miss Novella Bunting, Miss Hattie Kittrell went forth to enjoy the same. She came home Wednesday, and reports a fine time. It was a large household of loved and loving (?) ones and they will want a family reunion soon. Miss Bunting was assistant teacher in music in the Winterville High school last year, and was very popular with all our people.

Miss Lillian Stokes, of Stokes, after spending a few days visiting Miss Janie Kittrell, went down to Grifton to spend a few days with friends there. She is a former student of Winterville High school, and our people were glad to see her.

Prof. F. C. Nye went up the road on a short trip Friday.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry returned from Pamlico county Thursday, where he had been for nearly a week. We are glad to know that so many students are coming from that section this year, but it is only natural that it should be so for any one who knows the work of Winterville High school knows that no school in the State does finer work, and very few are under such wholesome moral influence. Surely thorough scholarship, strong, moral character, and a willingness to work marks the students of this school.

Vacation is almost here for our farmers and right glad are they when they are through curing tobacco to relax and rest a little. Then with a Hunsucker buggy they drive around some and enjoy themselves. Whether they be old people, with rheumatic pains, middle aged, young people or tiny tots they all enjoy riding in a Hunsucker buggy because it rides so easy, is so light on the horse and the material used in these buggies is so fine that they know nothing will break.

The school grounds are being mowed and it makes a fine appearance, the new-mown lawn, nice trees rapidly pushing up their shady forms, and the excellent buildings dotting grounds.

After several weeks stay at Chicago University, Miss Laura Cox returned home Wednesday. The excellent training received there, added to her excellent scholarship and experience make her a teacher much in demand.

HOTEL BURNED AT NIGHT.

Main Building At Wade Mecum Springs Destroyed.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 24.

The main hotel building at Wade Mecum Springs, fourteen miles north of Rural Hall, was destroyed by fire at 3:30 o'clock this morning. The total loss on building, furniture, etc., is placed at $15,000. There were thirty or more guests in the building and some of them had narrow escapes. All of them lost their trunks and clothing. One lady rushed out of the building through flames with her baby in her arms. Both had their hair badly singed. The origin of the fire is not definitely known. One opinion is that the building was struck by lightning. An electric storm passed over that scene about the time the fire was discovered. Another belief expressed is that the conflagration started from a lamp exploding. Dr. H. P. McKnight, of Southern Pines, who is managing the summer resort this year, lost $1,200 in cash, besides considerable household effects. He has decided to build a kitchen at once and continue business throughout the season. The owners have two small buildings which will be fitted up for use by guests.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Why Not Make John Elks Sheriff of Pitt County?

When John Elks retired from the chairmanship of the board of county commissioners of Pitt county, he carried with him the respect and the confidence of the people. Practically unknown politically, save in his own township when he was elected a commissioner, he discharged the duties of that difficult office with such tact and courage that even those who looked upon this young farmer from Chicod with a degree of doubt as to his ability soon recognized in him a level headed practical man, in whose hands the business of the county will be carefully guarded.

At the expiration of his term as commissioner, declining reelection, he has since devoted his attention entirely to his farm. He now asks the Democrats of the county to make him sheriff. He has proven faithful in every sphere of life that he has been called upon to fill. He is a man of great common sense, a courteous gentleman, has always been a Democrat and will make Pitt county one of the best officers she ever had.

A Strange Reptile Killed at Lenoir.

'Squire George Kaylor showed us a curiosity Monday in the shape of a pair of snake feet. At least the reptile belonged to the snake family, but seemed to be about half lizard. It was about two feet long and had a long neck about the size of a man's forefinger, then a body the size of a man's wrist about six or eight inches long, then a tail like that of a snake. The two feet were near the forepart of the body at the end of the neck and look very much like the feet of a lizard or frog. The reptile was killed by two little colored girls near Game-well and they so mutilated the body that it could not be preserved or skinned. The question is, What was the thing, anyway?—Lenoir News.

BOY RUN OVER.

Wheels of Ice Wagon Pass Across Body.

This morning James Ficklen, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, was riding his bicycle on Evans street, when he was run over by an ice wagon. The wheels of the wagon passed across his body, and it is almost miraculous that he was not instantly killed or seriously injured. Fortunately he was only painfully bruised.

Since Evans street and Dickinson avenue have been paved they afford an inviting place for bicycle riding, but with so many vehicles on these busy streets such riding is very dangerous.

Planting Hair on Bald Heads.

Why should a man worry about his hair or the lack of it? Nearly every day I receive letters from men or women asking for a dandruff cure and a hair restorer. The best dandruff cure is a bald head. The best hair restorer is a native of Columbia, at the second or third fall of the Chagres River. He uses an awl, a mallet and some spice gum. After punching a hole in the scalp he inserts a hair, which is plastered around with the gum and gently cultivated until it takes firm root. His custom is to plant three hairs a day. To plant more would throw the hairless one into convulsions. I knew a man who was thirteen years getting a new planting of hair.—New York Press.

The Very Time to Advertise.

During the money panic—when dollars and work are scarce is the very time to advertise—the time to reach the pocket-books of the men and women who buy cautiously and for the low dollar quality considered. The merchants that have been carrying ads. all along—every week-day in the year—are the merchants that have been doing the business, nine times out of ten. The wide-awake advertising merchant knows that he is getting new business every day and also knows that it comes from the fellow—the merchant that doesn't tell his customers what he has got through the newspapers, and is steadily losing out in this day of close competition. There is no way of getting around it—advertising pays—it is one of the most valuable assets in business. Every successful business concern is a testimonial to printer's ink. The fellow of yesterday can't keep pace with the fellow of today employing old methods. A wise man knows that. Advertise and stick to it—it pays and pays well.—Greensboro Record.

OFF TO CAMP.

Boys Take An Outting at Beaufort—Leave This Afternoon in Special Car.

The drum corps and the boys' brigade leave this afternoon in a special car attached to the east bound Norfolk & Southern train for Beaufort where they go in camp until Saturday. The boys have been making much preparation for the trip and anticipate a fine time.

The drum corps, in charge of Capt. W. T. Burton, is composed of Wiley J. Brown, Ben Taylor, Bruce Hooker, Walter Patrick, Key Brown, Lee Shelburn, Bailey Moore, Adrian Brown, James Rieves, Will Lipscomb, Frank Brown, Clifton Rountree, Seth Hooker, Whit Brown.

In the boys brigade, which is composed of members of D. J. Whichard's class in Memorial Baptist Sunday school are the following in his charge: Hugh Bradley, Alexander Harper, Sherwood Ragsdale, H. Shepard, David Whichard, Jack Bryan, Walter Bruce Warren, Paul Burton, Johnnie Humber, Robert Humber, and Walter Linden Whichard.

Several grown people, whose names we could not learn in advance are going down with the boys and enjoy a few day's camp life with them.

Minister Father of Twenty-Eight.

Cleveland, Tenn., July 15.—

The Rev. O. G. Frazier is receiving congratulations on the birth of his twenty-eighth child. Mr. Frazier is a Baptist minister and resides near the city. The youngest child was born on Sunday, and on that day the aged father preached a sermon as he said, "with more vigor than usual." Mr. Frazier has been married four times.

It's Your Move.

Long years ago the wise old bard told us that "Life is a game of chess," but it still remains for the disappointed man of today to find out for himself that the trouble with his particular game is that it is "his move," while he sits waiting for some one else to make a play.

When things seem to have gone wrong generally, and nothing is quite a it should be; when the other man gets the promotion; the other man makes the wise investment; the other man, in short, annexes to himself the desired things of life, the trouble is that you forget your part in the game while watching him play his. You've sat gaping at his brilliant moves, and stupidly allowed your own men to get cornered.

Wake up; take a hand; make a skillful move; get so in earnest, so absorbed in the old game of winning, that you compel others to watch you.
It's your move now; make it county!—Durham Sun.

Never Says Goodby.

"Did you hear what that man said when we left him?" asked one friend of another as they made their way from the inner office of a well known financier.

"Don't know that I did," was the response. "Goodby," I suppose, wasn't it?"

"Not a bit of it," the first rejoined. "I've never heard that man say 'Goodby.' I've mentioned the matter to him, and he's told me that he has a prejudice against 'goodby.' With him it's always 'Good day,' or 'Good morning,' or 'Good night,' or maybe, if he knows you well, 'So long' or 'See you later.'"

"I wonder why that is?" was the interested comment.

"I can only guess," was the response. "Probably it is because he has some painful associations with 'Goodby.' For that matter, most of us have, if we but stop to think of them."—New York Press.

The Clock Plant.

There is a plant, a native of Borneo, which is known as the "clock plant." The name is derived from the action of the sun's rays on the leaves, which are three in number—a large one extending forward, with two small ones at the base pointing sideways. These, coming in contact with the rays of the sun, oscillate like the pendulum of a clock, the larger leaf moving upward and downward, going its full length every forty-five minutes, the smaller leaves moving toward the larger, completing the distance forward and backward every forty-five minutes, thus resembling the hour and minute hands of a clock.

Macaulay the Wit.

During the time when Lord Disraeli was startling sober Englishmen by his eccentricities of dress Lord Macaulay, that was to be, was electrifying his dull witted constituents by his witty sallies and repartee. Having been defeated in 1847, he ran again for parliament in 1852. For a change he was the popular candidate.

One day while standing on the hustings side by side with his opponent he was violently struck by a dead cat. The man who threw it immediately apologized, saying he had meant the cat for his opponent. "Indeed!" said Macaulay. "Then I wish you had meant it for me and struck him."

PITT'S WAY.

Under the above heading the Kinston Free Press copied the call published in The Reflector for a primary in this county, and makes the following comment thereon:

"This call for a county primary was made on Saturday July 11th and the date for the primary election is Aug. 29. This would make the time intervening between the call and election seven weeks. We believe that this time is too long for a county primary campaign. Half that time, or say four weeks, would probably be long enough. We do not think it right to put the candidates to the needless expense of conducting a long campaign. All that is necessary is for them to put their claims fully before the people, and when a campaign is long-drawn-out it usually develops into mud slinging of one kind and another doing nobody any good. Let the candidates have a reasonable time in which to place before the people their claims to recognition and support. Then give the people an all-day ballot primary, conducted as legal elections are, and the people will do the rest."

Possibly The Free Press conceived the idea that the campaign by candidates for the different county offices was being conducted along the line of the recent campaign by the candidates for governor going about making speeches, abusing each other in the effort to secure votes for their nomination. But such is not the case. On the contrary the campaign in the county is conducted only along the line of personal work, each man working among his friends and acquaintances in order to secure as many votes as he can for himself in the primary. There is no speech-making and no mud-slinging that has come to our knowledge.

The lapse of six weeks between the time of publishing the call and holding the primary places no additional burden nor hardship upon any candidate, and creates no strife between them, but is only to give plenty of time for the people, the voters, to inform themselves as to the method in which candidates are to be selected this year. Nor does it make the campaign any longer, as the candidates have for weeks prior to the publication of the call been carrying on the very same kind of campaign of personal work that they have since the call and that they will continue to carry on until the day of the primary. Of course every candidate will secure all the votes for himself that he can in an honorable way, but so far as we have observed there is no bitterness and no strife between them.

How Two Brethren View It.

The editor of the Greenville Reflector has our sympathy. We know what it is to be laid up

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

with a bad foot, and we hope he will soon be all right again.—Williamston Enterprise.

What's the matter now in the newspaper fraternity? Not long ago, rumor has it, Col. Joe Reece of The Greensboro Record, got gay and was put out of commission for awhile. Now comes the story from our sister town over the way that Col. D. J. Whichard, of The Greenville Reflector, is all down and out with a sprained ankle. Hope these things are only temporary, but brethren they're getting too near home!—Kinston Free Press.

Oh, there's nothing the matter except we boys, forgetting that we are not so youthful as in days of yore, met with accidents that disabled the pedal extremity. But it was not the kind of mishap, mind you, that increases the size of the hat or occasions black eyes.

MEDALS FOR BRAVERY.

Decorations That May Be Bestowed by Uncle Sam.

Uncle Sam is not averse to bestowing decorations, says the Philadelphia Press. While the constitution prohibits government officers from accepting orders from foreign governments, the president has the power to award insignia, which mean considerably more than most of the stars, garters, etc., of the old world. These are medals for bravery.

Besides the medals for conspicuous bravery in battle and the decorations for life saving on the water, the chief executive can honor men and women who display heroism on the railroad lines of the country.

Award of the decorations is made by the chief executive on recommendation from the interstate commerce commission. Applications must be accompanied by affidavits from eyewitnesses of the heroic deeds, and they must be approved by a committee of five of the commissioners.

A bronze medal and a button of gold and enamel are the insignia given.

The medal is about as big as a silver dollar. On one side, the obverse, there is a figure of a man upon a railway track, with his knee upon a rock which blocks an approaching train. He is warning the trainmen by means of a hand.

On the reverse side is a laurel wreath, symbolical of heroism. The inscription, "The United States Medal For Life Saving on Railroads," appears near the medal's rim, and within the wreath is the following: "For Bravery. Awarded to —"

Japanese Compositors. Japanese "types" have their troubles. K. Sugimura, literary editor of the Tokyo Asahi Shimbun, says that he especially admires the linotype typesetting machines. "Unfortunately we are unable to use them in Japan, for our language has forty-seven letters, as well as over 3,000 Chinese characters, and such a number of types is, of course, beyond the capabilities of any machine yet invented. In the printing office of our newspaper in Tokyo the compositor must often walk the whole length of the room to fetch one character, instead of standing in one place before a single case, as the English or American compositor can do."

Your own words and actions are the only things you will be called to account for.—A Kempis.

OLD PARIS STREETS.

Odors and Filth of the Thoroughfares of Long Ago.

The automobile which glides noiselessly and smoothly along the well paved streets of Paris would not have had so easy a time some centuries ago. Nowadays one of the first demands civilization makes upon a community is that the paving and the sewerage shall be good. It is hardly possible for the twentieth century mind to conceive the conditions of old time streets and of the inconveniences and dangers of the public endured. Some idea of ancient Parisian thoroughfares is given in Tighe Hopkins' "An Idler in Old France."

Lutetia, the name by which Paris was first known, is said to have come from a word meaning "mud." This derivation is inexact, but its appropriateness was practically borne out in the condition of the streets. Unpaved, rough as woodland tracks, flooded with waste waters from the houses, the roadways were populated by pigs, dogs, geese, ducks and rabbits. In 1131 Philippe, son of Louis le Gros and heir to the throne, was killed while riding in the city streets by being thrown from his horse by an abbot's pig.

Snows and rains made the roads almost impassable, and the odor from them rose far above the housetops. It was said that on the darkest night a traveler, out of his course, might know by the stench how near he was to Paris. The mud of the streets gained an early celebrity. "It sticks like Paris mud" was a proverb of antiquity. If clothes were stained with it one was advised to "cut the piece out, for it burns whatever it touches."

In 1185 the king, standing by an open window of the palace, viewing a cart which had stuck in the mud, was so sickened by the stench that he gave orders to have the streets paved. This movement inaugurated the street department of Paris, but the effort was a feeble one. The work was begun, but at the people's expense. The king offered only a slender contribution. Taxes were levied on duelists, on candles, boots, cake and other things. But the enterprise was soon abandoned.

It was not until 1348 that any systematic care was taken of the streets and pigs denied the public ways. Even then the cleaning was confined to the highways. The smaller streets were still filled with heaps and hillocks of rotting refuse.

The germ wise minds of today may well wonder that any good or any continuance of life came out of such conditions.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You!
Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demnation bowwows, you say, because of the uncurbed trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a roustabout or a hodcarrier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gormandizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, antitrust business?

Hey!

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

PAID FOR THE BATHS.

Exciting Hotel Incident in Bar Harbor's Early Days.

"In the prehistoric days of Bar Harbor," said a Boston man, "before the dress suit had cast its blighting shadow there and when Rodick's and the 'fish pond' were the center of all the gaiety, life was pleasant, even though many of the conveniences which we now demand were wholly lacking. Rodick's was a barn of a place with no elevator and innocent of electric bells. One man in imminent need of ice water once obtained it, however, by going into the hall and yelling 'Murder' at the top of his lungs. He gathered together most of the hotel guests and finally got the ice water of his soul's desire, but his success did not seem to establish a precedent.

"The fire department was, so to speak, in embryo. In the Rodick at the head of each stairway there used to stand a large hogshead of water for use in an emergency, and thereby hangs the tale I am about to tell you.

"Late of an evening there entered the deserted 'fish pond' a young man whose fixed and glassy eye and wandering smile betrayed what his evening's occupation had been. In order to settle any lingering doubt as to his condition, however, he proceeded to emit a series of blood curdling shrieks, which called forth a hasty and emphatic protest from the night clerk, who on advancing upon the inebriated one was promptly laid low by a right hander. The night force in an angry array promptly went to the succor of the night clerk, whereat his assailant retreated upstairs, closely followed by his pursuers.

"Reaching the landing, he espied the hogshead of water, which he promptly heaved down the stairway upon his opponents, who, drenched by the water and carried off their feet by the butt itself, in a wild state of rage renewed the attack, only to be treated to the same dose on the second flight of stairs and yet again on the third, at which point, his ammunition being exhausted, they captured and got even with the belligerent one.

"In the morning great was the anger and loud the lamentations of Herr Rodick at the state of his stairway and the damaged condition of his night force, but he who had accomplished the outrage was rich in this world's goods, from part of which he was made to separate for divers ruined carpets, sundry abrasions and for giving five men three baths apiece at $1 a bath, the regular rate at that time in Bar Harbor."

Lace Made From Hair.

The most curious lace is called point tresse. It is very rare and was made of human hair. French collectors say that it exists in the present day only in their cabinets. It was confined to the early part of the sixteenth century. Margaret, countess of Lennox, the mother of the wretched Darnley, sent from the tower, where she was imprisoned when her son, Lord Charles Lennox, married the daughter of Bees of Hardwicke, a bit of this kind of lace to Mary, queen of Scots. This is a very strong proof of her belief in the queen's innocence of the guilt that had been imputed to her. The little square of point tresse was worked by the old countess' own hands from her own gray hair. It was, in fact, hair mixed with fine flax.—London Express.

Knew He Was Dead.

Some time after the occupation of Manila by the American forces one of the army officers was shown through the old Spanish prison in that city. He noticed a small opening through a brick wall. Upon asking its use he was told that prisoners were placed in a cell behind it and walled up alive. "You see, senor," said the guide, "as long as the prisoner lived his food was handed in on a plate, and he handed the empty plate back, but when he handed the plate back with the food on it untouched, then the jailer knew he was dead and didn't give him any more."

Not Listening.

She was a very little girl, but not so small that she did not recognize swearing as something very wrong or that if other people used bad language it was her place to close her ears to it. She was on the street with her mother, and as they passed a group of men talking in loud tones the passersby heard the small girl exclaim in shocked tones, "Oh, isn't that awful?" And then, as if suddenly remembering, "But I'm not listening."—New York Times.

Unterrified.

The traveler was hurrying along the unfamiliar trail that led in the general direction of his destination, when suddenly a large abyss yawned before him.

He was not in the least perturbed. He was a lecturer, between travels, and was accustomed to have things yawn before him.—Chicago News.

THE SECRET OF GLAMIS.

A Ghost That Hovers About an Ancient Scottish Castle.

"The old manor houses and castles throughout England," said the posted man, "have innumerable stories of ghosts, which the old colored 'mummies' used to call 'hants,' attached to them. The most famous of them all is perhaps the one connected with Glamis castle, the country seat of the earls of Strathmore, in Forfarshire. This is the most ancient inhabited castle of Scotland, although, of course, little of the original structure still survives. It was here that Macbeth, one of the minor kings of Scotland, murdered Duncan, and the principal scenes of Shakespeare's 'Macbeth' are laid within and without the castle walls. It came into the hands of the Lyon family, the present owners, about 1371, and from then on a long series of tragedies marked the progress of that family.

"The ghost that hovers about Glamis is a mysterious one, and the exact character of the manifestations is little known, but the point that makes it of thrilling public interest is the well known fact that there is a family secret in the Lyon family which only three living people share at the same time—the holder of the title, the heir apparent, if he has attained his majority, and the factor of the estate. Why the latter shares in the secret is not the least part of the mystery.

"On the day before the heir apparent attains his twenty-first birthday—or, if the then earl be sonless, the heir presumptive—he is solemnly initiated into the mystery. The opening of some hidden room or passage is connected with this initiation, and this has given rise to a legend in Scotland that a certain Earl Beattie of past times played a game of cards with the devil 'in propria persona,' lost the game and his soul at the same time, and the sealed chamber in Glamis is the one wherein the game was played. This is only one of many stories which purport to account for the mystery.

"As generation after generation has been initiated into the dread secret it has become widely known and advertised, and it is said in England that more than one of the heirs, when on the eve of coming of age, has promised his friends and cronies to reveal the mystery, but so far no such promise has ever been kept, nor has any factor of the house ever proved false to the trust reposed in him."—London Express.

Even In Bedlam.

The manager of the insane asylum frowned.

"What is that woman in cell 77 howling and shrieking about?" he asked impatiently.

"She objects to her straitjacket, sir," the keeper answered.

"Wants it taken off, eh? Well—she can't!"

"No, it isn't that, sir," the keeper interrupted. "She wants it changed for one with the fashionable sleeves that have just come in."

The Retailer.

"What business is Miss Gaddle in?"

"Oh, she's in everybody's business."

"Wholesale, eh?"

"Yes; except when it comes to a bit of scandal. She retails that."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Sufficient Reason.

Brooke—Gunsen always calls a spade a spade.

Lynn—That's because he lacks synonyms.—Bohemian Magazine.

Historical Revelation.

"How did you distinguish Achilles from the girls?" asked the Greeks.

"How could you see that he was a man in woman's garb?"

"He didn't," explained Ulysses, "drop his handkerchief every time he turned around."—Kansas City Journal.

A Dime Novel Reader.

"Did you tell Johnny to split that kindling?"

"Yes."

"But he didn't do it."

"No; he said he'd swim in blood first."—Washington Herald.

Starvation.

After about the fifth or sixth day of starvation the pain of hunger ceases to be felt, and the sharp edge of craving becomes dulled. In the ultimate stages of starvation the feelings become so numbed that the senses, as messengers of intelligence, cease to act. There is practically no pain, and the mind lapses into a state of incoherence and sleepless delirium.

STAR AND CRESCENT.
Origin of the Symbols Used on the Turkish Flag.

Very ancient are the star and crescent of the Turkish flag. Their origin is explained as follows: The characters of the language of Mesopotamia, like the Egyptian, were originally hieroglyphic. One of the early picture words was a crescent and a star, and this picture, which was pronounced "shiptu," was employed to express an incantation or exorcism or anything capable of driving the evil spirit from the body of which it had taken possession. Clay tablets recording the ancient exorcisms have been found in the ruins of Mesopotamia, and at the beginning of such tablets appears the sign which developed from the crescent and star. The symbol therefore may have been not only the word for incantation, but a charm from which the evil spirits were supposed to flee. In every age in the orient the people have possessed similar charms. The Assyrian kings stationed winged monsters with forms half human at their gateways to keep all evil from entering within the palace. The poorer people suspended clay tablets above the entrances of their houses. The modern oriental may purchase in the bazaars blue glass beads, verses from the Koran wrapped in leather cases and other devices to serve a similar purpose. The crescent and star formed a symbol which the Mesopotamian of 6,000 years ago employed as a charm.

Among the early peoples of Mesopotamia all of the heavenly bodies were regarded as deities, but the moon, because of the variety of the shapes which it assumes, was the chief of them all. Special reverence was therefore paid it and some of the oldest and most important of the Babylonian temples, as at Ur and Haran, were devoted to its worship. Thus the crescent, the symbol by which the moon god was represented, was supposed to have the power to avert evil, and then together with the star it formed the word for incantation.

When Babylonia passed into the hands of the Persians the symbol appeared upon the coins. From the Persians it was transmitted to the Parthians, the Byzantines, the Romans and the Greeks. Finally the Turks, who succeeded in the possession of the greater part of the countries of the ancient world, adopted it as a device for their flag.—Chicago News.

DO THEIR DUTY.
Scores of Greenville Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. J. Frank Powell, living in West Bayboro, N. C., says: "I suffered a severe attack of LaGrippe which left my kidneys in a disordered condition. Standing on my feet so much during the day greatly aggravated the pain in my back, and frequently I was forced to sit down to relieve my trouble. A dull aching across the small of my back kept me in almost constant misery and whenever I attempted to stoop or lift anything sharp shooting pains would dart through my loins. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since, and my kidneys have been regular in action. I am pleased to recommend this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., 219 N. W. York, sole agents for the U. S.
