THE GREAT INLAND WATERWAY.

WHAT THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE SAYS ABOUT IT

Mr. Small's Work for it His Greatest Public Service. The Dangers of Hatteras.

The following is a part of an editorial from the National Magazine, in which our local congressman and his inland waterway projects are the subjects:

"Thousands of bills pour in on every side at each session of congress and among them, are a few measures that look well into the future. Congressman John H. Small, of North Carolina, has not only given attention to the local interests of his constituents and to general legislation, but his greatest public service has consisted in directing public attention to the improvement of the waterways of the country. Beginning in 1899, when he first entered congress, he began to concentrate much of his time upon this subject. He made occasional talks in the house of representatives; he appeared before committees; he visited the seaboard cities between Baltimore and Jacksonville; he furnished material to the press and contributed to the magazines.

"He contended that no substantial progress could be made in the improvement of our waterways which did not embrace the entire country and contemplate the waterways of all sections. Naturally, his attention was directed to the constructing and improvement of the chain of waterways from Boston to Florida. But there is one particular link in that chain which he considered of paramount importance. That was the link extending from Chesapeake bay on the north, and thence southwardly through the sounds and rivers of Eastern North Carolina, and entering the ocean again at Beaufort Inlet, North Carolina. This protected route will avoid the dangers of Cape Hatteras and Cape Lookout, probably the most dangerous points on our Atlantic coast, and will also remove the present barriers which restrict the water traffic of Eastern North Carolina. Those persons who have made a coast wise trip never forget rounding Cape Hatteras, and will welcome a route avoiding Diamond shoals and Cape Lookout. The most dangerous point along the coast is Cape Hatteras and it is retarding the coastwise traffic from North to South. The removal of this danger would give a great impetus to coastwise trade, and accelerate this class of traffic, for a large volume of bulky merchandise would then see this route.

Happy Social Event in Ayden.

Ayden N. C., July 28.—On Friday night from eight until eleven o'clock Misses Sallie Bett Quinerly and Esther Blount entertained a number of their friends on the beautiful lawn in front of Mrs. Agnes Blount on First West street. Promptly at eleven o'clock the little folks bid their hostess good night, declaring they had spent a most delightful evening.

D. J. Whichard returned today from Beaufort, bringing home his little son, Walter Linden, who was too sick to remain through the camp of the drum corps and boys' brigade.

THE BIDS ARE OPENED.

The Waterway From Pamlico Sound to Beaufort Inlet.

Wilmington, N. C., July 28.—At the office of Capt. Earl I. Brown, U. S. A., in charge of the corps of engineers for this district, bids were opened for dredging the waterway from Pamlico Sound to Beaufort Inlet, N. C. the amount available for the work under the appropriation being $385,000. The lowest bidder was the Maryland Dredging and Construction Company, of Baltimore, at 10 3-4 cents per cubic yard for the whole. There were eight other bidders. There were two classes of the work, but the Baltimore company was the lowest on both and the local engineers will recommend that the award be to the Maryland people.

The Self-Reliant Girl.

The chief end of doctors is to teach people to keep well with the minimum of doctoring. The chief end of parents and schools is to train children in wisdom and knowledge, that they may be able to take care of themselves. That has long been understood in its relation to boys. The idea of education for boys is to train them up through obedience to liberty. We want to make them free, and wise enough to thrive on freedom. As fast as they can bear it we put upon them increased responsibility for their own conduct, and their own use of time and of money. What we want of them finally is not merely to respond with docility to the care that is taken for them, but gradually to become qualified to take care of somebody else. And steadily and rapidly our civilization has been coming to have a like attitude toward girls. They are not boys in skirts, but very different creatures; their needs are different, their ideal work in life is different, the process of education which seem most profitable for them are different; but in them, too, we grow more and more solicitous to develop the capacity to take care of themselves and eventually of others; to develop, indeed, all possible capacities that are not incompatible with one another, and with the highest and best and most important destiny that life holds for girls.—E. S. Martin in Success.

A REAL SEA-SERPENT.

Reptile Was Caught in the Southern Waters.

A real sea-serpent was brought here yesterday by Frank G. Ackerly, who stopped in the city enroute to his home in Chambersburg, Pa., from Key West. The reptile, which was dead from the struggle which it made to escape when being captured, was of a poisonous variety known as the enhydris, a serpent which lives exclusively in deep water. The specimen was two feet three inches in length, although they are often seen in tropical waters to a length of four feet. The reptile was of chunky build, a yellowish gray color, with very light circles, and had a formidable appearance. Mr. Ackerly, who has been on a pleasure trip to Florida, captured the snake with a hook and line.—Washington Messenger.

Flat Iron Building for Washington.

According to the Washington Messenger that town is to have a "flat iron" building to be patterned after the famous block of that name in New York. It is to be four stories and will be erected on the corner of Main and Gladden streets.

Physiognomy.

The science of physiognomy can be traced as far back as the time of Pythagoras, who is said to have examined carefully the faces of his would be pupils before admitting them to his school. Hippocrates, 450 B. C., refers to the science, and Cicero has many references to it. The first systematic treatise on the subject that has come down to us is that attributed to Aristotle. The sixteenth century was particularly rich in literature on physiognomy, and the eighteenth shows a still greater interest in the science. Lavater's book seeming to be the final word on the subject.

DEVELOPED NOTHING.

The Death of Hazel Drew as Great a Mystery as Ever.

Troy, N. Y., July 27.—The coroner's inquest in a final effort to solve the murder of Hazel Drew, the pretty governess whose mutilated body was found floating in Teal's pond, near this city, two weeks ago, began today at Wagner's hotel, Averill Park, about two miles from the scene of the crime. Twenty-eight witnesses were on hand, among them William Taylor, the uncle of the murdered girl, and Frank Smith, the half-witted boy, waiting to be interrogated by District Attorney O'Brien.

After an examination of twenty witnesses a recess was taken until Thursday, the session having developed nothing and the mystery is bewildering as ever. Taylor Smith, the half-witted boy, told the same old story.

Landslide one way or Other.

We cannot agree with the generally accepted statement that the presidential election will be a close one. On the contrary we consider a close contest as very improbable.

The last three presidential elections have shown a constantly increasing Republican sentiment until the South became in 1904 the only Democratic territory that could be depended on. This territory gives only a little over half the 242 electoral votes necessary to elect, leaving over 100 to be secured from the states which have been safely Republican for ten years. This means a complete political revolution or a fiasco. If Bryan can reverse the vote in a single western state he can in all, for political and economic conditions are alike in all, and if there is sufficient discontent in any state to cause the voters to bolt the Republican ticket, the probability is that the whole west and north will be affected and the result be a landslide. If this does not happen Bryan will again receive a crushing defeat; possibly a worse one than before—Sussex Standard.

Monument to Memory of Union Soldiers

A party of gentlemen, composing a committee sent by the state of Rhode Island, for the purpose, were in the city yesterday to select the spot and make arrangements for erecting a monument to the memory of the soldiers from that state, who are buried here in the National cemetery. The gentlemen completed their work and went on a sail down the river, and left going to Beaufort on the east bound train last night. In the party were Hon. Wm. W. Douglas, chief justice of Rhode Island's supreme court; State Treasurer Walter A. Read and Messrs. Phillip S. Chase, Gid on Spencer, and Henry T. Sison.—New Bern Journal

Mr. Taft is the only candidate for the presidency that ever acknowledged a boss who had to revise his public utterances.

The deficit in the United States treasury is now averaging about one million per day. We wonder if the bad Democrats are responsible for this as well as for the panic and the hard times now upon us.

We are pleased to realize that Pitt county Democrats can hold a primary election without engaging in a canvass of abuse and mudslinging. Let other counties notice and follow our example and we will have an united party.

Mr. Taft's last visit to North Carolina caused consternation and madness among our Republican friends. Although he then told them that their party in this State was corrupt and not entitled to public confidence, we see that they have invited him to again visit the State. They hope now that he will be the dispenser of public pie during the next four years, so they have overlooked his rebuke and are willing to forgive the past, provided they can again be permitted to receive pie.

It does seem as if the Republican leaders believe that the people of the South are lacking in memory. Whenever they imagine that lukewarmness is existing in the North against their party they at once do something to arouse sectional hatred. For instance when in the last session of Congress a bill was introduced to require publicity of campaign contributions—a bill which every Democratic member favored—they immediately attached to it an amendment to cut down the representation of the South in Congress. This amendment was offered and adopted by Republican votes for two purposes, namely, First, that they did not desire to be compelled to make an exhibit of the amount and expenditure of their corruption fund during the Presidential campaign. Secondly, because of their desire to defeat the measure they could insult the South and thus compel Democrats to vote against it. Yet we hear their campaign managers expressing hopes of Taft carrying North Carolina and other Southern states. They may as well attempt to bridle an Oklahoma cyclone.

We suppose that it is necessary to officially notify the candidates of their nomination, although they would run anyhow.—Durham Herald.

Cutting it out of the drug stores may have had nothing to do with it, but it is a fact that the effects of prohibition have been more noticeable since this was done.—Durham Herald.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

When Woman Arrives.
 The emancipation of women having at length worked out to a logical and symmetrical finish, the bride and her best woman waited at the altar, while the groom came up the aisle on the arm of his mother, who gave him away.

The groomsmen wore crepe de chine and carried groom roses. Three clergywomen assisted at the ceremony. The groom's father sat in the family pew. He was dressed in wine colored silk, with ropes of pearls. The streets in the vicinity of the church were packed with a mob of onlookers, mostly men and children, prompted thither by curiosity.—Puck.

Concort of a Child.
 The long suffering parent was about to tell his four-year-old daughter a story to bribe her to go to bed. She hadn't been on any too good behavior that day, and he thought the story might do better than to make a scene.

"Well, once there was a good little girl," he began, "a very good little girl. Oh, she was an extremely good little girl. One day—"
 "Aw, cut in the child, don't just tell a story about me. Tell about some other little girl."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Answered Right.
 "So," said Tommy's father, "you took dinner at Willie Stout's home today. I hope when it comes to your helping you had manners enough to say 'ep.'"
 "Yes, sir," replied Tommy. "I said 'ep' several times."
 "Ah, you did!"
 "Yes, sir. Mrs. Stout kept asking me if I had enough."—Philadelphia Press.

Lace Made From Hair.
 The most curious lace is called "point tresse." It is very rare and was made of human hair. French collectors say that it exists in the present day only in their cabinets. It was confined to the early part of the sixteenth century. Margaret, countess of Lennox, the mother of the wretched Darnley, sent from the tower, where she was imprisoned when her son, Lord Charles Lennox, married the daughter of Bess of Hardwicke, a bit of this kind of lace to Mary, queen of Scots. This is a very strong proof of her belief in the queen's innocence of the guilt that had been imputed to her. The little square of point tresse was worked by the old countess' own hands from her own gray hair. It was, in fact, hair mixed with fine flax.—London Express.

Knew He Was Dead.
 Some time after the occupation of Manila by the American forces one of the army officers was shown through the old Spanish prison in that city. He noticed a small opening through a brick wall. Upon asking its use he was told that prisoners were placed in a cell behind it and walled up alive.
 "You see, senor," said the guide, "as long as the prisoner lived his food was handed in on a plate, and he handed the empty plate back, but when he handed the plate back with the food on it untouched, then the jailer knew he was dead and didn't give him any more."

HE WAS SCARED.

Why the Drummer Made Record Time Out of Pittsburg.
 "I am not a man to brag," said the Cincinnati drummer, "but I feel that I can honestly say that I was never real scared but one time in my life, and that happened a year ago."
 When asked in a casual way to back up his statement with particulars, he continued:

"I was at a hotel in Pittsburg. I had a room on the third floor, and in coming out of it on an occasion I bumped against a man who was passing. I was feeling in ugly mood that day and when the bump came I shot off my mouth at the stranger. He replied in kind, and I suddenly shot out my left and caught him on the point of the chin and dropped him like a log."
 "And you thought you had killed him?"

"No. He lay there and snored like a seal, and I went downstairs and told the clerk he had better see to him. Three minutes later I had twenty different men around me begging me to fly for my life."
 "But why?"

"Because I had knocked out a middleweight prize fighter who had won over thirty battles. Gee whiz, but when they told me who the chap was my knees gave under me, my mouth got dry as cotton, and I didn't stop for my grip. I was dusting across the river within ten minutes, and I didn't feel safe for the next three days. Lordy, but think of it—a dry goods drummer who had never had a glove on knocking out a champion middleweight! Did I run? Well, I made record time, all right."—Chicago News.

Beecher's Fee.
 On one occasion when Henry Ward Beecher was on a lecturing tour Major Pond, his manager, was sitting beside him in the railway car. Suddenly the preacher slapped his hand on the little watch pocket of his trousers and drew forth a small envelope. For a moment he looked at it in surprise, then opened it and smiled. Presently he turned to his companion.

"Major," said he, "I married a great railroad magnate a few months ago, and as I was taking leave of him he handed me an envelope, which I slipped in my pocket unopened. That was the last I thought of it until today. Just now I opened it, and this is what I found."
 The major took the envelope. Within it were five $1,000 bills.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Greenville Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow. Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. J. Frank Powell, living in West Bayboro, N. C., says: "I suffered a severe attack of LaGrippe which left my kidneys in a disordered condition. Standing on my feet so much during the day greatly aggravated the pains in my back, and frequently I was forced to sit down to relieve my trouble. A dull aching across the small of my back kept me in almost constant misery and whenever I attempted to stoop or lift anything sharp shooting pains would dart through my loins. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since, and my kidneys have been regular in action. I am pleased to recommend this excellent remedy to other sufferers."

"I am delighted to hear that the crisis is past and that you are now convalescent. Yours, with affection, AUNTIE.
 A few days later the aunt received a brief reply.

"Dear Auntie—I have been very ill, but the nurses says she is delightful to tell you that I am now convalescent. Yours, with affection,

Again it is the experience of every farmer who has sold his tobacco at the warehouses of this company that he received higher prices than other houses could obtain. For the coming season the company is prepared to even surpass the fine record it has made in the past, hence it is to the interest of the farmers to sell their tobacco with this company.

EATERS OF CLAY.

These Queer Folk Are Found In Nearly Every Country.

In every country there are to be found people with a peculiar appetite that regards earth as a delicacy. It is difficult to account for this curious perversion of taste. At the present time in some parts of Germany, Sweden and Italy earth is baked into bread and is a marketable commodity.

In Germany there is what is called "stone" butter, made from clay. It is spread on bread. The Indians of South America mix clay with their food as a relish, and in west Africa it is quite a common practice to chew a yellow oblaginous clay.

Probably the habit of eating earth had its origin in famine, when it was taken to appease hunger. But in many places it was taken as a tidbit or a delicacy (as some benighted folk in America regard chewing gum) to satisfy a craving of the palate.

In Java the people make regular little red earth cakes, which they carry to market to sell. They are the "fancy" biscuits of that island.

The Chinese eat a white clay which could not by any stretch of imagination be called nutritious, and in India one can get from the chemist pills manufactured from earth of a yellow color, supposed to contain great medicinal properties.

Many women in Assam are addicted to the earth eating habit. In Bengal, more particularly among the middle and lower classes, the habit is widespread. All over India the people indulge their partiality for mother earth. No class or caste is exempt from the practice, though they try to keep it secret. In Calcutta one can buy in the bazaars thin wafers of edible clay.—Pittsburg Press.

Speechless With Rage.

"Strong emotion," says Darwin, "interrupts the steady flow of nerve force to the muscles." This prevents the proper working of those muscles which are used in speaking; hence the stumbling and incoherence of the speech. "The voice sticks in the throat," to use the words of Virgil. In some cases speech is for a short time impossible, as is seen where a person is said to be "speechless with rage." The hoarseness of the voice is due partly to the fact that passion causes an overaction of all the organs, partly by the fact that for generations harsh and fierce sounds have been made use of to terrify opponents in quarrels, and so have come to be associated instinctively with anger. Possibly the fact also has its influence that the utterance of sounds such as those referred to is in some way or the other a relief to the feelings.

So Simple.

The little man at the back of the pit had been vainly trying to see round the big, stout fellow in front of him, but not one glimpse of the stage could he obtain. At last he leaned forward and touched the other on the shoulder.

"Excuse me, sir," he said meekly, "but I can't see the stage at all."

"Can't see the stage?" repeated the big man sarcastically. "Well, what do you want me to do—lift you on my shoulder?"

"Hardly that," replied the little man deprecatingly, "but I thought perhaps—"

"Look here," interrupted the big man; "I know how to manage it. Just you keep your eye on me and laugh when I laugh!"—London Chronicle.

Derivation of the Word Sunday.

The word "Sabbath" is a Hebrew term for a period as well as quality of time and means "rest." In the Bible it is used only with this meaning. Periods of one year or of seven years were thus characterized. Every seventh day was observed by the Hebrews as a weekly "Sabbath." In addition to this day others were appointed in which the obligation to cease from labor was as binding as the observance of the weekly "Sabbath." "Sunday" is so named from the day which was dedicated to the worship of the sun. Christian nations observe it as their "Sabbath," but "Sabbath" is not "Sunday."

A Conundrum.

"I heard the following conundrum," said the observer, "which struck me as distinctly clever: 'What character is there in the Bible who possesses no name, who suffered death in different form from any inflicted before or since that time, a portion of whose shroud is in every household and the cause of whose death has been made famous by a modern author?'"

"Give it up, eh? Well, the answer is, Lot's wife. She possessed no name. No one else met death through being turned into a pillar of salt. Salt is in every household, and Edward Bellamy wrote 'Looking Backward.' So there you are."

PEN AND INK PIRATES.

Literary Theft Is Not Stealing; It Is Called Genius.

All authors steal. The capacity for stealing with art and elegance is one of the most potent equipments of the literary man.

Shakespeare was a magnificent thief. He stole whatever he could lay his hands on in a literary way and never marred in the stealing. He stole "Measure For Measure" from a play called "Promos and Cassandra." He stole "Hamlet" from a play by George Kyd. "Romeo and Juliet" he stole from Italy.

Sir Walter Scott stole with a sublime talent. He stole from antiquarian records. He stole from Goethe. He stole from Sheridan.

Charles Reade claimed the right of the literary artist to set jewels, even though the gems are the property of another.

Alexandre Dumas, the author of "The Three Musketeers" and "Monte Cristo," was one of the most remarkable flichers in literature. In one single year his name was attached to no fewer than forty different books. Not only did he steal unblushingly from every author who came handy, but he employed numerous literary ghosts and passed off their work as his own.

Brought to book, he had a ready reply. "The man of genius does not steal," he said; "he only conquers."

Alexander Pope, who made thousands of pounds by his poetic translation of Homer's "Iliad," was an indifferent Greek scholar. In addition to stealing from previous translators, he employed others to help and then claimed the whole work as his own.

When he translated "The Odyssey" he kept the public in ignorance that only twelve books could be called his and that the rest were the work of men whom he paid badly.

The arguments in Pope's "Essay on Man" were furnished by Lord Bolingbroke, and his "Essay on Criticism" was a poetic version of the conversation of his intimates.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan, wit, dramatist and politician, stole his famous characters Charles Surface and Joseph Surface in "The School for Scandal" from Tom Jones and Blifil in Fielding's well known novel, and he abducted Tabitha Bramble and Sir Hubert Mackligott and transformed them into those still more entertaining characters Mrs. Malaprop and Sir Lucius O'Trigger in "The Rivals."

Of modern authors who stole and are stealing still the present writer does not say a word. Only history can afford to be free spoken.—Exchange.

Free Candy.
A gentleman connected with a large confectionery establishment in the heart of the city finds the free candy luncheon the greatest nuisance about the place.
"Half a dozen young women will come in together to buy candy, and every one of the lot will make a tour around the candy counter, sampling every variety until by the time they buy the crowd has eaten from half a pound to a pound of the choicest candy in the store. Why they should make free with candies and other delicacies I never could understand. When they go to a ribbon counter they do not take the clerk's scissors and snip off a piece of ribbon from every bolt, nor when they are at the notion counter do they pick up and carry away the little articles of a hundred kinds that are sold there, but the idea that sweets are free seems thoroughly to pervade the young female mind; hence in many candy stores all the candy boxes and loose candies are placed under glass."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Some Superstitions.
When starting for the river, says a writer in London Field, if you have to turn back and get something that you have forgotten, you are sure to catch little or nothing that day. This is an article of Devon folklore, and I am inclined to think the west country folk right herein. The disappointment, the hurry and the bringing of wrong things always act prejudicially upon what ought to be the unruffled, even temper of a successful angler. He becomes hasty and rash, most often with ill results to his basket. In the western highlands it is currently believed that if you see a colt with its back to you when starting in the morning on a fishing excursion it is the worst of luck, only to be exceeded should you hear a cuckoo before breakfast.
