The First Speech of the Campaign.

The first speech of the campaign of 1908 in North Carolina was made Monday at Webster, Jackson county, by Hon. Locke Craig. As in 1908, Mr. Craig has set the pace for the party. The friends who worked for him in the recent gubernatorial contest never supported a more deserving and loyal Democrat. If any of them are feeling any soreness or lukewarmness because of Mr. Kitchin's nomination, they will do Mr. Craig an injustice by not giving the ticket their most active and whole-hearted support. We wish to see every Western county this year give Mr. Kitchin and the county Democratic tickets as large majorities as they would had Mr. Craig been the nominee for governor.

Following is a report of his speech at Webster.

"Mr. Craig's speech was an unusually strong one, and Democratic to the core. The welfare of the State, he said, demanded the success of the Democratic ticket. He declared that the interests of the State were far above the interests of any man, and was to be considered above all personal advantages. Every Democrat ought to stand by his party, said the speaker. He reviewed the history of the Democratic party in the State, dwelling upon the fact that Democracy stood for equal rights, while Republicanism stood for special interests."—Newton Enterprise.

Pensions for Widows in Australia.

In stating that the Australian State of Queensland in 1879 began a system of subsidizing widows in the care of their children, Consular Agent Asbury Caldwell, of Brisbane, writes of its further development:

The idea has steadily grown, and it has been found wiser for the State to pension the mother for the care of her children than to condemn her to such employment which would cause her to neglect the children. The following new scale of weekly allowances was authorized by the recent parliament to take effect May 1, 1908: For one child, $1.22; two children $1.10 each; three children, 97 cents each; four children, 91 cents each; more than four children, a maximum of $4.38.

The Mutual Life.

When The Mutual Life Insurance Company began business in 1843 the city of New York had 350,000 inhabitants and Chicago a population of 7,500. There were but twenty-six States in the Union and the population of the United States amounted to 18,000,000. King Edward of the present day was a little toddler of two years and Grover Cleveland a little boy of six years. Charles Dickens had just arrived home with his "American Notes," wherein he recorded the fact that he had seen pigs grubbing around on our famous Broadway, and brought down upon himself the general condemnation of all good Americans. Charles Louis Napoleon was an imprisoned adventurer in the castle of Ham, U. S. Grant had just graduated from West Point, P. T. Barnum had opened his first show in New York City, John Tyler was the President of the United States, and the present Emperor of Russia and the Kaiser were unborn. The Mutual Life began business without a dollar of capital and its income from premiums paid during the first year of business amounted to $37,293. Total income in 1907, $31,174,473.85. Great changes in a comparatively short space of time! The Mutual Life pays its surplus to its policyholders each year. Her policy contracts are irrevocable.

H. Bently Harris.

Having Power With God.

No man ever needed to wrest anything from God; but many a man makes it necessary for God to struggle with him in order to gain any recognition from that man. How often we hear talk that just reverses the facts as they are! Even Christian people talk as though God needed to be persuaded, and as though some souls had more "power with God" than others when it comes to offering a petition which needs answering. The only difference between men is, not in the power they have with God, but in the power they have from God. Of course, power from God enables a man to know God's will the better, and thus enables him to pray for that which God is the more likely to send. But God is hungering and longing to send power into the life of every child of His. Some close their lives against Him, and shut the power out; others open their lives to Him, and receive the power more abundantly. One who is farthest away from God will receive all the power that he can hold the instant he turns toward God in surrender and expressed need.—Sunday School Times.

Good Management.

"Good management is better than a good income." You may not have a good income, but a little good management will provide you with life insurance, which is the next best thing.—H. Bently Harris, with the Mutual Life of N. Y.

Mr. Kern's Popularity in Home Town.

True to his antecedents and the circumstances of his bringing up, Mr. Kern is a democrat of democrats. In manners, as in principles, he is pre-eminently a man of the people, though he is quite above any attempt to appeal to the voting ho polloi by the mere affectation of bucolic tastes and interests. In making up an estimate of the man one cannot do better than to accept the judgment of his Indiana neighbors, and especially of his every day acquaintances in Indianapolis. Indianapolis is a flourishing and progressive city, but it has not yet thrown off certain of the characteristics of a big, overgrown country town. One of the pleasantest of these characteristics is the neighborly pride which its citizens take in the honors that fall to any one of their number. Everybody knows Fairbanks, Beveridge, Kern, and the lesser lights, and everybody, irrespective of political affiliations, is ready to hang out Old Glory, burn red fire, and "whoop things up" generally when unusual distinction has fallen to a fellow townsman. The non-partisan demonstration spontaneously arranged for the occasion of Mr. Kern's return from Denver was, however, a really remarkable and exceptional testimonial to the nominee's popularity among his own people. In a city like Indianapolis there would have been an ovation for any similarly honored favorite son, but it is doubtful whether the nomination of any other man would have been made the occasion for so widely participated in and so heartfelt a reception as that given the present candidate.—From "John Worth Kern, Democratic Candidate for Vice-President," by Frederic Austin Ogg, in the American Review of Reviews for August.

A BAND OF ROBBERS.

Rocky Mount, Wilson and Other Towns Are Infested With Sneak Thieves.

Wilson, N. C., July 31.—For the past several weeks robberies have been frequent in this section. Last week, in Rocky Mount, no less than half a dozen residences were entered and robbed of various articles and it seems that vigilant police there are at their wit's end to break up the gang that seem to be thoroughly organized.

The Wilson guardians of the peace are also badly stumped. For several weeks past stores and residences have been entered, and with the arguseyed police ever on the alert for the apprehension of the gentry who live by their wits, not one of them has been caught. The last robbery reported to police headquarters was yesterday morning, to the effect that the residence of Mrs. Ella Clark, who resides in the southern part of the city, had been entered and a valuable gold watch stolen.

From other nearby towns reports come that frequent robberies are occurring, which leaves the impression that organized bands are working the eastern towns.

LONG WISH TO BE REALIZED.

Beaufort to Have Modern Summer and Winter Hotel.

Beaufort, N. C., July 31.—Ever since the great storm of 1889, which swept away Beaufort's resort hotel, the people here have been very anxious to see it built back, but, although many attempts have been made, they have not been successful in their plans to rebuild. At last their wish is to be realized. A hotel company, composed principally of the best business men of the town will, within a day or two organize for the purpose of establishing a good modern hotel. They expect to build it with all modern conveniences and in addition to the summer business, they expect to cater for the tourists from the North in winter. There is no reason why Beaufort should not be made one of the most popular resorts on the Atlantic coast, and it is believed that this will be the breaking of the ice for much greater things. No resort can claim more pleasant winters and summers than Beaufort and very few can equal it.

The present plan is to build a fifty to a seventy-five room hotel with a good pavilion and other attractions on the premises. The new hotel will be situated on the board walk directly facing the ocean and within two blocks of the Norfolk & Southern depot. This considered to be an excellent site and no doubt it will be a very popular resort for pleasure seekers.

Notice.

In compliance with chapter 2, Section 1, of the ordinances of the town of Greenville you are hereby notified to clean the sidewalks around your premises of all rank weeds and grass by the 3rd day of August, 1908. Failing to comply with this notice will subject you to the penalty of the law.

MR. D. A. TOMPKINS PRESIDENT.

Charlotte Citizen at Head of Appalachian National Forest Association.

Washington, July 30.—The board of directors and vice-presidents of the Appalachian National Forest Association at a meeting held here to-day unanimously elected D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, N. C., as president. Mr. Tompkins is connected with the cotton mill industry of the South as well as with one of the most influential daily papers of that State.

His election, and his acceptance of the position, is said to signify renewed efforts on the part of the Southern people to make a great national forest of the Appalachian and White mountains. Headquarters have been established in this city to carry on the campaign with energy.

Savannah's First Bale of Cotton.

Savannah, Ga., July 30.—The first bale of "factors cotton," or that received in the ordinary course of business for this season, was bought today at the Savannah exchange by Murray M. Stewart for the Bryan Democratic Club. It was immediately compressed, placarded and shipped to Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, New York. The placard announces that it is the first bale and concludes "As surely as cotton is king, Bryan will be elected president."

The remains will reach here via Kinston on Sunday morning's train, and the interment will take place at 6.30 p. m. in Cherry Hill cemetery. The death of this little one away from home is very sad and much sympathy is expressed for the parents.

Boys Back Home.

The drum corps and the boys brigade, who have been in camp at Beaufort since Monday evening, arrived home today. The boys had a fine time in spite of the weather they encountered, and the big storm of Thursday and Friday is something they will remember.

Fish Falls With Rain.

Mr. W. F. Carroll tells us that a colored boy picked up a red-fin pike in the road near W. S. Cox's place, Friday. The fish was 3 or 4 inches long and alive when found. The place was up on high land with no way for water to get there, and it is supposed that the fish came down with the rain.

The Man Under Mortgage.

The comment of The New York Sun, independent Republican, on the speech of acceptance of Candidate Taft, is in these awful words:

"Mr. Taft's speech, deplorable as it is, will not lose him a Republican vote. What a relief it must be to him to-day to have the fearful thing off his mind, and off his conscience; and how ardently he must look forward to the time when he can say things and do things not because they are to make votes for him but because they are the right things to say and the right things to do!

"The nauseating incubus beneath which he staggers in nearly every sentence would suffocate any ordinary man. The odious compulsion to seem and not to be; the leaden sense of a crushing debt upon which an insatiable creditor computes from hour to hour his compound interest; the deadly obligation to gratitude that makes that sweetest and simplest of virtues to seem a very vice; the never relenting admonition to self-effacement—did ever a man, free, independent and sane, find his neck in such a yoke!

"William H. Taft deserves the prayers as well as the votes of every decent citizen in the country. And when he is freed from his dread obsession and once more walks in sunshine that knows no mortgage, he will show his fellowmen that no vicissitude, save death alone, can forever frustrate or subdue an honest man."

Isn't that terrible!—Charlotte Observer.

Mr. Hearst does not want fusion with any other party. He is willing to count votes on election day with the leaders of the other political parties—a thing Marion Butler, as Populist party leader, could never be induced to do.—Wilmington Star.

The Wilson Publishing Company has been placed in the hands of receivers. The company was organized last fall to publish the Daily Advocate and take over the Wilson Messenger. It ran about six months and has gone into the hands of Receiver W. A. Lucas, an attorney of Wilson, and Mr. J. O. Foy, the editor and moving spirit in the enterprise, being named as co-receiver.

So far as learned, the farmers are not falling over themselves to be first to drop a contribution in the hat. However, returns are being received by Governor Haskell, at Lincoln. Sixty-two residents turned in to him $2,780 on the first day, and the sum of $1,504 was sent in by outside contributors. It is not likely that anybody is going to make an effort to break the law against contributions of $10,000 or over.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Piles Cured at Home by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the new absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money but tell others of this offer. Write today to Mrs M Summers, Box P, Notre Dame, Ind.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Some of the Orange.

Careful research has shown that India was the country from which the orange spread to western Asia and eventually to Europe and the Americas. Oranges are at present found wild in many parts of northern India. Cultivated from a remote period in Hindustan, they were carried to southwestern Asia by the Arabs probably before the close of the ninth century. They spread ultimately through the agency of the same race to Africa, Spain and possibly Sicily, following the tide of Mohammedan conquest.

There Was a Difference.

When Dr. Randall Davidson, archbishop of Canterbury, was a curate, one day at Dartford he took a Sunday school class in a neighboring parish. The subject was King Solomon, and after the lesson he proceeded to catechise the children.

"Tell me, boys," he said, "what was the difference between Solomon and other men?" No answer. "Come, come!" said the future archbishop. "Was there any difference, for instance, between King Solomon and myself?"

A tiny hand went up and a tiny voice replied. "Please, sir, Solomon was wise!"—London M. A. P.

A STORY OF HEROISM

Showing How Brave Men Can Calmly Meet Death.

WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. Most of the Crew Were Lost and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the colonnade a simple memorial tablet, placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 26, 1852. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking re-enforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 475 men for the troops engaged in the Kaffir war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the cape. On board were also 106 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where ten officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in as orderly and as quietly as on the barrack square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board, impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The services of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain pumps on the lower after deck and told off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on the tackles of the paddle box boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to ease the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander next ordered the officers' chargers to be pitched out of the gangway. The plunging and terrified horses were got up and cast over, five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew man's pay and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat and crushing the men on the tackles. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up.

The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out, "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to, as the boat with the women and children would be swamped. They were young men in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine, but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage as in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued, but of fourteen officers and 458 men no fewer than nine officers and 349 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every woman and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the king of Prussia for the account of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment in his army, and it was spoken of in every school in Prussia and Germany.—London Globe.

It is the experience of every stockholder in this company that he never made a better investment, for the five years of its operations the original stockholders have been paid 113 1-2 per cent in cash dividends. That is the result of co-operation, good management and sound business methods.

Again it is the experience of every farmer who has sold his tobacco at the warehouses of this company that he received higher prices than other houses could obtain. For the coming season the company is prepared to even surpass the fine record it has made in the past, hence it is to the interest of the farmers to sell their tobacco with this company.

LUDWIG THE LUNATIC

Patti Once Threw Him Into a Frenzy of Madness.

A FREAK OF THE CRAZY KING.

He Frightened and Enraged the Great Diva by His Strange Whims, and When She Finally Sang For Him in Munich It Drove Him Wild.

When Patti was in the first heyday of her fame Ludwig II., the mad king of Bavaria, set his heart on having her sing for him at his private auditorium in Munich. He wrote letter after letter, begging, imploring, offering extravagant sums of money, but Patti resolutely refused to go. She had heard too many stories of Ludwig's freaks and was desperately afraid of him, but at last the king offered her a sum so enormous that it seemed ridiculous to refuse it. Then the singer plucked up courage and started for Munich. When she and her maid alighted at the station not even a carriage was there to meet them, and they had to inquire the name of the best hotel and call a cab. That was the first shock to the diva's nerves and temper. After luncheon she started out to see the town and incidentally to examine the posters announcing Europe's greatest singer. Not a mention of her name could she find. She rushed back to the hotel and told her maid to pack the trunks.

Just at that moment a resplendent officer delivered a letter from the king. The letter stated curtly that his majesty would wait for her at 7 o'clock precisely in the royal palace, where his singer in ordinary, Mme. Fischer, would give her further directions. Mme. Fischer would also sing with Mme. Patti the duets which his majesty wished to hear. A programme was inclosed. Patti wept with rage.

"I have never been treated so brutally," she said. "I shall leave at once. Tell the king so. I will not sing—never, never, never!" The officer pleaded with the irate prima donna. His majesty had been wild with excitement ever since he knew she would come and had not slept for three nights, so great was his joy at the prospect of hearing her.

"Besides," added the officer, "you know your king is—is—is—"

"Crazy," snapped Patti. "Yes, that's very comforting, isn't it? I don't know why I ever came." Just then she caught sight of this postscript:

"The king commands Mme. Patti to appear in pure white, without any color whatever, and not by any means to wear a satin gown, but soft wool. Silk is painful to his majesty."

"His majesty will have to be pained, I have no white woolen gown except my pelignoir. I shall wear red velvet."

"Red!" groaned the officer. "Oh, no, no! Red sends his majesty into fits. If you appear in red, he will scream and have convulsions. Oh, do be patient, madame! I will bring Mme. Fischer to you. She understands the king's nerves. She will explain."

He fled from the room, and shortly after Mme. Fischer appeared upon the scene. She soothed Patti into good humor and also attacked the white wool pelignoir and transformed it into a most becoming Greek robe.

Before 7 the royal carriage arrived at the hotel and Patti went to the palace. She was led through dimly lighted rooms and corridors into Ludwig's private theater, which was in utter darkness save for the moonlight that entered through the windows. Patti stood upon the dark stage, while an orchestra, somewhere out of sight, began a soft prelude. Through the gloom she could just make out a white face in the royal box, opposite the stage. Not another auditor was in the great hall.

Patti felt the cold shivers creeping over her. She shook with nervousness and fear, and when she should have begun her aria not a sound could she make. She opened her mouth, but her throat was paralyzed from nervous terror. There was a pause. The king sprang up and leaned forward out of the box, his white face gleaming in the moonlight. The violins repeated the prelude. Patti gathered herself together and made one heroic effort. Her voice rang out into the great empty place, and the king sank back into the dark box.

Patti, though badly scared, made the effort of her life and finished the aria from "La Traviata" triumphantly and stood flushed with victory. Dead silence. Not a sound came from the gloom before her. She went off the stage in a temper. Mme. Fischer was behind the scenes, and Patti waited with her for the signal to sing the next number. A messenger appeared at the door. His majesty had had enough music and had gone to his apartments. For a moment Patti stood stunned. Then she laughed. The rudeness was so colossal that it was funny. Mme. Fischer took the diva to supper and then home.

The next morning Mme. Fischer called at the hotel once more, accompanied by the court chamberlain, who bore the promised check, an autograph letter of thanks from the king and some jewels of great value. King Ludwig, Mme. Fischer said, was in one of his maddest moods, wild with regret, cursing himself and cursing Patti. He had walked the floor all night, groaning that he was a traitor, for Patti's voice had so ravished his senses that for one moment he had gone over to Italian music and had been false to Wagner, the one musician who alone had satisfied his majesty's soul.

"That was better than having bored him," added Patti, shrugging her shoulders.

THE CANDIDATES CONFER.

Conference With Regard to the Conduct of the Campaign.

Hon. W. W. Kitchin, of Roxboro, Democratic nominee for governor, and Hon. A. H. Eller, of Winston-Salem, chairman of the State Democratic Executive committee, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and were in conference until a late hour last night with the candidates on the Democratic ticket with regard to the conduct of the campaign. They also discussed the preparation of the Democratic hand book, the election of the advisory committee and other matters relating to the campaign.

Chairman Eller while here, will decide upon the time for opening the headquarters in Raleigh.

Mr. Kitchin is in splendid health, although he has had no vacation this summer. He will deliver the first speech of the campaign at the opening of Rockingham court at Wentworth Monday, August 3rd, but this will probably not be the keynote speech as that will be delivered after the Republican platform shall have been published.

Chairman Eller will remain in Raleigh today, Mr. Kitchin returning to Roxboro this morning.
