THE CONDITION OF LABOR.

Republican Party Has Never Legislated in Its Favor.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18, 1908.
Editor Reflector:

I wish to call the attention of the laboring classes to the following letters, one from a gentleman in Mississippi and the other from Hon. John Mitchell. The former says, alluding to the industrial rank and file. "These people deserve to be fooled and exploited. They will not accept nor will they appreciate any effort made in their behalf. They, as a general rule, had rather be led to the slaughter by the professional demagogue who lives in their simplicity and credulity. They will some day awaken to the realization of their true condition, but it will be too late. Then let them accept their inevitable doom, with no one to blame but themselves."

John Mitchell says, "I have never been one to believe that you help labor by denouncing capital. I am one of those who believe that not one wrong that labor suffers which it did not bring on itself, I further believe if labor will do its own duty all the misery and all the suffering that labor has endured from the beginning of the world will end."

Now it seems these two gentlemen, one in the South, the other up north, agree as to the real cause of the ills, the misery and suffering that labor has endured since the beginning of the world. They seem to think laborers responsible for their own grievances. Instead of their acquiescence to subservency and oppression to the dominant party. They have the power to better their own condition.

We have here among our vast population the most intelligent and most refined toiler to be found anywhere else on the globe. They are the bone and sinew of the land in war, in peace they are our main hope, the salvation of this nation. Yet, for the last forty-five or fifty years they have been ignored and discriminated against. Their burdens have been increased. Bill Giddings, the wheelwright or Jim Slocum, the lumberman, pays as much tax to the support of the government as the richest grafter. Let one of them settle among us worth $50,000,000 in United States bonds and not one cent of tax, either State, county or town, can be collected from him. Yet every farmer has to pay on every pig, on every cow, on every horse, on every plow.

When the Republican party went into power nearly fifty years ago, the farmers and laborers owned 90 per cent. of the wealth of this country. Now they own less than 10 per cent. The legislature at our capital city has been to make rich those able to contribute to campaign funds.

A distinguished United States senator in a speech said: "I have been in the United States senate a number of years, and if there has been a single law passed in the interest of the laboring man or farmer by the congress of the United States, I have been too obtuse to see it." But the honest, hard working man don't ask for special favor, but only for a chance to have equal justice that he may not be discriminated against. He wants to elevate himself socially, mentally and financially. They have a chance now to achieve what they have long wished for. The wise old heads around here are predicting a landslide for Bryan and Kern.

What Candidates Stokes Favors.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 18, 1908.
Editor Reflector:—

I think your suggestion of having the candidates for the various offices to meet in Greenville a few days prior to primary for speech-making is a good one. However, I am sure that such will not meet the approbation of most of the aspirants, and therefore I am asking your indulgence to say a few things any way.

I believe that the voters should know the position of a candidate for the legislature with reference to certain legislation he proposes to try to enact should he be elected. Therefore, very briefly, I wish to say that I am in sympathy with those desiring the abolition of the right of homestead, as guaranteed by the constitution; with those desiring the popular election of the members of our county board of education; with those desiring the adjustment of the salaries of our county officers in a manner commensurate with the services actually rendered; with those believing in keeping the government as near the people as possible. I will add, also, that I am standing firmly and squarely on the state and national Democratic platforms, and if nominated and elected will busy myself in bringing to pass those things essential to the perpetuation of the blessings of a free and independent Democracy.

Yours for good government,

J. F. Stokes.

Some Names Omitted.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Aug. 18, 1908.

Mrs. Troutman, mother of Mrs. D. G. Berry, died this morning at 3 o'clock. She had been confined to her bed for several months. Besides being in bad health she fell some time ago and broke her hip and has not been able to be up since. She was a consistent member of the Disciple church. She left a large family of children. Her remains will be taken to Hertford for interment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Braxton died this morning, having been confined to her bed for several months with cancer of stomach. She was taken to Kinston hospital some weeks ago, but nothing could be done for her. She was a splendid woman, a member of the Free Will Baptist church, was the widow of the late Teel Braxton, and leaves one child, Miss Cora Braxton, of Ayden.

Dr. J. C. Caldwell closed the meeting in the Disciple church Sunday night and returned to his home in Wilson Monday. He made many friends, who will be glad to have him come again.

J. R. Turnage went to Kinston and returned Monday.

A little child of Mayor Barwick is very sick.

To see the large number of hogsheads of tobacco being shipped from this point is certainly consoling. Away with the man who says Ayden can't sell tobacco.

Since the establishment of the tobacco market here our merchants tell us trade has increased 25 per cent.

Miss Cadie Holliday, of Grimesland, who has been visiting Misses Venetia and Alice Baker here, left for her home today.

Miss Novella Irene McLawhorn has arrived to spend some time with Mrs. W. L. McLawhorn.

Mrs. B. E. Early has rented the Carolina hotel to Clayton Turnage and hereafter the hotel will be conducted by him. Mrs. Early has gone to visit friends.

Miss Gladys Sutton, of Greensboro, is here on a visit to the family of her uncle, Capt. J. M. Dixon.

John Rice, of Bayboro, Pamlico county, has accepted a position as clerk with R. C. Cannon.

We would call the attention of our city fathers to the immense quantity of weeds that have grown up in every section of our town. They don't look pretty by any means.

To Mr. R. W. Lemph we are surely indebted for the able and interesting manner in which he has conducted the Ayden department in The Reflector. That Mr. Smith is an interesting writer and knows exactly when and what to write that which will tend to prove conducive to the welfare and prosperity of our town and community, was fully demonstrated during the past six weeks. We hope to have his assistance, when convenient, in the future, so our department may be the means of bringing about that development and prosperity we all so much desire. We are deeply in his debt and appreciate more fully than we can possibly express his extreme kindness to us. We sincerely hope the time is not distant when to some extent at least we can reciprocate.

Now that Ayden has a tobacco market which is an assured success, and that the hearts and souls of our community are greatly enthused and

Cotton Opening.

On a ride in the country, last Sunday afternoon, we saw several open bolls of cotton in the crop of Frank Moye, a tenant of Mr. J. G. Moye. It looked almost thick enough to begin picking.

Ordinance Against Fast Speed.

The Board of Aldermen has passed an ordinance prohibiting the riding of bicycles, automobiles, or any other vehicle on any street of the town at a greater rate of speed than ten miles an hour, or to ride or drive in a reckless manner. It is well enough that this ordinance be kept in mind.

A Good Sign.

When you hear a man sneering at the local paper because it is not big, cheap, and newsy as the city papers, you can safely bet he does not squander any of his wealth in assisting to make it better and that generally the paper has done more for him than he has for it. The man who cannot see the benefits arising from a local newspaper is about as much value to a town as a delinquent tax list.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

fully arose to the occasion, and that thousands of pounds of tobacco have already been sold, and that millions more are wending their way in this direction, and our merchants and all classes of business have been greatly revived. Don't let us stop. Arouse a still larger spirit of enthusiasm, establish other industries that will give all our citizens employment and bring about an era that will make our town one of the best and most desirable in North Carolina. We can do it. We have the people; the money and the country. Perseverance and enterprise will do the balance. Then let us up and be doing.

WITH MISS MATTIE MOYE KING.

Delightfully Entertains Friends on Her Sixteenth Anniversary.

Monday was the sixteenth anniversary of Miss Mattie Moye King, one of Greenville's sweet and attractive young misses. While not giving a formal birthday party, in honor of her natal day she entertained a large number of friends from 9 to 12 p. m. at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King, corner of Dickinson avenue and Washington streets.

The party was held on the lawn in front of the residence, the entire arrangement being most attractive. An arch of electric lights was arranged over the gate, and lines of incandescents festooned the lawn and verandas, with tables placed on the lawn underneath the lights.

The guests upon arrival were received at the arch by Carl Wilson with Miss Mabel King, of Goldsboro, and punch was served by Willie Wilson with Miss Mattie Moye King.

The contest games of the evening were progressive whist and flinch. The prize, a piece of China, was won by Carl Wilson who presented it to Miss Mabel King, of Goldsboro, and she presented it to Miss Susie Perry, of Kinston.

A very amusing event within doors was "brushing down the stars," silver stars being stuck to the ceiling and the guests each having three trials at the stars with a broom. A souvenir package of candy was awarded each one who brushed down a star.

Several of the young people enjoyed the "barn dance" on the concrete pavement near the residence.

At intervals during the evening instrumental music was furnished by Misses Ethel Skinner, Lillian Cary, Lucille Cobb and Susie Perry, and there was a vocal solo by Miss Mabel King.

Elegant refreshments were served on the lawn, the ices being specially ordered from Norfolk for this occasion the cream in pink and white blocks in keeping with the color scheme of the evening.

The out of town guests present were Misses Susie Perry, and Margaret Goodson, of Kinston; Miss Mabel King, of Goldsboro; Connor Allen, Henry Tull, Ed. Sutton and Tom Harvey, of Kinston.

May the charming hostess have many happy returns of the day.

Now She Feels Safer.

A certain Bronx housewife has been terribly worried of late. She has been in the midst of a palm reading fest, and all her palmist friends have told her of dire things that are going to happen to her in the future. She finally got a book on the subject and began to study it carefully. She was really unhappy about the situation until the other day. Now she declares everything is all right.

"You see, I employed a new cook," she said, "and there's a lot about cooking she didn't know. I looked into her palm and found her head line beautifully developed. When I discovered her cooking turnips with the jackets on I knew there was nothing in palmistry or she would have had no head line at all."—New York Globe.

They are all making such extravagant claims that you don't know who to believe.

How all of them are to get it we are unable to see, but they are all claiming it just the same.

Don't be alarmed, but doesn't this weather remind you of how it was about the time of the earthquake in August, 1886?

We do not see any use of Mr. Bryan wasting breath or loosing sleep over that fellow Van-Cleave.

We would like to see one campaign in which there were no office seekers, but the offices seek the men.

There seems to be much rejoicing in Republican quarters because the Baltimore Sun has declared for Taft. It is not unlikely that the Sun has an old grudge to get even for.

Taft will make a good hunting companion for Roosevelt on that trip through Africa next summer. Then they will have plenty of time to talk over together how their plans failed to materialize in the election.

Union county held a primary Saturday, and for nearly every office there was no nomination, resulting in the necessity for a second primary. We are looking for something similar to that to happen in Pitt county.

Governor Glenn tendered to Hon. Locke Craig, of Asheville, the appointment to fill out the unexpired term of the late Judge Fred Moore, but Mr. Craig declined. He would have made an excellent judge.

Some people seem to have plenty of money for everything but to pay their debts. They can go on every excursion and take in every show that comes along, but "haven't got a cent" if you go to them with a bill.

The primary on the 29th is only going to select the nominees for office, instead of this being done by the county convention as heretofore. The real election does not come until November, and that is the place where your vote will count.

The candidates do not agree with The Reflector's suggestion, and say for goodness sake do not call them all together on a day before the primary, as they have troubles enough already without being forced to make a speech, a thing some of them could not do anyway. All right, we'll call it off.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one decade disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. The variety of comment by leading newspapers of the country on Mr. Bryan's speech of acceptance, indicates that a great deal depends upon the kind of glasses one is looking through. From which it might be inferred there is little real honesty in politics.

Said an observing man in our hearing recently: "I once heard a judge in his charge to the grand jury dwell at some length upon the short yard stick used by the merchant. And I felt like telling His Honor that a discourse on short measurement in cord wood and short weight in coal and ice would come nearer striking a real evil." Do you see the truth in this?

The death of Judge Fred Moore which occurred at Asheville last Friday removes one of the ablest jurists of the Superior court bench in the State. He had been a judge for ten years and held his first court in Pitt county in January 1899. The Charlotte Observer says Judge Moore's first court was held in Charlotte, but in that we think the Observer is mistaken. Judge Moore was elected in the November election of 1898, came to Greenville to hold the court that began January 9th, following, and the files of The Reflector show this to be the first court he held.

An Announcement.
 I hereby announce to the Democratic voters of Pitt county that I desire the nomination of the party for State Senator from the county of Pitt, and that my name will be before the Democratic voters at the Democratic primaries, to be held on the 29th day of August, 1908. The people of the county are familiar with my services to the party to which I have been attached from my birth. I have labored for its success in the days of prosperity and in its hours of adversity. I will very greatly appreciate any support that I may receive in every section of the county, and if it shall please the party to make me its candidate for senator I shall be very grateful and do what I can to roll up a big majority in the county. If elected senator I shall labor to represent the county in the upper branch of the legislature in a manner that shall reflect credit upon myself and honor upon the county that favored me with its confidence. The result of the primaries will in no wise effect my allegiance to the party or earnest support of its nominees.
 Alex. L. Blow.

Stones and Glass Houses.
 The origin of the saying, "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones," is as follows: At the time of the union of England and Scotland London was inundated with Scotchmen, and the London roughs used to go about at night breaking their windows. Buckingham being considered the chief instigator of the mischief, a party of Scotchmen smashed the windows of the duke's mansion, known as the Glass House. The court favorite appealed to the king, who replied, "Stoene, Stoene, those who live in glass houses should be careful how they fling stones!"—New York Ameri can.

He Loved Animals.
 Of Blackmore, the novelist, an old friend says: "His kindness to animals was nearly divine. 'Dog' needs pigeons followed him. A sparrow hawk built in a hole in a tree when well one year, and he planked the well over lest the young ones, when they became venturesome, should be drowned. From the planks over the water he had a sort of ladder constructed for them to escape, which they all did and repaid him by bountifully devouring his strawberries. There is a picture of himself as a vine dresser in one of his Devonshire tales, 'Christowell.' His love for women and girls, especially girls, was as great as Mr. Ruskin's, but less outspoken, though evident in his books. There is always a Lorna or a Dairiel as sweet as English air can make her. He was shy and retiring and not given to tongue."

THE GIANT ANT EATER.

A Most Peculiar Creature That is Found in Venezuela.
 The giant ant eater of Venezuela is one of the most outlandish looking creatures in all the domain of nature. It is an animal about two and a half feet high. The body and tail taken together measure about seven feet in length. The tail is usually carried curved over the back, draping and shading the body. In appearance the bushy tail may be likened to a clump of ornamental grass. The head is very small, but it is prolonged into a snout a foot or more in length. The mouth is at the extremity of this snout.

The ant eaters belong to that group of the animal kingdom known as the edentates, a class usually toothless. If they have any teeth at all, they are very few in number, of a rudimentary or simple form, in the back of the head. They resemble in this respect birds, and they furthermore bear a resemblance to the bird creation in the possession of muscular, gizzard-like stomachs. One feature of the edentates is that they all have some peculiarity in the covering of the body. The armadillo, for instance, has a shell of armor, the pangolin a series of shingle-like scales, the aard vark, native to the Transvaal, a piglike skin, scantily covered with hair, and, lastly, the ant eater, with a bushy tail and the body plentifully covered with hair.

The ant eater is in many ways unlike other animals. The most striking dissimilarity is in its mouth, which does not open and shut with an up and down movement of the lower jaw, as that of all other quadrupeds, but it is a mere aperture, opening only enough to admit of the passage of the foot long, whip-like tongue.

In captivity the ant eater is fed on bread and milk. In its native haunts, the forests of South America, it feeds exclusively on termites, or, as they are commonly called, white ants. These termites abound in the wilds of tropical America, and the ant eater tears open with its sharp fore claws their conical mud nests and with its slender tongue licks up the inmates out of every nook and crevice.

The ant eater has a queer way of walking. It is the manner in which it uses its fore limbs. The claws of its fore limbs are so constructed that they are incapable of sustaining the weight of the body, but are turned backward, compelling the animal to stand and walk on the outer surface of the wrists. When it ambles around, awkwardly, as it appears, it seems to be using two amputated fore limbs.

WARNED BY SPECTERS

One Person's Three Experiences With Ghosts.

THE SPIRIT OF HIS SISTER.

How an Apparition From the Unseen World Aided the Brother in Deciding an Important Legal Question—The Phantom on the Grave.

Three times in my life, each instance separated by an interval of years, have the experiences here told been mine.

I come of a family to different members of which have become visible at times those appearances which for want of a better name are known as "ghosts." It is at least possible that the superstition regarding the second sight of one born with a veil may have some foundation in scientific fact, for my uncle was thus veiled at birth, and all his life from infancy vacant space was peopled to him with forms, which he would describe so accurately in dress, appearance and manner that listeners would instantly recognize departed friends, gone over years before my uncle's birth in many instances.

It was not till he was a large boy that he realized that the forms seen by him were not visible to others. Pages could be written of his experiences, but I am not here to give hearsay evidence, but my own personal experiences, the sights seen with my own bodily vision.

The first instance was so early in my life that I do not recall it, but my mother relates the circumstances.

Our home was in Brooklyn, and we had gone for the summer to Greenfield Hill, Conn. I was so young that I still wore dresses and was in charge of a nursemaid who was in the habit of receiving visits from Annie, a girl of her own class, so that I was well acquainted with Annie.

She died suddenly and was buried in the country churchyard, but I was not told of her death, being considered too young to understand.

As I walked with my nurse past the cemetery one evening in the edge of dusk her superstitious horror can be imagined when I cried, pointing directly to Annie's grave: "Oh, Maggie, there is Annie! She is waving her hand for us to come over to her!" I broke away from my nurse and ran to the cemetery fence. She caught me up and ran in a panic to the house, nor would she ever again pass the cemetery after dark.

The only idea in my mind was that of a familiar friend whom I had not seen for some time.

The second instance was at the most unromantic age possible to a boy—about thirteen. I was attending boarding school in Dedham, Mass.

A school friend, a boy of about my age, had left the school some days before for his home in the west, leaving in perfect health.

At about 9 in the evening I sat on the edge of the bed removing my shoes when the wall of the room seemed to part and open, showing the night outside, with the dim form of the trees gently waving in the wind. As I sat spellbound at this strange sight in the rift of the wall against the background of the night stood my friend as I had last seen him, just as in life. He waved his hand to me in token of farewell, stood looking at me a moment, and gently the vision faded.

I said to my roommate, who had seen nothing: "Charlie is dead. I have just seen him." The next morning a telegram to the school said that he had died the night preceding.

In the third instance I had grown to manhood—a normal, healthy man, over six feet tall and weighing nearly 200 pounds. I am a civil engineer, the hardy outdoor life being far removed from dreams and morbid imaginings.

It was on one occasion necessary for me to consult a lawyer, and one evening I met the lawyer in his Boston office to talk over a matter of business. In the course of the conversation he asked me a question which I was undecided about answering. I stopped a moment before replying, for consideration, lowering my eyes, and when I raised them, there stood behind the attorney a favorite sister, dead many years.

Her eyes were fixed on mine, her fingers on her lips. I instantly absorbed the idea conveyed by her suggestive pose and did not give the lawyer the information he asked. As I afterward proved, it was greatly to my interest not to do so.

The lawyer shivered slightly as the visitant stood behind his chair and said that there was a draft through the room.

He never knew that the sensation of cold conveyed to his nervous system was a breath from an unseen world.

Science has proved that light, sound and color are all the results of vibration of greater or less rapidity. Some of these vibrations affect our senses and we see, hear or feel their effects. But what of the vast space filled with those vibrations which affect none of our senses, yet are unknown to science? Could our senses respond to them what secrets of the unseen might not be revealed, and who can say but the secret of these strange sights which sometimes greet the eye of mortals is hidden in this unknown range of vibrations, hiding a world that is all about us, mingling with and overlapping, surrounding and telescoping our common humdrum daily life and only in rare moments of attainment drawing the veil aside for a glimpse at the unknown.—New York Herald.

He Didn't Like Pledges.
Judge Martin Grover of Troy, N. Y., was at one time approached by a young citizen who wished to be nominated to the state assembly. The shrewd old judge had certain doubts about him, which he expressed somewhat freely, and yet he was willing to afford him a trial. He therefore addressed the aspirant in this way:

"Young man, if you will give me your word that you won't steal when you get to Albany I'll see what kin be done about sendin' you there."
"Judge Grover," replied the young man, drawing himself up with great dignity, "I go to Albany unpledged or I don't go at all."

Small Tacks.
How is this for a stunt? The center of the tack industry used to be Bromsgrove, a town in Worcestershire, England, where all work was done by hand. It was a common feat for experts to forge 1,000 to 1,200 tacks so small as to fill the barrel of an ordinary goose quill, their weight being only about twenty grains.—New York Press.
