CABINET VENEER WORKS.

Making Good Progress on Plant—Begin Work in About Two Months.

We took a stroll Wednesday afternoon up to the plant of the Cabinet Veneer Co., and were surprised at the great amount of work going on there. What once looked like a wilderness has given place to an immense manufacturing plant that will give employment to scores of hands. The exterior work of the building, four stories high, is nearly completed, and placing the machinery will soon begin. The location, accessible to both river and railroad, is ideal for such a plant. It will be ready to begin work in about two months.

The Sunday Colored Newspaper Supplement.

There is evident a healthy growing sentiment against the Sunday colored newspaper supplement intended to delight and calculated to debase and deeducate boys and girls. We spend millions yearly in the public schools to educate the juvenile population, to teach them correct orthography and pure English, but from a too fastidious respect for the freedom (license) of the press, we permit the Sunday supplements to fill the receptive minds and memories of school-children with witless and demoralizing pictorial buffoonery explained in misspelled and ungrammatical language which indiscriminating children accept for fun. Children are naturally playful, boisterous, and need no stimulation—certainly not such stimulation, and the public, which is taxed millions for education, ought to take steps to stop this most immoral miseducation.—The Kalkaskian, Kalkaskia, Michigan.

Dog Beat Rides.

There is a liver colored bird dog that hangs about the union passenger station and has developed considerable of the hobo habit, only he takes his trips at expense of the railroad companies on first class trains and does not have to ride the rods or jumpers of the passing freight. He showed up around the station several weeks ago and was such a friendly, good-natured canine that those who are employed about the station refrained from hawking things at him. Since then this tramp or unknown dog has been on several trips up and down the road. No one knows the place he visits. He will stand around, watch the rains and every few days sails on a passing train and takes a nap for two or three days. He has just returned from a trip down the road.—Durham Sun.

Come Here to Work.

Says The Newbern Journal: "Mr. U. A. Underwood, carried 5 hands over to Greenville, N. C., this morning where he will put them to work laying brick on the new Eastern Carolina Training School, which will be constructed under the supervision of Messrs. Rhodes and Underwood, contractors, of this city. The brick laying on these buildings begins today."

Be Finished in Few Weeks.

Work on the bridge is making good progress, and those in charge now say it ought to be completed in three weeks more. The work goes forward as rapidly as lumber for the flooring can be delivered.

VALUE OF CORPORATIONS

State Corporation Commission's List of Assessments.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 19.—The North Carolina corporation commission has just completed the valuation of railroad and other public service corporations for taxation, extensions improvements and such like being considered principally, in as much as this is not the year for a general revaluation. As to the work just completed the increase in valuation over 1907 is found to be $1,458,003, with 245 miles added to the mileage of railroads in the state.

It is shown, too, that the largest increase of any road was the Norfolk and Souther, which had 100 miles increase. An official statement just issued shows mileage and valuations of railroads: Atlantic Coast Line, 947.68 miles at $28,434,900 valuation; Seaboard Air Line, 616.7 miles, at $12,500,000; Southern, 1,332.74 miles, at $33,913,168; miscellaneous roads, 1,454.28 miles, at $10,932,635. Total valuation, $85,780,703.

There is also a summary of valuations of other classes of corporations of a public service character, as follows: Electric light companies, $1,196,396; bridge and canal companies, $167,350; refrigerator companies, $111,136; steamboat companies, $131,633; telephone companies, $1,402,964; street railway companies, $2,190,951; water works companies, $445,225; Southern Express Company, $419,099; telegraph companies, $917,974. Total, $7,402,153. Grand total, $93,182,856.

R. E. L. Bunch to Leave Norfolk and Southern.

Norfolk, Va. Aug. 18.—R. E. L. Bunch, traffic manager of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad, will, it is reported, today retire from that position September 1 and the duties of traffic manager will be consolidated with the position of the general passenger and freight agent, now held by Col. H. C. Hudgins. This is long the line of retrenchment in Norfolk and Southern operating expenses.

Acquitted But Unforgiving.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 19.—Walter C. Butler, recently acquitted of the murder of H. J. Hairfield, today gave notice in the newspapers that he would no longer be responsible for debts contracted by his wife, Annie L. Butler, who, he alleges left him.

Mrs. Butler's confessions at the trial are believed to have been the main cause of the jury's verdict of acquittal, the case being adjudged justifiable homicide. Both the Hairfield and Butler families have left the city since the tragedy.

YOUNG FARMER COMMITS SUICIDE

Wm. Alton Christenberry Takes Life by Drinking Laudanum.

William Alton Christenberry, a young farmer on W. L. Thorne's place about five miles from town, committed suicide Tuesday night by drinking laudanum. Mr. Christenberry had been despondent for several weeks and told two of his friends, Redden Jones and Cleve Taylor of his intention to take his life and asked them to sleep with him, but they thought he was joking.

Mr. Christenberry spent Tuesday in Tarboro, returning in the evening to his home. He boarded with Mack Davis and slept in a one room house between the homes of Mr. Davis and Mr. Thorne. He retired between 10 and 11 o'clock and was found dead this morning at 4 o'clock, when he failed to come at breakfast and Taylor summoned Mr. Thorne and upon making certain that the young man was dead, the coroner was summoned.

Christenberry left a note to his sweetheart, Miss Sarah Taylor. Laying beside the note on a table was a revolver and an empty bottle, which had contained laudanum.

The young suicide was the son of William Christenberry, of near Speed, was a native of Martin county and 23 years old.—Tarboro Southerner.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., August 20, 1908. Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity.

Slight improvement is noted in several important lines of trade and there is a more hopeful spirit prevalent than has been observed for several months. There are a few tangible indications of a revival of business generally, but here and there are found encouraging indications and an increase in orders for immediate delivery. In shoes, dry goods, clothing and kindred lines, orders show a gain. Improvement is noted in some branches of the lumber business and there is more inquiry for quotations than for some time past. Retail trade is at its end season dullness but has stimulated to some extent by special sales. Collections are still backward but average fairly well for this season of the year.

CROP REPORT.

A good crop of corn has been made, though in some sections is short of former estimates because of drought and wind storms. The yield of tobacco promises to be excellent as it is now in good condition and only the contingencies of unfavorable weather during the next few weeks and early frost will prevent a good yield in both quantity and grade. Late fruit and vegetables are in good condition.

Tired of the Even Thousand.

John Hollister was one of the most popular men in Washington. He was always doing favors for other people and never asking any for himself. An acquaintance, knowing his proverbial good nature, had abused his confidence.

One day Hollister was standing in the Arlington hotel lobby when this man came up to Hollister and said very effusively:

"I'm a thousand times obliged to you for what you said to Secretary Foster. I got the place."

"And you are a thousand times obliged?" queried Hollister in his most innocent manner.

"Yes, indeed, a thousand times." "Say, can't you make it 1,200 just once? You've been a thousand times obliged on several occasions, if I am to believe you."

J. A. GARDNER NOT A CANDIDATE

He Heartily Endorses the Present Board.

Editor Reflector:

Some of my friends, without my consent and approval, have proposed my name as a candidate for a member of the board of county commissioners, and while I appreciate the confidence thus expressed by them in me, I cannot, under any circumstances, and would not under the present circumstances, be a candidate.

It has always been customary to re-nominate the board of commissioners for the second term, and I think this board, equally as much, if not more, entitled to the re-nomination than any board we have had for a long time.

The present board of county commissioners have made more improvements and started more new permanent public improvement, that will be for the good of the people of Pitt county, than any board in my recollection, and I understand that they have already made several contracts for public improvements that cannot be completed during their term of office, and I think it would be both unjust and unwise not to re-nominate the present board of commissioners, although the other men mentioned as candidates are good and competent men.

It would appear to me to be almost an impeachment and a reflection upon the good and faithful representatives we now have upon the board of commissioners not to re-nominate and re-elect them, and I hope that my friends and the Democrats of the county generally, will think about the matter and not do these good men an apparent injustice.

Many dams, bridges and roads in the county have already been built, and many improved, and if this board is permitted another term, I believe the people of the county will realize that they have taken good and rapid strides for progress in the right direction. Nothing, in my opinion, is more important today to Pitt county than the improvements along the lines already begun by the present board of commissioners.

J. A. Gardner.

WALL STREET IN 1775.

When the News of the Battle of Lexington Arrived.

Israel Bessel came spurring into the Bowery road from Boston April 23, 1775, breaking the quiet of a Sabbath morning by roaring startling news at every passing group of citizens, and as the congregations of Trinity and the Presbyterian church issued from their noonday services he burst upon them with tidings that the battle of Lexington had been fought and won four days before. In an instant he was surrounded by an anxious throng, eagerly clamoring for details, and Wall street was soon in a state of wild commotion, loyalists and patriots scattering to protect their families and property, each man suspecting and fearing the other and all almost equally dismayed by the news. The patriots were the first to recover from the shock, however, and, headed by Isaac Sears and some of the boldest Sons of Liberty, a band of citizens hastily assembled and, taking possession of the city hall, seized 500 stand of arms deposited there for the troops, demanded and received the keys of the custom house, closed the building and virtually deposed the royal government.

From that moment all business was suspended in the city, and between April 24 and May 1, 1775, confusion reigned supreme. Then the ablest men in the community assumed control and, calling a mass meeting at the Merchants' Coffee House, which had practically become the seat of government, organized a provisional committee of a hundred to administer the public business. By the orders of this committee the city was virtually placed under martial law, the shops and factories were closed, the streets were patrolled by improvised bands of militia, all available arms and ammunition were seized, crude preparations were made for resisting an attack, and many timorous loyalists closed their houses and sought safety at their country seats. Meanwhile some of the king's troops had been allowed to enter the city, the loyalist members of the committee feeling that their presence would insure order, but when they made an attempt to appropriate the spare arms deposited in their barracks Marinus Willett forced an armed guard to surrender this booty, and the carts containing the weapons were triumphantly escorted by a great throng of citizens up Broadway, past the head of Wall street to Abraham Van Dyke's ball alley at John street, where they were placed under lock and key.—Frederick Trevor Hill in Harper's Magazine.

First at Last.

Stevens works for a German who is in the commission business near Washington market. Stevens came near losing his job recently because of his habit of arriving late at the office, and it was not until Schmitz, his employer, told him if he was late again he would be discharged that he mended his ways.

Now he is telling his friends how the boss, who never has been able to get the kinks out of the English language, complimented him for his punctuality.

"Harry," said Mr. Schmitz, "I had noticed dot you are early of late." Stevens nodded and smiled, and his employer continued: "You were behind before, but now you are de fairst at last."—New York Press.

THURSDAY, AUG 20, 1908

The speeches of acceptance of the dozen or so of other fellows create but little interest.

Rear Admiral R. D. Evans, "Fighting Bob," of the United States navy, having reached the age limit has been retired.

One thing that should be kept in mind in selecting a legislative ticket is to guard against any tampering with or effort to kill the prohibition law.

There may be some fighting to do between the primary and the election, therefore it is just as well to be careful as to who gets the nomination at the primary.

His brethren of the North Carolina press have cause to feel proud of the address of President H. B. Varner before the National Editorial Association in session at St. Paul. Varner certainly acquitted himself admirably.

The authorities of the town of Wilson have instructed the police to arrest every man, white or black, who does not have some business, work or visible means of support. If such a rule was strictly enforced in every town it would be very beneficial. Loafers are a nuisance and dangerous to a community.

If farmers would raise their own supplies at home, they need give themselves no concern about reported advance in the prices of flour, meat and hay. But just so long as they cultivate exclusively what is called the money crops and depend upon purchasing their supplies in the West, they are going to have a hard time and fail to prosper.

It is expected that Governor R. B. Glenn will make the opening address at the fish and oyster convention to be held at Morehead city, August 26-28. The importance of this convention cannot be over estimated and for this reason Governor Glenn intends to attend the convention and give personally his reasons for calling same.

If our fish and oyster industries are to be protected and prevented from being exterminated, it is absolutely necessary that some vigorous measures shall be adopted which shall insist that adequate legislation shall be passed at the general assembly of 1909 to give the desired results. The individual cannot give the protection or enforce the laws, but the state can and will if the people of the State desire and demand it. The fish and oyster industries should be among the most valuable assets of the State and should bring a large revenue into the State treasury. How to bring about this result and at the same time make these industries more profitable to those that are engaged in them are the questions that will be discussed and receive serious consideration at the convention.

A LACING.

The Result of Little Edwin's Questions and Comments.

"Say, maw?"
 "Well, what?"
 "How do they get holes in lace?"
 "Why, they make the lace round the holes, my son."
 "But it ain't lace without it's got holes, is it, maw?"
 "No, Edwin."
 "Well, how do they get the holes in the lace they put round the holes to make the lace, then?"
 "Child, you will yet drive me to distraction."
 "Where do they get the holes, maw?"
 "Why, the holes are just air."
 "Oh, they're air holes?"
 "I suppose so."
 "Well, there's air holes in paw's hat. Does that make it a lace hat?"
 "No, no, no!"
 "A Swiss cheese has holes in it. Does that make it a Swiss lace?"
 "Hold your fool tongue! Do you hear?"
 "Didn't you say all lace had holes, maw?"
 "Yes."
 "Well, I've got shoe laces, but they ain't got no holes in 'em."
 "Leave the room and permit me to finish 'Lady Lingerie's Lost Lover; or, How Lord Lumbago Was Lured Away by a Lissom Little Lallapalaza of a Lace-maker.'"
 "Maw, kin you make lace?"
 "No, Edwin; that is not one of my accomplishments."
 "I didn't think you could, maw. Mrs. Knochenberger said you was so fat lacing wouldn't do you any good."
 "But 'maw' wasn't too fat to give Edwin a lacing that did him some good.—Chicago Journal.

The Mouse Trap.

"The child is father to the man," said an inventor. "For instance, there was a miller's son who invented, at the age of seventeen, an automatic mouse trap, a trap that used the recoil from one mouse's capture to set itself for another mouse. This trap worked well, caught eleven mice at the first go off and soon rid the miller's mill of its mice myriads. Well, sir, the boy inventor of that mouse trap used the trap's recoil principle for his greatest invention, the Maxim gun, for it is Sir Hiram Maxim I'm talking about, and if you go to the Maine village of Saugerville they'll show you there one of the automatic rapid firing mouse traps that presaged the famous Maxim gun."

Fort Sumter of the Revolution. At the mouth of the Piscataqua river, three miles below the historic town of Portsmouth, N. H., nestles the only seacoast fort in the United States which includes within its confines a combination of all the styles of fortification from the colonial stone redoubt to the present barbette battery of concrete faced with earth. Moreover, Fort Constitution, as it is named, was the Fort Sumter of the Revolution.—Army and Navy Life.

There Are Others.

"Some women are foolish. That convicted thug gets lots of flowers from women, I s'pose?"
 "Yes," answered the warden. "But the lady murderer on the next tier has had forty-seven offers of marriage to date."—St. Louis Republic.

If one brick is as good as another, why do people buy pressed brick at fancy prices? They want LOOKS as well as quality, but they cost more.

If they get quality and they are rough and ugly they cost less.

GUARDING OUR MONEY

How the Treasury Vaults at Washington Are Protected.

WATCHERS DAY AND NIGHT.

Always on Duty and Always Prepared to Shoot to Kill—Never Has a Dollar Been Taken From Them by Force—One Daring Scheme.

Not a dollar has ever been taken from the United States treasury by force.

Perhaps the nearest approach to looting the vaults of the treasury was the time Martin Broadfoot had his plans about perfected. This was back in the eighties, and the plan was to get into the building by means of the great sewer which runs under and near the treasury and is known as the Fifteenth street sewer and which grows larger as it enters the Potomac about three-quarters of a mile from the White House.

Broadfoot's plan, as developed after his arrest, was to get into the building, crack the safes and place the money in large rubber bags and float them down the sewer to the Potomac, where his pals would be in waiting. These bags were found in his room when he was arrested, and secret service men had often seen him walking along the shores of the Potomac near where the big sewer empties. This sewer is about nine feet in diameter where it passes the treasury. A man could easily make his way up the sewer through a stream of water which under normal conditions is only about twelve inches deep. By entering the tunnel or sewer at the river the journey to the treasury could be made by keeping a sharp lookout. When the man or men in the sewer reached the Fifteenth street sewer nothing would separate them from the gold coin and bullion except about eighteen feet of earth and not too secure stone wall. It was Broadfoot's scheme to dig his way through this obstruction and to let the earth float or wash down the sewer. It would not have taken one man more than two weeks, working only at night, to have made an opening large enough for a man to crawl through. Of course Broadfoot knew the exact location of the vaults, and when he once reached them he would have had no trouble in getting the gold coin and bullion. It was evidently his purpose to fill the rubber bags with the precious stuff and float them down the sewer to the river, where they would be looked after by his confederates. This was the only really well laid plot ever made to loot the treasury, and just why Broadfoot was never given a trial has never been known to the public. He was an intelligent man, and suspicion was first aroused against him by his frequent visits to the money rooms and vaults and by the questions he asked watchmen and messengers as to the hours of duty, when the time locks closed and what time they opened, and all such questions. That he could have successfully carried out his plans so far as getting into the building and the vaults are concerned there is no question, for men have been in the sewer and conduits who say that it would have been easy work. The most difficult part of the job would have been in getting away with the money and bullion, for it would have required hard work to secure it and get away. About the only chance would have been to bury it somewhere in Virginia, for if it had been placed on boats it would have been easy to recover it.

It is the opinion of the secret service men that many celebrated cracksmen have from time to time contemplated the conversion of a few million treasury notes to their own use, but after careful study they have decided that the undertaking was too colossal in character. Secretary Folger when he assumed his duties was not slow in deciding that the treasury was not properly and safely guarded. There was not an electric alarm in the building, the watchmen were isolated and had no facilities for calling help, and the safes were of the old time lock and key sort, scattered almost all over the big building. The secretary went to work to bring about a proper condition of affairs. He had the watch system completely changed and reorganized, putting them under the strictest discipline. Elaborate and extensive alarm systems were installed. The old safes were replaced by modern steel affairs with time locks and intricate combinations. The gold and silver vaults were fitted with steel casings and time locks, different parts of the combinations being distributed among various officials, so that the vaults could be opened only with the concerted action of all of them, and then only at the stroke of the hour for which the time locks had been set. But without a perfect system of watchmen to guard the safes the treasury could be easily robbed, for the most perfect safe ever made is not proof against the professionals.

The watch force of the treasury is perfectly organized, and the least infraction of rules means a layoff or discharge. The men seem to realize the heavy responsibilities resting upon them, and they are careful almost to a fault. The watch is divided into three reliefs, the tour of duty lasting for eight hours. However, the watch does not anticipate an attack by robbers, but they are prepared for any emergency, and they will not be caught napping should one ever be made either at night or by day. Each watchman is a regular walking arsenal, and the instructions are to shoot and shoot to kill.—Los Angeles Times.

MYSTERY OF THOUGHT.

Try to Concentrate Your Mind on One Theme For Five Minutes.

A St. Louis physician who has given much attention to the study of mental disease in its various phases, though, as he says himself, not enough to qualify as an alienist, has a curious theory with regard to concentration of thought on any particular subject.

His idea is that no human can so fix his mind on any special topic as to avoid even for a moment the errant thoughts that come and go, not only without our volition, but in spite of our most earnest efforts at mental application.

He goes so far as to maintain that nobody but a monomaniac can think of one subject continuously for five minutes and even believes that the ability to do so is one evidence of something wrong in the upper story.

"I once heard the subject discussed by a party of intelligent men, and one of the number was so confident of his ability to think of one subject an indefinite length of time that he roused his opponents to the point of making a test.

"If you can repeat the Lord's Prayer and then declare upon your word of honor that you have not thought of anything else while doing it, I'll make you a present of a horse and saddle and bridle."

"The confident one took up the challenge and in order to fix his mind requested the company to keep still until he got through. Then, with frowning brows and tightly drawn face, he began aloud and went slowly and apparently with the most determined attention straight through the prayer.

"After he said 'amen' and opened his eyes he was asked how he had got along with his task.

"It's a failure, gentlemen. I didn't get to the end of 'hallowed be thy name' before I wondered what kind of a horse it was going to be, and before I reached 'thy will be done' I thought about black saddles and white saddles and about the horse again; then of the bridle and the rein, whether they would be of light or dark leather; then of old Pete, a horse my father had and how he threw me over his head when I switched him with a locust thorn branch; then of a mare that kicked old Pete in the ribs while they were in the pasture together and left the imprint of both shoes on his side, and before I reached 'amen' I thought of a drove of wild horses that used to be out on the plains and what a pile of money a man would make by rounding them all up and selling them for farm horses.

"I did think I could fix my mind on one thing for awhile, but when I tried my brains seemed to scatter like an old fashioned shotgun."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
