OUTCOME SATURDAY'S PRIMARY.

ONLY PART OF THE TICKET NOMINATED.

A Second Primary Will be Necessary for Sheriff, Treasurer and Register of Deeds.

The primary in the different townships Saturday passed off quietly. The candidates and their friends did much work and the vote was fairly large. There were seven ballot boxes and so many candidates voted for that it took much time to count the ballots and the returns were slow coming in.

The exact outcome of the primary cannot be told until the official returns are canvassed tomorrow. In the several townships there was only one set of candidates for justices of the peace, constable and executive committee, so of course these all were nominated.

It is known that A. L. Blow received the highest vote for the Senate and is nominated for that office. Unofficial returns show that he received about 1048 votes and J. J. Laughinghouse about 904 votes, making Blow's majority around 144, with one precinct to hear from.

It is also practically certain that R. R. Cotten and B. T. Cox are nominated for the house of representatives, the returns so far showing Cotten has about 1157 votes and Cox about 1023, with one precinct to hear from.

The following county commissioners also probably have majorities and are nominated: D. J. Holland and N. T. Cox of the old board, and J. P. Quinerly, J. J. May and A. V. Lang.

As to sheriff, treasurer and register of deeds another primary will be necessary, as none of the candidates for these offices received a majority of the votes cast. The second primary will be called by the executive committee at their meeting tomorrow, and at this primary only the two highest candidates for each office will be voted for. They are supposed to be for sheriff, L. W. Tucker and S. I. Dudley; for treasurer, W. B. Wilson and S. T. White; for register of deeds, R. Williams and W. M. Moore.

After the official votes are canvassed we will publish the vote each candidate received.

A Fiend Captured.

Wilson, N. C. Aug. 30.—This morning a rape fiend, Abner Renfrow, 58 years old, enticed two little girls, aged three and eleven years, daughters of Peter Randle, to the woods there to commit his hellish purpose, which undoubtedly he would have accomplished had not the children screamed. The sheriff was notified and after a long search he was found about a mile from where the crime was attempted. The black rascal on last Monday succeeded in outraging a ten year old colored girl: He was lodged in jail.

Renews Contract With Stieff Piano Co.

It may be of interest to the many friends of Mr. G. G. Fineman, whose resignation with the Stieff Piano Company was recently announced, to know that he has closed another contract with the old reliable Stieff house. Mr. Fineman has now been with the above firm 12 years and the long association and prestige he has with his house carries with it a reassurance of his usual conservatism and squareness with the trade.

Chair Factories.

A chair factory has been started in Wadesboro and through it, pleasant and profitable employment is being given to families in the community. The Ansonian, telling about it, says that "bottoming chairs is quite interesting work. Parties, some from a distance, come in and get the chairs or rather the frames and take them to their homes. The bottoms are put in by women and children with only a little experience, and by practice many become exerts and learn this work very fast. The best work so far has been done by Mr. E. G. Hall, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. F. T. Rogers, Mrs. Joe Mundlin and young Barfield. Around High Point and Thomasville farmers drive in from 10 miles away to get the work and complain when they fail to get a load of chair frames. The price paid there is only 4 cents for each bottom, while the company here has been paying 6 cents for the work. The splits for bottoms are furnished by the factory. Many housewives bottom six or ten chairs a day at odd times and very small boys and girls do the work remarkably well and are developing excellent speed." In this way, establishment of a chair factory opens up new employment to the people and is of benefit to the community. Close grained wood abounds around almost every North Carolina town. It would seem that there ought to be more chair factories put in operation in this State.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Will Have Piano Tuner Here.

We will have first a class tuner in Greenville in the next few days. Parties desiring to have their pianos tuned can get it done at a very reasonable rate by dropping us a card, care of box 261, Greenville.

It is our aim to have our own make of pianos, or those which we handle, kept up by our own men. Any unsatisfactory work if such complaint will be reported to our Mr. G. G. Fineman our check for the charges will cheerfully be refunded. Parties finding fault with tunings, tone, or action regulations will kindly report complaint to our Mr. Fineman in writing. This we want for our file as a precaution against our tuners.

Very Respectfully,
Chas. M. Stieff.

Cigarette Law a Dead Letter.

Judge Webb stressed the law that prohibits the sale of cigarettes to minors in his charge before the grand jury, and the citizenship ought to take notice of it. The law is a dead letter. It is violated with impunity and the inaction of the officers furnishes immunity to those who for the sake of a few cents prey upon the youth of the State. One single arrest and conviction of an unscrupulous dealer would end the illegal and immoral practice in any community. The judge spoke true when he said that the cigarette evil is one of the greatest that besets boys and young men, and that it is far greater than most people think.—Lexington Dispatch.

Slight Fire in Imperial Plant.

There was a slight fire Friday afternoon in the drying machine in the plant of the Imperial Tobacco Co. With the company's excellent equipment for fighting fire in the plant, it was put out with but little damage except to the tobacco in the machine at the time. The plant stopped work only about two hours.

Cotton Badly Damaged.

Saturday evening we saw evidence of the great damage the recent storm did to the cotton crop. Mr. Jesse Speight brought The Reflector several open bolls of cotton gathered from a field near town, and the seed were actually sprouting in the bolls. It shows that the cotton that had opened before the rain is practically ruined. There will be hardly more than half a crop.

High Water.

The water in the river at this place is in about three feet of the high water record of 1887, and is yet rising slowly. It is expected that the rise will cease by tomorrow and then it will likely fall rapidly. The overflow has covered hundreds of acres of lowlands and practically ruined crops thereon.

No Use for a Doctor.

If nobody did better than Mr. M. F. Boyte, of this place our friends, the doctors, would have to go out of business. He was 71 years old the 3d of this month and never took a dose of "doctor's medicine" in his life. If Mr. Boyte lived in China where they pay the doctor to keep his patient from getting sick instead of for making him well, his long years of good health would have bankrupted him.—Monroe Journal.

Jarvis and the Training School.

Ex-Governor Thomas J. Jarvis of Greenville, passed through the city yesterday afternoon on his way from Asheville, where he spent three weeks in the mountains.

The grand old man is in almost perfect health and will go back to his work, which is superintendent of the building of the Eastern Training schools which the legislature ordered built in the last general assembly. The amount of money spent in those institutions exceed $100,000 by a comfortable fortune. Governor Jarvis is chairman of the building committee and is getting along handsomely in the work.—Durham Herald.

The Greenville Banking and Trust Co.

On fourth page will be found a large advertisement of The Greenville Banking & Trust Co. that should command the attention of depositors and others interested in banking. The specimen deposit receipt shows the customer the kind of receipt he gets for his money, and every other safeguard is placed around deposits made there. Read the advertisement and see for yourself that your money cannot be more safely deposited than with his bank.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

During the month of September Dr. H. O. Hyatt will visit professionally Wilson, Farmville and Greenville, dates at each point to be announced later. He makes a specialty of treating the eye and fitting glasses.

Three Nights Beginning Thursday.

The Four Pickerts Co. will on Thursday night of this week begin a three night's engagement in the opera house here. It is the opening of the theatre season, and as they are favorites in Greenville they will be greeted with large audiences. Seats will be sold at Reflector Book Store.

Tobacco sales made another brisk week's start today. There was a big break for Monday.

WASHINGTON IRVING.

He Was an Utter Failure as an After Dinner Speaker.

Washington Irving was not a ready after dinner speaker. The author of "American Bookman" says that he shunned public appearances. Yet when Dickens came to New York in 1842 Irving could not escape presiding at the great dinner in his honor. They had already become friends through correspondence, for Irving's delight in Little Nell had to be expressed in a letter to the author, and Dickens, in his enthusiastic response, had said:

"Diedrich Knickerbocker" I have worn to death in my pocket, and yet I should show you his mutilated carcass with a joy beyond expression."

The night of the public dinner came, and Irving's dread of the introductory speech kept him murmuring throughout the repast, "I shall certainly break down."

At the proper time he rose to his feet, began bravely, but could utter only a few sentences, and ended by taking refuge in the announcement of the toast:

"Charles Dickens, the guest of the nation."

The applause was generous, and Irving took his seat.

"There," he said, "I told you I should break down, and I have done it!"

Later, while on his way to Madrid, he found himself called upon at the dinner of the literary fund in London to respond to the toast, "Washington Irving and American literature." All he could say in acknowledgment of an enthusiastic reception was:

"I beg to return you my very sincere thanks."

One Englishman at the table was heard to make the laconic comment, "Brief!"

"Yes," said another beside him, "but you can tell the gentleman in the very tone of his voice."

Painfully Polite.

The people of Dresden are very polite, so very polite that they not infrequently bring down ridicule upon themselves. It used to be told in that city that a stranger was one day crossing the great bridge that spans the Elbe and asked a native to direct him to a certain church which he wished to find.

"Really, my dear sir," said the Dresdener, bowing low, "I grieve greatly to say it, but I cannot tell you."

The stranger passed on, a little surprised at this voluble answer to a simple question. He had proceeded but a short distance when he heard hurried footsteps behind him and, turning round, saw the same man running to catch up with him.

In a moment his pursuer was by his side, his breath nearly gone, but enough left to say hurriedly: "My dear sir, you asked me how you could find the church, and it pained me to have to say that I did not know. Just now I met my brother, but I grieve to say that he did not know either."

Rapidly Americanized.

An Englishman temporarily living in Boston took his small son to the top of Bunker Hill and prepared to give him the British version of the historic fight at that point. His story, however, remained untold, the following question and answer alone being exchanged between the loyal subject of the British crown and his youthful offspring, who had been a resident of this country less than six months:

"Now, my son, do you know what event took place a hundred years ago where we are now standing?" asked the fond parent.

"You bet I do!" was the prompt reply. "This is where we licked the stuffin' out of the English!"—Boston Post.

Secret of "Nervous Balance."

The secret of mental health and nervous balance is to be found in obedience to a few rules. Here they are: 1. Cultivate sound, health creating emotions—love, joy, peace, faith and hope. 2. Allow yourself sufficient time in which to do your work. 3. Hold in reserve a surplus store of nervous energy by keeping within the limits of your organization, says Rev. Samuel McComb in Harper's Bazar. 4. Do one thing at a time. 5. Prepare yourself in good season for sleep. 6. Trust in the infinite goodness of God, who loves every creature he has made.

Lynching in Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 29.—A negro named George Johnson was hanged by a mob at Murfreesboro, 30 miles south of here, about 9 o'clock to-night. The negro this morning attempted an assault upon a Miss Morris, seven miles from Murfreesboro. He was captured and taken to Murfreesboro, where the young woman identified him and he confessed. All day there was much excitement and talk of violence and seen after dark a large crowd surrounded the jail. Sheriff Primm had a strong force on guard, but when he learned of preparations to dynamite the jail, he attempted to get his prisoner away to this city in a buggy with two deputies. About 400 yards from the jail the officers with the prisoner were overtaken by the mob, the buggy was overturned, the deputies overpowered and the negro swung up to a nearby tree. Two shots were fired and it is understood a member of the mob was slightly wounded.

WHAT IS THE FARMERS' CONSOLIDATED TOBACCO CO?

No doubt many people who have heard of the existence of an organization known as the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. have asked this question. Some have asked it through honest motives, really desiring information on the subject, so that if it was found worthy their encouragement could be given to it. The Reflector was among this class of inquirers, and when the company was first organized in October, 1903, we went to Mr. O. L. Joyner, its president and organizer, and asked him to give us some information about the company and an outline of its policy and purpose. This information was frankly given. We had faith in the man and admiration for his earnestness, and we saw if such a business policy as he had outlined for the company could be carried out it would in truth be an ideal organization through which the tobacco farmers could protect their interests and better their condition.

As a result of this information The Reflector then told its readers what it thought of the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. Through the five years since that time we have watched the progress of the company and its methods of operation, and have never found occasion to change the opinion first formed of it. On the contrary our faith has grown stronger in it each year, and we do not believe there was ever an organization of farmers that offered better opportunities for their own betterment than this.

We are led to this further reference to the company at this time by reading a 15-page pamphlet entitled "All About the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co." which has just been circulated. It is "an appeal to the tobacco growers of Eastern North Carolina" and invites the careful examination of all "who want to see a strong organization of tobacco growers." The pamphlet sets forth clearly just what the company is and what it is doing. To any fair minded person it fully answers any reasonable question or any argument that might be raised about the company. It also contains a copy of the charter and certificate of incorporation by the State.

As to the business in which the company is engaged, we give this quotation from the pamphlet:

"At the first meeting of the incorporators, it was decided to engage in the tobacco warehouse business. Perhaps it is well to state here, why the warehouse business was selected as a means of organizing the growers.

"This was done for several reasons, but most important was the fact, that this business offered the best opportunity for effective organization. Again,

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dædicated disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. it was a business built up and supported entirely and only by the tobacco growers, and they felt if a business which they had made absolutely could be used as a stepping stone to their organization, and the advancement of their business interest, then certainly it was their right and privilege as citizens to engage in this business. And last and most important of all, the tobacco warehouse offered the one place, the one connecting link between the farmer who grew the tobacco and the manufacturer who bought and manufactured it.

"Hence the great advantage to the tobacco growers in having an interest in this channel or gateway, through which his tobacco passed from his possession to the purchaser. In addition to these good and sufficient reasons, the warehouse business offered good prospect and return to the growers who invested their money in it. Therefore, for these reasons, the warehouse business was selected as a means of organizing the tobacco growers."

Concerning the policy of the company we again quote: "For the information of those who are not familiar with the methods of the company, we deem it not amiss here to let it be known that we are not making any fight on any organization or business, and while the warehouse has been selected as a means of bringing the farmers together into an organized body, unless we can show to the entire satisfaction of the tobacco growers that this business can be handled and their interest protected in this way better than any other, then this company does not expect, nor will it deserve the support and patronage of the tobacco growers.

"We have no fight with the warehousemen. They can be relied on to do all in their power for their customers, but this company, in addition to operating the warehouses for the benefit of its stockholders, proposes to employ the organization in furthering the interest of the growers. In other words, this company proposes to go about to improve the condition, assist in looking after the business end of the tobacco farmer's affairs, whether stockholders or not. It purposes to inform and keep the growers posted as to the conditions affecting their interest, to collect and distribute information concerning the production and consumption of tobacco, and in this way, regulate with some degree of system and effectiveness the acreage which more largely affects the price of the crop possibly than all other influences combined.

company will be diligently applied."

The record of the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. in the five years of its existence shows how well it has carried out its policies. Its financial success is established in the fact that in five years it paid its stockholders 113 1-2 per cent in cash dividends besides leaving a good working surplus in the treasury. It can be truthfully said that this company is doing more than all other agencies combined to promote the tobacco markets of Eastern North Carolina, and to make tobacco growing profitable to the farmers.

The farmers cannot realize how much they are indebted to Mr. O. L. Joyner and the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Co.

Mutual Dislike. Brahms and Tschaiowsky, the famous musicians, met but twice. On the last occasion Brahms was sufficiently interested in Tschaiowsky's fifth symphony to travel expressly to Hamburg in order to make its acquaintance. After the performance the distinguished composers dined together, and the conscientious Brahms frankly admitted that he did not like the work at all, whereupon the usually meek Russian plucked up sufficient courage to inform his host that the dislike of each other's music was mutual. They parted on excellent terms nevertheless.

An Introduction. "Long introductions when a man has a speech to make are a bore," said former Senator John C. Spooner. "I have had all kinds, but the most satisfactory one in my career was that of a German mayor of a small town in my state, Wisconsin. I was to make a political address, and the opera house was crowded. When it came time to begin the mayor got up. 'Mine friends,' he said, 'I haf asked been to introduce Senator Spooner, who is to make a speech, yes. Vell, I haf dit so, and he vill now do so.'"

The Farmers Consolidated Tob Co.

(HOME OFFICE, GREENVILLE, N. C.)

WILL OPERATE WAREHOUSES THE COMING SEASON AT Greenville, Robersonville, Wilson, Kinston

It is the experience of every stockholder in this company that he never made a better investment, for the five years of its operations the original stockholders have been paid 113 1-2 per cent in cash dividends. That is the result of co-operation, good management and sound business methods.

Again it is the experience of every farmer who has sold his tobacco at the warehouses of this company that he received higher prices than other houses could obtain. For the coming season the company is prepared to even surpass the fine record it has made in the past, hence it is to the interest of the farmers to sell their tobacco with this company.

THE GUM WAREHOUSE

on the Greenville market, will this season be in charge of that prince of warehousemen, Capt. J. R. Hutchinson, formerly of Wilson, whom you have only to try to be convinced of his ability to please you.

THE STAR WAREHOUSES

on the Greenville market will again be in charge of that veteran warehouseman and champion of high prices, F. D. Foxhall, whose record in the past is a guarantee of what he can do for you in the future.

The warehouses at Robersonville, Wilson and Kinston will be under capable and efficient managers who will carefully guard the interests of all who sell with them. The wise farmer will sell his tobacco with

HIS NINE CHEESES.

An Old Time New England Story of a Stingy Parson.

Anecdotes in which the mean and grasping man is outwitted or held up to ridicule are popular everywhere and always. Few ancient towns are without their historic or traditional instances of stinginess punished or sharp practice defeated. In one village of New England, says the Youth's Companion, there is still current such a tale concerning an unpopular parson of more than a century ago.

Although a learned man of impressive manners, this clergyman was noted for undue reluctance to expend and readiness to acquire. He had a habit of pleading poverty and hinting for gifts.

The parish, although with some murmuring, had responded with fuel for his kitchen, hay for his horse, Thanksgiving turkeys for his table and a "subscription cloak" of black satin for his wife when her wedding manteau became shabby. The murmurs increased when it was found that the parson turned an honest but over-shrewd penny by selling instead of using many of these donations. But they were not loud enough to disturb his stately calm, and he went his way without condescending to notice them. At last, however, fortune played him trick for trick.

One pleasant winter day he made a round of calls, and at each house, when just about to leave, he casually asked his hostess if she could let him have a little piece of cheese, as his wife happened to have none in the house and unexpected company had arrived. In each case the good housewife, instead of a little piece, generously presented him with a whole cheese, which he graciously accepted. As he turned from the door stone at the close of the last visit, while the mother of the family and her brood of nine children stood politely gathered to watch him drive away, he carelessly pulled the wrong rein, the sleigh tipped sharply on a drift, and out from under the ministerial lap robe rolled nine large cheeses, which spun friskily away in all directions on the icy crust.

His hostess understood the situation at a glance.

"Don't disturb yourself, pray, sir," she said politely as he made a motion to descend. "It is quite unnecessary. The children will gather them up, and none will be overburdened or will there be any quarreling for the privilege. See; it is just a cheese to a child."

So it was, and the embarrassed parson, unable to escape, was obliged to receive back his cheeses, with due thanks to each giggling volunteer as they came up in gleeful procession one by one.

Too well he knew that by the next day the whole parish would be laughing at his misadventure, although he could scarcely have guessed that the joke would be recalled a hundred years later.

Nature's Cunning.

Protective mimicry, that cunning device of nature to preserve animals from their enemies, is well known in the eggs of certain fishes, notably the California shark, known as Gyropleurodus francisci. The shark is of a sluggish habit, lurking among rocks, and its dark egg resembles a leaf of kelp or seaweed folded up spirally. It is deposited among the beds of kelp and clings to the leaves by the edges of the spirals. The young shark bursts open the end of the egg and swims away. Another shark's egg of the Pacific coast has tentacles which clasp the seaweed and also imitate its appearance.

Mozart and Bretzner.

When Mozart was at the height of his fame he composed the music of Bretzner's "Belmont und Konstanze" ("The Abduction From the Seraglio") at the request of Emperor Joseph II. The author of the drama was so angry at this that he inserted the following notice in the Leipziger Zeitung: "A certain fellow of the name of Mozart has dared to misuse my drama, 'Belmont und Konstanze,' for an opera text. I hereby solemnly protest against this invasion of my rights, and I reserve to myself further proceedings. (Signed) Christoph Friedrich Bretzner, Author of 'Rauschen.'" "

Long Necked Belles.

Eastern standards of beauty differ, like the customs, from those of the west. In Malacca, we are told, the small waist and velvet eyes do not count, but instead the length of the neck is the criterion of beauty. The girl of Malacca at a very early age is fitted with a metal collar, which compels her to keep her head erect, and as she grows the collar is increased in size, and by this means the neck is gradually elongated.

Quite Enough.

"I should think you'd go slow," said the cautious friend. "You know, as Lincoln said, you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people."

"That's all right," interrupted the sharper, "but I find it's always possible to fool enough of the people enough of the time."—Philadelphia Press.

Is quantity and price the only things to consider in buying brick? Do you do this way when you buy other things?

NO, you consider QUALITY, yet you turn your house over to a contractor and specify "brick." He's after the money. That means Most Quantity for Least money.

If you specify "WALTON" brick you get the "QUALITY" at COMMON BRICK PRICE and what's lots better, you get a building that LOOKS LIKE PRESSED BRICK.

If this is true its worth investigating isn't it? We are ready so lets hear from you.

A BROKEN PANE OF GLASS.

One That Once Cost Citizen George
Francis Train $60,000.

A broken window pane once cost
George Francis Train more than $60,- 00. It was this way: Citizen Train, "with the brains of twenty men in his head, all pulling different ways," went to Omaha in the spring of 1884. At that time he was the most talked of man in America. He had not a thing but money. He bought 5,000 city lots and altogether spent several hundred thousand dollars. He boarded at the Herndon House, the best hotel in sight.
The quixotic Train was regular in only one thing—his habits. He always occupied the same seat at the table. One morning a pane of glass was broken out of a window directly behind his chair. He protested and was advised to change his seat. He would not. Instead he paid a servant 10 cents a minute to stand between him and the draft. After breakfast he expostulated with the landlord, but received no satisfaction.

"Never mind," said Train. "In sixty days I will build a hotel that will ruin your business."

And he did. The contract was let that day. Scores of men were put to work. The site selected was Ninth and Hirney streets near the Missouri river. Citizen Train went to New York and engaged Colonel Cozzens, a noted caterer of that city, as manager for his hotel.

The building alone cost $40,000. The furnishings cost $20,000 more. In the basement was a gas plant, the only one west of St. Louis. The work was done on time, and, true to his word, sixty days after he threatened the manager of the Herndon House George Francis Train, citizen of the earth, opened his hotel, which he called the Cozzens House. The grand opening ball was attended by the governor of Nebraska and his staff, the mayor of Omaha and many notables from other states. The house was a blaze of glory and a scene of almost oriental magnificence. Just when the big reception was well on there was a sudden flash, a strange noise, and then—total darkness! The gas plant had collapsed.

The Cozzens House did a flourishing business for a year or two, and the Herndon House was badly crippled.
Finally Train fell out with his manager, and the place was closed.

After the business part of Omaha moved back from the river the Herndon House declined and finally relapsed into a state of innocuous desue-tude. A few years later it became the property of the Union Pacific railroad.
