BRYAN LOSES PURSE ON TRAIN.

Pullman Porter Finds It, With $500 Contents, and gets Reward of $10.

William J. Bryan landed in Kansas City this morning "broke." He lost his purse in a Pullman berth. A waiting motor car and an invitation to breakfast at the Hotel Baltimore solved the car fare and food question.

Mr. Bryan in dressing hastily on the sleeper had dropped his purse. He didn't discover his loss until he reached the hotel. "All the money I had with me was in that book," he said, as he searched his pockets.

Meanwhile the Pullman car had been switched into the Missouri Pacific yards, and the porter, Jerry Mareh, found a well worn, but fat, purse in the bedding of one of the berths. It contained some cards and papers and a roll of twenty dollar bills, $500 or more. When the porter was taken to the hotel and handed the purse to Mr. Bryan the thankful owner rewarded him with a ten dollar bill.—Kansas City Dispatch.

How Times Have Changed.

When we were young, people had bad colds, soaked their feet in hot water and got well. Now they have grip, take quinine and feel sick all over. Then they had sore throat, wrapped a piece of fat pork in an old sock, tied it around the neck at night and went to work the next morning. Now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in the house. Then they had stomachache and took castor oil and recovered. Now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital six feet due east and west and six feet perpendicular. They worked then, they labor now. In those days they wore underclothes; now they wear lingerie. Then they went to a restaurant; now they go to a cafe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a limb. People went crazy then; they have a brain storm now. Politicians then paid good hard cash for support; now they send government garden seeds. Yes, times have changed, and we all change with the times. That's progression.—Ex.

To the Ministry of the State of North Carolina.

The calling and training of young men to fill the rapidly growing number of vacant pulpits in the State is a matter of lively and continuous interest.

Our ministerial band is trying in an humble way to show the students of the university the importance of the ministry as a life work. It brings together all who have chosen this as their profession and makes of them a working and recruiting agency.

This letter is an appeal to pastors of North Carolina to stir up the minds of prospective students of this and other colleges to the present pressing need for ministers in all denominations. If there is a young man from your congregation expecting to enter the university who has already decided or who you think might be influenced to enter the sacred ministry, will you not write a frank letter to the leader of the band acquainting him with the fact and offering any suggestions as how the band may be of help.

Yours truly,
A. Rufus Morgan, Leader,
Chapel Hill, N. C.

The Man Who is Always "Just Going To."

He meant to insure his house, but it burned before he got around to it.

He was just going to pay a note when it went to protest.

He was just going to help a neighbor when he died.

He was just going to send some flowers to a sick friend when it proved too late.

He was just going to reduce his debt when his creditors "shut down" on him.

He was just going to stop drinking and dissipation when his health became wrecked.

He was just going to provide proper protection for his wife and family when his fortune was swept away from him.

He was just going to introduce a better system into his business when it went to smash.

He was just going to call on a customer to close a deal when he found his competitor had preceded him and secured the order.

He was just going to quit work awhile and take a vacation when nervous prostration came.

He was just going to repair his sidewalk when a neighbor fell on it and broke a leg.

He was just going to provide his wife with more help when she took to her bed and required a nurse, a doctor and a maid.—Success Magazine.

Parental Neglect.

The most culpable and destructive conduct in society must be charged up against parents. They are responsible for the larger part of the criminality and degradation that stands out so painfully before the public. Call the roll of the morally stained and disqualified among men and trace their careers back through the years and deeds of their lives and in the case of most of them ample cause therefor may be found in parental faithlessness to them. Lack of oversight and training at home is fatal. The school, the ministry of the church, cannot be relied on to arrest the evil, to compensate the loss of needed tuition at the hands of father and mother in earlier years. The moral obliquity that the lack of discipline in home life proves, in many cases, cannot well be characterized with exaggeration. Tolerance of the development of evil propensities in children, to say nothing of the gigantic wrong of example set to encourage and stamp them, and the display thereby of practical indifference about them, is a prodigious iniquity fraught with incalculable evil to the child, to society and toward God. Yet there are thousands and thousands of such parents and we see and feel daily the crime and destructivedemoralization of it all about us every day.—Presbyterian Standard.

Be Strong in the Faith.

It should be borne in mind that those who go into the primary and vote for men of their choice are by that act pledged to support the nominee even if their choice is not the successful one. The man who voted and then kicks out because his man is not nominated does nothing more or less than break faith with the rulings of the Democratic party and it is very natural to look upon him as a weak Democrat. That is what he is. Democracy calls upon her adherents to be men strong in the faith, and not caterers to personal prejudices.—Weldon News.

Deaf and Dumb Negro Asks for Law License.

Raleigh N. C., Sept. 1.—A decided freak in the way of an applicant for license to practice law in this State that appeared for the examination before the North Carolina Supreme Court was a deaf and dumb negro, Roger Kelly.

He is about 22 years old and was educated in the State school for the colored deaf and dumb and blind here, having read law subsequently under the direction of Dave Lane, a negro lawyer of Raleigh. It is not known yet, of course, whether he made a sufficiently high mark in his examination to entitle him to a license.

Tomatoes That Grow on Trees.

D. G. Ledwell brought to the News office Saturday some fine specimens of the grape tomato grown at his place. The main stalk of the vine grows up in the shape of a small tree, ranging in height from 15 to 20 feet, and from this trunk the branches grow out to a length of from 10 to 12 feet.

The weight of the tomato makes it necessary for the branches to be supported by framework of some kind, the vegetables growing in clusters like grapes, usually about six tomatoes to the cluster, and the clusters averaging about nine inches apart. The vine or tree begins bearing early in the spring and continues until frost.

From 1,000 to 1,500 tomatoes may be expected as the yield from each tree during the season.—Lincolnton News.

Crops Not Ruined.

In spite of the rain Vanceboro farmers are doing business, a solid car load of tobacco being shipped from that place yesterday, to the Greenville market.

Corn is not damaged and will make a good crop, while no definite estimate can be made on cotton, it will need some clearing and developing weather to determine its crop.—Newbern Journal.

Good Corn.

Mr. Johnson, of Centerville, brought to the office this morning a mammoth ear of corn raised on his farm in Pitt county, that contains 1222 grains of corn. It measured ten inches in circumference and is ten inches long. Mr. Johnson says that his entire crop is of this quality of corn. He has been working for several years to develop good full grained corn.—Kinston Free Press.

People with crops planted along the lowlands near the river have suffered much loss by the high water.

Hines-Jones.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized last night at 7.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jones, near the city, when Mr. Lovit Hines, of Kinston and Miss Padie Jones, were united in the holy estate of matrimony, by the Rev. P. B. Hall, pastor of the Christian church of Kinston.

The wedding was very quiet, only the relatives and a few most intimate friends of the contracting parties being present. After receiving the congratulations and best wishes of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hines drove to Kinston and left on the Norfolk & Southern train for Goldsboro, whence they will leave for an extended tour of northern cities. On their return they will make their home at their handsome residence on Caswell street.

Mr. Hines, who is president of the Hines Bros. Lumber Company, is one of the most prominent citizens Kinston, connected with most of its important business enterprises. Miss Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jones, is certainly one of the popular ladies of Lenior county.—Kinston Free Press, 2nd.

Card From Mr. Dudley.

To the Democrats of Pitt county: The Democratic executive committee of Pitt county having called a second primary to be held on Saturday, Sept. 12th, for the purpose of testing the strength of the present incumbent, Mr. L. W. Tucker, and myself for the office of sheriff, and other offices, I wish to state that if I am nominated this time I shall not stand for nomination for a third term of office.

Thanking my friends for the liberal support they have given me in the past, and hoping they will help me in the final contest, which will be decided on Saturday Sept. 12th, 1908. I am,
Respectfully yours,
S. I. DUDLEY.

To the Raleigh Times: Yes, WE did, but we are not going to tell it.

Let the second primary be as clean and as free from bitterness as the first one.

We hope that Eastern North Carolina will be free from the return of such a disastrous flood for years to come.

The ten new torpedo boats the government has let a contract for building, will destroy more money than anything else.

Hereafter let's quit holding notification meetings, but make them go to the convention to find it out or read it in the papers.

The editor of the Greensboro Industrial News must enjoy reading that letter. But he goes right on writing Cox editorials.

Some papers say the backbone of summer is broken. Just wait, and you will see that backbone knit together and strike some more hot licks yet.

Republican candidate for governor, J. Edward Cox, says he is not a speaker. The morning after the election he will find out that he is not much of a runner, either.

Wonder what those burglars who broke in Mecklenburg county court house thought they were going to get. They ought to get in jail.

Candidates Kitchin and Bickett are making a brilliant canvas in the western part of the State and the outlook is for a big majority up there.

The Raleigh News and Observer has pushed up its subscriptions to the national campaign fund to nearly one thousand dollars, and the list continues to grow.

There are not many candidates in the running for the next primary, but the smallness of the number will be made up in the work the few are doing. They are simply working like beavers, and the ones who win will earn it.

It seems to give the Greensboro Industrial News some comfort that Al. Fairbrother, editor of Everything, has come out for Cox, Republican candidate for governor. But that does not blot out Hilderbrand's letter to Cox, nor make his dish of crow more palatable.

Not An Earthquake, But a Flood.

The Greenville Reflector observed one day last week:

Don't be alarmed, but doesn't this weather remind you of how it was about the time of the earthquake in 1886?

We suppose it was the extreme heat the Reflector had reference to. The Landmark doesn't recall the temperature of that August in 1886 which celebrated its going out with a record shake for this continent, but it recalled that for some weeks prior to the earthquake the western sky was crimson at sunset. So large a portion of the western horizon was covered with a crimson glow, like the reflection from a great, fiery furnace, that the phenomenon attracted attention. However, so far as we recall, nobody was alarmed by the red sunsets and nobody connected them with the earthquake until, after the disaster, a Raleigh newspaper man recalled that a foreigner living in Raleigh, possibly an Italian, had remarked on the sunsets prior to the earthquake and said that in his country they usually preceded a shock. All this is preliminary to saying that, not having observed any particularly red sunsets this August, The Landmark isn't going to lose any sleep over the Reflector's intimation that an earthquake may be due.—Statesville Landmark.

Though no earthquake came, the August hot spell was followed by rains and floods that were almost as bad, so far as damage goes.

In 1900 the Republican vote in North Carolina was 133,881, while in 1904 it was but 82,543. Bryan's vote in 1900 was 150,792 and Parker's in 1904, 124,121.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Second Primary.

In consequence of failure to nominate candidates for the offices of sheriff, treasurer and register of deeds and constables for Chicod and Contentnea townships, at the Democratic primary election on the 29th of August 1908, and in pursuance of written demands by the persons receiving the second highest votes filed with the executive committee of Pitt county this day, it was ordered by the Democratic executive committee of Pitt county that a second primary election for the office of sheriff, treasurer, register of deeds and constables for Chicod and Contentnea township, shall be held at the usual voting places in Pitt county, on Saturday, September 12th, 1908, under the same rules and regulations under which the last primaries were held.

And that at said election the following candidates only shall be voted for, to-wit:

- For sheriff, L. W. Tucker and S. I. Dudley.
 - For treasurer, W. B. Wilson and S. T. White.
 - For register of deeds, Richard Williams and W. M. Moore.
 - For constable of Chicod township, W. O. White and G. W. Cox.
 - For constable of Contentnea township, Burwell D. Skinner and J. S. Moore.
- This the 1st day of September, 1908.

His New Coat.

They had been chums for so long that when the one gave a chafing dish party to some of his more intimate feminine acquaintances the other made a point of returning early from the theater in order to be present. Chum No. 2 had hardly made his appearance before chum No. 1, in his anxiety to chatter nonsense with the prettiest girl in the room, managed to upset a basin of beaten egg yolks down the front of his new tuxedo. Chum No. 1 was much distressed apparently, and chum No. 2 hastened to his assistance.

"Go into my room and take mine," he adjured his friend generously. "I've a brand new one; just came home today."

Chum No. 1 smiled queerly. "I know it, old boy," was what he said, grinning in a rather forced fashion. "Fact is—well, my own looked a little shabby this evening, and I've got yours on."

Acrobatic Baby.

Three-year-old May had a penchant for cutting everything in sight when she could get a pair of scissors. One day, being left alone with her curly headed baby brother, she promptly cut every curl from the back of his head.

When the nurse discovered the damage she said:

"Oh, May! How dare you cut baby's curls off?"

"He cut them himself."

"How did he reach the back of his head?"

"He stood on the stool." — Philadelphia Ledger.

An Accident.

"What have you to say?" asked the magistrate of a woman who was charged with breaking an umbrella over the complainant's head. "It was an accident, your worship." "Did you not mean to hit her, then?" "Oh, yes, I meant to hit her, but I didn't mean to break my umbrella!"

The Farmers Consolidated Tob Co.

WILL OPERATE WAREHOUSES THE COMING SEASON AT Greenville, Robersonville, Wilson, Kinston

It is the experience of every stockholder in this company that he never made a better investment, for the five years of its operations the original stockholders have been paid 118 1-2 per cent in cash dividends. That is the result of co-operation, good management and sound business methods.

Again it is the experience of every farmer who has sold his tobacco at the warehouses of this company that he received higher prices than other houses could obtain. For the coming season the company is prepared to even surpass the fine record it has made in the past, hence it is to the interest of the farmers to sell their tobacco with this company.

THE GUM WAREHOUSE

on the Greenville market, will this season be in charge of that prince of warehousemen, Capt. J. R. Hutchinson, formerly of Wilson, whom you have only to try to be convinced of his ability to please you.

OUR ERRATIC SENSES

Some of the Curious Facts Recorded by Physiologists.

THE PHENOMENA OF SOUND.

Squeals of Mice and the Lowest Notes of an Organ are Inaudible to Some Persons—Peculiarities of the Delicate Sense of Smell.

If you shade the eyes, you weaken your sense of hearing. Try it with a watch and the result will surprise you. If you sip a glass of cold water, you will increase for a short time your power of vision. If you fill the mouth with water, you will greatly strengthen your sense of smell.

Many similar curious facts about the senses are told by physiologists.

There is a multitude of sounds made in the world every day, for instance, which we cannot hear, however close they may be. Every sound must last a certain time in order to be heard by the ear. If it is an extremely feeble sound it must last quite two seconds or we cannot hear it. But, no matter how long it lasts, we cannot hear it if it is a very low or a very high note. Extremely small animals emit such high notes that we never hear them. Some people cannot even hear the squeal of mice. The lowest notes of an organ are mere rumbling noises to most people, and some cannot hear them at all.

It is by means of the external ear we judge the direction from which sound comes. Stand facing a clock, place your hands in front of your ears, with the palms turned back, close your eyes; you will then think the clock is behind you.

Why can some animals smell more keenly than others? It is a question of the space within the nose capable of smelling. In man this space is very small—less than one-fourth of a square inch. In dogs and most mammals it is very much larger. The porpoise has no sense of smell. Then comes man, and also the monkeys, whales and all kinds of fowl and birds, with very feeble smelling power. When people talk of vultures scenting dead bodies they make a mistake. Lions, tigers, wolves, etc., can scent them at long distances, but vultures depend on their sense of sight.

The sense of smell is exceedingly delicate. If one ounce of musk were divided into 15,000,000,000 parts one of these infinitesimal parts would be perceptible by the average person's nose. On the other hand, many people have no power to smell some substances, such as mignonette, vanilla, violets and prussic acid.

Taste is curious in the fact that different parts of the tongue appreciate different flavors. At the tip we perceive sweet tastes best, at the sides acid tastes and at the back bitter tastes. Substances must be dissolved in order to be tasted, and a dry morsel in a dry mouth has no flavor. This is why smokers cannot taste well. Their mouth glands, which manufacture saliva, are paralyzed by the tobacco. Very hot or very cold things are scarcely tasted at all. If you want to get the best flavor from your food it must be at some temperature between 50 and 65 degrees.

Every one knows how easily the sense of sight is deceived by optical puzzles. But a curious deception is practiced on us all throughout our lives, and no one ever perceives it. There is a blind spot in the eye where the optic nerve enters. In everything we look at, therefore, there is a little gap where we see nothing. But no one is aware of it, because it has been the case since we first opened our eyes.

In estimating distance we judge by the experience we gain in walking. The eye itself cannot judge distances. A near hill and a distant mountain will each form an image of the same size on the eye. We know the mountain is farther away than the hill because there are more intervening objects. But we can often make an estimate of distance, in a curious way, by the muscles of the eyeball. In order to focus a near object we must bulge the lens, and to focus a distant object we must flatten the lens. The amount of muscular labor used in doing this gives us an idea of the distance of the object.

A man seems much thinner in dark than in light clothing. All black things, in fact, appear smaller than white things of the same size. An image remains on the eye for some time after looking at an object. If the thing is very bright the image remains a long time, and sometimes if you look directly at the sun you will carry the image of it around with you for days.

Color blind people have a defective musical sense. They confuse different notes, and, curiously, the confusion of green blind people differs from the confusion of red blind people. Colors strengthen the sense of taste. Red apples and tomatoes and strawberries and green pickles taste better than the selfsame vegetables and fruit when they are paler.

For feeling we have a variety of nerves. Some spots on the skin feel pain, some warmth, some cold and some simple touch. The tip of the finger has a much better sense of touch than the forearm or the cheek. But the cheek and the forearm are far better judges of heat. In the white of the eye we can feel neither touch, heat nor cold—only pain alone—but the red lining of the eyelids can feel scarcely anything but cold. The mouth, as every one knows, can enjoy tea or coffee at a temperature that would give great pain to the hands or feet.
