NO TRACE OF BODY YET.

Night and Day Search for Remains of Young Patterson.

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 4.—Though searching parties have been out all last night and today, the body of Mr. O. W. Patterson, the prominent young business man who was drowned yesterday at the county road bridge near the city, has not been found. The Pythian Lodge has offered $25 to the party finding and bringing the remains to Kinston. Mrs. Patterson arrived in the city this morning from her home at Florence, S. C., where she was on a visit when the accident occurred. She is heart broken. Mr. Patterson's relatives from Granville county are also here, all making strenuous efforts to recover the body. No other fatalities have occurred so far as can be ascertained at this time, but as communication with the country east and south of the city is entirely cut off a different situation may develop when traffic is again restored. The decline of the water is expected to be very slow.

Oxford, N. C., Sept. 4.—Mr. O. W. Patterson, drowned at Kinston, was a native of Granville county and a son of J. P. Patterson, a prominent farmer of Salem township. Announcement of the death was received here by a telegram to Mr. Breedlove, brother-in-law of the deceased, who immediately went to the country home, conveying the sad news to his parents.

GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings in Various Parts of the World.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 4.—Horse collar makers employed by a manufacturer here sent to William Jennings Bryan yesterday a collar for Mr. Bryan's mascot mule. Every man in the shop took part in making the collar.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The champion pauper is dead after being a public charge for 85 years. Hezekiah Monk was born in the Herkimer county poor house 85 years ago, spent all his days there and died in that institution today.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4.—A sensational incident occurred in Judge Lawlor's department of the Superior court today during the examination of talisman for a jury to try Abe Ruef for the second time on the charge of bribery. One of the prospective jurors, J. M. Kelly, stated that he had been offered by one G. S. A. Blake $2,000 to vote against the conviction of Ruef, in the event of his being accepted as a juror. It developed that Kelly disclosed the matter to District Attorney Langdon in July last, saying that Blake first offered him $500, afterwards increasing the amount to $2,000.

High Water at Seven Springs.

Those who have visited Seven Springs and are familiar with the surroundings there will be interested to learn that water from Neuse river flowed over the springs and was running over the seats in the pavilion. Mr. J. P. Taylor, a photographer of Farmville, sent us a photograph showing parties in a boat in front of pavilion, and in a note at the bottom of the picture he recites that the water is higher than ever before in the history of the country.

The Four Picketts play "The Younger Brothers" tonight.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

News Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville N. C., Sept. 5, 1908. Mrs. W. H. Rouse, of Greenville, is visiting relatives here this week.

Henry Langston left Thursday evening for Trinity College at Durham. He is one of our best young men and we hope him much success. He will be in the freshman class.

J. B. Carroll & Co. are adding several improvements to their store. They will greatly increase their stock this fall.

Winterville High School has enrolled 117 pupils up to date and quite a number are expected Monday. Several were kept away last week on account of the swollen streams, etc. Miss Nan Lou Waldrop, assistant music teacher, will be here today. She comes highly recommended. Our music and literary departments are exceptionally strong.

Mrs. J. D. Cox and Miss Laura Cox spent Friday afternoon at Frank Carroll's in the country.

Miss Laura Cox left today for Ahsokie where she will teach in the graded school of that town. Miss Laura is one of our very strongest teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lineberry went to Greenville this morning.

David Purser, of Shelmerdine, is visiting relatives here.

There will be a moving picture show at the academy Monday night.

A. G. Cox has the finest prospect of hay and peavines we have seen. It is wonderful how so much feed can be made on three or four acres properly manured and prepared. The secret of successful farming now is to plant fewer acres and put the land in the very best condition possible. By so doing a great amount of labor is saved.

Herman McGlohon and sister, Miss Myrtle, went to Grindool yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. K. Barnhill and Miss Miriam Johnson went to Leens yesterday.

Rev. N. C. Duncan has returned from his vacation at his old home in Lincolnton. He reports a most delightful sojourn.

Miss Lizzie Brimson, of Reelsboro, came in today to enter Winterville High School.

At the Churches Tomorrow.

Methodist—Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. 8 p. m. The pastor of the church is anxious to see a large attendance on the Sunday School, and at the morning service, especially does he request that the membership so far as possible be present. This will add much to the usually good attendance on divine worship at this church, and also contribute to the interest of the day.

Episcopal—Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.; services with sermon at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Christian—Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. The usual services will be held both morning and evening.

Fell Overboard.

Henry Cherry, a colored man who was ferrying people across the river in a canoe, fell overboard Friday and came near being drowned. He had a narrow escape, and but for assistance being near it would have been the last of him.

First Bale of New Cotton.

The first bale of new cotton to come to Greenville this season was brought in Friday by Bryant Daniel, a colored tenant on the farm of Mrs. Nana Brown. Most of the cotton was picked Friday, and it was ginned and brought to town the same day. Owing to the high water in the river Bryant had to have his bale of cotton brought across the water in a canoe.

The bale of cotton weighed 449 pounds and was said to be better grade than was expected after having taken the recent rains and storm. It was purchased at 10 cents per pound by Mr. W. H. Kilpatrick, the wide-awake and hustling agent for Alexander Sprunt & Co.

Tobacco Sales For August.

Secretary C. W. Harvey of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, reports the sales of tobacco on the Greenville market for the month of August, the first month of the new season, at 1,552,457 pounds. Norfolk, Va., Sept. 4.—Receiver and General Manager Thomas Fitzgerald, of the Norfolk and Southern Railway, Comptroller Mackay, Attorney Edward R. Baird, of the Norfolk and Southern and George W. Roper are now in New York conferring with the capitalists in that city who are looking after the reorganization of the Norfolk and Southern. Whether this reorganization will come at an early date is not yet announced.

It was said today that with reorganization Receiver Fitzgerald will in all probability be made president and general manager of the system. It has been suggested from New York that Mr. Fitzgerald will be made superintendent following reorganization, but this is declared to have no foundation. Col. McGuire, the present superintendent is booked to continue in that position.

The band music of the Four Picketts Company is well worth a price of admission.

SWEETHEART DAYS.

Side by side, we sat in the moonlight,
An old leafless elm tree o'erhead;
In and out stars peeped through the branches
As if list'ning to all that was said.
There were only three words, "I love you."
Repeated o'er and o'er,
With my hands imprisoned in his,
And then—I remember no more.

I was so deliriously happy,
If an angel's wing waited for me
I would have shrunk back to earth from heaven,
I wished no happier to be.
I lived on and loved on, forgetting,
The first great commandment to obey,
Nor sought I, nor asked for His guidance
From whom I had drifted away.

Nor knew that I sinned in my loving
Nor worshiped an image of clay
Till the coffin lid closed for the last time
And, then I bethought me to pray:
O Father in heaven forgive me,
Let me place my hand once more in Thine.
I knew not I worshiped an idol
Till the spirit had fled from its shrine.
O Father in heaven forgive me,
I plead at Thy mercy seat,
Forgive me, own me and bless me,
I lay my crushed heart at Thy feet.
ECHO.

REAL LOVE.

It Cannot be Switched on Like the Electric Light.

We are always interested in love. Any one who has information to impart is sure of hearing.

An Italian writer now says that real love only comes by intimate acquaintance and thorough understanding, and that love at first sight is only made to order for fictional purposes. In few novels and stories is love allowed to develop in a natural way. In real life how rarely does the love which is described as "at first sight" endure to the end. It is strange to have this opinion from such a source, because Southern temperaments are more quickly inflamed than those of other nations; but as far as one can gather from observation and study of Northern folk, literature, and drama, when love once dawns it takes no longer to develop in an arctic than in a sultry clime. But the point is that all love which is of sterling quality does require a certain amount of fostering. It cannot be switched on like the electric current.—Ex.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 5, 1908

You can pin your faith to Greenville every time. This town is not one of the back numbers.

Over a million and a half pounds of tobacco sold in one month for something more than $122,000 looks like Greenville is doing something.

North Carolina has decided that she does not want that leper whom the District of Columbia authorities are holding in quarantine. The State attorney general gives the opinion that it is the duty of the government to take care of the patient.

Every now and then we read of some negro entering the professions. But what's the use? If he turns out to be a doctor, his own race will spurn his services. If he engages in law, his own race will not have him to plead their cause. It is the same in almost any other profession that might be named. The negro as a rule is a laborer, and when he tries to get beyond that he is out of his sphere. Of course there may be a few exceptions.

The cry of panic that began about a year ago and kept up for several months was contagious. Everybody who heard the cry took it up and there was panic sure enough, apparently worse than it even was. Now there is talk of good times again. We hear it and we read of it in the papers. Let this be contagious also. Take up the talk and rub off your long face and you will help to make times better. Put aside the complaining and get up and hustle for your share of what is coming.

It is the little things that sometimes count for most, even though so much noise is not made about them. Here is an evidence of this fact as told by the New Bern Sun:

"The world has never learned the name of the genius who conceived the idea of spreading butter upon his bread, a combination of food elements more palatable, more wholesome and more universally popular than any that the combined wisdom of all the professors who have ever lived has been able to devise."

The Vermont Election.

After the result of the State election in Vermont we do not suppose the Republicans will boast so much as to what they are going to do in Maine. They flooded the former State with speakers and made a desperate effort to carry it by a larger majority than ever before. The Democrats had only two outside speakers in the State, yet the result amounted to no Republican victory. The outcome of the Vermont election necessarily causes uneasiness to the Republicans regarding that of Maine. Side issues will lessen their strength in that State. They realize the fact that there is danger—even probability of their percentage of the vote in that State being reduced more than in the Green Mountain State. Such conditions do not give them encouragement for brilliant success in the national election. They show the Republicanism under Roosevelt and Taft has weakened in the party's greatest stronghold, and they spur the Democrats on to renewed vigor and greater exertions in those States which are considered doubtful and were the change of a few thousand votes will take them out of the Republican and put them in the Democratic column. It looks as if the tide has turned that way and that there will be no ebb before election day.—Wilmington Star.

Second Primary.

In consequence of failure to nominate candidates for the offices of sheriff, treasurer and register of deeds and constables for Chicod and Contentnea townships, at the Democratic primary election on the 29th of August 1908, and in pursuance of written demands by the persons receiving the second highest votes filed with the executive committee of Pitt county this day, it was ordered by the Democratic executive committee of Pitt county that a second primary election for the office of sheriff, treasurer, register of deeds and constables for Chicod and Contentnea township, shall be held at the usual voting places in Pitt county, on Saturday, September 12th, 1908, under the same rules and regulations under which the last primaries were held.

And that at said election the following candidates only shall be voted for, to-wit:

For sheriff, L. W. Tucker and S. I. Dudley.

For treasurer, W. B. Wilson and S. T. White.

For register of deeds, Richard Williams and W. M. Moore.

For constable of Chicod township, W. O. White and G. W. Cox.

For constable of Contentnea township, Burwell D. Skinner and J. S. Moore.

NEST BUILDING.

Curious Facts About Birds, Squirrels, Bees and Ants.

It is a very common error to believe that with birds the knowledge of building nests is innate. This is not the case. Birds have to be taught this art in just as systematic a manner as men are trained to be builders.

Birds are undoubtedly born with the instinct to carry little twigs and the materials of which nests are made, but unless they are instructed in the art of building they will drop them in a pile and never attempt to weave them into nests.

As a rule, it is just after the young birds have learned to fly that the older ones begin to teach them the process of interweaving and lining that is necessary to construct nests. This is most complicated. To arrange the little twigs so that they will be symmetrical and strong enough to hold the weight of the mother bird and four or five little ones to a branch of a tree requires good engineering ability.

The lining of the nest is usually of a much softer material than that of which the outside is made, and to place this neatly is also taught by the older birds. Humming birds will often follow cows for days to pick up their soft hair with which to line their nests, and they weave it as compactly as a piece of flannel.

A curious fact might be mentioned here—that birds which have always been in cages can never make nests and are pitifully clumsy even with cotton, wool and material that has been given to them.

That nest building is taught is also true of squirrels and mice, as well as bees, wasps and ants. The green ant of Australia, for instance, is very clever in the building of its nest. It appears to consider it an irksome duty, however, that can be hired out.

A small spider is therefore trained to do this work and acts as servant in all things. The green ants pay the spiders for their labors in a coin that they enjoy. It is by giving them to eat a portion of the innumerable eggs that the ants lay. This is a most agreeable arrangement for all, man included, as otherwise the green ants would rival the rabbits which overrun Australia.

The "Pivot" Age.

When is a man old? Is it a matter of looks or feeling or age or professional custom. Waiters, for instance, are held to be old at fifty. But at that period of life statesmen, barristers, actors, bishops and judges are accounted young. Athletes of all kinds are deemed old after forty or thereabouts. The board of trade regulations say that railway men and others are old for their work at sixty. Old age pension scheme makers consider sixty-five as the pivot age on which to hang their plans. The point is certainly a very debatable one.—Hearst's of Oak Journal.

Marine Insurance.

Marine insurance is the oldest kind of modern insurance. Its principles were first employed in the fourteenth century by the merchants of Barcelona, in Spain, when that city was the capital of the kingdom of Catalonia and when its hardy mariners were second to none in the world. About the same time, and also at Barcelona, the famous code of maritime laws known as the "consulado del mar," was promulgated, which is the foundation of the present shipping laws of every country.

An All Around Calamity.

A gentleman invited some friends to dinner, and as the colored servant entered the room he accidentally dropped a platter which held a turkey.

"My friends," said the gentleman in a most impressive tone, "never in my life have I witnessed an event so fraught with disaster to the various nations of the globe. In this calamity we see the downfall of Turkey, the upsetting of Greece, the destruction of China and the humiliation of Africa."

WHALE GUNS.

How They Originated and When They Were First Used.

The first attempt to use guns in the capture of whales was made as long ago as 1731. As the reader knows, the warships of that period carried swivels as well as great guns, the swivels being small cannon having a bore of something like an inch in diameter. They were called swivels because they were mounted on a universal joint, or swivel, by means of which they could be pointed in any desired direction. Some bright man-o-war sailor conceived the idea of using them to kill whales. The weapon that was then developed consisted of a stout barrel, perhaps thirty inches long, that was supplied with a wooden stock which was pivoted in an iron fork rising from the bow of a common whaleboat. The projectile was a short, two barbed harpoon, the shank of which was expanded a short distance above the barbs until it fitted comfortably within the bore of the gun. The expanded part of the shank was slotted, and a ring was made to slide to and fro within the slot. To this ring the harpoon line was secured.

In loading this gun a charge of loose powder was poured into the barrel, a wad inserted and rammed home with the butt end of the harpoon, the harpoon remaining, of course, within the barrel, ready for the shot. As the harpoon was pressed home the ring naturally slid along the slot and finally rested against the muzzle of the gun. The gun was fired by means of a flintlock that was inclosed within a metal case to protect it from the flying spray. Of course when the gun was fired the ring slid along the slot in the harpoon until it brought up against the butt; then it dragged out the line.

This swivel was used with some but no permanent success. Aiming was difficult while the boat was rolling and plunging over the waves, and with lack of accuracy came the danger of firing the harpoon into another boat instead of the whale. Moreover, the loose powder was often wetted, and the gun became useless at the moment when it was needed most.—Forest and Stream.

Melancholy Thought.

When a man really gives his thoughts up chiefly to eatables and drinkables he generally ceases to think of anything else after awhile. It is related in an old book on French cookery that Fontenelle, a French author of the early part of the eighteenth century belonging to the school of the precieuses, or literary exquisites, was found one beautiful morning lying at ease on the slope of a hill.

In the valley was a large flock of sheep. They skipped about daintily, waiting for their guardian to take them home. A friend of Fontenelle surprised him gazing meditatively upon these sheep. "Aha!" said the friend. "The amiable philosopher ponders without doubt upon the vicissitudes of life." "Y-yes," said Fontenelle. "I had been carefully looking over this flock, and I said to myself, 'It is possible that among these 200 sheep there is not one tender leg of mutton!'"

More Than Truth.

Louise after being scolded could never be reconciled till mother had assured her that she loved her, which resulted on one occasion in the following dialogue: "You don't love me." "Yes, I do love you." "Well, you don't talk like it." "Well, how do you want me to talk?" "I want you to talk to me like you do when you have company."—Delineator.

It Would Seem So.

"And does your husband still think you are an angel?" asked the privileged friend. "I guess so," answered the bride of one short year. "At least he seems to think I don't need any new clothes."—Chicago News.

A Card.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Our Trade Territory.

The trade territory of a town is not all dependent upon the distance to neighboring trading points. The trade territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and the residents of the town. If a town does not reach after the trade it will come only as fast as it has to, and it will grow as it is forced to. But if the merchants go after business in the surrounding country, advertising in every possible way, trade will come from an ever-increasing radius, the town will gain a reputation for being awake and it will forge to the front. It is the men in the town and not altogether the men living within a certain number of miles from it that makes the town what it is. —Olive Tribune.

100 Freight Cars Tied Up.

The recent storm which delayed traffic on the Atlantic Coast Line resulted in the congestion of one hundred cars of freight at Rocky Mount, southward bound. The railroad began moving these cars Wednesday, many of which contained perishable goods. The A. C. L. will suffer severe loss, not only from washouts, but also on delayed freight. —Wilson Times.

The High Price House.

Here is another of those high priced sales that F. D. Foxhall is making at the Star warehouse branch of the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. You don't see these prices equalled often. 9 5 1td 1tw
