STATE NEWS

Items of Happenings Over the State Gathered from Our Exchanges

Newton, Sept. 13.—At Startown, three miles from this place, the Sabbath peacefulness was broken this morning by one of the most demoniacal crimes ever known in this county. The tragedy took place in the Methodist church about 10:30 while Sunday school was being held, Miss Willie Bullinger, aged about 18 years, being stabbed to death by Lon Rader, aged about 21, a discharged lunatic.

Winston-Salem, Sept. 13.—Chairman A. H. Eller, of the State Democratic executive committee, is here to-day from headquarters at Raleigh, and gives an interesting interview, based on reports which induce him to strongly predict an unusually large Democratic vote in both State and nation. As to North Carolina the chairman is confident that the Democratic majority will be larger than ever, and he puts faith in reports that point to a reversal of former Republican majorities in several localities.

China Grove, Sept. 12.—Rev. W. B. Goble and Mr. F. W. Bost, two of China Grove's prominent citizens, have just secured a patent which promises when put on the market to make them known and talked of the world over. After many years of labor and study they have perfected the Monarch automatic burglar alarm which when installed in a dwelling not only starts an alarm but lights up the house and indicates the room which the burglar is attempting to enter, and at the same time makes a photograph of the burglar. It is also arranged that in case an attempt is made to enter the house while the occupants are away the date and hour the attempt was made is registered.

Hundreds See Memphis Man Shoot His Wife.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 14.—A spectacular attempt at murder and suicide occurred at the crowded corner of Monroe and Third street at six o'clock tonight when Mose Cook, forty-years old, an insurance clerk, shot three bullets into his wife and attempted to kill himself.
With the revolver in his mouth and repeatedly pulling the trigger, his life was saved only by the fact that all of the cartridges had been exploded. The man coolly started to reload the weapon when a bystander seized a club and felled him to the pavement.
The woman was taken to the hospital, where she lies in a precarious condition. The tragedy was witnessed by hundreds of people.

At the Dixie Theatre.

The Dixie moving picture theatre is to be opened tonight under a new manager. Mr. G. D. Murphy, lately manager of a theatre in Kinston, who says he intends to put on a first-class show and intends to please everyone. The program for tonight is first-class as will be seen by their advertisement in this paper. We wish the Dixie the best of luck in their venture.

On Monday next, in the court House, Hon. B. F. Dixon, candidate for State Auditor, will address the people of Pitt county. If you want to hear good Democratic doctrine be sure to be present.

GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings in Various Parts of the World.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 14.—Eleven negroes arrested at Ninety-Six, S. C., are in jail at Greenwood today on the charge of insurrection, growing out of race friction.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 14.—Passenger train No. 314, on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railway, was badly wrecked near Clarksdale, Miss., this afternoon. Three persons were killed and about thirty injured.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 14.—William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for President, today for a second time claimed the attention of the voters of Maryland. He spoke twice, the first time at Annapolis, where he discussed the issues of the campaign, and tonight in this city in the Fifth regiment armory, before an audience, which it is conservatively estimated, exceeded 25,000 people.

August Tobacco Sales.

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—The State Agricultural Department makes its reports on sales of leaf tobacco in warehouses for August, thirty seven places reporting. Wilson leads, the sales there amounting to 2,516,863; Kinston being second, 2,062,124; Greenville third, 1,561,595; Fairbluff fourth, 1,417,179. Next in order come Farmville, Fairmont, Winston-Salem, Goldsboro, and Oxford; the other markets being well below these. The total sales amounted to 16,336,498.

Farmers' Meeting.

Washington, N. C., Sept. 14th.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

The farmers' educational meeting held in Pitt and other counties last summer were productive of good results. Those who were present at the last meeting passed a resolution, requesting that a similar meeting be held this fall.

Because of this request and of my desire to promote the interests of our people, I have been able to induce the U. S. department of agriculture to detail several experts to conduct another meeting in your county.

The meeting will be held at Greenville on Friday, September 25th, 1908, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. There will be discussed some of the more important subjects relating to the farm, such as soils, cultivation and fertilization of the several staple crops. Corn and cotton breeding will be discussed by two experts.

The purpose of this meeting is to bring substantial benefit to those interested in the soil. No mere theories will be discussed. No plan or proposition will be advanced, except those which have been demonstrated by experience.

The farmers should come out, they will be benefited. Please also urge your neighbors to attend. There will be a morning and afternoon session. Come early. Remember the date, Friday, September 25th. Please write me if you can attend.

Sincerely,
Jno. H. Small

TUESDAY, SEPT. 15, 1908.

In seven weeks Bryan will be elected.

Greensboro is planning for a big time at her centennial celebration in October.

What the Republicans will try to do is one thing, and what they will do is another.

No, we cannot even give a guess as to when the sidewalks are to be completed.

You do not help your town any by running things down or in speaking disparagingly of the business of a competitor.

The Democrats do not need to get careless because the Republicans are scared. Keep up the licks and scare them out of the jobs they are holding down.

North Carolina loses a good and useful man in the death of Hon. S. L. Patterson, commissioner of agriculture, which occurred Monday.

Through the efforts of Congressman John H. Small another farmers' meeting will be held in Greenville on Friday, Sept. 25th. These meetings are productive of much good and every farmer in the country should take advantage of them. Be sure to attend yourself and urge all your neighbors to come.

Unthoughtedly our friend David Hodgin has furnished a good campaign joke, which can be used by either party with just a little change. Dave is a Republican by inheritance; he was in Pilot Mountain the other day and was talking with an old gentleman somewhere about 80 years of age. The old gentleman is a Democrat and said he had been one all his life. Dave asked him to give some reason why he was of that party. The reply was that his great-grand father, grandfather and father were all Democrats and he had followed in their footsteps. Dave thought this was a lame excuse and asked if his ancestors had been grand rascals what would he have been. "A Republican, I presume," came the answer. Then Dave quit. But the joke can be made to work both ways as a campaign story and no doubt it will be used.—Greensboro Record.

We do not think it admits of a doubt that since the national conventions Bryan has gained strength steadily and Taft has steadily lost. So intelligent an observer as Walter Wellman, the well-known correspondent of The Chicago Record-Herald, independent Republican, says that at this time Mr. Taft can count as certain only eighty-four electoral votes—these in the States of Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming. Bryan has more sure votes in the South than these States afford. Of course Taft will secure more States than those above enumerated but he will have to fight for the others, and the fact that Mr. Wellman concedes but eighty-four votes to him now indicates how strong has been the drift to Bryan since his nomination.—Charlotte Observer.

Be Careful With Seed Corn.

Director C. B. Williams, of the North Carolina experiment station, in a bulletin issued to the farmers of the state on "selecting seed corn for large yields," says:

"The practice of selecting seed corn from the barn late in the springs costs the farmers of North Carolina in decreased yields of shelled corn, an amount equal to more than five million dollars annually. Just so long as this method is followed, just so long will the corn-growers of the state lack this amount of producing what they might with the same treatment under identical conditions were they to use better methods in the selection of their seed for planting purposes. One day spent in the field selecting seed corn properly will pay better in increased yields than most any labor performed during the entire year.

"There are many ways in which this work might be done satisfactorily under local conditions and practices. Economy of performance of the operation is always to be looked after, but not at a sacrifice of efficiency.

Where corn is gathered from stalks in the field in the usual way, a good method for the corn grower to use is to sling a cotton-picking bag over his shoulder or take a basket in the hand and go through and make the selections from the field of corn which he has that is a little above the average in productivity. Take two rows at a time and select seed from those stalks which have two well-developed ears per stalk, remembering that in the selection of seed one should select from the stalks that will yield the largest amount of shelled corn per stalk. The reason why it is advised selecting from two-ear stalks is because in testing and studying varieties of corn during the past eight years on the experiment station farm and elsewhere, it has been found that the best yielders of shelled corn per stalk and hence per acre were those that averaged near two ears per stalk. Take both of the ears if they are good ones and reject both if they are not. Do not give much detailed attention to the shape of the ears and grains during the field selection, but reserve this for some rainy day or snowy day during the winter and have the young boys around to help, as there is no form of farm work that will interest them more or lead them to take a deeper interest in the work of the farm."

His Family Tree.

"Young man," said the farmer, "I must say you've done a heap o' talkin' about yer family tree. Anybody would think you owned a whole timber yard. Come out into the lane a minute."

The youth in golf clothes accompanied him.

Pausing by a weeping willow, the farmer said, "I want you to take particular notice of this."

"What for?"

"That's our family tree. That's what has heightened our ideals and stimulated our energies. That has furnished switches for four or five generations of us."—Exchange.

The Hair.

A single hair, which can support a weight of two ounces, is so elastic that it may be stretched to one-third of its entire length and then regain its former size and condition. Dr. Pincus has measured the growth of hair by cutting off circles about one inch in diameter from the heads of healthy men and so comparing the growth of the patches with that of the rest of the hair. He found that the growth rate generally became slower after cutting; that in some cases the hair on the patches grew at the same rate as the rest, but that it never grew any faster.

The ordinary length of the hair on the head ranges between twenty-two inches and about forty-five inches, the latter being considered unusually long.

PLUG HATS OF JAPAN.

Cherished Tiles of the Vintage of Fifty Years Ago.
 "There is one sight which you must not miss when you go to Tokyo," said the seasoned traveler to a New York Sun reporter. "That is the rare display of anthropological plug hats."
 "Some people arrange to get to Japan in cherry blossom season, and others want to get there in time to receive an invitation to the emperor's garden party in chrysanthemum time, but take the tip of one who has batted about the world considerably and land in Tokyo either on New Year's day or on the emperor's birthday. On both you can see something unique in the lines of headgear."
 "When Japan began to get civilized she bought all the accessories of civilization that England did not want any more. England sold her old fashioned, out of date, narrow gauge railroad stock, antiquated tram cars and other secondhand junk, including the then current styles of plug hat."
 "The tile of those days has remained the ruling fashion in Japan up to the present. Japan may build Dreadnoughts, but the plug hat of fifty years ago still reigns supreme."
 "Only on such ceremonious occasions as the New Year's festivities, the emperor's birthday or possibly the racing meets at Negishi, near Yokohama, does the Japanese gentleman bring forth from his camphor wood chest his plug hat, a heritage from his forefathers. It may be warped with twenty summers, damp or green with the shine of antiquity, but that matters nothing."
 "Once this superstructure of his wrinkled frock coat and bagged trousers is added the Japanese gentleman feels that no dignity short of a decoration of the Order of the Rising Sun can be added to his person. That crowning glory of a plug hat may settle around his ears or it may perch upon his head like half a peanut shell, but no matter. It is the hat of civilization and the badge of respectability."
 "He trots out of his house looking like one of the ancient daimios, stiff with the dignity of two swords. All that fearful day he wears this hat of ancient vintage like a crown, and in the end he stows it away in his damp-proof chest, awaiting another festival occasion or held as an asset in his estate after death."

AN INDIAN GREETING.
 The Salutation a Canadian Heard on the Columbia River.
 Telling about the Indians of the Pacific coast as he found them in 1846, Paul Kane, the Canadian artist, tried to give an idea of their language as he found it at that time. The example which he quotes would have delighted Max Muller, and it may interest some readers in this country. In his "Wanderings of an Artist" he seems not to recall any particular individual of the name of Clark who might have impressed the Indians of the Columbia river, but American readers will at once think of the comrade of Major Lewis in the famous expedition of 1803.
 I would willingly give a specimen of the barbarous language of this people were it possible to represent by any combination of our alphabet the horrible, harsh, spluttering sounds which proceed from their throats, apparently unguided either by the tongue or lip, says Mr. Kane. It is so difficult to acquire a mastery of their language that none have been able to attain it except those who have been born among them.
 They have, however, by their intercourse with the English and French traders succeeded in amalgamating after a fashion some words of each of these tongues with their own and in forming a sort of patois, barbarous enough certainly, but still sufficient to enable them to communicate with the traders.
 This patois I was enabled after some short time to acquire and could converse with most of the chiefs with tolerable ease.
 Their common salutation is "Clak-hoh-ab-yah," originating, as I believe, in their ancestors having heard in the early days of the fur trade a gentleman named Clark frequently addressed by his friends, "Clark, how are you?"
 This salutation is now applied to every white man, for their own language affords no appropriate expression.—Minneapolis Journal.

AN HONEST ARTIST.
 He Would Not Paint a Lie Even For a Napoleon.
 There was no love lost between the Emperor Louis Napoleon and his cousin, Prince Napoleon, whom the Parisians called "Plon Plon." The prince used to make abusive speeches against the emperor, which people were only too ready to repeat to him. "Let him alone," Louis Napoleon would reply. "He is too well known. No one would turn me out to place him on the throne."
 The emperor was correct, for no one said a good word about "Plon Plon." He was commonly believed to have shown the white feather in the Crimea and never exposed himself where the lead was falling. An English lady who in her younger days mingled with French society tells in her "Foreign Courts and Foreign Homes" a story as discreditable to Prince Napoleon as it is honorable to a French artist.
 While the artist was painting the historical picture of the battle of the Alma, which the emperor had ordered, Prince Napoleon called at the painter's studio to make known to him the facts. On leaving he said he wished the prominent figure in the battle to be himself mounted on his white charger. He sent the horse to the artist, so that he could paint its exact portrait. When the picture was finished and invitations were sent out for a "private view," the white charger was seen, a prominent figure in the battle, but without a rider.
 On hearing of this terrible omission the prince sent an aid-de-camp to ask the reason. The honest artist said the horse should remain if the prince wished, but no rider would be on it. "Tell the prince I have never yet painted a lie." The hint was taken. The prince ordered the horse to be rubbed out.

VOODOO DOCTORS.
 Belief of Negroes In Their Ability to Work "Spells."
 A well educated and clever negro in Philadelphia related, with obvious sincerity, an experience of his own with a famous voodoo "doctor" of that city who had grown rich from his wizardry.
 "Once a person had a writ out against me," this negro said. "The constable had it. The magistrate was set against me. I went and got a charm from the 'doctor.' I met my enemy, but I was not seen. I met the constable, and he walked by and never noticed me. The magistrate did what he had never done before—forgot all about it. The voodoo stopped it all."
 This same negro related another incident of his experience:
 "Once I was nearly killed by a voodoo black cat, which used to come into the house. I threw a stick and hit it. It was a witch. It tormented me. I was ridden in dreams like a horse. I suffered terribly. I was dying. I went to the voodoo 'doctor.' I paid him $5 for a spell. That night I awoke. The window was open; the moon was shining. I saw the little black witch hovering up and down there. She was smaller than in her own body. She wore a very big, old fashioned bonnet. Her face was like that of the cat. But she did not come any closer to me. Then she faded away. That ended it."
 The belief is prevalent among the negroes that witches have power to assume the forms of various animals. In South Carolina a means employed to guard against such visitations is to scatter rice or similar small grains thickly over the floor in the form of a cross. Before the witch can approach her victim she must devour every grain. This task is too tedious for her patience, and she takes herself off.—Marvin Dana in Metropolitan Magazine.

A Boy on Clergymen.
 Bishop Potter at an ecclesiastical dinner in New York one time read a Congregational schoolboy's essay on "Clergymen." The essay, which created much amusement, was as follows:
 "There are three kinds of clergymen: bishops, rectors and curates. The bishops tells the rectors to work and the curates have to do it. A curate is a thin married man but when he is a rector he gets fatter and can preach longer sermons and becomes a good man."—Washington Star.

Women and Betting.
 "Why is it that men bet and women don't?"
 "Men choose betting as a means of putting a stop to an argument."
 "Well?"
 "Well, women never want an argument stopped."—Cleveland Leader.

A True Friend.
 "I tell you Green is a true friend."
 "Give me proof."
 "He borrowed money from me and paid it back when I asked him for it without insulting me."—Detroit Free Press.

The reason some people can stay out of debt is nobody will let them get in.—New York Press.

Fortunate, Indeed.
 Cook—Taylor was always a fortunate man, but doesn't it seem wonderful that his luck should stay with him to the very last?
 Raleigh—How was that?
 Cook—Why, he was operated on for the removal of a pearl which he had accidentally swallowed while eating oysters, and when the pearl was examined it was found to be valuable enough to pay for both the operation and the funeral.—Judge.

Old Dances in Old Times.
 In Edward Scott's "Dancing in All Ages" are some curious details about the dances of old England.
 "Joan Sanderson" was a "jolly dance" in Mr. Scott's definition, for before it was ended each lady had kissed all the gentlemen twice, and each man had been equally enterprising. Mary Stuart danced the "Volta," though "not so high and so disposed" as Elizabeth. In King Charles' time people danced "Trenchmore," the "Cushion Dance," "Omnium Gatherum" and "Holle cum Toile."
 "All in a Garden Green," "Gathering of Peascods," "Lumps of Pudding," "Under and Over," "The Bath," "The Slaughter House" and "Have at Thy Coat, Old Woman," are dances not quite so old.

Paid For His Opinion.
 On a tour in Canada Rudyard Kipling had a little disagreement with the landlord of the hotel at which he was staying, says London Tit-Bits. Just before leaving the hotel the famous author asked to see the proprietor, and upon that worthy appearing he was greeted thus: "I want to tell you that of all the hotels under the shining sun I have never seen one that for unmitigated, all round, unendurable discomfort could equal yours." When Kipling got his bill one item in it read, "To impudence, $3."

Republican County Convention and Public Speaking.

Pursuant to the action of the Republican county executive committee, held in the town of Greenville, on August 22nd, 1908, the Republican convention for the county of Pitt is hereby called to meet in the court house of Greenville, on Saturday, Sept. 19, 1908, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various county offices of Pitt county.

To this convention, all citizens of Pitt county who favor local self-government, and are opposed to the issuance of county bonds without first submitting them to the people, and who favor the location and construction of a county home commensurate with the Christian and civilized spirit of the age, and all persons who favor retrenchment and reform in the management of our county affairs, and who expect to vote the National and State Republican ticket, are requested to attend this convention, and will be recognized as delegates thereto.

Hon. Thomas Settle and Dr. Cyrus W. Thomson have been invited, and one or both of them is expected to be present and address the convention. To this speaking the public generally is cordially invited.

EDITOR REFLECTOR-

I noticed in The Reflector sometime ago that you have a space to give kickers. We want some of that space so as to do some kicking in regard to our main street. We know that under the present circumstances it can not be swept and cleaned, but we think there is sufficient water in the standpipe to have it sprinkled every day so as to keep the dust from blowing in and ruining so much of the merchants' goods. As it is at present it is impossible to keep the dust out of the stores even with doors shut. We think the street committee must have been blinded by the dust or something else and do not realize the loss they are causing the merchants. There is an adage that a hint to the wise is sufficient. We hope this will be so and that the dust will be a thing of the past.
