THE JONES CARNIVAL IS WITH US HAD A GREAT OPENING MONDAY NIGHT.

Large Crowd Present and Shows Well Patronized—Will Continue Through Week.

Despite the threatening weather Monday night, a great crowd attended the opening of the great Johnny J. Jones carnival under the auspices of Hope Fire company. All the attractions that were opened to the public were well patronized.

The trained wild animal show is perhaps the best that has ever visited our city. Besides carrying a splendid group of animals, the acts they perform are wonderful. The trainer, Prof. Curly Wilson, is as daring as one can expect. One of his feats is to lift and wrestle with a big 400 pound lion. The most sensational feat is that of putting his head in the lion's mouth after forcing it open. One bite of the lion's jaws would sever his head from his body. Several other feats were performed, each more startling and sensational than the other.

Another of the attractions with this carnival is Hopp, the frog boy. Hopp is a great curiosity. Several of our local physicians were present and after giving him a thorough examination pronounced him to be the greatest freak of nature ever exhibited. Hopp has never visited our city before, but he hopes to get acquainted with all of our folks before he leaves. Being an intelligent young man he is quite an entertainer.

Jumbo, the big snake, is one of the largest of the reptilian species, being 27 feet long and about 9 inches in diameter. A sight that should be witnessed by every student of national history.

All the various tents were crowded at each performance and that the patrons enjoyed themselves could be seen by the happy smile on the faces of all as they left the pavilions at which they had been entertained.

Every day at two-thirty and ten-thirty "Dare Devil Cyclone" will leap the gap on a bicycle, riding down an inclined plane 75 feet in the air and leaping over a chasm 40 feet wide, risking life and limb at every performance.

Every afternoon at 5:30 the famous Brodwick's French aeronautes, will ride in a balloon to the clouds and descend to the ground in a parachute. Mlle Terassy, the smallest aeronaut in the world, will ascend in a balloon and descend, cutting loose from three parachutes, a feat never before attempted by any other male or female performer.

The attractions will open every afternoon at 2:30 and band concerts will be given by the Italian band with this company, which, by the way, is the best of its kind traveling. These concerts will be given twice every day on our main street.

The shows will continue here camped over on Cotanch street until Saturday night. Don't forget the popularity contest is the cry that was heard all over town Monday night. A handsome diamond ring will be presented to the lady holding the most votes. Everybody can vote and all ladies in the county can participate. The contest will close on Wednesday at 10:30 p. m.

Other attractions not mentioned above are Marshall's Old Plantation that is a whole show within itself and takes you back to old plantation times and scenes. Then there is the "Ocean Wave" that affords a most interesting mid air ride. The merry-go-round is there, too, besides moving picture shows, and numerous other things.

AYDEN ITEMS.

News Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Sept. 22, 1908.

Mr. J. F. Smith authorizes us to state that the action of the Republicans in their recent primary here in naming him as one of their candidates for magistrate was without his knowledge or consent. He says he is a Democrat and expects to vote the Democratic ticket from A to Izzard.

E. G. Cox, of Greensboro, is in town shaking hands with friends.

There were large congregations out at both the morning and evening services in the Methodist church Sunday.

A circus is billed for this place next Friday and we are informed the hobby horse, too, will soon be here.

Cotton has begun to come in and things generally remind us very much of the fall.

The Ayden bank seems to be doing a thriving business. The cashier and his assistant have but little spare time on their hands.

Miss Alice Carraway, our very popular telephone manager, we regret to learn is quite sick at her boarding house out near South Ayden.

Dr. E. St. Claire, a very prominent Free Will Baptist divine who has been in this vicinity for several days, left yesterday for his home in Georgia.

Mr. Scotton is here looking after the Sussman Telephone company.

M. G. Bryan, postmaster at Winterville, was here a short while Monday.

Hyman Buck, of Washington, is here on a visit to his parents.

Paul Hodges and family, of LaGrange, spent Sunday with J. R. Turnage.

The way school books sold at at the book store Monday was a caution.

Miss Mamie Cooper, of Washington, is visiting Mrs. J. J. Hines.

Tripp, Hart & Co's. little calico pony got so badly frightened at the train yesterday that he had a fit and fell down, and not until Johnnie tickled him in the side did he rise again.

If things ain't alive in Ayden now we don't know why. Large crowds in town from the country every day, the streets morning and evening with from 360 to 400 school children thronging the thoroughfares, and by no means least our merchants as busy as can be, certainly is no joke. The future of Ayden is bright and the tendency to make it more of a reality is evident on every hand.

M. M. Sauls has just received a fine lot of perfumes and toilet water.

Misses Nannie E. Richardson, Annie Perry, Ella Harris, Lucy Hodges and Lena Dawson, teachers in the graded school, have arrived and assumed control of their various departments. The school opened Monday with a very large enrollment.

Rev. C. W. Howard, of Kinston, was here yesterday.

Dr. J. W. Perkins, of Hanrahan, was here Saturday afternoon.

In a game of ball at Grifton Friday between Ayden and Grifton the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Ayden.

COMING NEXT WEEK.

"Clansman" for the White Race

Not many years ago the race problem was confined entirely to the South. At the present time it is the great throbbing question in every part of the United States. The tremendous increase of the negro population in the Northern states has confronted the white inhabitants of that section with the awful possibilities of this issue, while the encroachments of the yellow race in the Northwest and Pacific coast regions have aroused the entire nation to a realizing sense of the "yellow peril". No one appreciates the danger more than President Roosevelt and it is now universally admitted that his sending of the American fleet to far to the East was a warning to Japan not to go too far in her design on Western civilization.

With the race problem such an all important, vital issue the popularity of "The Clansman" which is the only play dealing directly with this question, must not be wondered at. "The Clansman" teaches the lesson that this is a white man's country and that all other races, black or yellow, must be kept in their proper places. While teaching this lesson it, presents a story thrilling and fascinating in the extreme. "The Clansman" which is now in its fourth year of unequalled success will be seen in this city at the opera house on Sept. 30.

NEW WATER AND LIGHT RATES.

To Take Effect The First of October 1908.

The Water and Light Commission of Greenville have established a new schedule of rates for water and light service to consumers, as will be seen by advertisement in another column, that becomes effective on the first of October. Under this schedule the consumer will pay for only the actual amount of water and electric current used each month. The minimum price for water is $1 per month for 3,000 gallons or less, the price graduating for larger quantity according to the amount used. For electric current the price is 10 cents per kilowatt flat.

Hereafter there will be no sending around to consumers to collect bills for service, but all bills must be paid at the office of the clerk in Masonic Temple building. All consumers who pay their bills on or before the 5th of the month for the preceding month will be allowed a discount of 10 percent, but no discount will be allowed on payments made after the 5th. If bills are not paid by the 15th of the month service will be shut off without notice and a fee of $1 will be charged for reinstatement of either light or water connection.

These regulations of the commission will be strictly enforced and it is important that consumers bear them in mind.

Fire at the James E. Clark Farm.

A large tenement house on the farm of James E. Clark, Jr., was discovered to be on fire about 3 p. m. o'clock yesterday morning. The house was completely destroyed, as was the furniture, which belonged to George Hardy, colored, who occupied the house with his family. The origin of the fire is unknown.—Washingon Messenger.

You can charge it all up to the carnival.

Yes, Greenville has got her hands full this week.

Hearst is not bragging much about what he expects to carry.

When matters get dull in Elizabeth City the newspaper men have a fight among themselves.

Senator Foraker has stepped down and out and declines to have anything further to do with the Republican campaign.

Durham's record of three homicides in a week is going it some. A few hangings up there might have a wholesome effect.

President Roosevelt has given out another letter in the effort to rally support for his man Taft. The president may think he can pull Taft through, but he is going to see his failure.

Because of no quorum the Chamber of Commerce and Tobacco Board of Trade did not have a meeting Monday night. There were too many other things to catch the crowd going on.

About the most smile producing talk one hears in these days is Republican claims of going to carry North Carolina. The speakers that have been around so far give evidence that they are the same old crowd.

Hon. Locke Craig did the gallant thing in making the introductory speech of candidate for Governor Kitchin to a Buncombe county audience. And the Buncombites gave Mr. Kitchin a royal welcome. That is good Democracy.

Somebody should get behind the sidewalk contractors and see if something cannot be done to move the work along a little faster. Evans street and Dickinson avenue are most unsightly and annoying in this present condition.

Mr. J. Elwood Cox says he firmly believes that if North Carolina should vote republican this year it would bring millions to the state to aid in developing our untold resources. Will that gentleman kindly tell us how many million dollars the Russell administration brought into the state, and how much development took place during those four years.—Raleigh Times.

The New York Herald's political forecasts are regarded as being without partisan bias, and, therefore, command general attention. The recent review of the situation made by that journal is rather encouraging to Democrats. It leaves ground for belief that the Democrats have at least an even chance of winning in the next election. The reason this is encouraging is that, a few months ago, the Herald would probably have shown that there was no chance for the Democratic party to win. It is not so long as that ago, when the New York World was printing a map of the United States, the intent of which was to prove that the case was hopeless for Democracy; and the correctness of the map, and the conclusion drawn from it, were hardly in question. There has been a marked change in public sentiment, however. The World has come over to Mr. Bryan's side and thinks he can win; and the Herald now is of the opinion that he may win. At least he has a chance to win, whereas before it was thought that he had no chance. The Herald ventures an analysis of the probable vote of the several States and makes this disposition of it.—Mobile Register.

Good Roads Convention.

A good roads convention will be held in Greensboro on October 18th, and Governor R. B. Glenn has issued the following proclamation concerning it:

"Whereas, the good roads congress has been called to be held in the city of Greensboro, N. C., on October 18th, 1908, for the purpose of encouraging a more general interest in the building of good roads in the Southern States, and for the advancement of education, and the upbuilding of the agricultural and industrial interests of the South; and, whereas, I deem it of the greatest importance to our State that every county and every town in the State should be represented at this convention, I hereby issue this proclamation, urging county commissioners of every county and mayors of every city to appoint some of the wisest and best men of their respective counties and cities as delegates to this convention, and do urge said delegates when so appointed to attend this convention, as in my judgement it will tend greatly to advance the material interest of our State."

Pitt county should have some representatives at this convention, as we know of no county that interest in good roads needs to take hold of more than this.

Mr. H. A. White,

 Dear Sir—

During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.

The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service tendered.
 Very truly yours,

Farmers Educational Meeting.

Washington, N. C. Sept. 16, 1908.
Editor Reflector:

I am gratified to announce that a Farmers' Educational meeting will be held in Greenville on Friday, September 25th. There will be a morning and afternoon session. The meeting will open at 10:30 o'clock, and it is important that those who expect to attend should be on hand promptly.

Some of the leading experts in agriculture will address the meeting, and will discuss topics of vital interest to every farmer in Pitt county interested in the soil. Those engaged in other vocations will also find the meeting extremely interesting.

There will be no politics about the meeting directly or indirectly. The only purpose is to bring benefit to the people.

Respectfully,
Jno. H. Small.

Dr. Hyatt at Farmville.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Farmville Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 29th and 30th, at the Horten hotel for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses. All glasses furnished by Dr. Hyatt are guaranteed as to fit and quality. Money will be refunded to all who are dissatisfied. Persons who want to see Dr. Hyatt about having work done will be charged no fee unless terms are agreed upon. 9 15 4 T F

A Card.

I hereby announce that I have removed for the practice of my profession from Falkland to Greenville. Residence on Third street next door to J. L. Fleming. Office, Dr. Bagwell's former office where I can be found at all times when not professionally engaged elsewhere.

Dr. Jenness Morrell.

Exchange of Presents in Africa.

Frequently one has to deal with chiefs; in fact, in every village the traveler will probably be welcomed by the chief. An interchange of greetings through an interpreter establishes a good understanding. An interchange of presents is usual on these occasions, and is an almost universal custom. Etiquette requires the chief to give a present in return. As a rule, a chief can only offer a bunch of bananas, some paw-paws or possibly a goat or two, some of which may possibly be welcome. On a special occasion the chief may offer the traveler a wife, a gift which he will probably decline with a great profusion of thanks.—Engineer.

Vocal Vases.

The ancient Peruvians must have understood something of the laws of atmospheric pressure, else how could they have constructed some of the very curious jars and vases they left behind them? One of these pieces of pottery was ornamented with the figures of two monkeys, and when water was poured into or out of the vessel sounds like the screeching of monkeys were heard. Another similar vessel had the figure of a bird, which uttered appropriate notes; another was ornamented with a cat which mewed, and another with snakes which hissed. A most ingenious water jar bore the form of an aged woman, upon whose cheeks tears were seen to trickle, while sobs were heard, when water was poured from the jar.

An Excuse.

Little Dick, the village "bad boy," was wading through a shallow swamp catching frogs with a small landing net. He had just caught a fine specimen and transferred it to his bucket, when a young lady who was out for a walk happened along. "Little boy," she said, "don't you know it's very cruel to catch those poor little froggies?"

Dick straightened up and looked at her. She wore a gorgeous "creation" on her head, and something in its trimmings attracted his attention.

"I want 'em to wear on my hat," he said.—Youth's Companion.

The Rencon.

Phedder—I'm always sorry when the shad season is over. It's the only fish I like. I wonder why Providence gives it to us only in the spring—

Crabbe (a rabid pessimist)—I'll bet it's because that's the only season when it has all its bones.—Philadelphia Press.

TRUTH AND FICTION.

How Certain Novelists Have Mixed the Two in Their Portraits.

The method of certain novelists seems to be to take a single facet of the character of some one they know, group around it other traits collected elsewhere and then substantiate and personify the whole, says the Manchester Guardian. They give it legs to stand on and a mouth to talk with. They put a hat on its head and a cane in its hand, and then—who shall say that Harold Skimpole is Leigh Hunt? Others again transfer the character bodily. That was James Payn's practice. In one of those delightful volumes in which he admits us into his library workshop he tells us that he found most of his characters among his acquaintances. The person represented, he assures us, never recognizes his own portrait. But then his friends do, so sundry expedients to put people off the scent have to be adopted. If the original is tall he is pictured as short; if dark, as fair. Indeed Payn recommends the keeping of a list of dramatis personae, with the real names placed opposite the fictitious ones, to keep the novelist in mind as he works.

Sometimes, when the original is a public person, a writer of fiction will transfer him to his page without much disguise and much to the gratification of the reader. Who is not charmed to meet, in Meredith, Leslie Stephen in the "Egotist," Mrs. Norton in "Dinna," La Salle in the "Tragic Comedians" and Robert Louis Stevenson in "The Amazing Marriage?" Alphonse Daudet's practice in such cases was less genial. "It was a constant and growing tendency," says Saintsbury, speaking in a recent book of Daudet, "to drag in royal persons and especially royal persons in scandalous aspects. Morny himself and other not too immaculate members of the imperial entourage appeared in 'Le Nabab.' The characters of 'Les Rois en Exil' were as obviously divers ill starred and not always well behaved refugees, from the king and queen of Naples downward. Numa Roumestan was Gambetta almost without concealment. The sordid hero and heroine of 'L'Immortel' were fully identified with an academic personage of a former generation, and his wife."

Washington Streets.

Said a Washington man: "While the naming of the streets in Washington is simple and easy to follow to residents, to the stranger it is most confusing, owing to the way in which the avenues cut diagonally across the numbered and lettered streets and these streets calmly move half a block away before again taking up their line of march. If a stranger, say, was going up Fifteenth street, when he got to K, although the street swings there slightly to the right and proceeds on a different angle, he would undoubtedly continue along it with serene confidence that he was still in Fifteenth street, whereas he in reality would be in Vermont avenue, while the real Fifteenth street is half a block northward. That's as plain as I can make it, and about the only thing it really seems to explain is how very confusing our streets really are."

Antiquity of Cockroaches.

Some of the finest fossil insects known to geologists are those preserved in amber. Originally a gum exuding from a species of pine tree, the amber first captured the insect and then buried it, thus preserving every detail of its structure. The exhibition of a fine collection of cockroaches thus preserved at a meeting of the Entomological society shows the respectable antiquity of this unpleasant insect, for the amber deposits of eastern Prussia, whence they were obtained, are of middle tertiary age. The cockroach, as a matter of fact, however, can claim a much greater age, for a species of Blatta is recorded from the Purbeck beds. A related genus, Palaeoblattina, rates as far back as the Silurian.—London Globe.

A Crusher.

Sir Richard Bethell, afterward Lord Westbury, with a suave voice and a stately manner, nevertheless had a way of bearing down the foe with almost savage wit. Once, in court, he had to follow a barrister who had delivered his remarks in very loud tones. "Now that the noise in court has subsided," murmured Bethell, "I will tell your honor in two sentences the gist of the case."

A Bad Lot.

Gibbs (visiting)—What sort of neighbors have you here?
Dibbs—A bad lot. There's a blacksmith who's engaged in forging, a carpenter who's done some counter fitting and a couple of fellows next door who sell iron and steel for a living.

BRICK TALK, No. 10

Sometime ago a contractor saw our brick and then bought elsewhere with these parting words:

"If I were building for myself I would take your brick because they are worth more but I have secured a cut on some inferior ones that will do as well, for my contract does not specify the kind and 'I'M AFTER THE DOUGH'"

Contractors study their side. Why not study your side and insist that YOUR house have the same good brick that he wants in HIS.

Leon W. Marshall.

The above cut represents the photograph of Leon W. Marshall, the genial manager of the Old Plantation Show at the carnival. In this show are represented old time darkies of the ante bellum days of the sunny South, featuring songs, dances, cake-walks, stump speeches. Every performer is an artist of ability. They present an entertainment which far surpasses any seen with minstrel traveling companies.

L. W. Marshall is a Southern gentleman, a native of this state, and therefore thoroughly understands the character of the darkies in his employ. He guarantees that every feature presented with his company by his performers is pleasing, sidesplitting and devoid of any objectionable characteristics. It is a show for the people that every lady, gentleman or child can attend unaccompanied.

On Friday night Mr. Marshall makes it his business to hold an amateur contest in which local talent is invited to participate, giving $1.00 to the best amateur singer, $1.00 to best dancer and $2.50 to the best cake-walker. This show will remain here till Saturday night with an entire change of program at each performance.

The Clansman Sept. 30th.

The Best Yet.

"The Blue and the Gray" at the Electric Theatre, Monday night, was the best moving picture exhibition that Greenville has witnessed. A large crowd attended and all speak in highest terms of the excellent and interesting pictures. This place of amusement is now well conducted and worth your patronage.

The Good Old Days.
The richest man in King Charles II's England could not get so good a dinner as tens of thousands will sit down to today. Cattle were of a far poorer breed, vegetables were few and bad and the commonest conveniences of the table were unknown. Fish knives, for instance, are hardly considered an extravagant luxury, but Mr. Gladstone could remember when they were not to be found on any table.—London Telegraph.

Meals and Brains.

We give too much thought to our meals, for instance. They need contriving, and it is pleasant to have them set temptingly upon a table on which fresh flowers are arranged and to eat them in a room wherein there is not a speck of dust, but it is not right that our bodies should be fed at the expense of our souls or that the dust should be taken from every ledge in our house and left to gather thickly in our brains.—Reader Magazine.

Frank About It.
