AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Sept. 29, 1908.

Our young friend, Master Benjie Corey, is deservng of more than a passing notice. Though quite a lad, as agent for Hart & Fleming, who do an immense picture business, this young man has so won their confidence as not only to be entrusted with special duties but is their collecting agent and his returns have proven him worthy of the confidence reposed in him. Indeed he is a lad whose precepts other boys would do well to emulate.

Having been appointed registrar for precinct No. 1, Contentnea township, for the election to be held Tuesday, November 3rd, 1908. All persons of said precinct, who have not heretofore registered for said election and are entitled to do so will please call at my office in Ayden, N. C., and register in accordance with the law governing elections. This September 25th, 1908. J. M. Blow, registrar.

Mrs. R. H. Garris, from the country, spent the latter part of last week here with her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Hooks.

In our items of last week instead of reading "Mrs. and Miss Hazelette visiting Mrs. H. G. Burton" it should have read visiting Mrs. W. H. Buhmann, R. W. Smith and W. L. McLawhorn are in attendance upon court at Greenville this week as jurors.

Mrs. Simon Moye, after spending several days here visiting friends returned to her home in Greenville Monday.

Capt. W. N. Jones and family, of New Bern, are visiting W. B. Alexander.

J. W. Dixon came home Monday from Kinston.

E. Hardee and wife, of Greene county, are visiting the family of H. C. Ormond.

Mrs. W. C. Jackson and children, of Middlesex, are here on a visit to relatives.

Mrs. W. C. Jackson and children, of Middlesex, are here on a visit to relatives.

Rev. C. W. Howard, of Kinston, held services in the Disciple church Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. Mr. Mashburn will assist Rev. Mr. King in a meeting at the Missionary Baptist church beginning first Sunday night in October.

Miss Browning, of Jamesville, is here to see her sick brother, W. L. Browning.

Aycock and the county candidates at Ayden next Saturday. Everybody come out and hear the plain gospel truth. Democracy unfettered.

For the benefit of the school children the free entertainment heretofore given by the band on Thursday night will be given on Friday night instead.

It is with sincere regret that the many friends of W. L. Browning learn that his condition grows worse.

Those who did not pay their poll tax by the first of May last cannot vote in the coming election.

Dr. Joseph Dixon, after an absence of several weeks north came home Thursday evening. The doctor is very much improved and he didn't go home any sooner than a great many wished. His place would be hard to fill in and around Ayden.

Certain parties making the assertion that Contentnea township will ever give other than a Democratic majority is convincing that they are either old members, or else they have made application for membership, in the annanias club. Their mouth is the biggest thing about them. Dr. Howard, of Kinston, who attended the practice of Dr. Dixon during the absence of the latter, has returned to his home. Dr. Howard, while here, by his gentlemanly bearing and kindly deportment, won many friends among our people, all of whom regret very much that he has left us.

Rev. J. W. Alford preached at the Free Will Baptist church Sunday.

Guy Taylor and wife spent Monday in Winterville.

Mrs. F. P. White has returned home from a visit to her parents in Lenoir.

Outlaws Made Trail of Black Across Country—Negroes Terror-Stricken.

Albany, Ga., Sept. 28.—There is a reign of terror among the negro inhabitants of a considerable portion of a Calhoun, Baker and Miller counties, as the result of a raid by "night riders" Saturday night, the trail of the outlaws being marked by the blackened ruins of thirteen negro churches and school houses.

The night riders first made their appearance at a point three miles east of Kestler, where the first church was fired. They galloped away toward the East, and before the glare of the first fire had reached its height, another was being kindled a few miles away. Fire followed fire, and the destruction of every building to which the torch was applied was complete.

Who Owns the Electric Light Poles in the City of Greenville?

Editor Reflector:

In the town ordinances adopted August 1906, page 21, section 25 is the following:

"That it is hereby declared unlawful for any person to drive nails or tacks in the telephone or telegraph poles, electric light poles, or any house situated on any sidewalk or street of the town, or tack any signs or advertisements thereon, without the permission of the owners of said poles or houses first having been had and obtained and all persons violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined five dollars for each and every violation thereof."

Found His Mule.

Saturday night Dink Boyd, white, a stock feeder on the Avon farm, which belongs to Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, stole a mule from the farm, borrowed a wagon from a negro living nearby and drove to Grimesland. From there he came on here and, it is supposed, took the train at this point for parts unknown.

During the meantime Mr. Laughinghouse and his overseer were wondering where the man and mule had gone. Yesterday Mr. Hester, who lives about a mile south of town, telephoned them that he thought he had found the mule in his field.

Mr. Laughinghouse went out to Mr. Hester's and found that the thief had left him there with harness on, as if he had been driven there and turned loose. No one knows where the wagon was left.

GOOD DONE BY "THE CLANSMAN."

Statistics Prove its Performance Has Improved Racial Conditions.

On the first production of "The Clansman" three years ago some persons predicted that this retelling of the Reconstruction struggle in the South would revive sectional feeling and inflame race hatred. On the contrary, "The Clansman" has had a good effect. It has indeed drawn racial lines more closely, but in a manner beneficial instead of evil. An interested observer has gathered statistics of those sections of the country where "The Clansman" has been most frequently played and has discovered a marked decrease of crimes of violence between the races. Negro assaults on white women have been fewer. The status of the negro has improved, as the black man has learned his place and the white man—South and North—has learned how to handle him. "The Clansman" has thus powerfully aided by its moral effect the new Prohibition law of the South, the object of which is to keep liquor away from the brutish and ignorant. For the drink-crazed negro is the chief menace of white homes. With the sober, industrious and law-abiding Afro-American there is no quarrel. As the influence of "The Clansman" extends, the negro will see that his prosperity and salvation consists in keeping within race lines. Thomas Dixon's books and plays answer with a terrific "No" the old Biblical query:

"Can the leopard change his spots or the Ethiopian his skin?" The white must cling to the white, the black to the black, the yellow to the yellow. That is the lesson of 4,000 years of Art-yan civilization.

Mr. Dixon's wonderful play in which these truths are enunciated will visit the opera house on Sept. 30th.

Thieves in Business.

It would be very much better if all men were honest. How good it would be if every man would accept the idea that "honesty is the best policy," and carry it out by its own example. But all men are not honest and it is useless to expect such a condition of things in this wicked world. Some men will take advantage of others whenever an opportunity comes to them.

If men will steal in spite of all that can be said and done they should go at stealing as a vocation and take the chances of being caught and punished. Then the people would find it out and be looking for them. But this is not the way most men steal. Thieves go into every trade and profession. These callings are often used as cloaks for their rascality. Some of them are doctors, some dentists, and others druggists. Some are lawyers who take what men have to get them out of a little trouble, some stock dealers, some horse traders, some mill men and some are politicians who sell out the people after they are elected. Some are merchants who take advantage of customers or wholesale houses. Some are laborers who kill time when they should be at work, some are employers who beat the employees out of their wages. Some are landlords who take advantage of their tenants while others are tenants who steal from land owners. Not a few are farmers who steal in dealing with people of other trades. Sometimes thieves are among editors and teachers.

Thieves in business are in the minority among the people in the different lines of business. Most people and especially people with enough intelligence to do business, want to do about what they consider right, though thieves in business act in such a way as to throw suspicion on others, no matter how hard they try to do right. It should be understood that some profit should be made by people in every kind of business if we are to have thrift, but no man should take advantage of his fellowman just because he can do it.

Thieves in business dealings treat some people right because they know no other course will do. They treat others right sometimes to get a chance to steal later.

What shall we do with the thief in business? The correct answer is very easy. Let him alone. Don't go to him to try to get even with him or beat him in making a trade but let him entirely alone. We should enquire carefully as to the men we expect to deal with and if any of them are reputed on good authority to be tricky or dishonest we should avoid any and all dealings with them. Such a course would do great good as it would have a tendency to purify the business world and would give patronage to men who deserve it. There are plenty of honest men in every town and community with whom you can deal. We do not advise any one to be suspicious but we hope that all thieves in business will be found out.—Smithfield Herald.

A Gem in its Line.

The Dixie Theatre is a gem in the entertainment line for Greenville. The program Monday night was the best ever. "The Diabolical Pick Pocket" was the best film ever shown here, and the others were equally as good.

FIRE SWEEPED ROBERSONVILLE.

Destroying Many Buildings Early Monday Morning—Origin Unknown.

An early morning blaze at Robersonville yesterday destroyed property and merchandise to the extent of $6,000. The fire district was on the corner of Main and Railroad streets, and but for the barrier of Roberson's brick store, the loss would be much greater. The blaze was discovered shortly after midnight and eat its way through the frame buildings on the above corner, before it was under control of the volunteer firemen.

The estimated loss, partly covered by insurance is as follows: J. A. Roebuck's store, $750, with $600 insurance. Merchandise owned by R. D. Purvis, loss $1000, with no insurance.

H. B. Moore, store and barber shop, loss $1,500, partly insured. R. L. Roberson, store $1000, with no insurance.

Warehouse and contents owned by J. D. Roberson, $750.

Brown & Roberson and J. S. Roberson & Co., in moving merchandise suffered about $1,000.

Graded School Overcrowded.

Four hundred pupils are now enrolled in the Greenville graded school, over 10 per cent. increase above the enrollment at this time last year, which was 365. Prof. H. B. Smith, superintendent, stated this morning that the building is overcrowded and that it is very hard to handle some of the grades as the rooms are too small, but arrangements are being made and that he expects to have the children comfortably fixed and conveniently located in a few days. The chapel is now being made into recitation rooms.

STATE NEWS

Items of Happenings Over the State Gathered from Our Exchanges

Goldsboro, N. C., Sept. 28.—Senator B. F. Aycock, Democratic candidate for Corporation Commissioner, today brought suit in Wayne Superior Court against J. F. Click editor of the Times Mercury, of Hickory, N. C., for libel, laying the damages at $5,000. The action grows out of an editorial published in the Hickory paper of September 23rd, in which it is charged that four years ago Senator Aycock went to Hickory to speak and that he was so drunk his friends had to take him down, and in which it is asked if Senator Aycock rides on a railroad pass.

Monday and Tuesday Nights, 5 and 6.

In presenting J. Early Hughes' comedians, who appear at the opera house on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 5 and 6, Mr. Hughes has spared no expense in securing the strongest artists possible to give the public what the American people want—variety. There is no long drawn-out plot to tire the audience, but every act is a play by itself and goes with a dash.

Mr. Hughes knows that everybody has enough trouble in his or her own circle without having to go to the Opera House to see it. And he has constructed his show along this line. If you want to be happy, follow the crowd to the Opera House. Monday and Tuesday nights, Oct. 5 and 6 and forget your troubles. Prices: 25c, 35c and 50c.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 29, 1908.

Who does the electric light poles belong to? is the question asked by a "kicker" in another column.

Taft will not look so much like a balloon after the November election. He will look more like a soap bubble.

Now, the thing for the Atlantic Coast line to do is to build a nice, modern depot in Greenville and extend the pavement on Dickinson avenue around it. The depot the Norfolk & Southern has should make them ashamed of theirs.

If money would buy the governorship Cox could get it but happily the day has passed in North Carolina when a man can buy a political office. The citizens have been treated to too high a educational standard by the Democratic party since 1898.

Won't Greenville look "swell" after the sidewalks on Evans street and Dickinson avenue are finished! He gets to look more like a city every day. Take a look around town and you will see. The only thing that we can object to is the extermination of the old shade trees that used to adorn the town. Shade trees are a great benefit as well as beautifying.

"PROXY" TAFT.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer's newspapers, summarizes the Democratic case against the Roosevelt administration as follows:

- "1. It has been extravagant and wasteful.
- "2. It has attempted to popularize war.
- "3. It has gloried in Philippine imperialism.
- "4. It has menaced the states with Federal usurpation by means of constructive jurisprudence.
- "5. It has recklessly undermined confidence in our business methods, causing panic, depression and suffering.
- "6. It has profited by the political contributions of corruptions seeking legislative favors.
- "7. It has spoken vociferously against the manufacturers of great wealth, but it has not brought one of them to justice.
- "8. It has bullied Congress, threatening to do as it pleased, law or no law.
- "9. It has assailed the courts when their judgments were contrary to its wishes.
- "10. It has maintained the highest tariff ever known in a free country, and has made no move in favor of income and inheritance taxes.
- "11. It has constantly demanded law and more law for the prosecution of trusts, although existing laws are held by it to be too drastic for enforcement.
- "12. It is now attempting to round out a career of willfulness, greed, ambition and tyranny by forcing the election of a person ally excellent and amiable proxy."

These are legitimate issues; they are timely issues; they are Democratic issues. As the opposition candidate it becomes Mr. Bryan's privilege and duty to present them with all the skill and ability at his command.

His opportunity lies in an appeal to Democrats and to that great element in the electorate that is tired of extravagance and of militarism, of imperialism, of Rough Riderism, of centralization, of personal government, of big stick administration and partnership with predatory plutocracy.

Let Mr. Taft be the proxy. Let Mr. Taft be the heir to My Policies. But let Mr. Bryan be the Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

Making Home Happy.

Thus declareth an exchange: One of the hundred bits of advice doled out to women for ages is that which urges the necessity of meeting the coming man with a smile. No matter what domestic trials have frayed her temper, cheerfulness must be on tap. It is good advice so far as it goes, but no matter how hard business cares press upon a man, he inevitably has something to distract him from it, even if it be nothing but the journey between home and business. The wife is not always diverted from matters that trouble her; theoretically she ought to have mental strength to rise above them, but a wife and mother is apt to get physically and nervously overtired.

If the husband is a "grumpy" man and sits at his dinner in silence, eats as if his mind was far off, has to be spoken to twice before he answers, and appears unappreciative of his food, then is the wife justified in being grieved and hurt. The complaining woman and the grumpy man make a home that children flee from and people do not visit for the veneer of kindness and cheerfulness, assumed for the occasion, does not deceive. The man who can smile just a little when he comes home and talk a little nonsense with the children is as much of a model as the woman who can be light hearted in the midst of aggravations that come even in the best managed homes.

Banks Should Give Clean Money.

The Evening Chronicle, of Charlotte, says some of the banks in that city are giving considerable attention to the matter of handing out new and clean money. This should be done by the banks all over the country. In no other civilized nation are the people compelled to handle such filthy paper money as they are in some parts of progressive America.—Wilmington Star.

Dear Sir—
During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.
The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service rendered.
Very truly yours,

A MIND READER.
His Analysis of the Character of the New Boarder.
"I can tell you all about yourself," said the boarding house Sherlock Holmes to the new boarder after the landlady had introduced them across the roast mutton.
The boarding house sleuth prided himself on his keen observation of human nature and his ability to make deductions therefrom.
"You're a mind reader, are you?" asked the new boarder.
"To a great extent," replied the sleuth. "For instance, I never met you before, but I know you are from the east."
"Good guess," said the new boarder.
"You come from a family of extraordinary ability and good antecedents, although none of your family possesses great wealth."
The new boarder smiled his approval. "A peculiar thing about you is that your beard is of remarkable toughness. Your face, on the contrary, is very tender, so that you experience great difficulty in shaving. Few razors are made of fine enough steel to overcome the texture of your beard."
"True again," said the new boarder, "although I don't know how you guessed it, but my beard is the toughest I have ever encountered."
"Also you are a rough and ready humorist, able to snap out a funny remark in almost any situation that can arise."
"Say," said the new boarder, "you make me feel uncanny. How do you do this stunt of character reading?"
The boarding house Sherlock smiled broadly and speared a "French fried."
"It's this way," he elucidated. "Simple enough when explained, like all really great detective work. I knew you were from the east by the way you worked the salt shaker. Westerners pick up the salt shaker with the right hand and plunge it at the food. Easterners seize the shaker with the left hand, invert it and tap it briskly on the bottom with the right hand."
The boarders gasped in admiration of the sleuth's genius.
"I knew you came from a remarkable family because that's the kind we all come from. I concluded your relatives were not overburdened with wealth or you wouldn't be living in this hashery. I knew your whiskers were remarkably tough, for every man living thinks he has the toughest whiskers going. The barber tells him so. Somehow or other a man takes it as a high compliment to be told his whiskers are the toughest the barber ever tackled. Then it helps reconcile the victim to having his face torn off."
"Lastly, I knew you were a humorist on the same broad and general principle. Every American thinks he is a second Bill Nye with additions and improvements. The small boy at the ball game yells 'Get a basket!' when a ball is fumbled. When the street car conductor says, 'Plenty of room up in front!' half a dozen wits reply, 'Plenty of room, but it's all taken.' When you find a citizen of this great republic who doesn't think he's a jolly wag, you've discovered something."
The new boarder was silent in mental cogitation.—Kansas City Star.

Crocodile Worship.
It was in the very ferocity and terribleness of the crocodile that the Egyptians found the inspiration for the cult they devoted to him. They were mightily afraid of the monster and therefore instituted in his honor the supposedly appeasing worship as though they had said, "Be good enough not to eat us and we will build temples to you and bow down to you as to a god." The students of early history have clearly proved that the earliest worships of every sort took the shape of offerings intended to appease the elementary forces of nature, or the real or imaginary beings of whom men were afraid.—New York American.

Curious Russian Law.
Russia has a law which to outside observers seems almost to put a premium on theft by which stolen goods become the property of the thief if he can prove that he has had possession of them for over five years. In the thieves' market—which is, of course, licensed by the police—goods that admittedly have been stolen (more than five years before) are openly offered for sale, and the place is a veritable Mecca for the light fingered gentry and their enterprising friends, as also for the more honest members of society, who secure many a tempting bargain.

Constant Squeezing.
"Now, Algernon," said Miss Fussanfeather, as she was tightly held in the embrace of her fiance, "they tell me that men get tired of squeezing after they are married. Will you promise me not to give it up after we are man and wife?"
"Oh, I assure you it is not necessary to make any such promises," replied the young man. "I guarantee you'll have all the squeezing you want to do to get along on $7 a week."—Exchange.

Flattered Him.
Magistrate (about to commit for trial)—You certainly effected the robbery in a remarkably ingenious way—in fact, with quite exceptional cunning. Prisoner (deprecatingly)—No flattery, yer honor; no flattery, I begs on yer—London Fun.

Unruffled.
Master—Mary, I wish you would be more careful. I'm sorry to hear my wife has to scold you so often. Mary—Oh, it's all right, sir. I seldom takes any notice of her.—London Telegraph.

BRICK TALK, No. 11

Masons prefer our brick to those of other makes. WHY?
Because all they have to do is mark off with a trowel just where they want to break it to fit a joint and first one breaks right.

REASON. There's no twist. They're MADE.
Think of the saving of TIME in this to say nothing of the brick broken up of other kinds in trying to break one right. See the point?

We have plenty on hand and they are sold at COMMON BRICK PRICE.

George Washington Pardoned.

George Washington, who was convicted April term, 1908, of Pitt superior court, of fornication and adultery, sentenced to four months in county jail, was recently pardoned by Governor Glenn. He gave the following reasons for doing so: "Petition signed by good men, show that defendant had been therefore of good character, and that he is now 70 years of age, and while I believe the judge and jury did right in convicting him, on account of his age and his previous good character, I have concluded to grant him a pardon on his remaining of good character, staying away from his co-defendant, and paying into the office of the clerk of the court of Pitt county the sum of $50 towards the school fund.
