WAS A DELIGHTFUL COMEDY.

The Wayne Company Makes Good—Plays to an Enthusiastic Audience.

The Wayne Musical Comedy Company opened their first night's engagement at the academy of music last evening with a beautiful lyric comedy entitled, "The White Hat." It was like a bright sunny day after a week of clouds and gloom. The company, all around, is one of the strongest and best that has ever appeared in Durham, and it delighted a good size audience last night. The singing is above the average. The chorus is bright, and the entire cast carries the tuneful play with snap and vim that is refreshing.

All the principals were good, but special mention is due of Harry Gribbon, Emmett O'Connor, who possesses an excellent voice, and Fred Wayne as comedian next in importance to Mr. Gribbon, who kept the audience convulsed as he pushed his really funny comedy over the foot lights. But in the female contingent of the cast is found the bright and particular star of the company, Miss Aimee Travis, in the character role of "Sarah," a maid-of-all-work.—Durham Sun, 6th.

This attraction will be in Masonic opera house in Greenville Friday night. Seats are now on sale at Reflector Book Store.

Gambling Among Women.

There are hosts of women who play card games for the pure pleasure of the struggle. Such women accept victory or defeat with composure. Those who lose their temper when their luck goes against them have the best of reasons for avoiding such pastimes and turning to other amusements on their leisure hours. There numberless recreations which are safe and healthy, and since we seek recreation to insure bodily and mental health the safe kind is the only sensible choice, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Gambling is carried on in many a home while the unsuspecting husband is working hard to supply the needs of his family. A private allowance or the handling of the household money enables women to escape detection when they select the morning or early afternoon hours for games. When husbands are lenient in the matter of stimulants they are provided at these games, but there are cases where tea or chocolate is the only beverage served.

It is a sad waste of time, to say the least, but the modern woman seems to have so much time on her hands that she has to search for means of killing it, particularly if she boards or has no children to look after. It is usual, in the event of household cares to hire somebody to look after the children and put them into private schools before they are out of babyhood. Mothers must be amused, you see, and babies are in the way. Long ago children ceased to be amusing to all but the few, because they were not permitted to grow as nature intended them, like flowers, whose beauties unfold from day to day. Occasionally one sees a boy or girl who can fascinate a car full of tired adults and make them forget.

Benefit of Public Library.

Hallowe'en, 31st of this month, will soon be here, and the ladies of the End of Century Book club have decided with its coming this year to give a real old time hallowe'en party for the benefit of the public library. Now, the public library is something we are all interested in. We should want to help build it up. The Book Club is kind enough to offer this opportunity to help the library, which is such a benefit to Greenville, and they deserve every encouragement. So make your arrangements to attend the party. You need not fear that you will not get your money's worth, their entertainments in the past guarantee value received. They are making the sacrifice, not you. Hours and place will be mentioned later.

A Guarantee

To the patrons of Masonic Temple Opera House: I beg leave to announce that the management is exceedingly fortunate in having procured The Wayne Musical Comedy Co. for Friday night, Oct. 9. This is considered one of the best $1.00 attractions on the road, as all the press comments in the various cities in the State will verify. Durham Herald says it is as good as the best $1.50 attraction ever presented in that city.

You take no chances in going, for, if entire satisfaction is not given, I am authorized by the manager of the company to refund your money, which I will do. The prices we also guarantee same as charged in the larger cities.

Respectfully,

10 8 2td R. Williams, Mgr.

Reason For English Optimism Discovers at Last.

Only the Englishman knows the science of sitting down. He alone, declares a writer in the London Saturday Review, has evolved the chair which recovers for its students all the comfort that has been lost in the day, all the hope that the morning may so inhospitably have barred. Watch, say, a Frenchman in an English easy chair, and you will find him no worthy apprentice of the science. He is ill at ease and out of sympathy with the chair. But the Englishman has no such quarrel with comfort. He does not, as the Frenchman, sit at attention. There need not, in fact, be any doubt that England's position as the optimist among the nations is due largely to this appreciation of the easy chair.

Had Schopenhauer lived in England and been instructed in the art of sitting down he would have written dainty testimonials to the charm of human nature. Pope had no optimism, and it is not surprising that he complained of the "rack of a too easy chair," for only an optimist can be comfortable. Whistler refused to have an easy chair in his house and quite inevitably wrote a book on the art of making enemies. Carlyle lived among the hard angles of uncomfortable furniture and wrote irritably. A man's literary taste, it may as well be said, is not formed so much by his education or his early life or his friends as by his chairs. A man without an easy chair would develop an austere taste. He would read Bacon, Macaulay and Hume. A man with an uncomfortable easy chair would read Hazlitt, Carlyle, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche and Ibsen. A man with a chair which he had molded to all the whims of his body would read Dickens, Lamb, Shakespeare, Meredith, Flaubert and Tennyson.

No one, fortunately, has a finer instinct for comfort than the Englishman, and so long as this is so there should be no danger of the decline of good books and poetry and optimism. Only the man who has an easy chair can read the right books.

Sure! Son-in-law Nick now says he did not say it. Pass him on to the Annanias club.

We are watching to see where the president will break out. He is just bound to do something before the election, or bust.

The war talk coming from over in Bulgaria is not in it in interest with the political warfare now in progress on this side of the pond.

Keep it in mind that registration books for the coming election will close on the 24th. If your name is not on the books and does not get there it is your own fault.

Mr. Debs says Mr. Gompers is a liar, Col. Guffey says Gov. Haskell is a liar, Son-in-law "Miss Alice's" husband says they are all liars. And there you have it.

NEW YORK SUN TIRED.

Say the Greensboro Record: The New York Sun started out to support Taft, but is having a hard time staying in line; in fact, every few days it jumps the fence and gets out of the pasture. It could manage to swallow Mr. Taft if only Mr. Roosevelt would keep out of it, but when he butts in the Sun gets all wrong. To add fuel to the flames, Son-in-law Longworth has made The Sun very tired and it thus goes after him because of his speech the other day:

"A more unfortunate statement has not yet been made in this canvass, and if it attracts the general attention which it deserves it is not unlikely to make Mr. Longworth the Burchard of the campaign. It is well known that Mr. Roosevelt, in graciously permitting the American people to select his successor—providing always that it was Mr. Taft or himself—had said to intimate friends that while he could no longer serve his faithful people for the next four years and would change his work of multiplying bears into the destruction of lions, yet at the end of four years his faithful people could reasonably expect his triumphant re-entry into the scene of his former achievements. It is apparent from Mr. Longworth's statement that this expectation is enjoyed not only by the inner circle of Mr. Roosevelt's friends, but also by his immediate family, and it is unreasonable to suppose that Mr. Longworth would have nominated his august father-in-law for re-election eight years hence if he believed that such suggestion was other than agreeable to Mr. Roosevelt."

Today's Tangle.

Now Roosevelt's answered Bryan, and Haskell's answered Hearst; and everybody's lying, to see who lies the worst; and Hearst has answered Haskell and all the coal oil gang and every one's a rascal who ought to go and hang. Now Kern has answered Sherman, and Sherby local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

man's answered Kern, and neither man has whiskers amounting to a dern; and Debs has answered some one, and some one's answered Graves and Hughes has bought a ticket that's good for seven shaves. And Taft has challenged Botkin to meet him in debate, and Mrs. Pinkham's answered the man who pays the freight. To all this answer business no ending do I see; I know it's got me rattled and batty as can be.—Emporia Gazette.

The spirit that prompts the work of those called "night riders" is to be condemned on all sides. To be sure, the farmers are not receiving for their cotton the price to which they are entitled—indeed the present price poorly covers the expense of production—but the method pursued by the "night riders" is altogether unlawful, and its high-handedness should be rebuked without mercy wherever it is possible to do so. The old adage will apply that two wrongs do not make a right. As long as this remains a free country, night prowlers should be condemned and punished for whatever wrongs they perpetrate.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

An exchange remarked the other day that when a lawyer became a member of congress he should retire from all law practice. We can't see it that way. It should not be hard for an honest man to decide in what cases he could take fees from proposed clients and in what ones it would be improper.—Wilmington Star.

Greenville, N. C. September the 17th - 1908.

Mr. H. A. White, Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sirs—

During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.

The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service rendered.

Very truly yours,
W. E. HOOKER.

Stung.

After an hour's hard prevarication the musical instrument dealer had succeeded at last in working off the cheap cornet on a customer at four times its value.

"Where shall I send it?" he inquired blandly when the customer had signified that he gave in.

The enterprising tradesman's jaw fell. He had moved with his family the day before to the flat on the second floor of No. 959 Fig street on a three years' agreement.—London Express.

Mrs. Malinda Akers, of Basham, Va., writes: "I had what doctors call 'prolapse,' and couldn't stand straight. I had pain in my back and shoulders, and was very irregular and profuse. Doctors said an operation was needed, but I couldn't bear the thought of the knife. After taking three bottles of Wine of Cardui, I could walk around. Can now do my housework and am in splendid health."

SNAKES' EGG HATCHING.

Tip on Reptile's Snout With Which It Breaks Its Way Out.

Because of the popular aversion to the serpent family there is a surprising amount of ignorance about even the simplest of snake habits. It is doubtful if many correct answers could be given to the question whether snakes lay eggs or bear their young alive. As a matter of fact, some species are viviparous and others oviparous. Most of the poisonous snakes as well as many of the harmless varieties belong to the former class.

The European ring snake is closely allied to our common water snake and goes by the scientific name Tropidonotus natrix. Curiously enough, all other members of the genus tropidonotus are viviparous, and this species alone lays eggs. Furthermore, according to Gadow's "Amphibia and Reptiles," the new laid eggs usually show not the slightest visible sign of an embryo unless oviposition is delayed, when the embryos are more or less developed.

The eggs are laid in July or August in a soft bed of loam or decaying vegetation or in a heap of manure. The older snakes sometimes lay as many as a dozen eggs or more, and they usually stick together, so that the entire cluster can be picked up at once. Sometimes, however, if the process of laying is slow, they will be separated. The eggs are about an inch long and of a whitish yellow color. The shell is thin and flexible, like parchment.

The young hatch in late summer or autumn. Before hatching they develop a sharp calcareous growth on the tip of the snout, known as the egg tooth, with which the shell is slit open. Unlike hatching chicks, which are suddenly disposed of by the breaking of their brittle shells, the young snakes make many incisions in the parchment envelopes and take many peeps at the outside world before venturing forth into the new environment. Shortly after hatching the egg tooth is lost.

At first the young live on insects and worms, but within a few weeks they are strong enough to attack and devour young frogs. Strangely enough, although the adults are strong swimmers and spend much time in ponds and streams hunting the fish and frogs on which they subsist, the young are unable to swim, and they will soon drown if they fall into the water. The European ring snake, as well as the American water snake, makes an excellent pet. It is perfectly harmless, becomes very tame and learns to know the difference between friends and strangers. Gadow tells of a pet ring snake that would eat from his hand, crawl up his coat sleeve and coil itself contentedly on his arm.—Scientific American.

Tunis Marriage Market.

The famous Tunis marriage mart is held twice a year, in the spring and the autumn. The Tunisian girls attend in their hundreds, each with her dowry, in coin and jewelry, disposed about her person. The "golden girdle of maidenhood" encircles her waist, and in it is an unsheathed dagger. When this is gently removed by a passing gallant and presently returned it means that a proposal has been made.

If You Need a Piano

THE PONTS

SHOULD BE CONSIDERED WHEN YOU PURCHASE

The use of best materials, best construction by skilled workmen, profiting by the experience the STIEFF FACTORY has had in its sixty-eight years of continued manufacture under the same management, places the STIEFF PIANO at the head of High-Grade Instruments. Its sweet tone does not change, as does the so-called "good as" variety, so often sold by dealers to unsuspecting purchasers because there is more profit in the sale.

Masons prefer our brick to those of other makes. WHY?

Because all they have to do is mark off with a trowel just where they want to break it to fit a joint and first one breaks right.

REASON. There's no twist. They're MADE.

Think of the saving of TIME in this to say nothing of the brick broken up of other kinds in trying to break one right. See the point?
