BICKETT AND SMALL SPEAK.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY AT JOHNSON'S MILLS.

Horse Back Procession—Large Crowd—Brass Band—Sumptuous Dinner

Grifton, N. C., Oct. 16, 1908. Democracy was out in full force at Johnson's Mills Thursday. Preparation for this Democratic rally had been going on for two weeks. It had been heralded through this community that Hon. T. W. Bickett, candidate for attorney general and Hon. Jno. H. Small, candidate for congress, would arrive from Weldon.

A procession of one hundred young men, led by two of Pitt county's fairest and sweetest young ladies, on horse back, met these two distinguished speakers at the station. There was also in this procession the Ayden brass band, which gave to Democracy the ring of '98. At 1:30 o'clock, L. H. Cox, chief marshal, announced that this magnificent procession of militant Democracy was in sight of Johnson's Mills. There were already present fully eight hundred. They consisted of men, women and children from the oldest to the youngest. The old gray-haired patriarchs brought their babes that they might be trained up in the way that they should go, the good ladies came to pledge anew their faith in the principles of Democracy, and to demonstrate to these people that they are not forgetful of what the Democratic party has done for them in the past. It was Democracy's day, and if there was a Radical present he was silent in seven languages.

The band had arrived, and when it struck up on "Cixie" the old "grayheaded war horses" got young again.

Hon. T. W. Bickett and Hon. Jno. H. Small, amidst a great demonstration of enthusiasm, were escorted to the platform, while the band played "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

H. W. Whedbee introduced Hon. T. W. Bickett, in a magnificent speech.

Mr. Bickett spoke for an hour and a half, and our people have never heard a greater speech. If it be true in politics, that as you sow so will you reap, there will not be a Republican in this section of the county on November 3rd, next. This writer can not do justice to Mr. Bickett's speech, and will not even attempt to give a synopsis of it.

Hon. Jno. H. Small was next introduced by Col. F. G. James. In a great speech Mr. Small expounded the principles of Democracy.

The people listened to both of these speeches attentively, and when the speeches were over the people said: "It is good for us to be here."

Our people were not forgetful, and when the speaking had finished there was barbecue, chicken, turkey and everything good to eat. There was enough left to feed two hundred people. In all it was a fine day for our great party, and the spirit of Democracy is abroad in the land.

Republican Speaking.

Hon. Claudius Dockery will be with the county candidates at Ayden, Saturday, October 17th, 1908. All are invited to hear this distinguished speaker. R. C. Flanagan, Chairman, Fernando Ward, Sec. 10 14 3td 1tw.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town, Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 15, 1908. Mrs. H. C. Coward is visiting friends in Cary.

The band and several of our citizens went to Johnson's Mills Thursday, while many others went to Ormondville to attend a picnic given by the Red Men. Mrs. Agnes Blount, W. M. Edwards and wife and others from here are in attendance upon the Raleigh fair.

The musicale at the opera house Wednesday evening is said to have been fine.

The meeting at the Baptist church closed Wednesday night with three accessions to the church. During the meeting the attendance was large and the preaching exceptionally good.

Julius Brown, of Greenville, was here Wednesday on legal business.

Rev. H. E. Tripp has returned from Raleigh.

Rev. Mr. Mashburn and Rev. T. H. King, who have been here for several days conducting a series of meetings in the Baptist church, have returned to their respective homes, Edenton and Winterville.

Miss Addie Johnson has her millinery emporium over the store occupied by the J. R. Smith Mer. Co.

Those who attended the Primitive Baptist association at Seven Springs from here have returned home.

The Masons hold their semi-monthly meetings now at night instead of the day time.

Gus Forbes spent Wednesday night with W. E. Hooks and went with the band to Johnson's Mills next day.

W. J. Hemby went to Ormondville Thursday.

Cotton is coming in slowly. The prices are discouraging but if tobacco is not getting there, Jemini!

The sash, blind and door factory will begin operation in a few days. The building is complete, the machinery has been placed and everything about it seems to be in apple pie order.

Louis Manning, of Winterville, made us a pleasant call yesterday.

Bertha Richardson, col., was carried to the asylum at Goldsboro Thursday by policeman C. S. Smith. Isom Richardson, her husband, accompanied. It is indeed an unfortunate case as both husband and wife are held in high esteem by our citizens, white and colored alike.

The liveliest people now are said to be the postmasters, whiskey guagers and revenue doodles. The others will come later on.

Misses Lina and Louise Hooks, who have been in the country visiting, have come home.

TAKEN UP.

For some four or five weeks a big red and white cow with brass knobs on end of horns has been with my cattle and has recently found calf. Needing attention I have taken her up and shall care for her. The owner can have the property by coming and proving ownership and paying costs and expenses.

This 16th day Oct 1908. Reuben Wall, 10 1td 4tw Winterville, N. C.

Seat Sale For "The Runaways."

Seats for "The Runaways" in the opera house Monday night will go on sale at Reflector Book Store tomorrow morning. From 9 to 12 o'clock the sale will be only to those who have subscribed for seats, and then open to the public.

RUNAWAYS' BIG SUCCESS.

Bright and Dazzling Musical Comedy Played to Capacity House.

Playing to a capacity house last night, "The Runaways" again proved its right to be classed as one of the brightest, merriest and jolliest musical comedies that visits Raleigh. It was applause that was almost continuous that was given it, and it was deserved applause.

Again tonight at the Academy of Music it will be the attraction and another capacity house is assured. It will be a social event also, as the couples who will be at the "Leap Year Ball" will first see "The Runaways," enjoy its merry music and the swing of its many artistic dances.

"Bluch," the horrible example, as given by George Ovey, made good and kept the audience in an uproar of pleasure, aided materially by William Lennox, as "Fleecem" Harry Smith as "General Hardtack," and the others in the cast. On the feminine side of the cast there was Miss Florence Ackeley as "Princess Angelcake; Miss Sadie Etherton as "Josie May Darling," Miss Louise Horner as "Dorothy Hardtack," who with the six good looking widows who got the kisses, and the others of the stunning looking chorus made an attractive and musical assemblage that was charming. Besides these there are many others who take part in the jollity and add to the happiness.

"The Runaways" is attractively staged, the costumes are bright and new, and altogether this musical comedy is well worth seeing, for it provides full and overflowing value in an evening that it makes a merry and musical one. It is jolly and merry all through.—Raleigh News and Observer, 15th.

SO-CALLED DEAD NEVER DIED.

Science Has Demonstrated the Fact of a Future Existence. The only satisfactory answer to the momentous question, are the dead alive? must be founded upon facts, says Alfred Russel Wallace, in the November Delineator. During the last sixty years evidence has been accumulating in every part of the world which affords demonstration that the so-called dead have never really died at all, but have passed into a new and higher stage of existence. Many of these are able to communicate with us, and most of them assure us that when they wake from the sleep we call "death" they find themselves much more alive than ever they were before. And this is only what we might expect, for we all feel that our mental faculties are to some extent clogged and stifled by the garment of flesh, and that only when in the most perfect health do our higher faculties attain their fullest expression.

This rapid entrance on a state of spiritual well-being and happiness seems to be very general among those who have led ordinarily good and natural lives, but is by no means universal. Those who have led selfish or sensual lives, or have given way to evil passions of and kind, have a different awakening, into a world of darkness or gloom, often of solitude for a longer or shorter period and infinitely varied in the surroundings, according to their previous lives. But whatever germs of good are in them are ultimately developed through the kind ministrations of spirit helpers, and thenceforth progress toward a higher and happier state, depending mainly on themselves.

ROANOKE ASSOCIATION.

Next Session Will be Held in Greenville.

From Tuesday night to Thursday night of this week the Baptist churches in the division of the old Tar River Association east of the Wilmington and Weldon railroad had delegates at a meeting in Rocky Mount for the purpose of organizing a new association. About fifty churches were represented.

The introductory sermon was preached Tuesday night by Rev. J. T. Jenkins, of Wilson. After the sermon the association organized by electing T. M. Arrington, of Rocky Mount, as moderator and Rev. J. A. Sullivan, of Washington, as clerk.

At the Wednesday morning session a constitution and by-laws for the government of the new association was adopted, and Roanoke was selected as the name for it.

The two days were filled with the discussion of interesting subjects in connection with the work of the association and in reading letters and statistical reports from the churches composing it.

An invitation from Greenville Memorial Baptist church for the meeting of next year to be held here was accepted.

Committees for the next meeting to be held in Greenville were appointed as follows:

Executive committee—Noah Biggs, E. W. Shearin, J. W. Anderson, O. L. Pittman, C. F. Ellen, B. F. Briggs, T. M. Arrington.

A Toast.

Here's to you, dear ladies, May you live one thousand years, To sort 'er keep things lively, In this vale of human tears, And here's that we may live One thousand years, too. Did we say "a thousand years?" No, a thousand less a day. For we should hate to live on earth And learn th' t you had passed away. —Printers' Album.

FRIDAY, OCT. 16, 1908.

Raleigh and Charlotte both have cause for congratulation on the big occasions they have successfully held this week. Both were simply great.

There is plenty of truth to talk about to make an interesting campaign without either side resorting to falsehoods. No Roosevelt imitators are needed.

The postmaster general has issued a circular instructing government employes to keep out of politics. A rigid enforcement of that order would practically put to an end the Republican campaign in North Carolina.

Many Democrats in Halifax county seem to have been dissatisfied with the ticket nominated by the regular county convention, and recently held a mass meeting in which another ticket was named. That does not look like a proper proceeding.

Having caught it "in the neck" with enough to look after for the time being, we could not indulge in much hankering to mingle with the crowds at Raleigh and Greensboro this week, but reading of the big doings in the papers is enough to make a fellow sorry that he had to miss it all.

Spartanburg, S. C., and Concord, N. C., have both recently had crimes that aroused the people of the respective communities to a desire to engage in lynchings. We are glad that prompt action on the part of officials prevented the contemplated lynchings, yet the crimes in question are of entirely too frequent occurrence.

The Old Game.

Says the Greensboro Record: The Republican party has never changed its method of campaign work a particle in forty years. Its chief asset is intimidation of the working classes. In every Presidential election this is resorted to and has in the past been effective. The same tactics have been resorted to this year. A manufacturing plant of some magnitude in West Chester, Pa., posted a notice the other day that in the event of Bryan's election it would close down, winding up with the assertion that "it is and has been the universal rule of this establishment to in no way bring pressure for political purposes on employes." Workmen so threatened must be mighty big fools to swallow such a dose and it is quite clear they are not doing it this year. Even some of the strongest Republican papers see the wrong as well as the futility of it. The Philadelphia Times thus remarks upon this instance:

"It may as well be made clear to these concerns that they have thus done more to injure Mr. Taft's prospects of election than to help them. We are in favor of Mr. Taft's election; we are working to secure it because of our belief that the continuation of

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

the Republican policy is for the best interests of the country. But if his election must be accomplished by the degradation of workmen in appeals to their fears or interests, he had better be defeated."

Patronize the Rural Routes.

The rural free delivery of mail is of incalculable value to people living in the country and should be patronized by every person living on or near the routes. In some cases, where postoffices were abolished, injustice has been done a few, but to the great majority of people living in the country no act of the national government compares with the rural free delivery in the benefits derived by the rural population.

When a route is once established the people should show their appreciation by patronizing it. Every family living convenient to it should put up a box and receive and send all their mail through this channel. There is urgent need for a letter to occasionally be sent to the postoffice direct for mailing. The carriers are required to count the mail they handle, and every piece helps to run the total up to a figure that will guarantee the continuance of the route. If the mail handled by the carriers falls below three thousand pieces a month for a few months the service over the route will be curtailed to two or three times a week, instead of daily. Not only should every letter and postal card to be forwarded be deposited in the box but all stamps, postal cards and money orders purchased should be procured from the carrier. They make report of all, and all helps in making the service permanent.

Every farm, home, factory, or place of business situated on a rural route is made more valuable and desirable by reason of the mail facilities afforded. Just look up the advertisements in the papers of farms for sale or rent, and wherever they are situated on a rural route it is so stated as an inducement to buyers or renters. -Rich Square Times.

It is real good in Mr. Taft to come down South and inform us that we are "a part of the Union" at last. We of course did not know it, judging from the treatment accorded us in the past and more of what we call the Crumpecker in for instance. Left to himself, we believe Judge Taft would regard us "a part of the Union," but he has shown conclusively that he is not his own man. He is a cuckoo pure and simple, doing the bidding of Mr. Roosevelt, to his own shame and degradation. -Greensboro Record.

...An old-time painter worked into the luxurious studio of a New York artist and asked for money to obtain a meal, as he was too weak to work. The artist gave him a quarter and then, seeing possibilities for a sketch in the queer old fellow, said, "I'll give you a dollar if you'll let me paint you." "Sure," said the man, "it's an easy way to make a dollar, but - but I'm wonderin' how I'd get it off." -Ladies' Home Journal.

Dear Sir:-

During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.

The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service rendered.

Very truly yours,

FAKIRS OF INDIA.

One Who Tortured Himself Upon a Bed of Spikes.

In India there are numerous penitents of different sects, called "Fakkers," "Yogees," "Tadins," "Pandaroons," etc., who make a vow to live at the expense of the public and travel about begging, says the New York Press. The Fakkers are Mussulmans, cunning, hypocritical and impudent. They do all sorts of silly stunts and are altogether a disgusting lot. Sometimes they assemble in troops of 3,000 or 10,000, levying contributions wherever they go. The total number of Fakkers in British India is about 900,000.

Among the various brands or breeds of Fakkers you will find the "Dundee," the "Brumbucharee," the "Ramatu," the "Voishnuvu" and the genuine Mussulman Fakker.
Many of the more enlightened Hindoos, especially the Brahmans, hold these mendicants in the utmost contempt and have assisted the British government as far as they dared in putting them to work. On the other hand, some rich property owners treat the frauds with the greatest reverence.

A few years ago there was a Fak-ker who lay on a bed of spikes and took the name of Purrum Soatuntre, which means "self possession" or "independence." At the age of ten this man began a life of self mortification. He would lie on thorns and pebbles. This torture he kept up until he was twenty, and then he wandered about as a Fakker, going from one holy place to another. At one town he shut himself up in a cell, vowing to do penance for twelve years. There he remained until vermin gnawed his flesh and left marks which lasted through life. The rajah, taking pity on him, opened the door of his cell and bade him step forth. The poor wretch was furious at this act of sympathy and heaped curses upon the rajah's head for breaking in on him.

Torture was nothing to Purrum Soatuntre. "Give me a bed of spikes," he cried, and the rajah, frightened lest the curses of the ferocious Fakker should blight his reign, complied. And this bed of spikes became a sort of triumphal car for Purrum. He set out immediately on long journeys and was drawn on this awful bed all around the country for thousands of miles, the poor Hindoos worshipping him as a god. He traveled in this way for thirty-five years.

Purrum was, however, not content with the supposed merit of his self torture on the bed of spikes.
He tried to put himself to greater pain by causing water to fall on his head day and night in the cold season, drop by drop, from a pot with holes in it placed over him, so that he might be constantly uneasy; and when the hot weather came he mortified himself in an opposite manner by causing logs of wood to be kept burning around him to make his sufferings from the heat greater.
This wretch never earned a rupee.

Praoun Pory was the most remarkable of all Fakkers. He held his arms over his head until the circulation of the blood stopped. His nails grew to be talons, and his skin seemed to grow to the bone, so that the joints refused to work, and he could never take his arms down again. He sat with his legs tucked under him till they became useless.
Every day he was brought out to a public place and seated upon a leop-ard's skin. The people came and supplied him with the most delicate food.

The Spider's Elastic Appetite.

The spider has a tremendous appetite, and his gormandizing defies all human competition. A scientist who carefully noted a spider's consumption of food in twenty-four hours concluded that if the spider were built proportionately to the human scales he would eat at daybreak, approximately, a small alligator, by 7 a. m. a lamb, by 9 a. m. a young camelopard, by 1 o'clock a sheep and would finish up with a lark pie in which there were 120 birds. Yet, in spite of his enormous appetite, a spider has wonderful power of refraining from food, and one has been known to live for ten months when absolutely deprived of food. A beetle lived in a similar state of unrefreshment for three years.

Farming In Japan.

The lot of a farmer in Japan does not seem particularly enviable in the eyes of a foreigner, but by the Japanese themselves it is generally spoken of as being in some respects more advantageous than that of most other classes. The farmer is more independent, though often his self satisfaction is due much more to his ignorance of better conditions than to really worthy motives. His life, with all its drawbacks, is healthier than those of sedentary workers, and, as a class, agriculturists are the longest lived.—Kobe Chronicle.

AFRICAN MARRIAGES.

Peculiar Customs of the Different Native Tribes.

The marriage customs of west and southwest Africa are in many cases peculiar. They differ, of course, in different tribes, but have broad lines in common.

A coastal tribe always considers itself superior to an inland tribe, and even its meanest member claims to rank higher than the most powerful man of an up country tribe. A man may marry any woman he likes of any tribe, it being held that he gives her his own status, whatever that may be, but it is almost unheard of for a woman to marry "beneath" her. As a result some of the women of the most superior coast tribes, like the Mpongwe, look to marriage with white men and frequently attain to it.

The parents on both sides rule absolutely in the matter of marriage between natives. First the would be bridegroom goes empty handed to obtain the consent of the bride's father. Then he goes again with gifts, and the father calls in other members of the family to view the gifts. On the third visit he carries trade gin, a sufficiently poisonous compound, generally from Hamburg. In the old days it was palm toddy or wine.

On this occasion he pays over an installment of the dowry. On the fourth visit he takes his parents with him and is permitted to see the girl herself. When next he calls his prospective mother-in-law provides a feast for himself and his relatives, the host and hostess eating nothing, but taking a hand in the drinking. Finally the man goes with gifts and the balance of the dowry and takes the woman away.
On arrival at his village she is welcomed with singing and a strenuous dance called "nkanja."

For three months the bride is not required to do any hard work, but after that she buckles to with his other wives at gardening and carrying burdens. Polygamy is general and the number of a man's wives limited only by his resources in the matter of paying dowries. The man may divorce his wife whenever he chooses and for almost any reason.
But it is rare for a woman to be able to obtain divorce at her own wish. Divorce entails the return of the dowry.—London Standard.

Praise For the Bishop.

The bishop of an English see, being a newcomer and somewhat troubled with a neglected diocese, thought to inspire his clergy to take occasional services during the week by periodically visiting out of the way parishes and taking one himself.

On one of these occasions, having formed quite a good congregation and having been moved to much eloquence in his sermon, he felt a little not unnatural desire to know if he had made any impression on the usually unimpressionable yokels and put some leading questions to the old clerk, who was helping him to unrobe in the vestry. "Well, I hope they've been pleased with yer," said the old man patronizingly, "and I'm sure we tuk it verry kind o' yer worship to come down and preach to us, but, yer know, a worsser one would ha' done for the likes o' we.
if so be," he added with becoming humility, "one could ha' bin found."

Why He Attracted.

A broker who had the reputation of using strong language on the golf links started out on a sunny afternoon to play nine holes. Looking back after he had driven off, he saw a great crowd following.
There were young men and old good players and bad, all trailing close behind with looks of interest and expectation.

The broker paused and turned.
He smiled politely and nervously.
"Really, gentlemen," he said, "this is very flattering. I hope I am in good form this afternoon. I trust I shall play well enough to reward all this kindly interest."

"Oh, it isn't that," replied an older lawyer, with a chuckle. "We came out to listen."—Ladies' Home Journal.

An Inch of Rain.

The rain fell in buckets, the thunder racketed terribly and the lightning drew zigzag lines of bright gold upon the violet sky.

"So you, too, don't know what an inch of rain is exactly," said the weather clerk, as he looked at his rain measuring instrument. "Very few people do, it seems. I'll explain it to you.

"An acre is 6,272,640 square inches. An inch of water on an acre is therefore 6,272,640 cubic inches. That amount, at 227 cubic inches to the gallon, equals 22,000 gallons or 220,000 pounds or 100 tons.

"An inch of rain is, in other words, rain falling at the rate of 100 tons to the acre."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

If You Need a Piano

THREE PONTS

SHOULD BE CONSIDERED WHEN YOU PURCHASE

First: Is the Piano strictly high-grade, of a lasting tone-quality, and made by a reliable factory?

The use of best materials, best construction by skilled workmen, profiting by the experience the STIEFF FACTORY has had in its sixty-eight years of continued manufacture under the same management, places the STIEFF PIANO at the head of High-Grade Instruments. Its sweet tone does not change, as does the so-called "good as" variety, so often sold by dealers to unsuspecting purchasers because there is more profit in the sale.

Second: How can I obtain the BEST PIANO for the least money, value being considered?

If you buy a STIEFF. There are more STIEFF PIANOS in use in North Carolina than any other three makes of high-grade

BRICK TALK, No. 11

Masons prefer our brick to those of other makes, WHY?

Because all they have to do is mark off with a trowel just where they want to break it to fit a joint and first one breaks right.

REASON. There's no twist. They're MADE.

Think of the saving of TIME in this to say nothing of the brick broken up of other kinds in trying to break one right. See the point?
