BUNCOMBE COUNTY'S FREAKS.

Ripe Strawberries and Mature Cotton—Believed Cotton Can be Raised.

The "dark horses" in the race for the prize to be given the producer of freaks of nature in the agricultural or horticultural line are coming with a rush as election day approaches, and some signs indicate that they are likely to get as many electoral votes as Dr. E. B. Glenn, Dr. J. A. Reagan and others who made a great showing at the start.

Yesterday W. C. Daves, of Dick's Creek, and J. T. McCarrison, of Asheville, came to the front with a rush. Mr. Daves brought to The Citizen office several strawberry plants from his place on Dick's Creek in Leicester township, which showed blooms and ripe fruit. It was not frostbitten berries either, but big red, ripe ones, luscious as in June and that they are not entirely freaks is shown by the fact that Mr. Daves brought in five quarts of them, which found a ready sale at 30 cents a quart. Further than this he has been bringing in ripe berries all this month. He does not think that his strawberry plants are different from those of his neighbors, which are not bearing, although something is strange that one patch will have berries while others close by have none.

Mr. McCarrison brought several bolls of cotton fully blown, untouched by frost, which he raised on his place in West Asheville, three miles from the city. The cotton is of the large boll kind and the plants producing it grew in rich soil. Mr. McCarrison believes that cotton can be grown in this county profitably, and next season may make the experiment. The fact that cotton has not been grown here did not necessarily mean anything, he said, and he instanced the fact that some years ago people thought wheat could not be grown in Henderson county but experiment showed that it could be and later much wheat was raised.

"When Buncombe takes to raising cotton and producing ripe strawberries almost up to November," said a citizen, "we are going to be the people."—Asheville Citizen.

Ex-Sheriff Aman Sentenced.

Clinton, N. C., Oct. 30.—Superior court yesterday was entirely consumed in trying the cases against ex-Sheriff L. W. Aman for forgery. The testimony lasted until night. Argument was made to the jury and they soon returned a verdict of guilty.

This morning evidence was given in before the judge concerning the physical condition of Aman and has capacity to do physical labor and how he lost the money. He testified that he lost about six thousand dollars in corn futures in 1904 and some on cotton futures and the rest in business; that he never took a cent of county money for his own use, that county script came in to be paid with no money in the treasury and that he paid it out of his business and his accounts became mixed; that when he went out of office he sold everything he had to make settlement and when he made his assignment he did not reserve any homestead.

Judge Lyon sentenced him in the first case to four months imprisonment in jail and in the second to four years in the penitentiary.

Great Rally at Bethel.

A phone message from Bethel this afternoon says the Democrats are having the greatest rally of the campaign there today. Fully 1,500 people—about 500 ladies and 1,000 voters, are present and enthusiasm is high. Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes is the principal speaker and the people gave him a tremendous ovation. Bethel is going to send up a big Democratic majority Tuesday.

The Hallowe'en Party.

The ladies of the End of the Century Book club had an enjoyable occasion at their Hallowe'en party in the store next to the postoffice Friday night. The attendance was large and there were many features to interest all. A good sum was realized for the benefit of the public library.

AN AT HOME IN AYDEN.

Ayden, N. C., Oct. 30.—Mrs. Thomas Lawton Willingham and Mrs. Jesse Cannon were at home to the ladies of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions and quite a number of other friends in a most charming way this afternoon. Music and quotations from the best composers and authors were the interesting features with a guessing contest. Mrs. Stancill Hodges winning the first reward and Miss Florence Blount and Mrs. Burton tied on the booby, drawing for the prize, Miss Blount won.

Mrs. Travis Hooker, one of Greenville's best and most soulful singers, pleased the ladies by singing in her sweet way, a beautiful solo. Miss Arah Davis, who is well known, sang also, adding much to the pleasure of the occasion. Mrs. Hodges, Miss Blanche Cannon, Miss Jirmie Davis and Mrs. Hooker, in turn, presided at the piano, rendering instrumental selections. Mrs. Willingham delighted her guests by singing, as a solo, her own composition.

The refreshment period was no less enjoyable than the first two. Those assisting in receiving were Mesdames Hodges, Holton, Burton, Beman and Barwick. The many pleasing qualities of the two lady hostesses at this pleasant afternoon affair are well known to a large circle of friends here and many other towns. Those present voted the party a success.

Hallowe'en Party.

Reported for Reflector: Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Tunstall entertained at a Hallowe'en party in honor of Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall and about fifty of her friends.

A ghost met the guests at the door and ushered them into the hall where fruit punch was served.

The house was decorated with autumn leaves, golden rod, red draperies and bats and cats cut from black crepe paper. Jack o'lanterns and candles in potato candle sticks furnished light.

Fortune-telling by a witch, bobbing for apples and pinning the tail on the black cat were some of the amusements.

Miss Reubelle Forbes won the prize, a rose candlestick, for pinning the tail on the cat.

At ten-thirty fruits, cream and cake were served.

Between eleven and twelve goodnights were said and all expressed themselves as having spent a most delightful evening.

SATURDAY, OCT. 31, 1908.

A change in administration could hardly make conditions worse than they have been under Roosevelt.

If you do not want to see the constitutional amendment abolished you had better stick to the Democratic party.

There will be five ballot boxes and five tickets to be voted in the election Tuesday, as follows:

- One for presidential electors.
- One for State officers.
- One for representative in congress.
- One for solicitor, members of the legislature and county officers.
- One for township officers.

When you go to vote see that you have the five tickets and that all of them have the names of the Democratic nominees. And do not scratch a single name but vote all the tickets just as they are.

Every Democrat in Pitt county should do everything possible to swell the Democratic majority next Tuesday. It should be apparent to every right thinking man that the Democratic party is the one to continue in charge of our affairs. A change would be detrimental to our material progress and educational advancement. To put the Republicans back in power would mean ultimately a return to the days of corruption in office, to negro deputies in large offices, negro principals in minor offices, negroes in the jury box. You have seen these things right here in Pitt county and the remembrance of them should make every lover of his county vote the Democratic ticket.

As the several counties get representation in State conventions according to the number of votes cast for governor in the county, so do the several townships get representation in county conventions according to the number of votes cast for governor in the township. Bear this in mind next Tuesday and see that there is a big vote for governor in every township if you want your township to have a large number of votes in the county conventions for the next four years. Candidates seeking nomination in a county convention like to have as many delegates as possible from their township, and a good way to prepare for this is to see that your township piles up a big vote for governor.

Over Zealous Grand Juries.
In Appleton's magazine for November, Mr. John P. Ryan recites some excesses of zeal on the part of grand juries, in finding criminal indictments against people without foundation of law or testimony. Mr. Ryan takes up the case of District Attorney Jerome, in being almost crucified for not bringing indictments against insurance and by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

other men in New York, when these were in disrepute. We quote from Mr. Ryan:

"If there has been high-handed procedure in bringing indictments under State jurisdiction, what must be said of the Federal situation? There are scores of cases or the Federal records that substantiate the assertion that the process of indictment has been abused, that show either the asininity or pliability of Federal grand juries, and the utter disregard of even casual respect for human liberty and right."

Throughout the article Mr. Ryan points out that grand juries are usually altogether too pliant in the hands of the district attorney. Also that many district attorneys proceed upon the idea that the more convictions they get the better they are fulfilling their duty. In many cases, and totally regardless of common decency, district attorneys cause indictments to be made through their influence with the grand jury, where no indictment ought ever to have been made.

In so far as the Federal courts are concerned, Mr. Ryan's views would seem to be particularly applicable, where cases are brought by over zealous employees of the Department of Justice for political motives. The desire in some cases has been more to win a class of votes, chiefly the labor vote, by prosecuting people without reasonable foundation, of law or fact.

Crime ought always to be punished, but indictments brought to forward ambition or for political motives, are themselves crimes.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Lover of Home.

One of the troubles with Absalom was that he did not love his home. We fear that many boys are suffering from the same affliction. A great deal is being said these days about the necessity of making home attractive so that our boys will not wander into doubtful and dangerous places. This is important, but there are some boys that can not be held at home, no matter what is done for them, and there is very little hope for such a boy as that. We may be mistaken, but somehow we are impressed with the fact that there is a general tendency away from the sacred happiness that surrounds the old home. It may be that this is due to the restlessness of the age and the vast throngs of our people that are constantly moving to and fro. Our children are less contented with the simple happiness of the home life, but measure their pleasure by the trips they take. It is a disadvantage, we are persuaded, that transportation has become so easy and cheap. It has certainly militated against the quiet joy of the family life. The children who still find the highest happiness at home are the ones who will count for most when they do go out into life—Charity and Children.

September the 17th 1908.

Mr. H. A. White,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir:

During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.

The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service rendered.

Very truly yours,

GOOD WATER MEANS Good Health

Analytical tests made by the Director of the STATE LABORATORY OF HYGIENE under the control of the NORTH CAROLINA BOARD OF HEALTH at RALEIGH, N. C., shows that the water supplied by the Greenville (municipal) water works is PURE.

For the protection of patrons samples of water are submitted monthly and the reports of the Chemist are always on file in the office of the Commission for inspection.

Discard the old well or pump and get the benefit of the advantages offered by the Water Department. It not only means that you will always have good water to drink, but it will prove a great convenience. Nothing to do but turn the spigot. No more pumping and drawing.

We furnish 3,000 gallons per month for $1.00 and allow you a discount of 10 per cent. if bill is paid by 5th of month succeeding month in which service is rendered. This makes the cost only 90 cents.

Information gladly furnished to anyone regarding cost of making tap, etc.

THE HEART.

What Happens to This Patient Organ When It Is Overstrained.

The heart is a long suffering and patient organ, and fortunate it is that this is so, for even the gentlest or the laziest person puts burdens on it that any less obliging organ would resent to the extent of quitting work.

The digestive organs do this sometimes, and the result is much suffering for the time being. But when the quarrel is patched up and the offender ceases to abuse these useful and necessary parts of the body life goes on as before.

The heart cannot stop work for a minute, for if it should life would end at once, and so human nature presumes upon its knowledge of this and puts all sorts of difficult tasks upon the heart.

There is a limit, however, that cannot be exceeded, especially by those who have passed the fortieth milepost, without risk, if not instant death, at least of chronic invalidism.

The heart is a muscular bag, divided into four compartments, the function of which is to pump the blood to all parts of the body, which it does by the regular contraction of its walls. In health and under normal conditions this pumping action goes on regularly and quietly. But when an impediment is offered to the flow of blood in the arteries, such as occurs during active exercise or under the stress of some strong mental emotion, such as grief, anger or great joy, the muscular wall must contract more forcibly.

If the opposing force continues beyond a certain time the heart gets tired, and its cavities dilate a little, while its action grows more rapid. The sign of this is shortness of breath. Young athletes, by a course of judicious training, gradually strengthen the heart muscles so that it is able to meet the strain and overcome it by more forcible contractions. In youth also the organ is elastic and readily returns to its normal size, even in the absence of training, as soon as the strain is reduced.

In later life, however, the elasticity disappears, and a severe tax on the organ, such as bicycling uphill, running or even a strenuous game of tennis when one is "soft," may result in a dilatation which is not reduced readily or which may even persist as a crippled heart, making its owner more or less of a permanent invalid.

Every person over fifty should avoid severe physical strains of all kinds. He should exercise regularly—walking is the best kind of exercise for the heart—but he should avoid unusual feats of running, bicycling or even horseback riding if he would keep his heart in condition to last as long as the other organs—up to 80 or 100 years, which is the natural limit of a well spent life.—Youth's Companion.

Spelling at St. Andrews.

Just as, according to the familiar saying, the shoemaker's wife often goes the worst shod, so it would appear that in some of our university towns proficiency in the elementary art of spelling is not invariably exhibited in public notices. In that ancient Scottish seat of learning and the Mecca of golf, St. Andrews, the writer of this paragraph observed the other day a notice affixed to one of the churches intimating that services were held every "Sabbath" at such and such hours, and on the historic links there is an excellently painted notice board which reads thus: "The Public Are Requested to Keep of the Grass." We had often heard of the spell of St. Andrews, but scarcely expected to find it in this particular form.—Westminster Gazette.

The Mistletoe.

The mistletoe, which the Druids are said to have cut from oak trees with bill hooks of gold, for the plant was a sacred object in their religious ceremonies, is seldom found on oaks at the present day, although it abounds on many other trees, to which its presence is always eventually fatal. Such at least is the state of affairs in France in the regions, such as Touraine, that were once the special home of the Druids. Nearly 200 tons of mistletoe are annually exported from France to England, principally for use at weddings.—Youth's Companion.

The Bundle Kicked.

A comical story is told of an English nobleman who is shortsighted. In a railroad train, while he was sitting next to a very stout old woman, a friend on the next seat accosted him. "Wait a minute," said his lordship. "I'll put this bundle of rags in the rack, and you can sit here." And to the astonishment and horror of the gigantic female he caught her round the waist before he realized his mistake.

THE WHEATFIELD.

Where the Billowing Golden Waves Stretch From Sky to Sky.

Take a look at the wheatfield that has been brought up to perfection as it stands, yellow as gold, with the sheen of the sea, billowing from sky line to sky line like an ocean of gold, where the wind touches the rippling wave crests with the tread of invisible feet. In California, in Oregon, in Washington, in Dakota, in the Canadian northwest, you may ride all day on horseback through the wheatfields without a break in the flow of yellow heavy headed grain—no fence lines, no meadow lands, no shade trees, no knobs and knolls and hills and hollows of grass or black earth through. From dawn till dark, from sunrise, in a burst of fiery splendor over the prairie horizon, to sundown, when the crimson thing hangs like a huge shield of blood in the haze of a heat twilight, you may ride with naught to break the view between you and the horizon but wheat—wheat. It is like the gold fields. It goes to your head. You grow dizzy looking at it. You rub your eyes. Is it a mirage? The billowing yellow waves seem to be breasting the very sky. You look up. The sky is there all right with the black mote of a meadow lark sailing the azure sea. He drops liquid notes of sheer mellow music down on your head, does that meadow lark, and that gives you back your perspective, your sense of amazing reality. You are literally, absolutely, really, in the midst of a sea of living gold. It is you and not the lark that is the mote. You begin to feel as if your special mote might be a beam that would get lost in infinity if you stayed there long, and so you ride on and on, and some more on, and by and by come out of the league long, fenceless fields with an odor in your nostrils that isn't exactly like incense—it's too fugitive, too fine, too subliminal of earth. It is aromatic, a sort of attar of roses, the imprisoned fragrance of the billions upon billions of wheat flowers shut up in the giuges of the heavy headed grain there. And that's the odor of the wheat.—Agnes C. Laut in Outing Magazine.

A CHINESE STORY.

The Way a Mandarin's Wise Wife Decided a Baby Case.

Two women came before a mandarin in China, each of them protesting that she was the mother of a little child they had brought with them. They were so eager and so positive that the mandarin was sorely puzzled. He retired to consult with his wife, who was a wise and clever woman, whose opinion was held in great repute in the neighborhood. She requested five minutes in which to deliberate. At the end of that time she spoke, "Let the servants catch me a large fish in the river, and let it be brought here alive." This was done. "Bring me now the infant," she said, "but leave the two women in the outer chamber." This was done too. Then the mandarin's wife caused the baby to be undressed and its clothes to be put on the fish. "Carry the creature outside now and throw it into the river in the sight of the two women." The servant obeyed her orders, flinging the fish into the water, where it rolled about and struggled, disgusted no doubt by the wrappings in which it was swaddled. Without a moment's pause one of the women threw herself into the river with a shriek. She must save her drowning child. "Without doubt she is the true mother," she declared, and the mandarin's wife commanded that she should be rescued and the child given to her. And the mandarin nodded his head and thought his wife the wisest woman in the Flowery Kingdom. Meanwhile the false woman crept away. She was found out in her imposture, and the mandarin's wife forgot all about her in the occupation of donning the little baby in the best silk she could find in her wardrobe. Bystander.

White and Red Wines. White and red wines owe their difference to the fact that, while the former is permitted to ferment without the grape skins, these are allowed to remain in the case of the latter. The color of the grapes makes no difference whatever to the color of the wine which they produce, for the juice of all grapes is as nearly as possible colorless. For instance, the grape which yields champagne is almost black in outward appearance.

D., will preach for us on Third Sunday, November 15. R. Henry Sawyer, Jr., pastor.

Dog Must Not Work.

Some misguided person returning from a continental holiday has wondered why dogs are not used in England as beasts of burden. The reason why is nothing less simple than a statute. As long ago as 1839 an act was passed making it a punishable offense for any person within the metropolitan area to "use any dog for the purpose of drawing or helping to draw any cart, carriage, truck or barrow." Fifteen years later, in 1854, an act, passed in "the more effectual prevention of cruelty to animals," extended the prohibition to all parts of the kingdom.—London Globe.

Not on His Side.

"Who is there," cried the impassioned orator, "who will lift a voice against the truth of my statement?" Just then a donkey on the outskirts of the crowd gave vent to one of the piercing "heehaws" of the tribe. The laugh was on the orator for a moment, but, assuming an air of triumph, he lifted his voice above the din to say, "I knew nobody, but an ass would try it."—Liverpool Mercury.

Over the Telephone.

"Is this Dr. Smith?" "Yes." "Well, this is Mrs. Jones. I wish you would come over as soon as convenient. My cuckoo clock has a little throat trouble."—Harper's Weekly.

His Mentor.

From the time a boy sits under a street corner electric light playing with toads until he is blind and toothless, he has to account to some woman why he didn't come home earlier.—Athens Globe.
