VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

Farmers Should Advertise and in That Way Build Business.

In line with what The Chronicle has been written recently on the value of advertising for the farmers, were the views expressed a few days ago by Mr. E. O. McCormick, of the Harriman lines, to the fruit growers of California, who, throughout their industry, the past year added $16,000,000 to the wealth of the country. Mr. McCormick said to them that it has always been a wonder to him how it can be that men and organizations can muster up the courage to put large sums of money into lands, factories, machinery and materials; incur big payroll liabilities and other obligations; then, when it comes to the most important factor of all—that of making the product known; or in other words, making the people want it; to hesitate—to consider the publicity as a something apart from the business—a something to be or not to be done dependent on the judgment or perhaps, whim, of some individual—or to think of it as an expense, or say a gamble.

It seems to be true, however, even in these days so full of precedent, that many manufacturers, merchants and dealers who are never satisfied except they have the very best procurable in machinery and men, location and materials either fall down entirely, when it comes to advertising, or do it with such half-hearted interest and doubt that such trials as they reluctantly accede to are failures. Mr. McCormick holds that there is no mystery or magic about advertising—that is to say, no more mystery than attaches to doing any other things well. It is not an experiment. Properly done it is simply good salesmanship. It does simultaneously in a thousand or a million places what an individual can do only in one place at a time. Paradoxically, it not only does not supersede the salesman, but is his greatest ally. The better the advertising the better the ally. It is the advance agent of the salesman, it predisposes the dealers and the public and clears the route of the salesman of many of its horns. Good salesmanship is the ability to induce people to buy your things equally with or in place of the stuff that others have to sell. If judicious advertising will assist in creating a demand for oranges it will add much to the chance of the success of the salesman in his work. That it will do this may be predicated on what it has done in other fields. Further, Mr. McCormick said to the growers:

"Let us start with a full realization that we live in an age of specialization. Your own business of selling oranges is an illustration of this fact. The owner is all right as a grower; when it comes to marketing he is not in it. That is your specialty. The picked fruit represents the full complement of his investment in capital, intelligence and labor in the orchard. You do not invade his field of activity. His specialty is in studying grafting and planting and spraying, and the many other problems and secrets of the still life of the grave—the plowing and irrigating.

"As to the mediums to be used, you know, of course, that the most direct and most easily employed means at our ready command for use in educating the public is the newspaper."

TERRAPIN BUG.

Entomologist Smith Tells How to Suppress Them.

Prof. R. I. Smith, of the A. and M. College, entomologist of the North Carolina experiment station, in a bulletin on the suppression of the terrapin bug, says: "In the opinion of the writer there are only two effective methods of destroying terrapin bugs: one being hand picking, and death by crushing or dropping in kerosene, and the other the use of a contact spray like strong kerosene emulsion, that will kill all the bugs it can be made to touch.

"Hand picking.—Unless the bugs are very numerous, hand picking is the most practical remedy. Children may do the work as well and even faster than grown persons. The bugs may be collected quite rapidly by picking all in sight and then shaking the plants and collecting those that drop. This work should be done on warm, sunny days, when the bugs are not in hiding, and one should not expect to get all at the first picking. Go over the infested plants two or three times and on different days. The results from one thorough picking will, however, full repay the farmer for his time and cost.

In fields in which the infested crop is of no further value, the plants may be pulled and piled in small heaps and left a couple of days until the terrapin bugs may be readily killed by burning or treatment with pure kerosene. Be sure that the bugs are destroyed before they migrate to other feeding grounds.

"Spraying the Crop.—This method is of some value, but is not strongly recommended for use at this time of the year. Kerosene emulsion at 25 to 30 per cent strength will kill many bugs, if it can be applied so as to cover them thoroughly. It is recommended mainly, however, for killing the small or half grown bugs during summer. Where bugs occur on worthless plants, pure kerosene may be used with good results so far as killing the bugs is concerned, but expense will often be more than would be required by hand picking.

"By following these directions thousand of dollars will be saved annually to North Carolina farmers."

consin is making a fortune by advertising his specialty. The orange growers and the farmers in any specialty can do the same. Advertising is of as much value to the farmer as it is to the merchant and the farmers who try it are the farmers who are going to make money.—Charlotte Chronicle.

FARMERS' UNION PLAN.

Big Convention at New Orleans Nov. 11, 12 to Secure Backing.

New Orleans, Nov. 7. A net increase of $2 per bale on every bale of cotton raised in the South is pronounced a certainty if the warehouse plans of the convention of the National Farmers' Union at New Orleans Nov. 11, 12 are carried out along the intelligent and modern lines now being considered by the members and officers of the union. President C. S. Barrett of the Farmers' Union, which represents 2,000,000 cotton farmers extending from Virginia to Oklahoma, has issued a call for the most important meeting ever held by the organization and, denies emphatically the statement made in Texas that any speculative cotton interests are involved, but announces that the movement emanates from the farmers themselves. This statement is corroborated by E. S. Maunsell, chairman of the committee of the New Orleans Progressive Union, having in charge the entertainment of the convention.

That New Orleans stands ready to back this farmers' movement to the limit is conceded on all sides and the wealthiest banking institutions of the South, located at New Orleans, have just made the statement that, if the warehouse plans are carried out as projected, there will be no difficulty in securing $50,000,000 in the shape of loan on cotton stored in this warehouse.

With Our Colored People.

The subscribers and friends of The Reflector, will please remember that this coming Sunday Nov. 15th, is the day, that the Rt. Rev. Alexander Walters, A. M. D. D., bishop of the 3rd Episcopal district, of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church, will preach at York's Temple, A. M. E. Zion church at 7 p. m. Special attention will be given our distinguished white and colored friends who may desire to hear the bishop preach. Both races have given him a hearty welcome wherever he has gone. The bishop is a man of vast experience, having traveled throughout the United States, visited Europe, Africa, and had the great pleasure of visiting the Holy Lands, where the feet of our blessed Saviour once trod. Come one and all. Seats are free. But you know it always takes three books to run a Methodist church; namely: the hymn book, the Bible, and the pocket book. Please notify me if you are coming.

Sharp "Kids" in the State of Wilkes.

According to the best estimates there are at least 500 beardless boys "who became of age sometime after the 1st of June and before the 1st of November," who registered and voted in Wilkes this election. A Wilkes kid is a sharp article. He knows when to be born to dodge poll tax, and the probability is that a majority of them will be born again every two years for some years yet in order to dodge poll tax. This sort of business is a kind of Wilkes special providence endowment.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Ginners' Report.

The government ginners' report of cotton ginned this season up to Nov. 1st, was issued today and places it at 8,199,782 bales, Raspberries in November.

Reference has been made to black berries growing and ripening in the fields the latter part of October. Miss Mollie Dunn sends us a bunch of raspberries gathered from her garden and says she has cherry blooms also. There were more than two dozen berries, large and small, on the twig—about eight inches in length—several being fully matured and ripe, and quite natural in taste.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Dr. Swindell.

Dr. F. D. Swindell, of Wilson, occupied the pulpit of Jarvis memorial church here at both services Sunday. He is one of the ablest preachers in the State, and his sermons here were truly delightful to the large congregations who heard them. At the evening service a beautiful solo was sung by Mr. M. Leslie Davis, of Beaufort.

Died.

Mrs. Cythia Garris, wife of Mr. Nehemiah Garris, near Winterville, died of apoplexy Saturday afternoon and was buried Sunday afternoon, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. C. J. Harriss. She was 45 years of age, and is survived by the husband and three children.

THE SURPRISE PARTY.

An Achievement of Which an Enemy Might Well Be Proud.

There is little doubt that a surprise party given for a person of mature years is one of the highest forms of civilized cruelty. It is a custom of long standing and one that people still indulge in and do it blithely, with enthusiasm and a blind belief that they are pleasing, while all the time the poor victim is almost in tears at what he feels to be the tragedy of the thing.

It is no small matter to have your wife, the woman who above all others you feel sure understands you and agrees with you on all important matters, suddenly disclose a distorted sense of what is amusing, a mixing of what is kind and what is cruel, which results in one of the most maddening evenings you have ever spent, says the New York Evening Sun. To have at a word from her a life sized party explode in your drawing room and then, as the anger rises in your heart, inundates your speech—while this is going on inside you—to see her standing in the midst of that crowd of guests rocking with laughter—well, it is a man of supernatural sweetness and balance who can stand it.

A party is not a thing that one wants to stumble upon unexpectedly, particularly a party in your own house, the one place where you hope to find quiet; above all, a party of which you are the unwilling center. No; one should be allowed to prepare for these things, to grapple with the idea of them, digest it, recover from it, so that when the night for it finally arrives, the thought of the party will be a thing you are well used to, almost a part of your daily life, not a blinding light turned on with such suddenness that it leaves you blinking for the rest of the evening. That is not the sort of thing a friend allows to happen to you—naturally not. It is a thing an enemy might be proud of.

Rough on the Metropolis.

A New Yorker died and went to his "eternal home." This man walked around growling, as most New Yorkers do, finding fault with everything and saying that he couldn't see that heaven was much better than New York. "Why, say," he observed to a shade who happened to be near, "this place is all undermined with dynamite, just like New York, and when you're not being blown up you are being ground to death in some sulphurous subway or other. I don't see the use of coming to heaven, anyway."

"Excuse me, my dear boy," said the shade to whom he was talking, "you have made a slight mistake. This is not heaven."—Success Mag-

Wonder how the North pole went.

Get in the habit of talking for Greenville.

Mr. Taft is heavy enough to hold the chair down.

The returns from the almshouses tell us there will be another year after December.

Pitt county has cause for congratulation on the size of her majority in comparison with other counties in the State.

Post mortem examinations seldom amount to much, hence it is useless to keep probing after the election bullet.

Governor Aycock's majority in 1900 was 60,354, Governor Glenn's in 1904, 49,256, and Governor Kitchin's in 1908, 38,076.

If the business men of Greenville do not look out for bringing business to the town, they have no room for complaint if it does not come.

Some of them have begun talking about who to run in 1912. That thing ought to stop and let the country rest from politics long enough to get busy.

One thing the next legislature should do, is abolish the home-stead law. That law once served a good purpose, but its day of usefulness has long since passed and it has become a refuge of wrong behind which men can avoid meeting their just obligations. It works more injury than good, and should be removed from the statute books or greatly modified.

"Signs" North and South.

The Philadelphia Evening Times notes as signs of returning prosperity "the contract given by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to the Westinghouse company and such pieces of news as that the Consolidated Cotton Duck Mills, one of Maryland's biggest industries, are running again at almost full capacity, and that the Maryland Steel Company has orders which justify it in putting 800 hands, at present idle, to work on Monday, while the Western Maryland Railroad announces a programme of extensive improvements, involving an expenditure of $1,250,000." The South is chiefly interested in the resumption of full time by the cotton mills. The suspension of work in some instances and its curtailment in others have been felt in all lines of business and have served to bring our people to a realization of the great part the cotton mill pays in the prosperity of this section. News comes daily of one mill after another resuming on full time and this being the case, better times are already at hand.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Hearst, the "Dead One."

Mr. Hearst is now definitely deprived of his martyr's crown, for which he has substituted a fool's cap. He cannot even claim to have defeated Bryan and Chanler; for the little fringe of votes which his personally conducted Independence party cast was absolutely negligible in the large result. This is a terrible blow not only to an independent charlatan, but to all his boasting about the irresistible practical power of his newspapers. He and his hirelings have talked as if, when the Journal spoke, 5,000,000 readers said amen, and 1,000,000 voters rushed to record their approval at the polls. That humbug is now exploded. When even the most blatant journalism sets itself right against the popular stream, it is swept away with other rotten vegetables. The true comment on Hearst's further political pretensions can best be conveyed to him in language of the kind he uses, and which has been heard within the past few weeks from hundreds of his former followers: "Hearst Aw, he's a dead one."—New York Evening Post.

A lady rang a door bell and waited. Meanwhile she heard a voice, evidently from the cellar, rigning forth in a rollicking song, accompanied by a noise as of shoveling. She rang again. A youth came to the door and laughed, saying: "You must have been highly entertained." "I did enjoy your music, truly," she replied. The singer explained: "You see, I don't like to shovel ashes one bit, so I always tune up when it has to be done. It seems to make the job shorter or easier, some way." Wasn't that good philosophy? It is very adjustable philosophy, too; can be made to fit many situations. It is also guaranteed to work better than sighs and frowns and sharp words when one has to do an unpleasant bit of work. Try it.—Wellsprings.

By a careful study of the situation the national Democracy might learn something from the fact that many states that gave Mr. Taft overwhelming majorities elected Democratic governors. In Illinois, for instance, Mr. Taft received a majority of about 175,000 while the Republican candidate for governor received only about thirty thousand. It would seem that there are still plenty of Democratic voters in the country, but for some reason or other they have little faith in national leaders and national policies.—Durham Herald.

Dear Sir—

During the summer you prevailed on me to buy a disability policy in the Maryland Casualty Company. Within a very short time after purchasing same, I found that it was necessary for me to have a slight surgical operation performed on account of which it was necessary for me to remain away from my business for a period of about two weeks.

The check presented me to-day in full settlement of lost time, also covering cost of operation is very much appreciated, and I can highly recommend the Maryland and yourself for the prompt service rendered.

Very truly yours,

Only a Step.

How soon the children leave us. It seems but a step between childhood and manhood. How soon they take this step and how often the eternal step from life to death. We little realize what the future of our little ones may be. Heaven kindly hides the book of fate. One word to-day idly spoken, may on the morrow, stand like clouds on fire, staring us in the face. One kind act which might have gladdened the little heart, left undone, tomorrow it may come back to our memory and cause many heartache. If we knew that the little ones who are to-day annoying us in their childish fashion, would tomorrow lay still in death, how different would be our actions toward them. Let us be more patient, we know not what to-morrow has in store for us.—Ex.

After years of litigation, the insurance money on the life of McCue, hanged in Charlottesville for the murder of his wife, must be paid. The insurance companies won in the lower courts, but the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals reverses the matter and says they must pay.—Greensboro Record.

GOOD WATER MEANS Good Health

Analytical tests made by the Director of the STATE LABORATORY OF HYGIENE under the control of the NORTH CAROLINA BOARD OF HEALTH at RALEIGH, N. C., shows that the water supplied by the Greenville (municipal) water works is PURE. For the protection of patrons samples of water are submitted monthly and the reports of the chemist are always on file in the office of the Commission for inspection.

Discard the old well or pump and get the benefit of the advantages offered by the Water Department. It not only means that you will always have good water to drink, but it will prove a great convenience. Nothing to do but turn the spigot. No more pumping and drawing. We furnish 3,000 gallons per month for $1.00 and allow you a discount of 10 per cent. if bill is paid by 5th of month succeeding month in which service is rendered. This makes the cost only 90 cents. Information gladly furnished to anyone regarding cost of making tap, etc.

ALMSGIVING.

The Law in Europe at One Time Made It a Crime.

The secretary of the London Mendicity society reports that street begging is on the increase. He has statistics to prove his words, of course, but he claims that indiscriminate almsgiving is a crime.

It is interesting to recall that a code of European law in force for centuries did actually make almsgiving a crime, always punished severely, with death in certain cases. But this was 1,000 years ago, before the dawn of our happy civilization. It must be confessed, however, that there was an appearance of common sense about the famous Grajas code, which ruled Norway, Iceland and much of England doubtless in its time.

It began by laying down strict rules to make each family support its own indigent members or to show sufficient cause for the failure. This is the essential principle of a sound system of poor relief, which we have suffered to lapse under the direction of progress. Having thus provided for the respectable class of paupers, as it may be put briefly, the legislator could deal firmly with roving mendicants and their abettors. And he did.

It is worth while to observe, however, that the family pauper had a guardian or trustee, appointed by the district council, who was responsible for his decent subsistence. If this man did not fulfill his duty or tried to escape it he incurred the terrible penalty called exclusion—confinement in his house for three years. Any one who found him outside was free to kill him.

They stood no nonsense in those days. An able-bodied person who begged was outlawed—equivalent to a sentence of death. And any one proved to have been wandering for fifteen days without visible means of subsistence was held to be a beggar "within the meaning of the act" and treated accordingly. But the clause most interesting to us was that which decreed that any man, whatever his station, who gave money or money's worth to a vagrant, at the district assembly or on his way thither, should be punished with exclusion. The crime of almsgiving was well understood in those days. Perhaps I should add that the Grajas code was officially promulgated in 1116. But it had been in force, as the preamble declares, for centuries. — Pall Mall Gazette.

What We Eat.

The Hollander eats decayed shark, but turns with disgust from bread and butter.

The Chinese are fond of stewed dog, but consider beef unhealthy.

The Turk deems dried grasshoppers a delicacy, but an oyster fills him with abhorrence.

The English eat periwinkles, a kind of sea snail, but will have none of the French escargot—a land snail fattened on vine leaves and strawberries.

The West Indian native adores a supper of baked snake and palm worms fried in their own fat, but the very thought of stewed rabbit makes him shudder.

The African bushman eats caterpillars, but scorns limburger cheese.

Savages eat all eggs, barring none. They eat lizards' eggs, alligators' eggs, turtles' eggs, ants' eggs, snakes' eggs. But savages consider crab meat unholly.

Legend of a Church Steeple.

The most notable thing about East Bergholt is the way in which its worshippers are called to prayer. In the churchyard there is a quaint looking affair which has the appearance of a huge cake, for, though of wood, it is wickerlike in construction. Inside this building are the church bells, mounted as in the ordinary way, but without ropes. Each bell is in charge of a ringer, who lays hold of the bell wheel and swings it over. There is a legend that when the church steeple was about to be built the devil came during the night and demolished the work of the previous day. This unfinished tower is dated 1525.—London Chronicle.

Toothsome Pains.

A strange case has just occurred at Porthcawl, showing the effect of the imagination in causing disease and cure. A professional man on a visit there took out his four false teeth while shaving, but, forgetting the fact and failing to find them later, suddenly concluded that he must have swallowed them accidentally. At once he began to suffer pains. A doctor was sent for, to whom he described his agonies. Emetics were administered, but in vain, and the tortures made him twist his body convulsively. Then a maid brought the teeth, which had dropped behind the dressing table, and instantly the pains ceased.—London Mail.

SHIRT COLLARS.

The Detachable Ones Were Invented by a Troy Woman.

It is now authenticated beyond a doubt that Mrs. Hannah Lord Montague was the inventor of the detachable linen collar. Hannah Lord was born in Canaan, Columbia county, Dec. 14, 1794, a daughter of William A. Lord, a Revolutionary officer, member of the state legislature and the author of "Lord's Tactics," used by the early state militia. She was married on Aug. 14, 1817, to Orlando Montague, and they took up their residence at 139 Third street, in Troy. Mr. Montague, as near as can be learned, was engaged in making fine shoes for women. He was a large man, scrupulously particular in matters of dress, even to the point of fastidiousness, and in those days, before the invention of the sewing machine and when there were no public laundries, the making and washing and ironing of his shirts was no small item in the work of the household. Not unlike many housewives of those days, Mrs. Montague was resourceful, and in casting about for devices to lighten her household duties she hit upon the idea of a detachable collar which might be fastened to a neckband on her husband's shirts and washed and ironed separately. When the collar was soiled the shirt had to be washed, but by this device two or three collars might be used with one shirt.

Mr. Montague was delighted with the idea and was proud of the new acquisition, which he displayed to his friends. Almost immediately requests came to Mrs. Montague from friends and neighbors to make separate collars for them, and, as she afterward related, "the available material in the patch bag was soon exhausted, and I actually invested in a yard of linen."

In 1829 Rev. Ebenezer Brown, a retired Methodist clergyman, who had settled in Troy and started a small dry goods store at 285 River street, quick to take advantage of the popularity of the new separate collar, opened a small workshop in the rear of his store, where his wife and daughters and one or two other women cut out with scissors, stitched by hand and washed and ironed the collars, which he disposed of by peddling. This was in reality the first collar shop.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Best He Could Do.

There used to be an eccentric individual in Maine who was never known to express an opinion on any subject. Being called as a witness in a lawsuit to testify concerning the reputation of the defendant, the lawyers on both sides failed to obtain a direct answer to any of their questions and finally appealed to the court.

Regarding the man sternly, the judge said in his most impressive tones: "Witness, I am going to ask you a question, and I want you to give me a direct answer. Is the defendant a good man?"

"Them that likes him says he is; them that don't says he ain't," was the reply.

Some Names.

"Alligator" is merely another form of the Spanish "el lagarto," the lizard. Shakespeare classed the alligator as a fish, to judge from Romeo's description of the contents of the apothecary's shop, "An alligator stuffed and other skins of ill shaped fishes," somewhat like "alligator," the lizard, the "hyena," which merely means sow, and "ostrich," which comes from the Latin word for bird and a Greek word that means either a sparrow or an ostrich, as the case might be—any bird in fact. The ostrich is just the "bird bird," according to etymology.

Dodging the Rules.

After being conducted through an old church by the verger, a visitor was so pleased with the official's courtesy and information that he insisted on giving him half a crown. The man shook his head sadly. "Thank you, sir," he said, "but it's quite against the rules." "I'm sorry for that," said the visitor, about to return the half crown to his pocket. "But," added the verger, "if I were to find a coin lying on the floor it would not be against the rules for me to pick it up!"—London Mail.

More Than a Hint.

As a gentleman was having his luncheon in the coffee room of a small hotel he was much annoyed by another visitor, who during the whole meal stood with his back to the fire, warming himself and watching him partake of his repast. At length, unable to endure it any longer, he rang the bell and said: "Waiter, kindly turn that gentleman round. I think he is done on that side."

The hint was taken.—London Standard.

BATTLE WITH SHARKS.

Exciting Adventure With a School of Man Eaters.

Lighthouse keepers and those living on the beach of the gulf coast see many queer sights in the way of battles between turtles, sharks and swordfish, exciting at times and always illustrating the terrible power possessed by the monsters of the deep.

Two fishermen coming in from Lake Worth, Florida, on a lumber sloop saw a commotion in the water and presently became witnesses of an all around combat between six or seven sharks.

In a few minutes the combatants were fighting and plunging almost under the sloop's bow, and the men, being afraid of some damage to the boat, seized their rifles and fired into the mass. After a few shots the fighting sea tigers fell apart and seemed to be intent on finding their new antagonists.

Then, as if by preconcerted action, several plunged directly at the boat and hit it a resounding blow with force sufficient to knock both men flat on the deck.

A second rush was made, and then the entire school of sharks began pounding against the sloop's sides. Backing off a dozen rods or more, they would come on with lightning swiftness, hitting the boat squarely, making it quiver from stem to stern, and soon there were two sharks floating on the waves, stunned by their own mad rushes, but the others kept up the fight.

Presently one shark aimed too high, skimmed over the sloop's rail and fell on the deck with a sounding whack.

The two men were badly frightened by this time and fired two shots at random. Then they each seized an ax and dealt the monster a terrible blow.

Up went the shark's tail and, striking one of the men, sent him flying into the water. He swam to the rail with the energy of despair, and his comrade ran to his assistance, but before he could be hauled in a shark took a piece out of his heel.

The blood that flowed from his wounded foot dyed the water for a yard or more and seemed to excite the sharks to greater ferocity. The shark on deck was killed with a united blow, but something must be done for the others. Suddenly the unwounded man dived down into the cabin and emerged with a can of powder and a coil of fuse. Swiftly fastening a piece of pork around the can, he attached a short fuse, lighted it and, going to the stern, threw the can into the mass of sharks.

Before it had hardly touched the water a big fellow swallowed it at a gulp, and in a second there were pieces of shark flying in every direction. The effect was magical. The sharks fairly fell over each other in their fight, and the two plucky seamen were saved from a terrible death.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Family of 60,000,000.

According to the scientific authorities, the average female oyster deposits at least 16,000,000 eggs during a single spawning season, and it is said to be no uncommon occurrence for an individual oyster to have 50,000,000 and even 60,000,000 for her credit. Comparatively few of these eggs, however, reach the fertilization stage, and of those that do few survive it, for many and fatal are the dangers that threaten. Sudden changes of temperature, cold rains, greedy fish—all contribute to further the ends of nature. An oyster egg has less than one chance in two millions of reaching maturity.—National Magazine.

Her Lost Piano.

"I just left a young woman friend of mine weeping over her lost piano," said the man. "It was like this. She was engaged to a chap who was awfully fond of her. He sent her up a piano as a birthday present, also for their flat later on. After awhile the engagement was broken off for some reason or other. You know how those things are. Well, any way, my friend thought she had her piano."

"But that was just what she didn't have. In about a week some piano people called for it and took it away with them. The chap had made one payment on it only."—New York Press.

The Dangerous Palo de Leche.

In Mexico there is a plant known by the name of palo de leche. It belongs to the family of euphorbia. The Indians throw the leaves into the water, and the fish become stupefied and rise to the surface and are then caught by the natives. In this case the effect of the narcotic soon passes off. The milk of this plant thrown upon the fire gives out fumes that produce nausea and headache. The milk taken internally is a deadly poison. It will produce death or insanity, according to the size of the dose.

ENGLISH SWORDS.

They Go Through Sixty or Seventy Processes in the Making.

In the first place, remarked the sword king as we walked through his big London factory, we make 70,000 swords a year and hope to go on making more in spite of all the peace conferences in the world. You must know that all our steel comes from Sheffield in fourteen foot lengths, each one and a half inches wide.

Every first class sword takes ten days to make and goes through sixty or seventy different processes. It is then tested by being screwed into a kind of toy cannon and brought down flat with great force on a steel table, which is covered with a wire cage in case of any accident.

After the surface has been proved the back and edge are struck against a small block of oak, the final test being that of bending and the Toledo proof of thrusting against solid iron.

The regulation sword for an infantry officer costs £4 4s. Cavalry swords are much more expensive, the regulation weapon even for troopers in the hussar regiments costing £6. Hussar officers also wear full dress mameluke scimitars at £12 12s. each and must possess court swords, with hilts of cut steel, which usually cost £60.

The dragoon's sword costs as much as £8 10s., although the highly ornamented weapons worn by generals and admirals of the fleet cost but £7 to £8 each.

The same price is paid for the weighty claymores used in all highland regiments. But the Scottish officer of expensive tastes may pay from £20 to £30 for his dirk if he desires one set with real cairngorms.

Of course presentation swords run into a lot of money. Some time ago we had an order from the foreign office for a sword for a dusky monarch.

The pattern of the blade was specially designed and inscribed. The scabbard was of fishskin, mounted with 22 carat gold, and the weapon cost £80. Many swords costing over £100, however, are made for foreign officers, and a superb weapon, ornamented with ivory, gold, silver and precious stones, which was recently ordered for the king of Siam, cost no less than £750.—London Answers.

Curious Case of Mirage.

M. Flammarion, the French astronomer, has written much on mirages and has actually photographed the bridges over the Seine, with the river and the buildings in the immediate vicinity, seen from Paris, inverted in the sky. He also records a curious case of mirage experienced by French troops in Algiers. What appeared to be a number of Arab horsemen were suddenly seen moving toward the French camp from the horizon, and scouts on horseback were at once sent forward to reconnoiter, but when they had gone about a mile they became curiously distorted and seemed to be giant horsemen riding horses several yards high. On their return they reported that the Arabs proved to be a flock of flamingoes moving by the side of a lake, which at a certain distance, owing to the curious state of the air, were changed out of all resemblance to themselves and assumed the exact appearance of the Arab horsemen they were at first believed to be.

Still Useful.

A small girl, lost at Coney Island, was kindly cared for at the police station until her parents should be found. The matron, endeavoring to keep the child contented, had given her a candy cat, with which she played happily all day.

At night the cat had disappeared, and the matron inquired if it had been lost. "No," said the little maid, "I kept it most all day. But then it got so dirty I was 'shamed to look at it, so I let it."—Youth's Companion.

Money Worry.

"Dey ain't no use," said Brother Williams, "ter try ter git money w'en you ain't at de gittin' place, an' de trouble is—de jingle er it is so confusin'! Hit's lak' de rattle er a rattlesnake—you dunno whar an' what time ter jump! Hit's trouble ter git money an' trouble ter keep it. Dey despise you ef you ain't got it, en' ef so be you has dey'll despise you ef you don't give it away!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Slander.

A clergyman of a country village in New Jersey desired his clerk to give notice that there would be no service in the afternoon, as he was going to officiate with another clergyman. The clerk announced at the close of the service, "I am desired to give notice that there will be no service this afternoon, as our minister is going a-fishing with another clergyman."

Notice of Sale.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of trust, executed and delivered by Leonidas Fleming and others to R. H. Salisbury, dated on the 1st day of January, 1908, and duly recorded in the register of deeds office of Pitt county, North Carolina, in Book 2-8, page 46, the undersigned will expose to public sale, before the court house door in Greenville, for cash, to the highest bidder, On Tuesday, December 8th, 1908, the following real property, to wit:

"Those certain tracts of land, lying and being in the county of Pitt aforesaid, and more particularly described and defined, as follows, to wit:

1st: The present home farm of Leonidas Fleming, composed of what was formerly known as the Leonidas Fleming home farm, and all that portion of the Briley tract not heretofore conveyed to L. A. Mayo, containing 250 acres, more or less, and adjoining the lands of O. W. Harrington, L. A. Mayo, W. J. Fleming, W. J. Briley, Randolph Bros. and others. The said lands being situated on the north side of Tar river, in Greenville township, and being split open north and south by the Leonidas Fleming road connecting the (Briley) Tarboro road and the (Mt. Pleasant) Tarboro road and being split open east and west by the (Mt. Pleasant) Tarboro road, there being upon said farm about 150 or 160 acres in cultivation and the balance in wood land.

2nd: Those certain two pieces of land which were allotted to Leonidas Fleming in the division of the lands of Ivey Fleming, deceased, one of said pieces containing 23 acres more or less, and adjoining the lands of Kenneth Staton, Joseph Bradley and others, and the other piece containing 50 acres more or less, and adjoining the lands of Kenneth Staton, W. J. Fleming and others.

The home farm of Leonidas Fleming, consisting of 250 acres, more or less, will be first offered for sale in lots and parcels, and then as a whole, as follows, to wit:

Lot No. 1. Known as the school house piece, bounded on the west by the lands of W. J. Fleming, on the south by the road leading from House Station to Mt. Pleasant church, on the east by the Leonidas Fleming road, the lands of O. W. Harrington and a straight line from the corner of the O. W. Harrington land to the corner of the lands of Randolph Bros., and on the north by the lands of Randolph Bros. and W. J. Briley, containing 50.6 acres "more or less," excepting and reserving from the above description the one acre lot conveyed to the Pitt county Board of Education whereon the new two room school building now stands.

Lot No. 2—Situate on the south side of the public road leading from House Station to Mt. Pleasant church and on the west side of the new road, just staked out, leading from mouth of the Leonidas Fleming road, near the new school building, straight to the lands of L. A. Mayo, and adjoining the lands of L. A. Mayo, W. J. Fleming and the other Leonidas Fleming lands, containing 44.4 acres more or less.

Lot No. 3—Lying on the south side of the road leading from House Station to Mt. Pleasant church and on the east side of the new road, just staked out, leading from the mouth of the Leonidas Fleming road, near the new school building, straight to the lands of L. A. Mayo, and adjoining the lands of L. A. Mayo, O. W. Harrington, and the other Leonidas Fleming lands, containing 40.2 acres more or less.

Lot No. 4. Lying on the east side of the Leonidas Fleming road, opposite the new school building, and on the north side of the road leading from House Station to Mt. Pleasant church, and adjoining the lands of O. W. Harrington and the other lands of Leonidas Fleming, containing 25 acres more or less.

Lot No. 5. Whereon is situate the dwelling house, gin house, barn, stables and etc. of the said Leonidas Fleming, and lying on both sides of the Leonidas Fleming road, adjoining the lands of O. W. Harrington, W. J. Fleming, Elihu Briley, Randolph Bros. and others, and adjoining the line of lot No. 1 (running straight from Randolph's corner to O. W. Harrington's corner) containing 81.85 acres more or less and what is now called the home field of Leonidas Fleming, on both sides of the road.

The lands allotted to Leonidas Fleming in the division of the lands of Ivey Fleming, deceased, will be offered for sale in two lots, as follows:

Lot No. 6—Being the 23 acre

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Just Like This in Greenville.

Scores of Greenville people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

John G. Latham, 907 Cotanch St., Greenville, N. C., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case far surpasses any kidney remedy I had previously used. For some time my kidneys had been in a disordered condition, the secretions being too frequent in action and the passages attended with pain. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills I was so impressed that I procured a box at John L. Wooten's drug store. They went directly to the seat of my trouble and gave me relief in a short time. My kidneys were restored to their normal condition, the secretions gave me no trouble whatever and I felt better in every way. My wife also used Doan's Kidney Pills when suffering from dull nagging backaches accompanied by headaches and the results derived were highly satisfactory."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Great Land Sale

On the first Monday in December and on Tuesday after I will sell, strictly under the hammer, at the court house door in Greenville, more than a dozen small farms. Some for cash, but most of them on long time, with a payment of only one-fourth cash. Remember the dates—December 7th and 8th, 1908.

Have also some for sale privately on long time between now and above date. These lands are all within from one to five miles of the town of Greenville, and in the best neighborhoods to live to be found anywhere, and are among the best agricultural lands in Pitt county.

This is a great opportunity for young men and others wishing to begin life on the farm.

The splendid Training School will open in Greenville next fall and then you'll want to be convenient to it. You had better buy now while you have the opportunity. Plots and other information can be had at my office. See also my other notices in The Reflector. J. L. FLEMING, Attorney.
