Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., Nov. 28, 1908.

Thanksgiving day seemed like Sunday. All places of business were closed. A good number of our people went hunting and we have heard of no accidents so far. There were services at the Baptist church at 11 o'clock. Rev. T. H. King preached an able sermon to a good sized congregation from the text, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits to me?" At the close of the service a collection amounting to about fifty dollars was taken for the Thomasville orphanage. In the afternoon A. G. Cox and Prof. G. E. Lingberry conducted services at Mills' school house where there was a large and most attentive congregation present. They were especially struck with the close attention of the children and the collection amounting to $5.50 for the Thomasville orphanage. Where is a school house service in the county that could beat that?

Rev. T. H. King preached at Hopewell in the afternoon to a large congregation and the collection for the Thomasville orphanage amounted to $7.00.

W. C. Vincent, of Greenville, spent the day here with his many friends.

Misses Roberson and Waldrop returned from Bethel Thursday afternoon.

Quite a number of the students spent Thanksgiving day at home.

Misses Lala and Kate Chapman spent Thanksgiving day at home.

A. G. Cox is having a cement floor put in his large concrete store. This will be one of the handsomest stores in town.

Miss Hattie Kittrell spent Thanksgiving day at Farmville with relatives.

A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. sent a load of buggies to Greenville this morning.

Miss Myrtle McGlohon went to Ayden Friday evening.

Miss Norma McGlohon went to Ayden yesterday.

Miss Annie Mumford, of Ayden, is spending sometime here with relatives and friends.

Miss Bessie Kittrell is spending a few days with relatives at Grifton.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

Whereas it has pleased the Great Spirit to enter the home of our brother, W. S. Galloway, and remove his baby, and whereas we know that the Spirit never makes an error in His divine providence, therefore be it resolved 1st. That we, the members of the Shawnee Tribe No. 63 I. O. R. M. extend to Brother Galloway our heartfelt sympathy in this sad hour which has befallen him.

2nd. That we commend Brother Galloway to Him who doeth all things well, and can heal our sorrows.

3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy be sent to Brother Galloway and a copy furnished The Daily Reflector for publication.

CONCRETE WALLS FOR BUILDING

Four Story Structure For Whichard Bros. Only One of its Kind in Norfolk

Application is now pending before the State Corporation Commission for a charter for the Whichard Realty Corporation, a concern lately organized, the officials and stockholders of which are practically the same as those of the Whichard Brothers Company, wholesale dry goods dealers. The new company has purchased for $15,000 a site, forty feet wide and one hundred feet deep, on Randolph street back of the Atlantic hotel, and will at once erect there a $20,000 building, which will be used as larger quarters for the Whichard Brothers Company.

The officers of the new concern are H. W. Whichard, president; C. C. Cobb, vice-president; C. L. Whichard, secretary and treasurer.

The structure to be built on the Randolph street site will be four stories high, and according to the present plans, will have solid concrete walls.

H. W. Whichard, president of the company, said yesterday that he was negotiating with Mr. Ham, of New York, who patented the solid concrete forms, and that, although the present plans are only tentative, he thought it most probable that the building will be constructed on the solid concrete plan. Should this method of construction be used the Whichard building will be the only one in Norfolk of the kind.

Mr. Whichard will go to New York next week for the purpose of inspecting buildings there which are of the solid concrete construction.

The new quarters will be about 35 per cent larger than the building in Main street now occupied by the Whichard concern. Mr. Whichard said the entire space, 16,000 square feet, will be used by the business.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, 25th.

"Damon and Pythias."

A fair sized audience greeted this play in the opera house Friday night. Mr. D'Oize in the roll of Damon was decidedly the best feature of the play, and some of the support was good, especially the part of Mr. Bragg as Dyonisius. Mr. D'Oize brought over the cast from Washington where the play was presented a week ago, only a few home people being in minor parts. All did quite well for amateurs.

Seth Hooker Entertains.

Reported for Reflector.

At the home on his parents on Greene street, Seth Hooker entertained most delightfully Thanksgiving evening. The guests were greeted at the door by the host and ushered into the sitting room, where Mrs. J. C. Lanier took the picture of every guest which she developed in the twinkling of an eye. Several very interesting contests were held. The first was twenty advertisements and every guest had to guess what they advertised. Miss Florence Blow guessing all of them was awarded a beautiful piece of Japanese ware. The three other contests were seeing, smelling and feeling.

There were twenty objects on a table and every guest had to look at the table for a minute and then write what was on it. There were ten bottles containing some kind of medicine or flavoring and the guests had to smell of them and guess what each bottle contained. There were also ten objects wrapped in bundles and the guests had to feel the bundles and guess the objects that were in them. Miss Gertrude Critcher guessing a larger number than any one else was awarded a box of candy.

The guests were then invited into the dining room. The girls were in a lighted room and the boys in a darkened one. There was a curtain across the door of the lighted room and a girl stood behind the curtain, the boys in turn had to guess the girl that was standing behind the curtain and if he guessed correctly he accompanied her into the dining room, where delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. S. T. Hooker, Mrs. J. C. Lanier, Misses Wade, Lanier and Stallings.

After enjoying several recitations by Miss Wade, many games of "wink", and much barn dancing the guests departed declaring Mr. Hooker a most delightful host.

The home was beautifully decorated, the color scheme in the hall, sitting room, and dining room were red and green and the parlor was pink.

Week of Prayer.

At a conference of representatives of seven lay brotherhoods in the United States held in Chicago, January 23rd, 1908, it was voted:

"That we recommend to our brotherhoods and to other organizations of men and to missionary boards throughout the world the observance of the week beginning with the Sunday following the last Thursday in November as a week of special prayer for the spread of Christ's kingdom among men throughout the world."

The suggestion has been endorsed by the United Presbyterian Men's Movement, Baptist Young People's Union, Baptist Brotherhood, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, General Assembly of the Presbyterian church and the Methodist Brotherhood of the United States of America and other organizations.

This week of prayer will be observed by short services at the Episcopal church every evening at 7:30 p. m., beginning Monday. All men are cordially invited to attend.

SATURDAY, NOV. 28, 1908.

Tomorrow will be Sunday for sure, though it feels like we had one but two days ago.

The papers could afford to let South Carolina and Georgia alone, and send the rag over to Tennessee.

Most of them are through with Thanksgiving turkey hash and will wait for Christmas to get the next bait.

The State board of canvassers have this week been tabulating the returns of the recent election in this State. The figures show that Mr. Kitchin's majority for governor was 37,342.

Knowing what the people generally think about him, Speaker Cannon may be far enough in his dotage to want to take spite on everything and everybody when he gets on his job again.

U. N. C. will of course, defeat U. Va., at Richmond Thanksgiving day, and right here we desire to remind every one who proposes to join in celebrating the coming victory that the captain of the U. N. C. squad is a Charlotte boy.—Charlotte News, 25th.

This seems to have been about on a par with election predictions a few days beforehand.

When our neighbor town Kinston was having street and sidewalk paving done, one of her citizens refused to pay the pro-rata assessment levied against him for the work along his property. The town sued him for the amount and the matter went through the courts. The Supreme court has recently handed down a decision on the case and sustains the town in its contention. This decision is important as it shows that cities and towns have authority to require owners of abutting property to help pay for paving.

The Commonest Names.

"If you want to hear some guessing wide of the mark, ask some one what he would think might be the third most common name in New York City," remarked a man who makes it a point to be informed on small matters of local interest. "The probability is the correct answer will never be made unless some one has happened to alight on some such bit of information. The fact is that according to the best available authority the name Miller ranks third, Smith holding first place and Brown second. It seems almost incredible, but as a matter of fact the name of Miller stands well to the head of the list of names most frequently met with in the four largest cities in the country. It stands second in Philadelphia, third in New York City, and fourth in Chicago, while the name Jones is way down the list, holding the eleventh place in New York City and the thirteenth in Boston, with such names as Clark, Williams, White, and other names never considered common preceding it."

—New York Sun.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other disease put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hell's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggist, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Here is a chunk of advice handed out by The Rocky Mount Echo that is worth heeding:

"If you are of a combative nature, and must fight some one, fight the man out of town, don't war among yourselves. What in truth we need is co-operation, helpful co-operation. Let us pull together, and push together until the old town rings with a new life and industrial vitality, until every man smiles, and is happy because he is making money and prospering."

WEST POINT'S AIM.

To Make the Best Citizens as Well as the Best Soldiers.

The cadet of today has to learn a good many more things than did his predecessors. He is not merely marched about the parade in smart drills, dressed in tight uniforms, as of yore, but has to go out on practice marches in full campaign outfit, to groom horses, harness pack mules, carry light artillery up mountain sides for artillery practice, dig trenches, live in shelter tents, qualify at the target ranges, make topographical maps in the field, visit the great arsenals, practice with heavy guns at the seacoast forts, work out tactical problems under arms—advance guards, outposts and minor tactical maneuvers—all this practical work in addition to the regular drills, field engineering, pontooning and signaling. In his academic study he has had to learn a great deal of electric, ordinance construction, sanitation, new engineering methods, mapmaking and building construction that had no existence in the old course, and his studies are being remodeled along the lines of the most advanced technological schools, but with special reference to military requirements. He must learn to read and speak Spanish, besides acquiring a good knowledge of French and of technical drawing. He must know military and constitutional law well and something about common law, about chemistry, the laws of mechanics, acoustics, optics and astronomy, and, of course, this means a good foundation in mathematics.

But, above all, the academy seeks to make a man of him—a sound, healthy, high minded, well disciplined citizen and soldier—and, like the Greeks and Romans of old, West Point esteems the making of character, together with the vigor and discipline of the body, as of equal importance with mind training. It undertakes that he shall be kept away from dissipations and shall have a healthy, well developed body, that he shall be held responsible for every act and word, that he shall understand the laws of his country and his duties as a citizen and that he shall know his job as a soldier. "The corps" sees to it that he is held to the traditions of honor, truth telling, courage and fair play, which are its heritage from the past.

Charles Hoyt, the farce writer, once invited a friend to go to the theater with him.

"What play?" queried his friend.
"Mr. Blank in 'Nathan Hale,'" said the playwright, naming a very popular actor.

"I'm very sorry," said the friend,
"but you'll have to count me out."
"What's the matter?" asked Hoyt in surprise.

"Well, to be frank with you, I don't like Blank in anything. I hate him personally and can't enjoy him as an actor, and, as far as I am concerned, I wouldn't mind seeing him dead."

"Then this is your play," slyly added Mr. Hoyt in his peculiar Yankee dialect. "You don't want to miss it. They hang him in the last act."

Too Much For the Ferret.

An old buck rabbit is not to be lightly tackled by weasel, stoat or even ferret. On the sanded floor of a small public house a ferret of long experience was matched with an old top eared buck, the property of the landlord. The ferret made straight for the rabbit's throat, but the latter was in the air before master ferret could reach him and, leaping clean over the ferret's head, let out with those powerful hind legs of his a kick which hurled the ferret bodily against the wainscot. Twice the ferret returned to the attack, and twice he missed his grip and went hurtling through the air. The third repulse was enough for him: He knew he was beaten and could not be persuaded to stand up for a fourth round.—Pearson's Weekly.

MAKING A TIGER SIT DOWN.

Methods Used to Train the Beast For Show Purposes.

Fifteen feet of slack rope were permitted the animal as the trainer directed him once more to the seat, and once more he failed to understand. Then, says a writer in Everybody's Magazine, the order to hoist was given, and as the men pulled the tiger felt the collar tighten about his neck. His head gradually was lifted up until his fore legs left the ground, and he pranced on his hind paws. With the fear of strangulation and the instinct of self preservation, his brain became a mental mud puddle. He beat the air with his fore paws, whirled, squirmed and wriggled in a vain effort to get out of the collar that clutched his throat. Every movement of his body brought him nearer to the seat over which hung the block and tackle. When he reached it an assistant grabbed his tail through the bars of the cage and pulled him toward the little stool, while the trainer punched him against it with the iron bar.

"Swing him clear of the ground," he called. "We'll make him take that seat. All together now!" And as the men laid their combined weight on the rope the big cat was hoisted until his hind legs dangled two feet above the floor, dancing a madman's jig. The helpless, choking brute fought the useless fight of a fish out of water. Had not the muscles over his throat been like solid rubber tires he would have strangled as he curled his body into a coil, trying to escape the weight that hung from his own neck.

With much pushing and hauling the struggling beast finally was landed on the seat. But the moment he felt support under his feet he leaped for the floor. He was met by the traiper, who walloped the sore, sensitive nose with the hickory handle of his whip and followed this up by firing the burning powder of a blank cartridge straight into the nostril. The tiger turned to run, but the trainer yelled, "Lift him, boys!" And as the crew threw their weight on the rope the beast's head and fore legs were yanked from the ground, and he pranced along for a few steps with only the claws of his hind feet touching the boards. When the momentum of his own body had carried him clear of the floor he swung back, suspended in the air, more like a lifeless tiger skin than a blood filled beast of flesh and sinew.

Tragedy of a Kiss.

He had not known her very long, but as she stood in the moonlight a white dress and a blue sash set off her figure so well that he thought he had never seen a prettier picture.
And then he did an awful thing—he kissed her. The innocent girl shrank from him in horror, and the young man realized that he had gone too far. Indeed, as the panting girl strove to collect herself sufficiently to express the scorn surging in her bosom the young man thought of the beating he must endure the next day from her father and brothers and of the long accounts of the fight that would appear in the newspapers. Fortunately he had his hat in his hand and turned to go. But the girl struggled to speak. She would express her contempt for his action though it killed her. "When," she said in a low, faltering voice, full of deep seated hatred, "are you coming again?"—Acheson Globe.

Breaking the Ice.

Beautiful Ella came into the room and drew her low seat so close up to her father's big armchair that he looked up from his newspaper to see what was the matter.

"Mr. Wilkins likes you, father," she said as soon as she saw that she had his attention.

"Well, I have been under the impression for some time that he liked some one here," remarked the old gentleman, "but I've never seen any indications that I was the one."

"Well, you will the very next time you see Mr. Wilkins," said the beautiful girl, with conviction.

"What's he going to do?" demanded pa.

"He's going to ask you if you will consent to be his father-in-law," explained the beautiful girl.

Expert Evidence.

At the courts a case concerning motor driving was being heard, when the chauffeur declared that when driving at forty miles an hour he could, if necessary, pull up in ten or twelve feet.

"Um" said the judge.
Then the next witness—an expert—gave his evidence.

Said his lordship, "If a motor car were traveling at forty miles an hour and the brakes could be put on in such a manner as to stop it within ten or twelve feet, where would the driver go?"

"Depends very much on the sort of life he'd been living," said the expert.—London Graphic.

WORKING A SWINDLE.

The Way That Clever Rogues Operate
Through the Mails.

Uncle Sam is as proud and watchful of his mails as a father of his favorite child, yet it is through the postoffice that the sneak "sucker" is so frequently ticked for, sometimes by a thin line of correspondence reeled out 3,000 miles away, and he has been known to snap at one hook with avidity while at the time he had another in his gills.

One man engaged a small room in a downtown office building, New York, installed a single typewriter, which he manipulated himself, and from an investment of less than $300 within two months cleared over $10,000. How did he do it? Let us go back to the day that his office rent began.

First, he had his door adorned with handsome gold lettering, as follows: "Henry Harriman, Watch and Diamond Merchant."

A capacious letter box was then attached to the door, and, removing his coat, Henry Harriman, with a newspaper directory at his elbow, struck off several hundred typewritten letters to as many different newspapers throughout the country, including in each letter 10 cents in stamps and asking that he be forwarded a copy of the latest edition.

As fast as copies of these papers came in he looked over the death columns and, selecting one or two likely names from each paper, sent the decedent a typewritten letter, begging that he kindly remit the $10 balance due and the hundred dollar diamond ring which he had purchased would go forward by express. A neat bill was inclosed with the letter, made out as though $90 in installments had already been paid in on the diamond.

When this letter reached its destination (and with it was sent an illustrated folder of watch and diamond bargains) it was opened by the widow of the decedent, and thirteen times out of a baker's dozen the $10 was remitted in haste by that surprised yet not less pleased lady.

An early letter informed the widow that her remittance had been received and the diamond would go forward by express within twenty days direct from the importing house. Should she fail to receive it, would she be good enough to notify the firm, etc.

When the postoffice inspectors looked into the matter some two months later they found correspondence showing that Henry Harriman watch and diamond merchant, had netted over $10,000, but that gentleman had thoughtfully betaken his person to greener fields.—Don Mark Lemon in Bohemian Magazine.

Prefers Wood to Paper.

The looker on was watching a contractor doing some figuring where his men were building a house. He took out his pencil and carefully put away in his pocket a small block of paper, which, however, was evidently intended to be used for hasty scribbling and notes.
Then he commenced a frenzied search for a small block of wood and finally compromised by figuring vigorously on the frame of a window.

"Why didn't you use the paper?"
humbly questioned the looker on.

The contractor looked surprised.
Then he laughed. "To tell you the truth, I don't know," he said, "except that I've got into the habit of working on anything else but a piece of paper, so never feel at home until I have found a scrap of wood or something."—Boston Record.

Too Fair For Use.

"The late Bishop Potter," said a famous beauty at a dinner in New York, "could pay charming compliments. He paid me a charming compliment when I was a young girl.

"It was at a country house in Vermont. Bishop Potter was very busy in the library one morning when I entered. He at once asked me to help him. He gave me a list of charity subscriptions to add up.
As I set to work Bishop Potter, bending over me, said:

"You must forgive me. I have grave compunctions about asking you to do anything useful. It is as if one should eat hash from a gold dish carved by Benvenuto Cellini or use for a napkin a square of venetian lace."

An Exciting Pursuit.

Once at an international photographic congress the question was raised which was the most exciting pursuit in connection with the camera. One member averred, "Photographing wild beasts in Africa." Another gave it as his opinion that photographing the treacherous summits of the Alps and Himalayas was the most nerve racking; another mentioned submarine photography.
When they had all finished, a pale, wild eyed man got up and said:
"Gentlemen, all these things are placid diversions compared with my speciality. I am a child photographer."—Strand Magazine.

IT WORKED A CURE.

Anecdote of an English Doctor of the Last Century.

Of the eminent physicians of England during the early part of the last century not one was more justly celebrated than Dr. Sydenham. Of the anecdotes of his medical experience, related by himself, the following is worth telling:

For a long time the doctor had been consulted by a gentleman of wealth and leisure who was persistent in his demands for medical help, who took all the medicines prescribed, but who did not appear to improve. At length Dr. Sydenham said to him:

"Sir, I have done all I can. If you would be thoroughly cured you must consult Dr. Robinson at Inverness, in Scotland. He is exceedingly clever in such diseases as yours, and if I give you a letter to him I can assure you he will give you relief."

It was a long journey from London away to the extreme north of Scotland, but the patient had plenty of leisure. He had money enough, he had good horses and carriages, and, above all, he was anxious to be cured. So away he went.

But, arrived at Inverness after a laborious jaunt of fully three weeks, he searched for Dr. Robinson in vain. He could find no such doctor. And, what was more, he was credibly informed that such a doctor had never lived there. The patient bottled up his wrath, had his horses harnessed and their heads turned homeward, and the distance, which had occupied him three weeks in going, he covered in ten days on his return. Upon reaching London he made at once for the house of Dr. Sydenham, upon whom he burst like a whirlwind.

"Ha, Sir George! I am glad to see you, and to see you looking so well."

"But no thanks to you, you graceless rascal! Why did you so deceive me?"

"Deceive you, Sir George?"

"Yes. You told me I should find Dr. Robinson, and you knew there was no such man there. Now, what is your excuse? What is your explanation?"

"Sir George, answer me. Are you not better now than you have been before for years? In short, are you not entirely recovered from that old malady?"

The baronet thought a little and was forced to confess that such was the case.

"That, sir, is my excuse; that my explanation," returned the physician frankly. "I knew that a journey into the highlands of Scotland would cure you, and I took the only means in my power to send you off. Had I told you the truth you would not have gone. But to see Dr. Robinson you were willing to venture. So, Sir George, let us bless Dr. Robinson."

And Sir George surrendered.—London Tit-Bits.
