UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

Quinerly School Closes for the Holidays.

Quinerly, N. C. Dec. 26, 1908.

The closing of Quinerly school for the holidays was characterized by a splendid entertainment which was strictly out of the ordinary, but all the better for its variety. It was imitative of the Friday evening exercises of a negro school, not one of today, to be sure, but one of those earliest days when ignorance was bliss and 'twas folly to be wise. The impersonation was perfect, for an old colored man, who chanced to witness the exercises, recognized not a few faces as peculiar to his own race.

There was the Mis' Profeser who no doubt spent many of her earlier days as a maid in one of those ante bellum plantation households, where she acquired her vast store of knowledge and too, there were the "chiluns" a score or more attired in as many styles—all ages, from little mischievous chaps to big, robust, polite, half dignified lads with changing voices who never lost an opportunity to cast a loving look or pass a chew of gum or piece of lasses candy to the winsome, flirting, coquettish, gaily dressed girls. It was, indeed, a spectacle at which a slave trader of a few years ago would have chuckled with genuine delight to own.

The roll call, responded to with familiar quotations (?) from Shakespeare and Tennyson, a quiz on arithmetic, geography and history, also a "cutting down" spelling match in all of which the definitions (mostly incorrect) were followed by "dat sure am rite" by the Mrs. Profeser, quartettes, duets, ole time songs, and general outlandish antics throughout on the part of all, were the chief features.

At the last, after Jekie Scroggins and Arathusa Mehitabel Smithers had yielded to the desire of the audience by rendering their excellent duet and jig a second time, the chorus struck up "Dixie."

The love sick youths and the idols of their hearts were constrained to yield to their feelings, and joined in one of those never-to-be-forgotten, happy frolics (not a dance, to be sure, although some of the audience thought it such.) Even the aged professor herself got young again and joined heartily in the spirit of the times, which all were urged on by continued applause by the large audience.

Those deserving special mention were Miss Ida Blount, (principal) as Mrs. Profeser, Miss Marie Griffin, (assistant) as Arathusa Mehitabel Smithers, Miss Gladys Chapman, (musical director) as Jekie Scroggins and Claud Ives as Jeremiah Ezekiel Hezekiah Jenkins X. Y. Z., while Harry Fleming as Jesohifat Dupes, Millard Quinerly as Geo. Washington Jones, Jack Chapman as Jonathan Rouse Sleepy Head, Lill Chapman as Laboria Leticia Cabbage Head, Mary Fleming as Mirandy Janie Smith, Minnie Bell Wethington as Sarah Keturah Everlasting, Hulda Stokes as Hannah Mariah Jenkins, and Myrtle Lewis as Matilda Sapsucker as well as others should also be mentioned as leading characters.

It has been said that the best index to a teachers' skill and ability is found in her entertainments. If this be true, no one who witnessed this entertainment will question the fact that Quinerly school has teachers of

WITH MISS HENNIE WHICHARD.

Gives Her Friends a Very Pleasant Evening.

On Monday evening at the home of her parents on South Evans street, Miss Hennie Whichard entertained a number of friends at a Christmas party. Invitations were sent out on Christmas eve, which read:

Miss Hennie Whichard to her friends, This little Christmas message sends, And invites you to her home On Monday night. Now, will you come? Please be on hand at half past eight And stay 'till twelve—that is not late. The date is twenty-eight, you see. I'll look for you. R. S. V. P.

The responses to the invitation were many, and it was a beautiful collection of Greenville's young set that graced the occasion with their presence.

The home was decorated in keeping with the season, the halls and rooms all being in red and green.

The guests were received at the door by the hostess with Willie Wilson. Fruit punch was served in the sitting room by Miss Mattie Moye King with Bascom Wilson. Miss Lillian Burch with Tom Dupree and Miss Susie Perry, of Kinston, with Blount Pearce received in the parlor.

After two hours of merriment and music the hostess distributed cards with holly decorations. On one of the cards were the nicknames of twenty-five of the States and the guests were asked to fill the blanks with the names of the States.

The guests were given an opportunity to cut for the prize, and L. Ames Brown making the highest, the prize, a toast book, was presented him by Tom Dupree, and the winner announced that he would give the three visiting young ladies, Misses Susie Perry, of Kinston, Lucille Johns, of Raleigh, and Sadie Chesson, of Plymouth, an opportunity to cut for it. In this Miss Chesson was highest and the prize was presented to her.

The guests were then invited into the dining room where Misses Lizzie Jones and Hennie Ragsdale served refreshments. A feature in the dining room was a display of indoor fireworks. The souvenirs were miniature turkeys stuffed with candy.

Increased Mail Facilities.

Postmaster R. C. Flanagan advises us that beginning January 4th railway postoffice service will be established on Norfolk & Southern trains Nos. 14 and 15, operating between Raleigh and Washington. This regular mail service will displace the pouch service heretofore handled by these trains only between Raleigh, Wilson and Greenville. The change further increases the mail facilities here, and is especially convenient in getting mail to points east of here on the evening trains, as well as local mail to points westward on the early morning trains. It will make regular mail service on eight daily trains passing through Greenville.

the very highest rank. The high standard of efficiency that has been accredited this school in the past was, if possible, eclipsed on this occasion. All three of the teachers are graduates of Peace Institute—an institution that is distinguished for the higher education of young woman—and the community is justly proud of them and their work. An Old Student of the School.

GERMAN CLUB ORGANIZED.

Explanation as to the Recent Dance in Perkins' Hall.

A very enthusiastic German club for the town of Greenville was organized Monday night composing forty or more members. A complete organization of this club will be effected at its next meeting. The following is a synopsis of what transpired at the meeting Monday night:

Officers elected for one year: W. L. Hall, president.

A. J. Moore, secretary and treasurer.

W. H. Dail, Jr., senior leader.

J. B. James, junior leader.

The office of vice president was left open till the next meeting of the club.

Committees appointed:

1. Committee to get a suitable name for the club and present at the next meeting.

2. Committee to draft constitution and by-laws for the club and present at the next meeting.

3. Committee to investigate and draft suitable and proper resolutions condemning in a proper way, the manner in which the German given in Greenville on the night of Dec. 25th, 1908, was promoted and conducted, and to put the town of Greenville in the proper light to those who were among us on the night of the 25th inst.

Resolved, That whereas, on December the 25th, a dance was given in Perkins' opera house purporting to be given by The Columbian German club of Greenville. This was a mistake; such club not existing and has not existed for many years. The dance was in charge of Walter B. Wilson, Jr., and neither the said Columbian club nor our present organization had anything to do with it, hence not responsible for its result.

Therefore, we the German club, in justice to our social club a recent organization, and also in justice to the people of Greenville, realizing the great injury that has and will result from this most regrettable occurrence and in recognition of the embarrassment forced upon us, most emphatically condemn the manner in which the whole affair was managed.

John Ivey Smith, D. M. Clark, S. C. Wooten, J. B. James, Committee.

TUESDAY, DEC. 29, 1908.
 The legislature will meet next week, on the 6th, and State interest will then be centered upon Raleigh.

Because the new year will begin on Friday is no reason we should not get together, keep together and make it a good year for Greenville.

The old year will soon be "passing in its checks." Many people who owe bills might do likewise, so far as checks are concerned, and pass in some to square up.

This government will withdraw its troops from Cuba which have been stationed there as an army of pacification since the beginning of the provincial government a little more than two years ago. The evacuation will begin Jan. 1st.

Thursday, 31st, will be a notable occasion for Greenville. On that day the Board of Trustees of the East Carolina Teachers Training School and the State Board of Education will be here to inspect the buildings in course of erection for the school. Other prominent visitors will also be here and Greenville will put forward her best efforts in looking after them.

The East Carolina Teachers Training School that is located in Greenville is an institution that means much to all of Eastern North Carolina. The buildings now nearing completion are such as bring credit to the State. On the 21st inst. the trustees of the school and the State Board of Education will come to inspect these buildings, and other distinguished citizens of the State have also been invited to spend that day in Greenville. It is an opportunity for Greenville and Pitt county to show their hospitality and cordiality to visitors and we are sure nothing will be left undone that will make the day pleasant to all.

Kern May not be Elected to the Senate.

"John W. Kern, late Democratic nominee for the vice-presidency, is entitled to and should receive the vote of the Legislature for United States Senator, but I very much doubt if he gets the office," said Dr. E. D. Greene, of Martinsville, Ind., at the Riggs House. "In my opinion Tom Taggart will be elected. Mr. Kern is as well qualified for the place as any Democrat in the State, and I believe a majority of the voters of that faith would like to see him elected. If the choice had been made the day after the national election, Kern would have been chosen by acclamation, but politics has entered into the fight since then, and Kern now has not enough votes to insure his election.

"But he still has a chance. If a candidate is not selected by caucus, and the election goes to the Legislature, there may be a long contest. Kern's strength

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

now approximates 27 votes, and these will stand to him to the end. If, however, the result is determined by caucus, it appears as if some other man than Kern will be chosen, and it looks to me very much as if Taggart will be the man. Former Representative Bynum is one of the best qualified Democrats, but I do not believe he has any show.—Washington Post.

The Delight of Mud.

The Swiss professor who says American children are kept too clean, and thereby started on the high road of mollycoddledom, hits the nail on the head. Children, instinctively obeying a great law of nature, despite finical mothers, hunger to get back to the earth, to wallow and wade in good clean dirt, and to daub themselves from their dear little toes to their inquisitive noses in good rich mud. The frilled-up, speckless, spotless kid is a parental crime against nature, a crime for which the child must pay in after life.

There are three great, booming events in a boy's life. The first, perhaps, is the moment when the despised dresses are discarded for the first pair of trousers; the second is the thrilling hour of the first circus, but none of these events can compare in utter happiness with the first time a kid, escaping from the mother's too watchful care, in complete abandon and sweet defiance of domestic tyranny, gets his fill of the ecstatic delights of clean dirt and luscious mud.—Washington Post.

We hope the sheriffs and other county officers will make up their minds to see that the prohibition law in the State is enforced. It will be up to the State officers now to enforce the law because of the decreased number of Federal officers. We want to see the State men do their duty and we hope there will be no fault found with them in this matter.—Wilmington Star.

What Man Do You Strangle?

Some statistician figures that $250,000,000 every year is being diverted from the local merchants of this country to the mail order concerns in the great cities.

How much of that MONUMENTAL MOUND OF MONEY goes out of this community?

Every dollar so spent helps to SWELL THE HEAP in the city that has no use for, us except to get our GOOD MONEY.

Every dollar mailed away helps to STRANGLE ENTERPRISE AND SCUTTLE PROSPERITY right here at home.

When you strangle your neighbor you strangle yourself.

A PICTURE'S TITLE.

It Fitted the Case and Deceived the Newspaper Critics.

Some years ago James Hayllar, the English artist, painted for the academy exhibition a picture called "The Queen's Highway In the Sixteenth Century." This canvas represented Queen Elizabeth, with ladies of honor, on the muddy road of a Sussex highway, watching some countrymen who were laboring to get her ponderous carriage out of the mud. The picture had been done at the instance of Richard Cobden, who had described such a scene to the artist, declaring that he had found it in an old county history he had at home.

When the picture was ready to be hung the artist desired Cobden to copy for him the very words that would describe it. At the very last moment, however, the mail brought a letter stating that the entire Cobden family had been overhauling many folios in a vain search for the missing inscription.

The artist was much put out. "What am I to do?" he asked of his friend Jeaffreson. "Can't you give me an authority? Please, try to find me something at the British museum!"

"Oh, that's easily done, and without going to the museum. I'll give you sufficient authority at once. I'll put it on this bit of paper."

And Jeaffreson sat down and wrote, "The journey was marvelous for ease and expedition, for such is the perfect evenness of the new highway. Her highness left the coach only once whilst hinds and folks of a base sort lifted it out with their poles. Vide Maud Ufford's letter to Margery Pennington in D'Eyncourt's 'Memoirs of the Maids of Honor.'"

"The very thing!" exclaimed Hayllar when he had glanced over the paper. "What a marvelous memory you have, Jeaffreson!"

"Memory!" repeated the latter. "I go to imagination for my facts. There never was any D'Eyncourt, or, if there was, he never wrote a book about maids of honor. There must have been a Maud Ufford. The name sounds like truth. But you may take my word for it she never wrote a line to Margery Pennington. I invented that pleasant quotation."

"But," protested Hayllar, "the selecting committee and the hangers will know it."

"Not a bit of it, old man! I took you in, and it will take them in."

Jeaffreson was right. The newspaper critics never knew that a trick had been played on them, and one of them even referred to "quaint old D'Eyncourt" with an air of great learning.—New York Tribune.

Concerning Woman's Beauty.

Man in Africa likes his women large and round and fattens them in darkened huts, like Hamburg geese. Man in England likes them strong and brave. Man in India likes them soft and submissive. Man in America likes them almost any way, it would appear.

But his changeful standards of taste have played hob with beauty. There are few women who even know the right proportions of the human figure or would care to have them if they did. Feeble little feet, futile little hands, fragile little bodies he has demanded and produced. "Woman's weakness is her charm," says the arbiter in one of his moods.

Women are growing stronger now, but man will find the charm is still there.—Harper's Bazar.

His Morning Shower.

The soda fountain clerk was engaged in vigorously shaking up a chocolate and egg, when suddenly the glass broke in his hands and the ensuing deluge made him look like a human éclair. The horrified customer leaned over the counter, trying to be sympathetic. Not knowing exactly what to say, he finally blurted out consolingly:

"Oh—er—too bad! Did the glass break?" Dripping chocolate from head to foot, the clerk looked at him witheringly.

"Did the glass break?" he roared. "Did the glass break, eh?" And then, with freezing sarcasm: "Oh, no—not at all, not at all. You just happened to step in while I was taking my morning shower."—Bellman.

Impatient.

Customer—Are you the proprietor of this restaurant?

Proprietor—Yes, sir.

Customer—Then please provide me as quickly as possible with pen, ink and paper and two decent people as witnesses.

Proprietor (in alarm)—What is the matter, sir? Would you like a doctor?

Customer—No, thank you. But I ordered my dinner twenty-seven minutes ago, and I thought it would be advisable to make my will before I starved to death.—London Fun.

EARLY ADVERTISEMENTS.

One of the First a Handbill Caxton Got Out in 1480 About "Pyes."

One of the first English printed advertisements was a handbill or poster got out by Caxton in 1480 and reading: "Pyes . . . of Salisbury . . . good and chepe . . . if it please any man spirittuel or temporel to bye."

This was not a baker's advertisement. Caxton had printed "Pyes" or clerical rules telling how the clergy at Salisbury dealt with the changing date of Easter, and as the clergy could read he was bold enough to print advertisements of his "Pyes."

For two centuries after it was introduced printing which should have boomed advertising—if advertising depended primarily upon printing—had little or no effect upon it. The public had to be reached by the rebus over the shop, the public criers in towns and by boys in front of stalls calling: "What d'ye lack, master? What d'ye lack?"

Even public notices posted in cathedrals and other frequented places were seldom printed, says a writer in System. So few copies were required for the few readers that they were cheaper hand written.

And even the newspapers, when the civil wars in England in the seventeenth century brought them forth and they began to develop readers, had an extraordinarily small effect in developing advertising.

Book notices, rewards for the arrest of runaway servants and thieves and the announcements of quacks began to appear about 1652. And a little later the germ of modern advertising began to develop in the Mercurius Politicus, the Kingdom's Intelligencer and the Publick Advertiser and others in an effort to introduce tea, coffee and chocolate into England, thus:

Tea: "That excellent and by all Physicians approved China drink called by the Chinese Teha, by other Nations Tay, alias Tee."

Coffee: "The grain or berry called coffee, growing only upon little trees in the deserts of Arabia. Brought from thence and as drunk generally throughout all the Grand Seignor's dominions. It is a simple, innocent thing composed into a drink."

And chocolate: "An excellent West India drink called Chocolate."

The contrast between popular dependence upon advertising then and now cannot be better shown than by the experience after the great London fire.

In 1666 London was practically wiped out by fire. The printer of the London Gazette, with almost prophetic acumen, offered his columns for notices of new locations of shops. But though practically every important shop in the city was moved there was absolutely no response to this offer. The old locations had never been known through the newspapers, so why should any one look there for the new?

At the present time after a large fire in an American city the newspapers are filled with notices of the new locations and restorations of business.

Your P's and Q's.

The expression "mind your P's and Q's" is so common that most of us have never given thought to its origin. The initials stand for piers and queues—feet and pig-tails. It was the caution given by all French dancing masters as far back as the time of Louis XIV. and up to the time of the revolution. It was then the fashion for the feet to be put in position and the bow to be made very low—a thing most difficult to do gracefully without moving the "piers" or deranging the wig and throwing the "queue" forward; hence the warning ministered by the terpsichorean professors.

A Cozy Home.

While walking through a banana plantation near Matanzas, Cuba, a small dove fluttered out from under some leaves I disturbed in passing. She feigned a broken wing and tried to lead me from the spot, but I was hard hearted enough to ignore her and peer under the leaves instead. I was repaid for my trouble by a sight I shall always remember—the coziest little home I ever saw. A large bunch of bananas, nearly ripe and hanging so low as to nearly touch the ground, sheltered in its heart a neat little nest with two pearly white eggs.—St. Nicholas.

Forswarned.

A Yorkshire vicar tells how he once received the following note from one of his parishioners: "This is to give notice that I and Miss Jemima Brearley are coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next to undergo the operation of matrimony at your hands. Please be prompt, as the cab is hired by the hour. Forswarned is forewarned."—London Tit-Bits.

THE CHAPERON.

A Way to Tame Her if the Case Should Get Desperate.

The custom of supporting a chaperon in comfort and even luxury in the incipient stages of lovemaking, while expensive, need not be considered in the light of a hopeless undertaking.

Many parents think a chaperon may be dispensed with, others that one is absolutely necessary. Sometimes the young man likes to have a chaperon along. With some girls it is a great deal safer.

If the chaperon is young and handsome and only slightly married herself, she may be a great addition. In case the girl goes back on you at a critical moment you can fall back on the chaperon. Chaperons of this description betray a world of sympathy during these periods.

If she is old and inevitable, do not ignore her too much. Remember that chaperons have feelings. Feed her up well and if possible give her a mild knockout drop early in the evening.

Occasionally a chaperon will happen who has a New England conscience. A New England conscience, by the way, is the kind that never enjoys itself unless every one else is miserable. Just as you get a firm hold on the girl and begin to kiss her like a rapid fire machine gun the chaperon will begin to push icebergs on your starboard bow, and the lovely aurora borealis you have been looking at will get frapped. In this emergency devote yourself for a few moments to the chaperon herself. Kiss her, remembering that the only way you can achieve liberty is by risking death. She will either faint away or subside.

If she by any possibility offers to tell the girl's parents on you, insist upon her doing this at once, not omitting the details.

While she is doing this you can make your final arrangements, including the rope ladder, the cloudy night, the six cylinder runabout, the usual press notices and the indignant father's final forgiveness.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Left Profile Is Always Best.

"Profile?" said the photographer.

"Then turn the left side, please."

The young girl looked impressed.

"Did you notice it?" she asked.

"You must have sharp eyes. I thought it was a fact known only to myself."

"What fact?" asked the photographer.

"Why, the fact that the left side of my face is a little better than the right side and that the left profile is more regular."

"Oh!" said the photographer.

"Of course I noticed that. That, you know, is the case with everybody. Everybody's left profile is better than the right one. The eye is opened more fully, the mouth has a finer curve, the cheek's contour is firmer, and the hair about the temples is thicker."

"Notice after this the profile photographs you come across, and you'll find that nine out of ten of them portray the left side of the face."—Exchange.

Unrecorded History.

Brutus was haranguing the citizens.

"Upon what meat," he cried—

"upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he is grown so great?"

Pausing for a moment for a reply, he was about to continue, when a man with a loud voice and flushed countenance arose in the front row and observed:

"He eats Quincius & Polonius' sugar cured hams and bacon, now on sale at all first class markets."

This, being a bald advertising scheme, was not given any prominence whatever in the reports of the occasion.—Chicago Post.

We will appreciate it if all our

Preparing For Dinner.

One of the residents of the town of Idvor was noted for his parsimony.
Let us call him Mr. Wiggles.
There was an old major in Idvor who said to his valet one evening,
"Go and tell the cook to get me ready a chop and a poached egg."
"Pardon me, major," said the valet,
"but have you forgotten that you are dining with Mr. Wiggles tonight?"
The major frowned. "Yes," he said, "I had forgotten it. Tell the cook to make it two chops and two poached eggs."—London Graphic.

Influence of "Pluck."

The blindest, the most purely instinctive efforts of mere "pluck" has a lifting power and deserves our thankful admiration. Every degree and every form of courage tends to raise the whole tone of life within the range of its influence in proportion to the amount and the quality of the endurance exercised.—Hibbert Journal.
