EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS' TRAINING SCHOOL.

First Report of Board of Trustees to Governor Glenn.

To His Excellency, Robt. B. Glenn, Governor of North Carolina:

The Board of Trustees of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School begs to submit as its report the following report of its executive committee setting out in detail the work of the board to date and the needs of the school.

This report and the recommendations contained therein were unanimously approved and adopted by the board of trustees at its meeting in Greenville, December 31, 1908, and ordered to be transmitted to your Excellency as the report and recommendations of the full board.

Greenville, N. C., Dec. 31, 1908. To the Board of Trustees of the East Carolina Teachers' Training School:

At your meeting on March 11, 1908, you elected Messrs. Hook and Rogers, of Charlotte, N. C., and H. W. Simpson, of New Bern, N. C., associate architects for the buildings to be erected for said school.

At the same meeting you elected the undersigned, the executive committee of the board, and directed us to cause the architects to proceed without delay in the preparation of plans and specifications for the buildings, to be submitted to a subsequent meeting of the board.

At your meeting on April 16th the outlines of these plans and specifications prepared by your architects were submitted to you, and after a careful examination were accepted. At this meeting you directed us to advertise for bids for the erection of said buildings, and authorized and directed us to proceed with the erection of the same.

We now have the honor to submit to you a full and detailed report of our proceedings.

Immediately after receiving your instructions we directed the architects to prepare full detailed plans and specifications of the four buildings, which you ordered to be constructed, to wit: the administration building, two dormitories, and a refectory.

We also made advertisement for sealed proposals for the construction of these buildings, and in these advertisements we gave notice that sets of these plans and specifications could be obtained by application to either of the architects, or that they could be seen at the office of Hon. J. Y. Joyner, Raleigh, N. C., or at the office of Jarvis & Blow, Greenville, N. C., and we further gave notice that these sealed bids would be opened in Greenville on June 9, 1908.

We made these advertisements in The Manufacturers' Record, in The Engineering Record, in the Raleigh News and Observer, and in other papers, with a view of bringing the matter to the notice of responsible bidders.

In addition to these advertisements the architects sent notices to a number of well-known contractors.

On the day for the opening of the bids, we had sealed bids from eighteen (18) responsible contractors, whose names, residence and bids are as follows:

1. George W. Wharton, Belleville, N. J., $117,800.00.
2. C. L. Johnson, Florence, S. C., $106,888.11.
3. J. T. Hunt & Co. Greensboro, N. C. $104,108.00.
4. Dean, Wilkins & Killeet,

Wilson, N. C. $101,504.00.

5. Rhodes & Underwood, New Bern, N. C. $98,870.00.

6. King Lumber Co., Charlottesville, Va. $97,950.00.

7. Jno. T. Wilson Richmond, Va. $96,000.00.

8. W. B. Barrow, Raleigh, N. C. $93,000.00.

9. Holiday & Crouse, Greensboro, N. C. $92,000.00.

10. T. C. Thompson & Bro., Charlotte, N. C. $91,000.00.

11. Harwood & Moss, Newport News, Va. $90,887.00.

12. Nicholas Ittner, Atlanta, Ga. $90,722.00.

13. D. J. Rose & Co., Rocky Mount, N. C. $90,409.61.

14. J. C. Morris, Greensboro, N. C. $89,317.56.

15. N. Underwood, Durham, N. C. $89,252.91.

16. Winningham & Fries, Greensboro, N. C. $87,230.00.

17. D. J. Phipps, Newport News, Va. $82,900.00.

18. Building & Lumber Company Greenville, N. C. $81,529.87.

It will be observed from an examination of these bids that the difference between the highest and lowest bid is $36,270.13, and that the bidders came from Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia and New Jersey.

One of the conditions prescribed for the bidders was that each should deposit a certified check of one thousand dollars to comply with the other requirements prescribed by the committee, if the bid was awarded to him.

All of the bidders deposited this check with their bids.

Another condition prescribed by the committee was that the successful bidder should enter into a written contract for the erection of the buildings, according to the plans and specifications prepared by the architects, and that he should give a bond in the sum of one third of the amount of his bid, as a guarantee, and that 20 per cent of his bid would be retained until the final acceptance of the work.

The Building and Lumber Company complied with all these conditions, and having made the lowest bid, the contract was awarded to that company, and it entered at once upon the work.

The bidding was all done upon a basis that the buildings were to be covered with slate roofs and tin valleys. About the time we were making the contract a representative of a clay-tile company visited us and offered special price for tile for the roofs of the buildings, if we would substitute that material for the slate.

We asked the contractor, The Building and Lumber Company for its lowest offer to change the buildings from slate to a tile roof. The contractor proposed to make the change for the additional cost of eleven hundred, one and 08-100 dollars ($1,101.08), and to change from valleys to copper valleys for an additional cost of one hundred and eighty-eight dollars ($188.00), and a further additional cost of three hundred dollars (300.00) for paper to go under the tiling, making in all fifteen hundred, eighty nine and 08-100 dollars ($1,589.08).

It is well-known that tile is the handsomest and most durable roofing, and that life of copper valleys is much longer than tin.

We think we acted wisely in making the change from a slate roof to a tile roof and from tin valleys to copper valleys, and we are sure the board will approve our action when it examines the buildings.

The cost of making the change was insignificant in comparison with the great advantage in the tile roof over the slate roof.

We also advertised for sealed proposals for heating these four buildings, and on the 9th of June, 1908, we opened these bids also.

1. J. W. Sargeant, Richmond, Va.—Paul System, $14,980; Webster System, $16,900.

2. L. Buckenstein, Winston, N. C.—Paul System $13,724; Webster System, $13,988.

3. Atlanta Steam Heating Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Paul System $12,921; Webster System, $13,600.

4. Crawford & Co., Winston, N. C.—Paul System, $12,699; Webster System, $12,827.

5. Longworth & Co., Richmond, Va.—Paul System, $12,933; Webster System, $12,673.

6. American Machine Co., Charlotte, N. C.—Paul System, $10,886; Webster System, $11,952.

7. B. MacKenzie, Greensboro, N. C.—Webster System $11,712.63.

After consulting with the architects and hearing representatives of the systems, and some of these bidders explain the different systems, we adopted the Webster System and gave the contract for the heating to B. MacKenzie, Greensboro, N. C., at the sum of $11,712.63, which was the lowest bid for that system.

The bid for the construction of the buildings was so much lower than we had hoped to receive that we thought it advisable to award the contract for the heating also.

The plans we adopted will necessitate a central power house and excludes any boilers or separate heating plants under any other buildings. A central plant is much more economical and reduces the danger of fire to a minimum.

The contract for the heating plant shall be completed to the location of the central power house. The piping of the buildings and the large underground mains provide for enlargement of all buildings, and for the addition of new buildings, without tearing out any of the work installed under this contract.

So with the completion of the contract for construction and for heating we will have four beautiful buildings, equipped with all modern conveniences and improvements, ready for occupancy as soon as they are furnished and the central power house is completed and attached to the heating plant.

As the work progressed we found it advisable to make some further changes in the contract, but in every instance we required the contractor to submit his proposal in writing with the cost of the same, which was submitted to the architects for their investigation and approval before it was passed upon by us. The bids were based upon a certain depth of excavation for the foundation of the buildings, which was prescribed in detail by the architects.

While the contractors were excavating for the foundation of the administration building, and reached the depth prescribed by the architects, they encountered a sandy, insecure foundation, which they promptly called to the attention of the architects and the committee.

We had a meeting with the architects, and after an examination, concluded that it was necessary to put in a concrete foundation for this building. At the west end of the foundation for the building the contractors encountered a dark, quick-sand, and after an examination by the architects it was deemed absolutely necessary to drive piling at this point, in order to secure a safe foundation. A hundred large piles, averaging from 12 to 19 inches in diameter and 25 or 30 feet in length, were at this point. This piling, with the concrete foundation for the whole building, secured, in our opinion, a perfectly safe foundation. The cost of this extra work was $1,755.

The bids were based upon yellow pine doors for the buildings. The contractors proposed to us to substitute birch veneered doors, with Kore locks, for the pine doors, for the interior of all buildings, and a hard wood floor and finish for the main story of the refectory, and to make this change in the doors and the finish of the refectory for the sum of $500. After consulting with the architects and an examination of the doors, and considering the sanitary advantage of a hard wood floor in the refectory, we authorized the change, and we think that when you examine the doors and floor finish of the refectory, you will cordially approve our action.

The doors we have selected are not only beautiful, but are free from the swelling and shrinking of pine doors in our climate.

One of the architects has visited the grounds every week, and inspected the work done upon the buildings, and the material used, and in addition to this the committee has made several visits of inspection, and we are glad to report that we believe that the architects and contractors have lived up to their contracts. We believe, and are informed by the architects, that the contractors have used material fully up to that specified, and have done the work in a skillful and workmanlike manner.

We confidently believe that your inspection of the buildings will convince you that the State is getting beautiful buildings, constructed of good material, in excellent style, at small cost.

Indeed, we doubt if any public buildings have ever been constructed which surpass these in beauty and workmanship, at so small a cost.

In excavating for the basement of the refectory, the contractors struck some springs, which made it necessary to use damp-proof in the basement walls, and an additional concrete foundation in the basement, and order damp-proof paper also in order to make the basement perfectly dry.

The additional cost thus entailed was $585.

The site selected by the State Board of Education is rolling, milly ground, which necessitated considerable grading for the grounds, in accordance with the plans of your landscape architect. This grading was not included in the contract.

We advertised for bids for this grading, and the first bid was 25 cents per cubic yard, and then two other bids at 20 cents per cubic yard. But we finally made a contract for the grading at 15 cents per cubic yard, with a provision that the total cost should not exceed $1,500. The grading has not been completed yet, and can not be until the buildings are completed, and the grounds cleared of the building material.

The grounds are beautiful, and by proper improvement can be made as handsome as any school grounds in the State.

The grading, the location of the buildings, and everything done upon the grounds, is in accordance with the plans laid out by the landscape architect, selected by our board, and improvements should be in accordance with these plans.

The town of Greenville laid pipe and water mains up to the school grounds. We continued the mains through the grounds, and these together with the hydrants, were located according to the plans specified by the landscape architect. The cost of placing these mains and hydrants in the grounds were $1,108.81. By placing these in the grounds in the beginning we have had protection against fire, as well as the use of water during the construction of the buildings.

Under their contract the contractors are required to pay, and have paid, for the water used for construction purposes.

The plans for the administration building provide for basement rooms when they shall be needed, but the contract does not call for their present completion. As the excavation for the basement could be done very much cheaper now than after the building is erected, we thought it wise to have it done now. Hereafter when this basement is needed for laboratory, or other purposes, it can be fitted up into commodious rooms at very little expense.

The cost of this excavation, 750 cubic yards at 15 cents per cubic yard was $112.50.

Our expenditures already made and to be made to complete our contracts, are as follows:

Purchase of 47 9-20 acres of land at $200 per acre $9,490.00.
Fees of landscape architects $700.

Contract for building, with additions as above $85,958.95.
Excavating for basement of administration building $112.50.
Contract for heating $11,712.63.

For pipes, water mains and hydrants for grounds $1,108.81.
Grading grounds $1,500.
Architects fees for plans, specifications, supervision, etc., 5 per cent on cost of buildings, estimated in part $5,000.

Miscellaneous—Paper under finished floor of refectory $40, door to basement of boy's dormitory $55, and other miscellaneous items, including the expense of the board meetings, estimated at about $1,000.

RECEIPTS.
Appropriation by State $15,000.00.
Appropriation by town of Greenville 49,000.00.
Appropriation by county of Pitt, 49,000.00.
Total, $113,000.00.

So our expenditures made and to be made, under the contracts already let, are estimated to be in excess of our receipts about $3,000, but we have kept as nearly within the amount in hand as possible, and but for the unforeseen trouble about foundations we would have come out about even; but when these four elegant buildings are completed, under these contracts the balance due upon them and the purchase of a most beautiful site of 47 7-20 acres will only be about $3,000.

Into this magnificent educational plant, belonging to the State, the State has thus far invested only $15,000. It only needs that a central power house and a moderate sized infirmary shall be added, and that all shall be furnished, which we estimate

SATURDAY, JAN. 16, 1909.

Tennessee seems to have made up her mind to live down her recent unenviable reputation. In the past week a State prohibition bill and an anti-bucket shop bill have both passed the legislature.

We give much space today to a report of the trustees of the East Carolina Teachers Training School, which necessarily excludes some other matter. The report is important and should be read by every one.

The Greensboro Record comes pretty near to the truth of the situation when it says those who complain that no good shows come that way are not competent to judge, for they do not go if the cost is over thirty cents.

It matters not how great or tall men may be they are only a little over two feet.—New Bern Sun.

And some of them grow very little over two years.—Durham Sun.

And fewer still two eyes.

Before prohibition is well put into effect the property owners of New Hanover are confronted with necessity of additional taxes to keep the public schools open the requisite length of time.—Wilmington Star.

If one-tenth of the money that formerly went for whiskey in Wilmington should go for the schools it would more than keep them going the requisite length of time, and the property owners yet have the other nine-tenths for their personal use. The Star seems to look only at the revenue from the sale of whiskey, and not at what prohibition will really save the people.

EX. LT. GOV. WINSTON

Returns to His Home With Merited Honors and Good Wishes.

Hon Francis D. Winston left Raleigh yesterday for his home in Windsor.

This simple statement has been printed in these columns many times before, but hitherto it has carried with it but a faint conception of the feeling of regret that attached to his departure on yesterday. For many years this distinguished gentleman has been going in and out among the people of the capital city. As member of the house of representatives, as State senator, as judge of the Superior court, as lieutenant governor and president of the senate he has been a factor in our social and political life, and as each year has passed by he has grown in public and private favor, his army of personal and political friends ever increasing until he became, not only one of Raleigh's home folks, but one of the State's home folks as well. Always genial, amiable and clever, and always welcome as public official, Grand Master of Masonry, as private citizen to the capital city or to any other part of the State. In retiring from the public service, whether his retirement be temporary or permanent, a question that he himself will doubtless evade, his

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. labors in the cause of genuine Democracy, in the great work of Masonry and the general uplift of our citizenship, his charming personality and high attainment as public official, good friend and fellow citizen, will continue to abide in the hearts of the people of Raleigh and of the people of the State, generally.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The most popular corner of senate chamber is the office of the engrossing clerk, Mr. W. E. Hooks, of Ayden, a town that derived its name from the Garden of Eden. Paradisaical traditions and standards doubtless swayed Mr. Hooks in the selection of his young lady stenographers. This view is supported by the senators themselves, who keep the place sweet with candy and the fragrant aroma of flowers and fruits. The senate rules require every bill to go through this office before being introduced, and Mr. Hooks and his office complement being expert in their work greatly facilitate legislation. The music of the typewriters goes merrily on from the opening hour in the morning till late in the afternoon.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Most generally a man has to die to have something real good said about him. Likewise he must get out of office to get his just dues. The papers will now praise Gov. Glenn, when some of them formerly abused him, not on personal grounds, but for public acts. When any State has as good a governor as "Bob" Glenn it has no kick coming. He may have made mistakes; it would be a wonder if he did not, but if he did no one seems to be able to pick them out.—Greensboro Record.

L. C. ARTHUR, GREENVILLE, N. C.

He's From Missouri;
You Have to Show Him.

Governor Folk is from Missouri. He's regarded as a pretty good citizen himself. See what he says about a certain sort of citizen:

"I do not believe in the mail order citizen. IT IS BETTER THAT WE SHOULD HAVE A THOUSAND TOWNS THAN ONE LARGE CITY. If a place is good enough for a man to make his money in, it certainly should be good enough for him to spend his money in. The merchants have a just right to all the business of the town in which they have their stores, and every good citizen will help them to get it."

Did you ever see a FINE LARGE FACT so simply stated?

was all besmeared with the sticky stuff; then he bolted as fast as he could scamper and rolled in the gun cotton, got himself well covered with it and ran aloft into the rigging. Sailors have a saying, "The devil to pay and no pitch hot," but the pitch was hot this time, and the condition was actually appalling. Some of the men ran after him, but it was impossible to catch him. He was too shrewd for that. The gunner's gang gathered up that gun cotton as men never did so fast in their lives before and put it back into the cans, for had that fool monkey dropped from aloft into it he would have blown the ship to kingdom come. They got it out of the way without disaster, but for several hours that creature sat up there picking gun cotton from himself and throwing it overboard. As I said, the episode would have been comical had it not been fraught with so much danger. It might have been "another sea mystery," but it was not.—Stanley Du Bois in Los Angeles Times.

He bears misery best, who hides it most.—Shakespeare.

Same Settlement.

Diner (who has run up a heavy bill)—You are manager here, eh? Well, six months ago I dined here, and, unfortunately, being unable to pay my bill—er—you kicked me downstairs.

The Manager—Very sorry, indeed, sir, but business, you know—er—I had to—er—

Diner—Oh, that's all right, old chap, but—might I trouble you again?—London Telegraph.

The Judge's Warning.

Judge (about to sentence)—Prisoner, you have used this poor, half-witted fellow most unmercifully. You have beaten him most cruelly.

Prisoner (surlily)—He attacked me first. Besides, he is a rascal and gave me no end of trouble on the farm. It's not my fault his being an idiot, my lord.

Judge (severely)—You should remember, prisoner, that idiots, after all, are men like you and me.—London Scraps.

Not the Gardener.

When in 1883 Professor Freeman was examining Battle abbey he found himself dogged by a person who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obtruded his offers of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off he broke forth with: "I don't want your assistance. The Duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners."

"Exactly so," was the reply. "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the Duke of Cleveland."

A Fair Question.

A quarrel had taken place at a fair in Ireland, and the culprit was being sentenced for manslaughter. The doctor, however, had given evidence to show that the victim's skull was abnormally thin. The prisoner on being asked if he had anything to say for himself replied, "No, yer honor, but I would ask, Was that a skull for a man to go to a fair wid?"

STORIES OF THE SEA.

Quenching a Blaze in a Hurry on Board a War Vessel.

PRANK OF A TRICKY MASCOT.

There Were Lively Times on Deck When the Big Monkey Got Himself Mixed Up With Hot Pitch and Gun Cotton and Took a Trip Aloft.

We were making passage from Norfolk, Va., to Lisbon, Portugal, in the United States Steamship Alliance. It was shortly after 4 o'clock. I had just gone to my room for a pipeful of tobacco when the sailmaker came to my door with a scared face. "Got any water in your room, Mr. Du Bois?" he said.

"Yes; here's a pailful."
"For God's sake give it to me quick! The sail room's afire, but don't say anything! I'll have it out in a minute!"

I handed him the pail of water, but was not going to take any chances of a fire on a man-of-war with fifteen tons of powder not six feet away, so I ran to the ship's bell and rang the fire alarm as furiously as I could. In less time than it takes you to read this hand grenades were being thrown and water was pouring into the now stifling mass of burning canvas. Men jumped in among the great bundles of furled sails and passed them out, and when one could not endure the smoke any longer another took his place. At last the danger was over, and I began to look around and take stock of the affair.

I had often wondered what I would do in case of a fire on the ship. I would save my watch. A watch is never used at sea, so it hung from a hook over my desk. I would be sure to take along my best girl's picture, and there were a few other little belongings which must not be parted with. Well, when the thing was over, what had I gathered together? Not my watch, not my best girl's picture, not anything that I had thought I would, but I had filled my pockets with extract of beef and nothing else. Dumb instinct, not a thought of anything but of something good to eat in dire extremity.

How did the fire start? The sailmaker, whose duty it is to keep the sails in good order, is privileged to go to the sail room at any time, but he is supposed to always carry a peculiar lantern, consisting of a common candle set in a globe of horn, sufficiently opaque to give enough light for his needs there. The candle does away with any danger from oil that might be spilled and catch fire, and the globe, being of horn instead of glass, precludes a possibility of breakage. This time the sailmaker, desiring a little more light, had taken out the candle. It had dropped from his fingers away down into the bight of a furled sail, and the cloth had caught fire. There was a terrible mess of burned and smoky sails in there, and they were all hauled up on deck and spread out in the sun to dry and to find out just what the damage was. In the bottom of the room on the floor one of the men found the stump of candle and put it in his pocket. The sailmaker was a favorite on board, and the officers never found out how the fire started. They thought they knew. The captain "broke" the sailmaker—that is, reduced him to the decks. But he couldn't prove anything. So after a week or so he restored him to his old rank.

We came near having another fire once, and, while it might have been very serious, it was really funny.

We had several hundred pounds of gun cotton on board, and, fearing that it might have gathered dampness, the gunner's gang got up the cases from the magazine, pulled it all out and spread it on the warm decks far aft in the sun to dry. Away forward the boatswain's mate and his gang were busy with tar pots and ropes putting some of their stuff in order.

We had on board a mascot in the shape of a monkey, one of the largest I have ever seen. He would stand quite three feet high, and he was the very Old Nick for mischief. He was a great nuisance, that monkey, and must always be doing what he saw any of the men doing.

Well, Mr. Monkey saw the men with the warm tar, and nothing would do but he must have a hand in the job. Literally, so he ran forward and dipped his hands into the pot and in a minute

Umbrella Etiquette in Turkey.

In China ladies are attended by servants who hold umbrellas over their heads. The Chinese and Japanese introduce both the umbrella and parasol into their decorative work and athletic sports. In western Turkey it is necessary to close an umbrella on meeting people of high rank, and a European traveler who was passing one of the palaces of the sultan was nearly run through by the guard before he comprehended that he must put down the open umbrella he carried. Every one passing the actual residence of the sultan lowers his umbrella as a salutation to "the brother of the sun and the moon."

An Old Idea.

Macaulay was not the first man to frame the famous image of the man of a new civilization standing amid the ruins of that which we know today. Long before he wrote of his traveler from New Zealand meditating upon London bridge Mrs. Barbauld had used the same image, with the difference that she applied it to Blackfriars bridge. An earlier reviewer had used it in an article published in 1767, we are told by an English commentator, and Horace Walpole says in one of his letters, "At last some curious traveler from Lima will visit England and give a description of the ruins of St. Paul's."

Inconsistent.

"What an inconsistent fellow Jack is?"
"How so?"
"He wrote in Blanche's autograph album that he wished her a life of happiness."
"Wasn't that all right?"
"I suppose it would have been if he hadn't turned around and within three months married her."—Kansas City Independent.

Hair Structure.

Some women's hair is naturally curly or wavy, to the envy of their friends of the same sex. Others have straight hair, which can only be made to wave or curl by artificial means. The difference between the two is easily explained. Straight hairs are oval in section. A negro's hairs kink because they are flat in places. The heat of the curling tongs when applied to straight hairs causes each of them to contract on one side and to curl in that direction, whence the beautifying effect obtained, which is necessarily temporary.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, of W. TRAINING SCHOOL.

can be done for $50,000, the State will then own at Greenville an educational plant that will compare favorably in beauty and equipment with any to be found in or out of the State, at only a cost of $65,000 to the State.

This result has been made possible by the unprecedented liberality of the citizens of Greenville and Pitt county, and by low bid of the Greenville company for the construction of these buildings.

We are sure the legislature will gladly make the necessary appropriations to furnish these buildings and to erect and equip the power house and infirmary. With this done the school can be opened for work in September, 1909, with accommodations for 300 students, which could not possibly be duplicated for $200,000.

The buildings are so located, planned and constructed that additions can be made at small cost and without marring the general plan, as the number of students may be increased and additional room may be demanded.

We have asked the architects to give us a detailed estimate of the cost of erecting the power house and infirmary, and furnishing and equipping all the buildings ready for service. They have given us this estimate in detail, and we now give the board a summary of these estimates, as follows:

Boiler house and laundry, not including machinery and equipments $4,602 40.

Infirmary, $6,400.00.

Power plant, laundry and ice plant, $14,150.00.

Sewerage, drainage, piping to buildings, and ground equipments, $5,950.00.

Administration building equipments, $4,577 00.

Refectory equipments, $2,275.00.

Dormitories equipments, $8,152.00.

These estimates do not include work that ought to be done upon the grounds, in the way of walks and other improvements, but it can be readily seen that the sum of $50,000 will be needed to complete and equip the plant for work, and we recommend the board to ask the legislature to appropriate that sum.

There is a great need for this school and a great work for it to do. The weak point in our public school system is the lack of a sufficient number of trained teachers for our country schools. This institution will help to supply that want, and it well deserves the immediate and liberal support of the State.

The State creates and controls the public school system, and it is incumbent upon the State to furnish a sufficient number of trained, well-equipped teachers for these public schools, and that is the special mission of this institution.

In our opinion the State can not make appropriations which in turn will yield larger and more beneficent results.

We estimate that there will be an attendance from two to three hundred students the first year. The most of these we apprehend will enter to become trained teachers, and under the act creating the school, they will pay no tuition. We are, therefore, of the opinion that at least $25,000 per year will be needed for maintenance, and we recommend that the board ask for that sum.

With $50,000 for completion and equipments and $25,000 per year for maintenance we believe this school will do a work for the State which will not be second in importance to that of any of her great institutions.

We further report that we have examined the book and vouchers of the treasurer, R. J. Cobb, to December 31, 1908, and find his books well kept and correct, and his report in accord with his accounts and vouchers.

Respectfully submitted,
Thos. J. Jarvis,
J. Y. Joyner,
Y. T. Ormond,

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE FRIDAY NIGHT.

PART OF GREENVILLE LUMBER & VENEER CO'S PLANT BURNED.

The Watchman on Duty at the Plant of the Greenville Lumber & Veneer Co., Gives Alarm.

A fire which started a little before 9 o'clock Friday night, destroyed about one-third of the large plant of the Greenville Lumber & Veneer Co., located near the A. C. L. railroad about half mile south of town. The blowing of the whistle at the plant gave the alarm and many people went out to the scene, but the plant is so far from any water supply that there was great disadvantage in fighting the fire. Much good work was done with buckets and shovels, and by moving truck packages and lumber out of the path of the fire so as to keep it confined to as small area as possible. Fortunately the buildings of the plant were not close together, and this aided much in saving what is now there.

During the fire the reporter looked up Mr. W. M. Pugh, manager of the plant, to ascertain if it was known how the fire originated. He said that the statement of the watchman, who makes a complete round of the plant every hour of the night, was that on his round between 7 and 8 o'clock everything was found all right. On his round between 8 and 9, as he came to the barrel factory building he saw smoke, and an investigation disclosed fire about midway the building burning as if it had started underneath the house. It was too far from the boiler room for fire to be communicated from there.

The barrel factory, the crate factory and the power house were burned, the buildings and machinery in these costing some over $10,000, to say nothing of loss and damage to material.

The box factory, dry kiln, saw mill, lumber sheds and office were saved and we hope it will be no great while before the plant can resume operations. It gives employment to a large number of hands.

There was about $6,000 insurance with Mosely Bros. and H. A. White on the part destroyed.

Interesting Service in the M. E. Church Sunday Night.

Instead of the usual Sunday evening service the financial condition of the church will be considered. A report will be made by the building committee how the church was built, what has been paid, who paid it, what the church cost, and what is now owing. Every member of the church is earnestly urged to be present to hear this report and take part in the proceedings. The friends and the public generally are cordially invited to be present. Certainly it is the duty of every member of the church who can to attend.
