NUMBER 5421

THE LEGISLATURE.

What Our Law Makers Are Doing at Raleigh.

SIXTEENTH DAY.

The senate met promptly at 11 o'clock with Senator Pharr, of Mecklenburg, in the chair, Rev. Dr. White conducted devotional exercises.

Senator Ray, of Rockingham, raised the question as to whether there was a quorum present. Senator Sherrill, of Caldwell, read a section from the constitution requiring a majority to be present and a roll call was taken. It was found that there were twenty-five senators present, one less than the required number.

On motion of Senator Blow the sergeant-at-arms was ordered to go out, hunt up and bring into the senate all members who had not leave of absence.

Senator Mills moved that a list of the senators who have been excused be furnished the senate in order that the names of those absent without leave could be known to the senate. The clerk was directed to make out a list of the missing.

A second roll call found the same number of senators present and Senator Blow moved that the search for the missing solons be continued and that the highways and byways be diligently explored.

Senator Barham moved that the senate adjourn till Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The motion was lost.

A half an hour went by and no senators were dragged in. At 11:35, Assistant Sargeant-At-Arms Nick DeBoy appeared in the senate chamber and reported "no senators to be found."

On motion of Senator Blow the senate adjourned to meet Monday at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE.

This branch had better success than the senate, for it had enough present to do business and mixed some fun along with it.

Some of the new bills introduced were to amend the law as to fertilizer manufactures; to sell the State test farms; as to the highway commission; to protect the traveling public; to provide equipment and maintenance of Eastern Carolina Teachers Training School; and a number of local bills.

Mr. Harshaw sent forward a resolution pledging the adjournment on the 10th of February. Morton sent forward an amendment that it apply to Caldwell county. (Laughter.) Mr. Harshaw said he had not classed Morton as a four-dollar-a-day man, but it seemed he was making money here. He said he introduced it in all seriousness, and he thought the conditions justified it, as all local matters pressing were passed two years ago, and that when the revenue bill and appropriations had been made we should go home on the date named. Mr. Harshaw said the time hung heavy on the members, with two hours at work. That people at home were working for 10 cents an hour, while the legislature drew a dollar an hour for the work done. Fifteen days off will save the state about $50,000. If the body set for 365 days bills would come every day, 340 having come already. He hoped some of the majority would introduce the resolution, but they had not and he hoped no one would weigh the matter against him for being a republican. He asked it in all seriousness, and he wanted to show the $4 was not the consideration.

Mr. Dowd said he spoke for

A PREACHER POUNDED.

Farmville, N. C., Jan. 23.

The Methodist parsonage in Farmville was invaded on the night of Jan. 20th by about forty men and women, boys and girls, and one or two little babies. Each of the company seemed intent not only on gaining admittance, but taking charge of the establishment, but their seeming intrusion soon ended, as the dining room was filled till there was scarcely standing room for a trio of spectators; and a vast number of packages of various sorts and sizes had been placed together about the center of the room. They had come to pound the preacher and his little family and had succeeded admirably.

It was a jolly company composed of people of various callings, avocations, and professions in life, one of the leaders a notary public, also one physician; but he left earlier than any one else, can't define why, unless from his profound understanding of physiology he knew that indigestion could not be contracted through the sense of sight, nor of hearing, consequently his professional service would not be needed in less than twenty-four or forty-eight hours.

The preacher didn't seem to know what to say, though he kept saying, and what he tried to say would get out of shape and was not the thing intended, and he hushed.

The company left in a body and the night passed away, and there was quite an early breakfast the next morning.

And the little family took their seats,

And seriously reflected,

On the difference in the breakfast now,

And the one they had expected.

An Eye Witness.

the majority, and they were as anxious as he to go home, but he thought it would be foolish to adopt the resolution, and he thought he had found the reason for Harshaw's wanting to go. It was this: At the reception the other night Mr. Harshaw found a plate with something in it, and when it went down he said it was the coldest mush he ever struck, and he thought that was why he wanted to go. Continuing Mr. Dowd said the house was busy morning and evening. That the body could not think of going till the finance and other committees had performed their work. Mr. Harshaw interrupted to ask if it could not be done in 30 days? Dowd replied yes, but he thought it not wise to set an arbitrary date.

Mr. Henderson said he felt flattered at Harshaw's reference to his looking at the galleries, and that he had to confess that we had been to places we had to confess we were ashamed of, but all who knew him knew if he got one look at the gallery he would vote to stay here indefinitely. (Laughter.) It went to committee on rules.

Spring Weather.

Sunday was an ideal spring day. No fires were needed and people sat out on their porches after night. Rather unusual for January.

CASKET FOR GEN. LEE'S BURIAL.

Was Found Lodged on Island Where it Washed in a Freshet.

The Reflector has been furnished a bit of history in connection with Gen. R. E. Lee, the anniversary of whose birth was last week observed throughout the South, that is perhaps not generally known and may be of interest. A member of one of book clubs in Greenville was appointed to give a sketch of Gen. Lee at the meeting of the club on the 16th, and having some recollection of having heard, when she lived in Virginia, her native State, of an unusual incident in connection with the burial of General Lee, she decided to use this in her sketch. Desiring to have her facts straight so that they would be beyond contradiction; the lady wrote to relatives in Lexington, Va., where General Lee died, for information on it. In reply she received a letter taken from authentic records that gave the facts, and has permitted us to copy for publication that portion of the letter bearing upon the occurrence. It is as follows:

"The story to which you allude is literally true. At the time of General Lee's death in 1870 there was a great freshet in North river at Lexington. There was no suitable casket for General Lee's burial in our town, and we were cut off from the rest of the world. Some caskets had been ordered from Richmond by our town undertaker and they had arrived a few days before the freshet at Mr. A. Alexander's commission house on North river. This house with contents, including the caskets, was washed away. One of these caskets was reported lodged on an island a few miles below town. It was brought up and General Lee was buried in it. The casket needed only a little cleaning and it suited the purpose in every way, except that it was rather small at the foot, so that General Lee could not be buried in shoes or boots."

Baraca and Philaeta Classes Organized at Methodist Sunday School.

Mr. T. B. Eldridge, of Raleigh, organized a Baraca class Sunday morning at the Methodist church with a membership of 34.

S. T. Hooker was elected president, Guy Lanier, secretary; election of other officers deferred to next Sunday. There was also organized a Philaeta class with a membership of 23. Mrs. Frank Wilson, president; Miss Jennie Congleton, secretary; Miss Emma Hardy, treasurer; Miss Martha Lee Cowell, teacher.

At the evening service Mr. Eldridge made an interesting talk on Sunday school work.

THE EAGLE SOLD.

Government Buys Boat for Life Saving Service.

Mr. J. S. Mundy, of Newark, N. J., who has been spending some days here, has during his stay been looking after his gasoline yacht, Eagle, thoroughly overhauling, repainting and refurnishing the craft in readiness for sale. Today Mr. Mundy closed the deal with the United States government for the boat to be used in the life saving and lighthouse service on the seventh district of the Atlantic coast. Government engineers who inspected the Eagle pronounced it the best boat they had seen for the service in which the government wanted it. Mr. Mundy is to be congratulated on the sale of his boat to the government, and the government is to be congratulated upon getting such a handsome craft. The Eagle took its farewell of Greenville today, leaving here for Elizabeth City where it will go in service.

"A Trip to India."

Mirth, music and song will reign supreme Tuesday night at the opera house when the noted Broadway fun-makers the Herald Square (comic) Opera Company, will present for the entertainment of Greenville folks, the merry musical frolic, "A Trip to India."

This play compares favorably with the best amusement vehicle ever sent out of New York city and will be acted by a company of players that can claim the proud distinction of not having closed for one single night during their successful tour of the country for the past year.

The principals are all performers of wide reputation who include Miss Juanita Rush, an accomplished young prima donna; Charles Picquet, a lyric tenor of note, Jack Leslie and Ed. Gilmore, well known light opera favorites; Signor Martine Pache, an eminent baritone, formerly of the Emma Abbot Opera Company, and Miss Louise Montague, a contralto of prominence.

The support consists of a bevy of bewitching pretty chorus girls, whose attractiveness shows off to splendid advantage in the pleasing song and dance numbers they are called upon to render.

The management of the company have invested several thousands of dollars in the staging the production and in the magnificence of the costumes and the elaborate detail of the scenic effects, the acme of perfection being well nigh reached.

Dr. Vann Here.

Greenville people were delighted to see Dr. R. T. Vann, president of the Baptist University for Women, of Raleigh, among us from Saturday evening to this morning and to hear him preach too inspiring sermons in the Baptist church Sunday. There are few men who can preach like Dr. Vann, and none are heard more gladly. At Sunday night's service he also sang a beautiful solo at the request of a number of friends who knew how sweetly he sings.

Good to the Last.

The Demorest Comedy Co. who played all last week here, held the interest of theatre goers to the last, and there was a large audience at the closing performance Saturday night. At the conclusion of the play the drawing for the "real live baby" took place. The "baby" was a white turkey and Miss Nannie Johnson held the number that drew the prize.

A concert followed the regular performance in which Mr. and Mrs. Demorest repeated the musical specialties on a variety of instruments. They make wonderful music.

MONDAY, JAN. 25, 1909.

Hobson still sticks to it that Japan is getting ready to fight us.

Now watch out for the Republicans to try to make capital in the next campaign out of that commsttee report.

The legislature is showing no disposition to let down the gap and make it easier to obtain a divorce in North Carolina. If anything, it would be well to make the divorce law even stronger.

President-elect Taft is now on the high sea on the good ship North Carolina enroute to Panama. A bath tub 7 feet long, 4 feet wide and weighing a ton had to be taken along for his especial use.

Do not hurry about planting your garden because January is giving us a touch of beautiful spring weather. February is yet to be taken into account, and if that month does not give us something to remember it will be a surprise.

A report made to the legislature by a committee appointed to examine the books of the several State officers, shows that a better system of book-keeping is needed in some of them, especially that of the insurance commissioner. No wrong was charged in the report, but the records in the office mentioned were badly kept. The committee also found irregularities on the part of T. S. Meekins, shell fish commissioner at Manteo. No doubt the legislature will take proper steps to have this remedied at once.

A Poor Cause, Indeed.
We cannot understand with what face the managers of the trunk line railroads operating in this State go before the governor asking for a reopening of the passenger rate question. In the first place, when the existing rate was adopted as a compromise measure, it was with the agreement that it was to stand until given a year's trial, when, if found to be inequitable, the subject might come up for discussion again. It became effective July 1st last, and has not therefore been yet operated as much as eight months. In the second place, the railroads, after the compromise rate was fixed, sprang the new and offensive mileage book regulation, which the legislature and the public did not then contemplate, and which has grown more unpopular every day since its adoption. But more important than either of these considerations, the railroads, seeing the writhings of the people of North Carolina under the abominably discriminatory freight rates and not denying their injustice, stolidly decline to do what is plainly right in the matter and give no promise that they ever will.

It is with a poor front, therefore, that they come forward complaining of an alleged but

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. not demonstrated wrong, while not proposing, for their part, to correct a far greater and a palpable wrong or to do anything in correction of a petty annoyance for the perpetuation of which no adequate reason has ever been assigned and which is an increasing irritant to all those who buy their mileage books.

It is as the Observer has so often said, that the railroads seem to seek means to alienate those who want to be their friends.—Charlotte Observer.

As in the state, so in the nation, the proposition to raise the salary of the chief executive has brought out a discussion as to what the official gets over and above his salary. While the salary of the president is only $50,000 a year, he really gets something like a quarter of a million, when it is totalled, under one expense heading or another. For instance, $35,000 is allowed him for horses and repairs of furniture and vehicles, $40,000 for the care of greenhouses, $8,000 for fuel, etc. Then he gets $25,000 for traveling expenses. And the exceedingly large sum of $80,500 is given for the maintenance of the white house and grounds.

While of course this is not for the president's personal use and the government ought to take the best of care of its property, the sum looks exceedingly large, so large that some of it might easily be diverted into channels but remotely connected with the maintenance of government property. The $35,000 item for horses, etc., also has the appearance of being rather large. Then there are many other things. The papers carried a story last week that a department clerk, with a salary of $2,000 a year, acted in the capacity of barber to the president and did no work at all of the kind for which the government was paying. All these items should be cut off altogether or cut down to a reasonable basis, then the salary should be raised to an amount in keeping with the dignity of the office.—Raleigh Times.

THE CRACKER PACKERS.

Nimble Fingered Girls That Work Like Automaton.

I found girls in numbers on the packing floor, a large, low ceilinged loft three stories up in the air. In front of a girl packing "lady fingers" stood a large truck piled high with frames bristling like so many porcupines with long steel spikes or points. On each point was suspended a lady finger, chocolate iced. The girl's hands fairly flew between the frames and the box she was packing. Back and forth as tirelessly and as automatically as a machine her fingers traveled, plucking the cakes, half a dozen at a time, and packing them precisely in the box. Working steadily at this rate she could pack six five-pound boxes in an hour. If she kept up her speed, never stopping a single second, she earned 15 cents an hour. If her speed decreased she soon ceased to earn anything, because she lost her job.

Fifteen cents an hour would mean $1.42 in the nine and a half hour day. But no girl in the factory earned that much, because time had to be sacrificed going after the cake laden trucks and hustling the frames off and on the trucks. Work of this kind was not paid for.

The cracker packers were not losing any time. The endless chain of flat pans loaded with hot crackers descending from above moved at a smart pace, and the line of girls standing on either side had to work at top speed to keep the trays clear. They grabbed both hands full of crackers and flashed them into the big wooden boxes beside them. They seldom broke a cracker or made a mistake in their methodical progress. The packers moved their arms, shoulders and spines continually. It must be splendid exercise, I reflected, only they get a good deal of it between 7 in the morning and 5 at night.

The cracker packing girl attains a higher speed than the cake packing girl, because she has a paco-maker—the machine. As fast as the machine moves she must move. She earns a cent a dozen, and she can pack a hundred dozen in a day.

Here is another significant fact. The cracker packing girl is younger than the cake packing girl, because no girl can keep up with a machine indefinitely. At the end of a certain period she loses speed and goes stale. Then she drifts out of cracker packing into some other unskilled trade. Usually she has to accept a lower wage, since her efficiency has declined. By efficiency one always means speed. — Rhetta Childre Dorr in Hampton's Magazine.

Man, Poor Man!

Mrs. Flutter—Mrs. Crabapple says her husband kisses her goodby every morning of his life. Mr. Flutter—I often wondered what gave him that sour expression.—Smart Set.

Couldn't Fool Tim.

A priest announced that a collection would be taken up to defray the cost of coal for heating the church.

Everybody contributed but Tim, who gave a sly wink as the plate was presented to him. The priest, after service, took his parishioner to task.

"Now, Tim," he said, "why didn't you give something, if it was but little?"

"Faith, I'm on to yez!" said Tim.

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, nothing. Just that I'm on to yez, that's all."

"Tim, your words are disrespectful. What do you mean?"

"Oh, faith, father, a-trying to pull the wool over me eyes, a-trying to make us believe yez wants the money to buy coal to heat the church, an' yer riverence knows it's heated by steam!"—Exchange.

Art's Elder Days.

All the works of art buried in an Egyptian tomb were intended to last 10,000 years. That intention governed the artists and reeked upon the style of the art of Egypt. It is a most important fact—perhaps the most important and fundamental fact that the student of Egyptian art has to remember. There was no place for passion in such an art, none for grace, none even for charm. Each figure had merely to be made lucid—plainly occupied about its business or visibly shaped in the form required, and that was all. The art of the Egyptian tomb was to serve a useful purpose, not to please. — Sir Martin Conway in North American Review.

The Contrast.

The elderly bride regarded in the mirror her wreath of orange blossoms, her gown of ivory satin and old valenciennes and her long rope of perfect pearls.

"There's only one trouble about fine clothes," she murmured. "They make one's face look so shabby."—New York Press.

Did His Best.

A Baltimore man was recently showing his nice new opera hat to his little nephew, and when he caused the top piece to spring open three or four times the youngster was delighted.

A few days thereafter the uncle, during a visit to the same household, brought with him a silk hat of the shiny, noncollapsible kind. When he was about to leave the house he encountered the aforesaid youngster running down the hall with what looked like a black accordion.

"Uncle Ed," observed the boy, "this one goes awfully hard. I had to sit on it, but even then I couldn't get it more than half shut."

The Duel.

Gaston burst like a whirlwind in upon his friend Alphonse. "Will you be my witness?" he cried.

"Going to fight?"

"No; going to get married."

Alphonse after a pause inquired "Can't you apologize?"—Argonaut.

Two Tragedies.

To a woman there are two tragedies. One is not getting the man she loves; the other is getting him. The first is resignation, the second disillusion.—New York Herald.

Ladies and Gents.

When I was younger kids were kids in Kansas or in Cadiz. Now all the boys are gentlemen and all the girls ladies. Where are the kids who climbed the trees, the tousled young can-rousters who got their faces black with dirt and tore their little trousers? Where are the lads who scrappered by rounds while other lads kept tallies, the maids who made their ples of mud and danced in dirty alleys? They're making calf love somewhere now, exchanging cards and kisses. They're all fixed up in Sunday togs, and they are sirs and misses. Real kids have vanished from the world, which fact is surely hades, and all the boys are gentlemen, and all the girls are ladies.—Walt Mason in Emporia Gazette.

Going Too Far.

At a school exhibition a juvenile elocutionist got up to recite the first piece of his life. He was ambitious. He wished to make a great success of his piece, and he had been told by his teacher that the secret of elocution was the gesture—for every phrase its fitting gesture. The opening line of the boy's selection was, "The comet lifts its tail of fire." The overzealous boy, to fit its proper gesture to this line, lifted up the tail of his coat and held it out in a horizontal position.

Haled.

"Does that young woman hail from Boston?"

"Yes," answered the western youth thoughtfully, "that expresses the idea precisely. She hails from Boston. I was never before overtaken by such a heavy downfall of intellectual ice."

Clocks.

It is not generally appreciated that clocks of the present type, although used as far back as the twelfth century and possibly earlier, were but fair timekeepers until several centuries later. In fact, it has been only within recent years that really accurate clocks have been manufactured. Those which the astronomers used in their observations at the end of the fifteenth century were so unreliable that modified forms of the water clocks of the ancients were often employed as checks upon them. Galilei's discovery of the isochronism of the pendulum from the swinging chandelier in the church of Pisa was of great value in its application to the measurement of time. The inventions of the mercurial and compensating pendulums have aided materially in cutting down the errors of the running rate and controlling the motions of clock mechanism.—New York World.

An Old Idea.

Macaulay was not the first man to frame the famous image of the man of a new civilization standing amid the ruins of that which we know today. Long before he wrote of his traveler from New Zealand meditating upon London bridge Mrs. Barbauld had used the same image, with the difference that she applied it to Blackfriars bridge. An earlier reviewer had used it in an article published in 1767, we are told by an English commentator, and Horace Walpole says in one of his letters, "At last some curious traveler from Lima will visit England and give a description of the ruins of St. Paul's."

TIME TO ACT

Don't Wait for the Fatal
Stages of Kidney Illness
Profit by Greenville
People's Experience.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect this ill. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy--puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Greenville prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. J. F. Stokes, Cor. Twelfth and Evans Sts., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered severely from kidney complaint. The kidneys were very irregular in action and at times caused me great annoyance. I had bearing down pains through my abdomen and sharp shooting twinges through my loins causing me untold misery. There was a tender spot across my kidney regions and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney pills and was so much impressed that I procured them at Wooten's drug store. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and limbs, restored the secretions to a regular and normal condition and at present I am feeling a great deal better in every way. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for the great improvement in my condition."
