AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Jan. 26, 1909.

Mrs. J. T. Harris after spending several days visiting the family of her father, J. S. Hines has returned to her home in Washington.

Mrs. Bessie Daugherty, of Winterville, spent last Friday with Mrs. Guy Taylor.

Mrs. Davenport, of Rocky Mount, has been here on a visit to friends.

Cotton is slowly coming in. There seems to be but little left in the country.

J. W. Glenn is a hustler. Though the tobacco market closed some time since he keeps on buying the filthy weed. He has bought several large lots recently.

Mrs. Willingham is conducting a series of Bible readings in the Christian church daily.

The infant child of Edgar Sumrell, near here, died Friday and was buried Saturday. We extend sympathy to the bereaved parents and friends.

Wanted—15 or 20 good reliable, sober young men to travel. Good salary guaranteed. Easy work. Apply to Hart & Fleming, Ayden, N. C. 1 26 tld 1mw

Dr. L. C. Skinner, of Greenville, was here Monday.

Tar River lodge, K. of P. of Greenville, has invited Eureka lodge K. of P. of Ayden, to affiliate with them in their entertainment of the district lodge which meets in the farmer place some time in April next.

$200 per acre is no small sum to pay for land. Yet some of our farmer friends have been offered that much.

J. Carl Jones spent Sunday at Granzers.

R. W. Smith and H. C. Ormond spent Sunday with relatives in Ormondsville, and they tell us they see more farm work done than any January in many years. Some are ready to plant.

John T. Thorne and Townsend of Farmville, were in our town Monday. They are negotiating a real estate purchase, which if their plans materialize, will put a hustle on our merchants and business men.

Epenetus Hardee and wife, spent Sunday in town with their daughter Mrs. Ada Ormand.

Prof. John Coward, principal of Ormondsville High school, spent Sunday in town as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fletcher spent Sunday in Ayden.

Exum Dail left Saturday for Lucama, where he was happily married on Sunday to Miss Maud Newsome, Rev. R. F. Pittman, officiating. Mr. Dail is one of our most prosperous young business men and very popular in social circles. Miss Maud, his lovely bride, is most attractive, possessing all those rare qualities which are essential in rendering his beautiful home on Lee street, the place of enchanting felicity. We congratulate each on their wise choice.

Notice—To all suffering with their eyes, Dr. A. K. Hawks, of Atlanta, will be at the store of J. R. Smith Co., Feb. 6th. Come have your eyes treated and fitted free.

Please Take Notice.

I have been reliably informed that some of my Winterville friends are circulating that those who sell me their cotton seed will be robbed ten pounds out of every hundred. Now the one who circulates this is a liar and a thief and the truth is not in

THIS CHORUS GIRL TO WED A COUNT.

There is some class to a chorus girl who can boast of being a daughter of a famous portrait painter of Rome, a lineal descendant of Italian royalty and the fiancée of a Hungarian Count. This unusual distinction is enjoyed by Miss Louise Montague of the Herald Square (comic) Opera Company, which will appear tonight at the Masonic Temple opera house in "A Trip to India."

The young lady, whose real name is Montagna, is the daughter of Signor Guiseppe Montagna, a noted Venetian artist and distant blood relative of the present King of Italy. Her musical education began at an early age and progressed so rapidly that the year 1905 saw her singing a part in "Beauty and the Beast," at the Grand Opera House in San Francisco. Miss Montague survived the memorable earthquake which visited that ill-fated city on April 18th, of that year, and afterwards appeared in several of Broadway's greatest musical successes.

Last year she went abroad and while filling an operatic engagement in Monte Carlo, met one Count Malnow Kosciowski, of Hungary, to whom she subsequently became engaged.

Miss Montague happened to be under contract with the Herald Square Company and last May she returned to this country to fill the engagement. At its conclusion she will retire from the stage and go direct to Rome where she will wed Count Kosciowski, after which the pair will go to the Kosciowski ancestral estate near Budapest to live.

In reality Miss Montague is not a chorus girl, for the role of Alt the Queen of Altari, is one of the most important singing and speaking parts in "A Trip to India."

COX'S MILL ITEMS.

Cox's Mill, Jan. 25, 1909.

J. M. Cox, Jr., is building a new store. We are glad to see it going up.

James Williams is not any better at this time, but we hope he will soon recover.

Mrs. Lawrence Moore, Mrs. Bettie Moore and Mrs. L. F. Everett all spent last Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moore near Haddock's X Roads.

Miss Bessie Moore spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Allie Cox.

Miss Nancy Mills spent last Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Martha Moore near Galloways X Roads.

Oscar Evans went to Winterville Friday.

Change in Postoffice.

B. C. Pearce, Jr., who for several years was a clerk in the postoffice here and a very efficient one, has taken a position in the railway mail service, and at present his headquarters are at Hamlet. D. C. Dudley succeeds him as clerk in the postoffice here.

him. Any party or parties who would do this will steal and no liar or thief can enter the kingdom of Heaven. I buy seed on an honest principle and invite honest competition, but I never know where to look for one who will stab me in the dark.

THE LEGISLATURE.

What Our Law Makers Are Doing at Raleigh.

SEVENTEETH DAY.

SENATE.

The senate was all right for work Monday after its holiday of Saturday, and got down to business at 11 o'clock. There was a long list of new bills, but most of them were of a local nature.

Senator Blow introduced an act relating to the Eastern Training school; Senator Elliott, an act requiring Superior court clerks to report to the attorney general.

HOUSE.

The house met at noon. Among the new bills were the following:

By Haymore: To amend the constitution as to poll tax and extend educational qualification to 1916.

By Hinsdale: To amend the law as to the sale of cocaine, morphine and opium.

By Davis: To prevent breaking the Sabbath.

By Weaver: To establish a training school for teachers in Western North Carolina.

Fifty Years and Still Good.

The Windsor Ledger has the following to say of Harry Lindley and his company who played in that town last week:

"The popular comedian, playwright and Confederate soldier, Harry Lindley, with one of the best company of performers he ever carried, played two nights in our opera house this week—Tuesday and last night. Mr. Lindley is the best comedian and oldest actor ever been here. He has been on the road fifty years, and has played in nearly every state in the Union and in Canada and Europe. He is very popular with our people and always receives a good house. On this trip he has the best support he has ever brought here."

Beginning Thursday night of this week this company will play three nights in Greenville, with a matinee Saturday afternoon.

A Bad Catch.

Hurrying out on hearing a commotion, I found that it was my little three-year-old sister, Muriel, whose cap and hair were covered with blood. As soon as I had bathed her head and quieted her, I asked her the cause of the accident.

"I threw that brick up for God to catch," was the reply, "and He didn't catch it."—The February Delineator.

Convocation at Winterville.

The convocation of New Bern will hold its second meeting at Winterville, beginning tonight and continuing through the 28th. A large attendance is expected and the meetings will be of much interest. Rev. J. H. Brown, of New Bern, will preach the opening sermon tonight. Rev. F. N. Skinner, of Beaufort, is Dean of the convocation.

Convict Camp Increased.

Superintendent Joe McLawhorn was here Monday morning to take out twenty-three prisoners to the convict camp that were sentenced at the recent term of court. This gives him a total of forty-two prisoners now on the road gang.

For Sale—12 houses and lots in the town of Greenville. Rents will pay 12 per cents on investment. W. H. C. x. 1 22 4td.

HOW DREAMS COME TRUE.

Work That is Unselfish Brings Fullest Realization.

You have your dream. No doubt you would like to live in a castle and wear fine clothes and be a lady or gentleman of great significance. There is only one way to achieve this. Help the world to make some of its many other dreams, which are not so very different from your own, come true, and it will help you to realize yours. Every dream, you know, has work behind it for some one. If you want a castle, some one has to build it. If you want a dress, some one has to weave it. Therefore your way is to work for some one else in the best way you can, and in turn some one else will work for you. You will be paid. And out of your pay, if your work is good, all the things which you desire, the dreams which you want to come true, will come true.

Mind you, the world rarely gives us exactly what we want. And, also, we rarely want what we thought we wanted, after we have it. Nevertheless, the dreams of the world, such as they are—your dreams and mine—are really achievable, and the regular shops and factories and trades and professions, which are all about us, show us the way. Work is the answer—giving the world what it wants by sowing, reaping, manufacturing, distributing. Get in on that, showing what you can do as a maker of dreams come true, and the world will quickly respond and your own will become a reality.—The February Delineator.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

J. W. Cahoon, a blind man living near New Bern, walked into an open draw on Neuse river bridge, and falling to the water below was drowned. He leaves a wife and several children.

E. C. Suther, who lived near Concord, committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast.

The Southern Railway has considerably reduced its working force in the shops at Spencer.

The graded schools of New Bern have been temporarily closed because of an outbreak of scarlet fever.

Opera House Tonight.

The Herald Square Opera Company arrived on the midday train today from Rocky Mount where they played to a large audience last night. The advance sale indicates a good sized audience here tonight. The performance is highly commended.

The manager of the opera house at Rocky Mount telephoned to Manager R. Williams today that the people there were delighted with the opera.

Change of R. F. D. Route.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25—Rural free delivery route No. 5 at Grifton, Pitt county, has been transferred to Ayden and designated as route No. 2.

Stock of Mdse. For Sale.

The stock of general merchandise in Farmville, N. C., in store recently occupied by M. Smith & Bro., must be sold at once. For terms &c., apply to J. B. James, Assignee, Greenville, N. C. Jan. 18, 1909. 1 18 tld

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

Mrs. J. S. Tunstall is visiting in Kinston.

C. W. Harvey left this morning for Richmond.

Mrs. J. S. Mooring went to Bethel this morning.

H. T. King is sick with fever at his home in West Greenville.

G. G. Fineman, H. B. Harris and C. L. Wilkinson went to Ayden today.

MR. YOUNG MAKES REPLY.

Says Committee Did Him a Gross Injustice.

Insurance Commissioner Young was asked yesterday as to what he had to say about the report of the legislative auditing committee. He said that the report had been referred to a special committee of the legislature and he did not care to make any formal statement at this time. That the report as fled was inaccurate in many respects and did him a gross injustice. The book referred to in the report as a "vest-pocket memorandum," he said, was a book four and a half inches by seven inches and at least an inch in thickness; that the committee did not accuse him of dishonesty, but claimed that his books were not kept by double entry. Mr. Young said it is true the books are kept by single entry, but they are accurate—show amounts received and disbursed and are as well kept as any books of the kind and amount of business therein kept by a bookkeeper getting $750 per annum, the amount allowed to the department for the employment of a bookkeeper.

The committee, he said were thoroughly conversant with this and yet checked them for two years and found not a discrepancy that reflected upon the commissioner or his bookkeeper, nor a copper discrepancy.

"The committee," said Mr. Young, "differs with the commissioner in the interpretation of some of the insurance laws, but after all this is for the decision of the Attorney General, and will be submitted to him."—Raleigh News & Observer.

WANT LAW CHANGED.

Mecklenburg Camp Veterans Ask for Other Pension Regulation.

The Mecklenburg Veterans want a change in the pension law. Sunday's Charlotte Observer says:

At a meeting of Mecklenburg Camp, U. C. V. yesterday, at which a large number of the old soldiers was present, a committee was appointed consisting of Drs. F. O. Hawley and J. B. Alexander, Messrs. W. R. Cochran and C. B. Sykes and Judge Armistead Burwell, to take action with other camps in the State in regard to having the laws relating to pensioning veterans and their widows changed. The desire is to secure the adoption of a law which will allow pensions to be continued to widows in case of the death of the veterans without interruption or alteration.

A good deal of agitation has been stirred up on this question all over the State, or in many sections of it, and it is beyond doubt that strong influences will be brought to bear upon the legislature to make the desired change in the law.

You can get ready to watch next Tuesday. That will be ground hog day.

This is the last week in January, and many who read this have not yet squared accounts for last year.

Mrs. Carrie Nation is to appear on a variety stage in London. Poor London! What sin has she committed to deserve such affliction?

You want to do everything you can to help Greenville forward, therefore put your shoulder to the wheel and join every movement for advancement.

Governor Kitchin will no doubt make as good a governor on the present salary as if there had been an increase, but may not get altogether as much pleasure out of it.

The Sun says Durham is going to have a new municipal building far superior to the one recently burned. We have no doubt of that. Durham is wide awake to improvements.

Possibly that 90-mile horse back ride of the president was an effort to get as far away from congress as possible and get back home in time for supper. He might take such a trip every day the remainder of his term without much loss to the nation.

Did you ever stop to think that it will be less trouble to you, and less expense when you count lost time, to subscribe for The Daily Reflector at a cost of a cent a day than to borrow it from your neighbor? Some people have a peculiar idea of economy.

Those towns that are clamoring for "medical depositories" where whiskey can be sold, ought to get quiet on that subject. The State has spoken emphatically as regards prohibition and there should be no evasion of the law to permit the sale of liquor.

The King's Daughters have undertaken the commendable move of securing a rest-room in Greenville—a room set apart for the convenience of the women of the neighboring country who come here to spend the day shopping or on pleasure. The Reflector long ago argued the needs of such a room here, and thought it was about to be secured through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, but jealousy among certain business men over the suggested location of such a rest room, because it was nearer to some stores than to others, killed the movement for the time being. Now that the King's Daughters have revived the matter and are moving to make it a success, we hope

 The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Few people realize the value of the carefully kept files of their county newspaper. We believe it would in the long run pay every man in the county to put away and keep every copy of his home paper he receives, as some day they may be of great value to him. Of course in every well regulated newspaper office a file of the paper is kept. Only a day or two ago a man came to The Reflector and wanted to know something about a legal advertisement that was published in 1890—over eighteen years ago—and having the papers bound in books and labeled it was only a matter of a few minutes time to show him what he was looking for.

The man who stops his newspaper to save a dollar is practicing doubtful economy. A dollar can be invested in no way to bring better returns than by subscribing for some good paper. Let your home paper come first, and then follow with as many more afterwards as you can afford.—Albemarle Enterprise.

 The regular retail price of these tires is $3.50 per pair, but to introduce you will...
NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES
 Nails, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.
DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $3.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.00 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented. We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.50 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

So Sore He Swore;
He Swears No More.

There was a Merchant mighty sore—
In fact, so sore he swore and swore
And kept on swearing more and more.

The trouble was that folks, instead
Of patronizing him, by Ned!
Were buying goods by mail, he said.

One day he got a little hint
On how to make his store a mint;
Then hope took on a rosy tint.

He came and ADVERTISED his stock;
His store was crowded, chuck-a-block,
From seven until six o'clock.

So now this Merchant swears no more;
No longer is he feeling sore,
Since ADVERTISING crowds his store.

THREE PAINTERS.

The Story of a Murder Committed in the Name of Art.

Three painters, Andrea Castagno, Alessio Baldovinetti and Domenico Veneziano, received commissions from Folco Portinari, the father of Dante's Beatrice, to decorate the refectory and chapel of the Church of Santa Maria Nuova. Baldovinetti, seeing that the young foreigner, Domenico, had brought to his work a new medium, watched him closely, and, nothing daunted, he, too, concocted a formula which he thought the same as Domenico's, and, forsaking the classic tempera, with which up to that time all Florentines had painted, he covered his allotment with figures done so that they were most beautiful for a short time, but soon faded away. This departure caused the jealous and intollerant Andrea Castagno to ridicule poor Baldovinetti, but in his heart he was sore over the triumph of the young boy Venetian, and he determined to find out the secret of his medium. To this end he made friends with Domenico and suggested that, since they were engaged upon the same work, they might conveniently share a lodging. Castagno, who was known to be of a morose and surly disposition, astonished people by his change of manner. He learned to play the lute, in which art Domenico was also an expert, and, donning the jaunty habit of a Florentine dandy, the two went about serenading and taking part in the gay pranks Domenico had learned in Venice. But the secret of the medium remained unknown, and Andrea was only able to discover that Domenico ground his colors in oils.

As Domenico's pictures neared completion they attracted more and more notice for their brilliant luster, which seemed to make the flesh of men and women throb and pulsate. His draperies, too, were painted in colors which the tempera painters could not produce. All Florence went mad over Domenico, and Andrea was forced to listen to the praise and admiration poured out for Domenico while he worked unnoticed upon his "Last Supper" on an adjoining scaffolding. Andrea was much the greater artist. This was conceded. His drawing was more perfect, but for the moment no lines could make up for the brilliant color which Domenico produced.

Andrea grew more gay, more affectionate in his treatment of Domenico, and the latter, suspecting nothing, opened his heart to the older man. One evening when, as usual, Domenico took down his lute and threw his long cloak across his shoulder preparatory to a stroll he called to Andrea in vain. An excuse that a commission of some moment had to be completed and the lateness of the hour finally satisfied Domenico, who went off alone. He had scarcely left the door when Andrea dashed out and, slinking along a dark alley, met Domenico at a street corner. Crashing into him and shattering the lute, he brained him with a plummet which he had snatched from his designing table. —Helen Zimmern in Metropolitan.

Causes of Blindness.

The dangers to which the modern eye is exposed fall into two great classes—disease and overuse from near work. Here another great consoling fact faces us, and that is that while overwork and consequent eye strain are by far the commonest troubles that befall the modern eye, discomfort and inefficiency are as far as they go in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. It is a fact that 99.9 per cent of all blindness is due to disease and not to overwork. More significant yet, seven-tenths of the diseases which produce blindness are the acute infections, against which civilization wages an unceasing and victorious conflict.—Woman's Home Companion.

Tricks of the English Music Trade.

There is an immense amount of trickery in the music trade.

Take the case of the "pieces" which are usually chosen by masters and mistresses for their pupils. The latter are charged 18 pence or more for what the former got for about sixpence or less.

Then again, conductors of bands at seaside places, and so on, perpetually include in their programs "catchy" pieces, which are afterward, in the published version, taken around among the auditors by boys, who sell vast quantities in this way, the conductor clearing about ninepence on every copy sold.—London Home Chat.

State of Franklin.

In 1784 North Carolina ceded her western lands to the United States. The inhabitants of what is now east Tennessee, piqued at being thus disposed of, met in convention and organized a separate state, which they called Franklin, or Frankland. North Carolina repealed the act of cession, hoping that that might mend matters. But party spirit ran high. Armed collision took place, and the "state of Frankland" received its death blow.—New York American.

What He Caught.

"When I was a boy," said a railroad official, "I was awful fond of fishing. My father had a rule of letting us go fishing Saturday afternoon, provided we split up enough cord wood to do over Sunday. I shall always remember one particular Saturday afternoon, when the sport was the finest I ever had. The water was blue under the June skies, and you could look into the limpid depths and see the big bass moving about, just aching for a book to strike them. I never knew fish to bite better in my life. Why, they actually—"

"But what did you catch?" asked a listener impatiently.

"Who, me? Oh, I caught a hickling. You see, I had failed to chop the wood."—Indianapolis Star.

SINGING BOYS OF JENA.

Outgrowth of Age of Bacchantes or Wandering Students.

Hundreds of years ago the streets of Jena and other German towns used to echo to the songs of black robed monks, who went from door to door singing and begging alms. Their example was followed by bands of poor students, known as bacchantes. These bacchantes wandered from one university to another in search of better instruction or better means of support. Such a wandering life was favored by the customs of times when people thought it a virtue to give freely to all persons seeking help, but especially to monks and students.

The bacchantes had with them younger traveling scholars, known as skirmishers, who were to receive instruction in return for certain services. The younger skirmisher had to wait upon his bacchante, beg and even steal for him, and for the most part he was very tyrannically used. But as he was a waif without other protection he had to make the best of matters.

After the reformation in many places these orphan boys, or waifs, were banded into organized choirs, who received pay from churches, but also were assisted by private subscription. It was their duty to sing not only in the churches, but before the houses of their patrons as well. Thus they ceased to be beggars. Martin Luther himself as a boy had been one of these singers, and it was largely due to his influence that the old custom of begging entirely passed away. There is a famous picture of Luther as a singing boy in Eisenach, where his song attracted the attention of the good Frau Cotta, who adopted and educated him.

Nowadays the old custom of the choir boys' singing from house to house is fading away. There are only five other towns beside Jena in the whole German empire where this music can be heard. Once each year the singing boys go to Eisenach and sing before the emperor in the great hall of the historic castle of the Wartburg, where the minnesingers held their music battles.

There are just twenty of the Jena singing boys, five each of the ages eleven, twelve, thirteen and fourteen years. They are orphans, and the only qualifications for the privilege of four years' board and schooling are good character, ability to sing and obedience to the laws of the organization, one of which requires them to sing before the houses of their patrons.—St. Nicholas.

Her Correction.

"Father, I wish I knew why they laughed at my corrected sentence in English class today," exclaimed a high school girl recently. Her father looked up from his evening paper and asked what the sentence was.

"Well, Miss West gave us each a sentence to correct, and mine was, 'I went to the tonsorial parlors to get a hair cut.'"

"And how did you correct it?" asked the father.

"Why, I corrected it the only way you could correct it, of course, and Miss West just doubled up laughing when she read it, and then she read it aloud, and every one in the class shouted. They didn't know it was my sentence, but I did."

"But what did you write?" "Why, father! What would any one write? I wrote, 'I went to the tonsorial parlors to get my tonsils cut,' of course!"—Youth's Companion
