FOR DEEPENING TAR RIVER.

Congressman John H. Small Active in This Enterprise.

Recently Mr. J. R. Davenport, of Pactolus, wrote a letter to Congressman John H. Small relative to the question of a deeper channel on Tar river, which has been more or less discussed in late months. The following extracts from the letter Congressman Small wrote in reply to Mr. Davenport will be read with much interest, as it indicates his interest in the matter and the steps being taken to secure the object desired;

"First as to Pamlico river. We already have a completed project of nine feet with a channel only one hundred feet wide. It is necessary to have greater width in order to accommodate the larger class of shipping there, and at least an additional foot more of depth in order to correspond with the depth of the proposed inland waterway.

"Now as to Tar river above Washington. It is my purpose to secure as large a depth as practicable as far as Greenville by dredging. It would be useless to attempt to have project depth adopted which would require the construction of locks and dams. Col. J. Bryan Grimes and his brother, Alston Grimes, have insisted that there was already about nine feet from Washington to Grimesland, with the exception of two shoals, and I have been informally advised by the engineer that a greater depth than four or five feet up to Greenville cannot be maintained except by locks and dams.

"However, I had a hearing before the house committee on river and harbors some days ago, and as a result I determined not to ask for any particular depth on Tar river between Washington and Greenville, but for the greater available depth with appropriate width. With an authorization of this kind I shall insist, and I shall ask the people of Pitt to co-operate with me to that end, that engineer shall recommend just as great a depth up the river as far as Greenville as can be secured and maintained without the necessity of locks and dams. I feel that this is a better form for the legislation, and will enable the engineer to make a report consistent with the conditions as he finds them, and I hope this will meet your approval, as well as the other citizens on the river above Grimesland.

"I thank you for your confidence in my loyalty to my constituents, and I have no greater ambition than to attempt to deserve that confidence. I am glad for any of my people at any time to write me for information, or by way of criticism, or by way of suggestion, in order to enable me to serve them more effectually.

"I hope during the coming summer to accompany the engineer on a trip up the river, and will be glad to see your people at Pactolus, and also appear before the Chamber of Commerce and other citizens in Greenville. The present prospect is that a river and harbor bill containing this authorization for a survey of Pamlico and Tar rivers will be made this session."

THE LEGISLATURE.

What Our Law Makers Are Doing at Raleigh.

TWENTY-SECOND DAY.

The house disposed of a great number of bills, the calendar of local bills being exhausted and practically every roll call bill passed.

Among the matters of general importance was the passage of the bill by Mr. Currie, of Cumberland, regulating the sale of concentrated commercial feeding stuffs. This follows the general law regulating the sale of fertilizers, requiring a true analysis of the ingredients of the proposed feeds for animals, with the true weight plainly stamped on each package, the supervision of all being under the agricultural department.

Another act of general interest was the bill abolishing the seed test commission placing this matter under the control of the agricultural department.

The joint resolution requesting the senators and representatives in congress to vote for a law by which the national government could aid the States and counties in constructing post roads was unanimously passed.

An important bill which was laid on the table, was a senate bill authorizing the governor to appoint a commission to confer with similar commissions in other States looking to securing uniformity of legislation in divorce and other laws entirely within the jurisdiction of the States.

The house committee had amended the bill by striking out the section carrying a provision that the expenses of the members of the commission should be paid by the State.

On this account the bill was laid on the table without objection.

Several bills of interest to banks were passed.

This Farmer Works.

Talking about the good open weather that has prevailed up to now, Mr. J. B. Speight, of Contentnea, told us Saturday that he has taken advantage of it. Since December first himself and two sons have cut down twenty acres of new land, pulled the stumps and have half of it ready for cultivation. That beats the habit of many farmers who waste all the time between gathering one crop and planting the next one. Mr. Speight also recently put up 5,000 pounds of meat and his barns are filled with corn. There are good times ahead at his house.

Lost Three Fingers.

County Commissioner N. T. Cox told us today of a serious accident to his little boy, aged 12 years, that occurred a few days ago. The little fellow was out with another boy who was chopping about a stump with an axe. While Mr. Cox's son was walking around the stump he slipped down, in an effort to keep from falling threw out his left hand on the stump just as the larger boy was bringing down the axe. The blade of the axe struck his hand and cut off three fingers.

Steamer Lost—Fate of Crew Unknown

Elizabeth City, N. C., Jan. 30.—The Diamond Shoals lightship reports an unknown steamer foundered during the storm today, about three miles northwest of the lightship. No boats from the steamer or wreckage is to be seen and the fate of the crew is not known.

The wind is blowing at the rate of 45 miles an hour and the sea is rough. The steamer City of Savannah which passed Cape Lookout bound south this morning reports Cape Lookout lightship off her station.

Norfolk, Va., Jan 30.—Meagre information has been obtained here of the foundering of an unknown apparently American steamer, about three miles off Diamond Shoals lightships, with presumably all lives on board lost.

A wireless dispatch from Cape Hatteras reports "Unknown steamer from one to three miles off Diamond Shoals lightship went down this morning." At this time it cannot be said if the foundered vessel is a passenger or freight steamer.

RECORD OF THE TURK

Has Won and Lost More Land Than Any Other Nation.

ONE TIME A WORLD BUGBEAR.

Then the Tide Turned, and One Great Misfortune Followed Another Till He Was Almost Swept Out of Europe by the Treaty of Berlin.

The "Terrible Turk," who may be taken as typifying the empire of the sultans, holds one record at least which he is not likely to be deprived of. He has won and lost more territory than any other nation.

There was a time when the sultan was the bugbear of the world. Even little children in England shook in their shoes when they heard his name mentioned, and those people who lived anywhere near him dared not call their lives their own.

But at last the tide turned. The Turk began to lose, and one great misfortune followed another.

Spain was the first big bit of the Turkish empire to break free. The Moors, who were subject and paid tribute to the sultan, were driven from province after province until at length they were cooped up in the solitary kingdom of Granada.

The last Moorish king to reign in Spain was Boabdil-el-Chaco, or Boabdil the Unlucky. In 1492 Ferdinand and Isabella, the king and queen of Aragon and Castile, declared war on him, and in 1492 he had to surrender everything.

Hungary, which now forms half of the dual monarchy of the Emperor Francis Joseph, was a province of the sultan for 150 years. Then it was torn from him by the sword.

After this came the turn of the czars. The Russians, whom he once despised, have been the Turk's worst enemies. They have either robbed him themselves or encouraged others to rob him.

Peter the Great set the example, but was not, on the whole, very successful in his wars against the Moslems. At one time the Turks could have captured and massacred Peter and his army, but were frustrated by the slave girl, Catherine, whom Peter had married.

Catherine the Great tore the Crimea from the unhappy Turk, together with thousands of square miles of territory along the shores of the Caspian.

In 1821 the Greeks, who had been slaves of the sultans for many centuries, rose in rebellion and drove the Turks out of the country. But then the Greek leaders began to quarrel among themselves, and civil war followed. The Turk took the opportunity to seize the country once more.

But the massacres and other horrors which followed aroused Europe. In 1827 the Turkish fleet was destroyed at Navarino. The combined fleets of Britain, France and Russia took part in the operation.

In 1830 Greece was acknowledged as a free and independent kingdom, with a king of its own.

For nearly a century Egypt, which the Turk conquered in 641, has been part of the sultan's empire in little more than name, and since 1882, when the English occupied Pharaoh's country after Arabi Pasha's rebellion, the Turk has had practically nothing to do with Egypt.

The Moorish corsairs who had their lair in the pirate city of Algiers acknowledged the sultan as their suzerain, but were defiantly independent as regarded all the rest of the world.

Their swift sailing dhows preyed on the commerce of all Europe, and from start to finish they seized many thousands of white captives, many of whom they ransomed, while others they doomed to slavery.

When asked to keep his practical subjects in order the sultan declared himself helpless to do anything. The freebooters went on doing as they liked for a long time. Then France became weary of patience and forcibly took possession of the city in 1830.

Since then she has annexed 307,980 square miles of Algerian territory once subject to the sultan.

Then came the Turk's worst time. Russia made war on him, and the Balkan states, which had been held as provinces by Turkey for hundreds of years, revolted, flew to arms and did everything they could on the side of Russia. Had the czar been left to himself the Turkish empire would have been practically destroyed. The other great powers, however, were afraid to see Russia too powerful. They insisted on summoning the congress of Berlin.

By the terms of the treaty of Berlin the Turk was almost swept out of Europe. Bosnia and Herzegovina were handed over to Austria to keep in order. Roumania, Servia and Montenegro were declared absolutely independent of him. Bulgaria was created into a principality, nominally under the sultan's suzerainty, but in reality free. And then Austria annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina.—Pearson's Weekly.

Investigation Needed.

The peremptory suspension this morning for two days of several young lady pupils of the graded school, with the threat hanging over them that they will not be re-admitted Wednesday without the signing of certain pledges, has aroused no little indignation among the parents and friends of those suspended. The trustees of the school will be asked to make a full investigation of the matter.—It is due the parents and pupils that this investigation be made as quickly as possible.

The fellow who leaves the door open now is treading on dangerous ground.

If this is to be the weather schedule, the ground hog does not need to try and make it worse.

The cold wave swept over the entire country, even reaching well down into the fruit districts of Florida where much damage will result.

It is beginning to look like they will have to go outside of Tennessee if they ever find enough qualified jurors for the Cooper-Carmack trial.

The suspension of the Greensboro Industrial News, the Republican organ in this State, can be taken as an indication that the party thought it was not doing them much good. Surely the Republicans can support a good paper if they will.

On Saturday there was another conference in Raleigh between officials of the railroads operating in this State and Governor Kitchin to hear the request of the former for a reopening of the passenger rate matter. After a full discussion of the question the decision of the governor was against any reopening. And there the railroads should wisely let the matter rest.

Corn, But Not the Liquid Kind.

A fake blind tiger, it is said, did a thriving business here last Saturday night. The tiger would spot a man whose look betokened great thirst, and approaching the thirsty one would whisper, "Don't you want to buy some corn?" If the man approached expressed a desire to invest his coin in "corn"—and they do say that there were many corn buyers running at large last Saturday night—the purchaser was told to meet the seller at a designated place and time—the time being mighty soon after the deal was made. The seller showed up at the appointed place and time named with a pint or a quart of corn and got his money for it at the high price of 50 cents a pint. There was not so much fake about the transaction after all, for it was not corn juice that was sold, but just plain corn, sound and fit for use. And they do say further that there was no cheating as to quantity, no short weight or measure, full and fair measure being given. A pint of good clean white corn for half a dollar. The price was high to be sure, but those who bargained for pure corn have no kick coming, because they did not get corn juice. —Monroe Journal.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The bill providing for a constitutional amendment looking to the abolition of the office of solicitor and substituting therefor that of county attorney seems to us to be worthy of very serious consideration. A prosecuting attorney needs to be "on the ground." He needs to be acquainted with local conditions. That he can't be unless he lives in the community. And with prosecuting attorneys made county officers, the troublesome problem of compensation would be made vastly easier. For with much greater ease than is now the case the pay could be made commensurate with the work. —Greensboro Telegram.

A Knoxville alderman has introduced an ordinance directing against the electric railroad company of that city, in which it charged that some of the cars operated on the streets "are not large enough to comfortably accommodate ladies equipped with the present fashionable headgear." If the public is determined to prosecute electric railway companies to the point of persecution, it needn't go further than to require them to build cars sufficiently large to enable two of the latter day ladies' hats to occupy one car seat at the same time. —Chattanooga Times.

Wabby and Weak Versus Solid and Strong.

Water can't rise above its level.

Nor can a community rise above the level of its citizenship.

If the citizens are lukewarm, limp and lazy, the town will be wishy-washy, wabby and weak.

If the citizens have VERTEBRA, VIM AND VIGOR, the town will be substantial, solid and strong.

Let's all brace up and make this town of ours a place of energy, ambition and enterprise.

A LEGEND OF MEXICO

The Mermaid Malinche and Her Haunted Springs.

LURE OF THE WATER SPRITE.

To See This Fabled Custodian of the Royal Jewels of the Ancient Aztecs Is to Die and Help the Siren Guard the Hidden Treasures.

Malinche, or Malintze, as some of the old Mexican writers spell it, is the water sprite, the mermaid, who lives in two famous springs in Mexico that are said to be connected by natural underground waterways.

She is invisible to all except those who never return to tell the tale, yet it is easy to see her, they say.

In the daytime Malinche lives in the little spring bed pool just within the iron gates of Chapultepec. Here she is a sweet spirit, always wooing the passerby with the music of her gentle voice.

At nighttime she is miles away, and her voice is wicked and mournful. It will add interest to this legend of the Malinche if the traveler when he starts out to visit Chapultepec for the first time will pause at the Cuauhtemoc statue in the second glorieta of the Paseo and take a long look at it, not only because it is a noble work of art, but because this Indian hero was the last ruler of his race, the Aztecs, and in the final struggle called Malinche to his aid.

A bronze relief in the base of the pedestal on which the statue stands shows the chief being tortured to compel him to reveal the hiding place of the wealth of his kingdom. Cuauhtemoc's stoical bearing rebukes the complainings of his comrade, whose feet are also roasting over the slow fire in the brasero beneath them, and when he at last cries out in anguish Cuauhtemoc reproves him. "For shame, faint heart. Do you think I am taking my pleasure in my bath that you appeal to me?"

The magnificent old cypress trees that surround the rock of Chapultepec on a slightly lower level than the spring were old before the conquest, and among them Cuauhtemoc and his plumed and painted warriors guided their canoes to the enchanted spring when they came to quench their battle thirst. Protected by these brave old trees, Cuauhtemoc climbed the rocks and from the heights watched the maneuvers of his enemies on the lakes. Close by the storied spring stands the monarch of them all, Montezuma's tree. It is awe inspiring to follow with the eye its rugged bole up over the growth of centuries and try to measure with the mind the history that has been enacted beneath its waving boughs. Perhaps the magic spring at its feet caused it to grow higher and more majestic than its fellows. Here in its shade Montezuma sat and wept when he foresaw his downfall. Here Cuauhtemoc vowed that if he could not overcome the Spaniard he would give the Aztec treasure to Malinche.

She overheard him make this vow and whispered from the fringed brink of the mirroring water that she would receive the trust at the spring of Atzacapotzaco, three or four miles away. This town, whose name looks so unpronounceable to the strangers, but sounds so smooth when uttered by a Mexican, has a little suburb, Zancopoca, that has been made famous by Malinche's spring. It is here that Malinche loses the sweet nature by which she is known at Chapultepec and becomes a wicked spirit. The legend relates that she grew savage because she was set to guard the treasure that Cuauhtemoc secretly conveyed to her when the hour of despair had arrived for his people, though another tradition says that he selected that hiding place because of her wild and brave spirit.

However that may be, it was there that he carried the royal jewels of the Aztecs and much gold and silver when he knew that he was about to be defeated by Cortes. Calling up the Malinche, he gave all into her keeping and then went to his doom. Down deep into the hidden grottoes of her home Malinche dragged the hoarded treasures.

Long passageways connect these chambers and by many tortuous windings reach either spring. The walls of rock crystal and chalcedony have been polished, and worn into fantastic shapes by the running water. These are long, narrow shelves on which the treasure is strewn and glittering stalactites that catch long strings of pearls and emeralds and hold them swaying in the winds of the caves.

Glowworms and electric fishes light the fairy scene, and the water makes constant music, but the Malinche is not happy. If you go near the pool at Zancopoca you will hear her voice lamenting, and often in the nighttime it may be heard afar off. If the unwary traveler pauses to listen he will hear cries of distress and anger and sad moanings that attract him to their relief. He will come nearer and nearer to the spring and, bending down that his ear may be close, he will hear troubled waters rushing among hidden rocks. When his face is above the pool a pair of white arms will rise up out of the water and clasp him about the neck. He is never seen again. He has gone to help the siren guard the treasure of Cuauhtemoc.—Mary Worral Hudson in Mexican Herald.

The Chinese.

The Chinese invented printing, they invented gunpowder, they invented the mariner's compass.

The farmers of China were the first to hatch eggs by means of incubators, and the fishermen of China were the first to hatch fish spawn artificially. Artesian wells are of Chinese origin.

The penal code of China is thousands of years old, and thousands of years old is the Chinese civil service examination that western civilization has at last adopted.

When George Washington's ancestors wandered in the wet, cold weeds of Britain, their naked and shivering chests painted blue, the Chinaman, dressed in splendid silks, lounged in a palace, on a chair of carved teakwood and marble, reading philosophy and drinking from cups of painted porcelain tea of exquisite flavor.

The Call of Companionship.

You often hear a lonesome child say, "I want some one to play with!" Elderly people often become lonesome and want some one to play with, but are afraid to say so.—Aitchison Globe.

An Indefinite Number.

Three-year-old Andrew was in a rather petulant mood, and in order to restore his customary good humor his mother promised him some preserved strawberries if he would be a good boy. Calling a servant, she said:

"Jennie, please give Andrew about four strawberries."

Jennie proceeded to fulfill the wish of her mistress and counted out the berries, "One, two, three, four."

"I want five," protested the child. "But your mother said four," said Jennie.

"Mamma said 'about four,'" replied Andrew.

And he got the fifth.—New York Times.

His Favorite Game Bird.

At a dinner one day, says a writer in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, some men were discussing the merits of different kinds of game birds. One preferred canvas-back duck, another woodcock, and still another thought a quail the most delicious article of food. The discussion and the dinner ended at about the same time.

"Now, Frank," said one of the men to the waiter at his elbow, "what kind of game do you like best?"

"Well, suh, to tell the truf, almost any kind of game suits me, but what I like bes' is an American eagle served on a silver dollar."

How poor are they that have no pictures! What would they ever feel but by DeForest-Shaw prints.

The Welsh Note.

Here is what the Rev. John Evans tells us in reference to the way in which English was taught in Wales in the eighteenth century: "This school had several features unknown in the Welsh school of today. The Welsh note was one indispensable feature. This secured English conversation. It was a smooth piece of wood, like a flat inch rule, with the letters 'W. N.' carved on it. When any one was caught speaking Welsh the Welsh note was immediately handed to him, but the hand which held it at the end of the lesson was the one made to tingle in consequence, so it was a common occurrence for the child who had it to move about from pew to pew, craftily tempting others to speak Welsh. This sign of guilt therefore often changed hands until at last it rested in that which had to bear the burden of all the transgressions of that law."

Disillusioned.

I was once at a ball where a lady to whom I had just been presented said: "Oh, Mr. Barrington, my daughter has fallen madly in love with you! May I introduce you?" I murmured an embarrassed "Certainly," and she turned to a very pretty girl who was standing near, saying, "Marjorie, this is Mr. Rutland Barrington." The girl's face lit up with excitement and pleasure. She took a good look at me and turned away, with a long and disappointed "Oh!" That mother knew something.—From "Rutland Barrington," by Himself.

WILL CHARGE SMALL FEE.

Expenses of the Library Make This Necessary.

At a recent meeting of the End of Century Club, it was decided to charge a fee of $1.00 a year or 10cts, a month, payable in advance, beginning March 1st, for the privilege of reading the books from the library.

The public is aware of the fact that this library was opened and has been run under the auspices of this club as a free library; but the expenses are more than twenty women can meet without more outside help than they have been receiving.

The first two years of the library's existence a few gentleman of the town helped us by subscriptions. And the Board of Alderman have several times been very generous in assisting us, and this year have given $50 which is greatly appreciated, especially as we know of the demands upon their resources. But with this assistance together with our donations, we will not be able to meet the expenses of rent, paying a librarian, and adding new books, unless we have some other help, and we feel sure that all those who enjoy and patronize the library will be willing to pay this small fee.

It is not our desire to deprive anyone of the advantages of the library, so if there is anyone who is unable to pay this fee, if it is reported to the librarian, there will be a special committee to act upon it.

We also wish to state that there will be no fee charged for consulting the reference books; but they are not to be taken out of the library. The length of time to keep the books and the fines will be the same as here-to-fore.

"End of the Century Club."

A STEADY DRAIN.

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body--Make
You Ill, Languid
and Depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life giving albumen from the blood into the urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Greenville cures prove it.

James Hardison, 319 E. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "My kidneys were weak and the secretions passed too frequently, especially at night when I was forced to rise several times. In the morning my back was very lame and I was subject to pains through my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooten's drug store, restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I am now able to sleep well and the lameness and soreness across the small of my back has entirely disappeared. I have found Doan's Kidney Pills to live up to representations and I have no hesitation in giving them my endorsement." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name--Doan's--and take no other.

The Dignified Course.

An army examiner once had a candidate before him who apparently was unable to answer the simplest question. At last the examiner lost his temper and, with sarcastic emphasis, quite lost on the youth before him, said:

"Suppose, sir, that you were a captain in command of a company of infantry; that in your rear was an impassable abyss; that on either side of you towered perpendicular rocks of untraversable height; that before you stood the enemy, a hundred men to each one of yours. What, sir, would you do in this emergency?"

"Sir," said the aspirant to military honors, "I should resign!"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Roorback.

During the presidential campaign of 1844 certain Whig newspapers published an absurd statement derogatory to the Democratic candidate for president, James K. Polk, under the caption, "Baron Roorback's Tour Through the Western and Southern States." The statement was easily disproved and probably did little or no harm to the man attacked. Since then, in American political parlance, the "roorback" has been the campaign lie, particularly the one uttered so soon before election as to make its answer a matter of difficulty.—Argonaut.
