AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., Feb. 2, 1909.

J. J. Stokes has bought out F. Lilly & Co., in the grain, hay and feed business. Mr. Stokes will continue in the same store and our readers may look for a nice ad from him now in a short time. Mr. Lilly hasn't yet decided what he will do during the remainder of the year but will decide later.

W. E. Hooks, engrossing clerk in the State senate, spent from Saturday until Sunday evening here with his family. He reports the senate as getting along finely and thinks it will prove a record breaker.

Rev. Mr. Ticknor conducted services in the Episcopal church here Sunday morning and Rev. Mr. Huske conducted evening services.

Eugene Edwards, a prominent merchant of Hookerton, spent Monday here with the family of his father, J. J. Edwards.

Several of our citizens have been down about Maple Cypress during the past week fishing. They report tolerable fair success among the finny tribe.

Those who wish to pay their town tax will do well to see Chief of Police C. G. Moore.

For Sale—Seine Beach at Pitch Kittle, 2 good boats, 1 flat, seine run 1 year good as new, and full camp outfit. Beach in first class shape. See or write J. R. Smith Co., Ayden, N. C. Terms reasonable.

G. W. B. Garris' residence near the Brooklyn bridge, on West avenue, will soon be ready for the paint brush.

Miss Mamie Dawson, of Grifton, is visiting Misses Blount.

A. D. Williams, of Kenly, and a resident of Ayden, arrived Monday night and will spend a few days in town. Mr. Williams has a great many warm friends in Ayden who will be glad to have him and family return.

Ed Garris, superintendent of Smith & Dixon's factory, showed us a lot of ceiling, flooring and moulding that could not be surpassed in workmanship. It was first class.

Mr. Arthur, of Greenville, was here last week and after visiting our tobacco market, schools, cemetery and factories, said like Queen Esther, who visited King Solomon, "truly half had never been told" him of the hustle and business done in Ayden.

Old booze hides itself in the dark and unseen places these days, but its effects are daily seen and its spirits linger yet anew. It seems loathe to depart and its friends cling close to its shadows and long for its presence as dearly as of yore. They want it, they get it, and have it they will. Prohibition you may call these parts but old drunks still linger and will not depart. If you don't believe items are scarce read the above and we are not in "spirit" either.

Geo. Dail has sold his home on Lee street to W. H. Phillips. Mr. Dail has purchased farm land in the country and will move soon.

Richard Wingate will erect a modern residence on Vinters street near Lambreth Point, in the near future. His plans are not fully developed.

J. M. C. Nelson who returned from Texas last week, tells us he saw the fertile cotton farms, but they did not surpass the lands of the great state of Contentnea, around Ayden.

Mrs. Carrie Faulkner fell from her door steps last week and received injuries from which she

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Wilmington, Jan. 31.—Evidently enraged toward her because she would not consent to return with him to Atlanta, Ga., or surrender to him their 17-month-old child, Edward A. Mizer, a young white man living here for the past six weeks, today at Second and Nun streets, in a prominent residence section, intercepted his young wife, a daughter of John H. Land, a well-known carpenter here, as she was on her way to the First Baptist Sunday school; shot her twice, resulting in her death an hour later at the hospital; then turned the pistol upon himself, blowing his brains out. Both fell on the sidewalk gasping for breath and, being strangers in the vicinity, it was some time before either could be identified.

Fayetteville, N. C., Feb. 1.—Miss Claude Youngblood, the 19-year-old daughter of N. E. Youngblood, a railroad engineer of this city, was burned to death yesterday afternoon as a result of her clothing catching fire from an open stove.

THE LEGISLATURE.

What Our Law Makers Are Doing at Raleigh.

TWENTY THIRD DAY.

Both branches had a quite day Monday with little doing. While the senate had several new bills, none were of more than local interest.

Speaker protem Morton presided over the house. The only bills in the house of general interest were to regulate paying negotiable papers on Saturdays; to amend law as to practice of medicine; to compensate sheriffs for cutting up illicit stills; to allow married women to make contracts as unmarried.

Mountain Lion Kills Baby.

Balboa, Cal., Jan. 31.—A mountain lion crunching the lifeless and mangled body of her 2-year-old boy was the sight that greeted Mrs. Chris Brown last night when she entered the family tent, four miles from the Hotel Delmar, after a short walk. The mother in despair rushed screaming at the beastly slayer of her child. The lion growled savagely and backed slowly out of the rear of the tent, its mouth dripping with the baby's blood, and disappeared. The lion had partly dismembered the child after slaying it. The Brown family arrived from Delaware two weeks ago.

has suffered intense confinement. She is a very industrious lady and all our people extend sympathy.

STILL NO JOB FOR SEAWELL.

Nor Likely to be for a Time—Radicals Rage Round.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—This was the day set aside by the senate judiciary committee for consideration of the nomination of Herbert F. Seawell to be judge of the Eastern Carolina district along with other judicial appointments, and the Republican leaders in the State had planned a coup which they believed would result in the immediate confirmation of the Moore county man.

The radical leaders fell down, the coup took a balloon ascension, and Herbert F. Seawell remains a private citizen, in which capacity he is likely to continue for some time to come.

But back to the coup: Receiver Duncan of the Seaboard was early on the scene at the capitol. In fact it is said he arrived there before the scrub women had made their exit. He busied himself among senators and had a number of his influential friends amongst the senators busy for the time.

Marion Butler, the man who, it is said, "discovered" Seawell and who first presented his claims to the president, had already gotten in his work. Butler is never idle. But the grand climax was a telegram from Judge Jeter C. Pritchard, who is supposed to be discharging his judicial duties somewhere in his district. Judge Pritchard sent a telegram to Senator Clark, the chairman of the senate judiciary committee, in which he urged in strong language the early confirmation of Seawell's appointment. Of course, much of importance was attached to this telegram by the trinity that is backing Seawell for the judgeship, but it did not for a moment disturb the serenity of the senate judiciary committee.

Cognizant of all this high steam present in behalf of the immediate confirmation of Seawell's appointment, the members of the senate judiciary committee assembled in characteristic fashion shortly before noon. Most of them knew of the performances enumerated above and still others that have not been enumerated. Senator Depew allowed as how he was in no hurry to vote for the confirmation of this nomination. He had heard of Mr. Seawell's great prominence in the public prints, and was willing to risk further consideration of the whole matter.

Senator Foraker then came to the bat and declared he favored postponement. He announced that he had in his pocket a letter from a North Carolina lawyer and Republican, one whom he described as among the most learned in the State, who wrote that Seawell was not competent for the judgeship. The opposition to confirmation developed so strongly that it was at once decided to appoint a sub-committee to take under consideration the Seawell appointment.

This committee, which will probably consist of three senators, has not yet been announced by Chairman Clark. There is no hurry about this matter in the Senate, despite the excitement that apparently prevails within the Tar Heel trinity—Butler, Pritchard and Duncan, who are dwelling in perfect peace and harmony for the first time in many years.

Senator Overman, who is a member of the judiciary committee, was present at the meeting today. He took no part in the matter and left the disposition of the whole thing to the Republicans.—Raleigh News and Observer.

OAKLEY ITEMS.

Oakley, N. C., Feb. 2, 1909.

Oakley once more on the carpet.

Ben Jenkins, one of our boys, has opened a nice line of goods in the store recently vacated by E. Carson.

T. A. Manning and family have moved to Williamston. Mr. Manning has been section master at this place the past two years. He accepts a similar position at Williamston. They made many friends while with us.

C. Roebuck and family, of Robersonville, have moved to Oakley. We welcome them.

C. Wynn and family, of Grindool, have moved to our town. We welcome them. Mr. Wynn has associated himself with the Oakly Mfg. Co.

Mrs. F. F. Nelson and children spent last week in Bethel.

Claude Barnhill and wife, of Greenville, visited here last week. Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, of Greenville, visited our school last week. Always glad to see him. We have a school that the management could not be improved such a school is a great help to any locality.

Robert Jenkins went to Robersonville and Falkland last week on business.

Oakley is a good opening for a preacher and a barber. One man can fill both places if he has any spare time. He can get a little shoe work. None but experienced men need apply.

The children of the town were given a party one evening last week. It was a very pleasant evening for all that took part.

Mrs. Susan Piece, of Robersonville, is spending a few days here with her daughter Mrs. C. Wynn.

The farmers are now busy breaking mules and harness.

Mrs. Robert Brown and children, of Washington, was here Monday.

E. Rogers & Co., are now building a new warehouse to better accommodate their extensive business.

G. R. Williamson and wife went to Bath Sunday.

D. S. Powell, of Parmele, was here last week.

Love Surmounts Religion.

Wilmington, Jan. 31.—Miss Tallulah Low DeRosset and Mr. John B. Peschau, prominent young society people here, whose wedding was called off at the last moment last fall because of ecclesiastical differences, the groom being a devout Catholic and the bride a devoted Episcopalian, were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Capt. A. L. DeRosset, on Second street, Father C. Dennen, of St. Thomas church, officiating. Mr. Peschau and bride left this evening for Norfolk, where the groom is a prominent young insurance man.

Sentiment often leads one astray. The proposal to extend the franking privilege to Mrs. Grover Cleveland, which appears in a bill introduced by Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, is gallant toward the lady, and an attempt to express a feeling of respect to the memory of the dead president, but it is entirely unnecessary, and the last thing that either she or her distinguished husband would consider for a moment.—Greensboro Record.

CANE FOR MR. SMALL.

North Carolina Soldier Honor Representative With Gold Headed Cane.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—In appreciation of his interest in the North Carolina National Guard, Representative John H. Small has received a beautiful gold-headed cane inscribed as follows:

"Presented to Hon. John H. Small by the officers and men of the 3rd Infantry, N. C. N. G."

The cane was accompanied by letters from Col. J. N. Craig of Reidsville, of the Third Regiment, and a note from the following committee: S. W. Minor, Lieut. Colonel; J. J. Bernard, Major, and Z. P. Smith, First Lieutenant.

This, it was stated was in recognition of Mr. Small's general interest in the National Guard and more especially for his efforts in behalf of the passage of the Dick bill.

TUESDAY, FEB. 2, 1909.

The cry comes from Georgia that the freeze has killed the early fruit crop. Alas, for the peaches!

If Mr. Taft received the news at Panama that the senate had hung up the confirmation of Crum as collector at Charleston, he no doubt lost his smile for the time being.

The first month of the new year showed the establishment of one new enterprise for Greenville, The Central Mercantile Company. Lets do as well in February and get something else.

Col. Morton's Joke.

We are not disturbed by the move made by Col. Geo. L. Morton, of New Hanover, to have his county exempted from the provisions of the State prohibition law. The Colonel was perhaps afraid the solons would go to sleep for lack of something to do and so sprung his little bill to "restore the right of local self-government to New Hanover." Now, if New Hanover has established a record for anything it is that she does not want "local self-government" carried to its logical conclusion. She had more "local self-government" than she wanted in 1898 and the State was thrown into a ferment to help her out of it.

Questions of purely local effect and concern may well be left to local control, but questions affecting the whole State need to be dealt with by the combined wisdom and power of the whole State. Liquor is an evil that cannot be shut up to an incorporated community. Wilmington's saloons like those of Reidsville did a prosperous business by selling their poison to towns that had declared for prohibition. They made it a business to solicit trade in dry territory and make local prohibition a failure. The good sense of the State has declared itself against this lawlessness.

Col. Morton, of course, does not expect to see New Hanover exempted from the prohibition against barrooms and still houses any more than the laws against contagious diseases. When the people of North Carolina make up their minds to try a thing, they are going to do it. Prohibition has the main track and it is not going to take the New Hanover siding. — Reidsville Weekly.

No Flies on Him.

John D. Rockefeller, at the end of a day's testimony in the government's suit against the Standard Oil Company, talked to a group of reporters. The subject of quick-wittedness came up, and Mr. Rockefeller said:

"As quick-witted a man as I ever knew was one of our drivers — Timothy — back in the business' early days.

"We liked to keep our teams looking nice, and so we instituted an annual prize for the man who could show the best-groomed horses, the cleanest stalls, the brightest harness and so forth.

"Timothy seemed certain of this prize, and when mid-year inspection time came sure enough his splendid work left

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. nothing to be desired.

"But as the inspector took one last look around, just as he had made up his mind to give the prize to Timothy, he frowned, for his eye had fallen on a cobweb in a corner of the gray mare's stall.

"Timothy saw the inspector's face change and saw the cause of the change, and he spoke up briskly:

"I keep that there web there, boss," he said, "to catch the flies. The way they torment the mare is sumphin' fierce."

For Development of Waterways.

A step toward the carrying out of the plans agreed upon by the recent waterways conference in Washington, D. C., was taken on Tuesday when Representatives Randsell, of Louisiana; Moore, of Pennsylvania; Shirley, of Kentucky, and Barholdt, of Missouri, jointly introduced a bill for the creation of a waterways commission, and another for the issue of $500,000,000 for the improvement of waterways.

The former bill provides that the commission shall consist of four representatives selected by the speaker, and seven others to be appointed by the president, of whom two shall be members of the engineer corps of the army; two civil engineers, two citizens of experience in transportation and one other citizen. The members' terms are fixed at three years, and the salary of those not in the employ of the government at $4,000 per annum. This commission is to investigate problems of water transportation and make recommendations to congress.

The bond bill limits the amount to be issued in any fiscal year to $50,000,000. The bonds are made redeemable ten years from the date of their issue, and they are to bear interest at the rate of 2 per cent.

SLIPS OF THE TONGUE.

Even the Dignified English Butler Can Go Astray at Times.

A little story which has just found its way across the Atlantic from an English country house tells of the recent slip made by a new and nervous butler in serving his master, a duke, at the luncheon table. Quiet, respectful and assiduous, he proffered a dish with the insinuating query:

"Cold grace, your grouse?"

The slip is so obviously a natural one that doubtless the tale is true. Thus far it is also unchallenged as new, although probably by the time it has made the full round of the press somebody will discover that in its original form it was an Athenian "chestnut" in the days of Socrates.

An anecdote which at least belongs to the same family used to be laughed over in early Victorian drawing rooms.

Among the royalties, great and little, who came to London for the young queen's coronation there was a certain small, dried up, gray haired, bright eyed, brisk little old reigning prince of a tiny principality. He was faraway cousin to an Irish duke, whose estates in Ireland he visited before returning. For his entertainment a village celebration was arranged, with games and dances, and especially Irish jigs and dog dances.

The gay old prince was delighted. He came himself of a race famous for its dancing. He still possessed a good eye, a quick ear and a light foot. That same evening in the great hall of the castle, to the whistling of his host's son, he endeavored to emulate some of the feats he had seen.

The duke's solemn English butler was present, and his horror at such unroyal antics was reflected in his eyes. The prince perceived it and, shooting a sudden forefinger at him, demanded imperiously: "Eh! Tell me, then, what you think of my dancing!"

Discreet and dignified, but flurried inwardly, the butler's manner was perfect, but his tongue betrayed him. He answered:

"Your royal spryness is certainly 'igh."

There was a shout of laughter, and the duke, with assumed anger, cried sternly: "What! Do you dare to insinuate that the prince is elevated—that his vivacity is due to any other good spirits than his own?"

Before such an accusation the poor butler's last remnant of composure vanished, and, turning wildly, with clasped hands, from his highness to his grace, he protested earnestly:

"No, I never, sir, your royal grayness; no, I never, sir, your ice!"—Youth's Companion.

SOME QUEER PRAYERS

Curious Mistakes That Have Been Made by Preachers.

A CAUTIOUS SCOTCH ELDER.

The Way He Qualified in His Petition His Praise of the Pastor's Wife. The Blunt Appeal of Father Taylor, the Boston Preacher.

The most frequent cause of inappropriate petitions is no doubt the persistence of habit. Certain phrases are used again and again until they come to be repeated without any thought of their immediate application, says the Christian World. We may similarly explain the stories of the workhouse chaplain who prayed that those present might not trust in uncertain riches and the prison chaplain who besought the Lord that he conduct the worshippers in safety to their respective places of abode.

The sense of humor must surely have been lacking in the old man of eighty, supported by crutches, who regularly included among his petitions at the weekly prayer meeting the request that he might be kept from running with the giddy multitude to do evil. Familiarity with conventional phraseology was the undoing of the minister who, after the sermon on the Pharisee and the publican, asked that there might be poured out upon his hearers a double portion of the publican's spirit. Not very complimentary was the use of a well known Scripture passage made by a minister at a wedding:

"May these persons live together in such harmony in this life that they may finally attain unto that state of felicity where they neither marry nor are given in marriage." As a concluding example of the thoughtless use of familiar language one may quote this remarkable amalgam: "O Lord, we praise thee that we are thine; we feel that we are thine; we know that we are thine; Lord, make us thine."

As in a sermon, so in a prayer, the attempt to correct a hasty utterance sometimes leads to surprising results. A cautious Scotch elder, it is said, had taken supper at his pastor's house and in returning thanks after the meal entered upon a detailed exposition of various causes of gratitude. He concluded by invoking the divine blessing upon the pastor's wife as his godly helpmeet, who had always upheld his hands in every good work—"at least," he added in a saving clause, "as far as we know." It is related of a compatriot that in a moment of forgetfulness he once thanked God for "the salvation of all men," but immediately redeemed himself from heterodoxy by the qualification, "which, O Lord, as thou knowest, is true in one sense, but not in another."

There are some men who seem to think that an indirect manner of expression is especially suited to sacred things, as the Scotchman quoted by Dr. Boyd as saying, "For, as thou knowest, men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of the national emblem," and the Englishman who thus pledged himself, "And, O Lord, if thou wilt move the heart of any young man to enter thy service, we will show our approval in a way which thou wilt appreciate."

Father Taylor, the Boston sailor-preacher, was one of the most direct of men and on the one recorded occasion when he essayed a roundabout style nature triumphed over artifice. It was the Sunday before the state elections, and he was praying fervently that a man might be chosen for governor who would rule in the fear of God, who would never be afraid of the face of clay, who would defeat the ringleaders of corruption, who would defy his own party if it yielded to wire pullers, who—suddenly Father Taylor paused and then exclaimed: "O Lord, what's the use of boxing the compass in this way? Give us George N. Briggs for governor. Amen!"

The temptation to use public prayer as a vehicle for the conveying of information has sometimes been too strong to resist. In his lively reminiscences published some years ago in the Wesleyan Methodist Magazine the late Dr. Benjamin Gregory recalled how a certain Methodist minister of an earlier generation was accustomed "to convey all necessary directions to his younger colleagues through the medium of the throne of grace." Here is an example: "O Lord, bless thy dear young servant. Thou knowest his appointment for tomorrow is at —, and he will have to stop at Brother —'s, who keeps a little shop opposite the church. Oh, grant that thy dear young servant may see forget to let the people have the magazines and to bring home the moneys."

The famous Dr. McCosh of Princeton was accustomed to meet the students in the college chapel every morning, when he would make any necessary announcements as well as conduct devotions. One morning in the prayer with which the service concluded he prayed for the president of the United States, the cabinet, the members of both houses of congress, the governor of New Jersey, the mayor and other officials of Princeton, and he then came to the professors and instructors in the college. At this point there flashed into his mind a notice which had been communicated to him orally and which he had omitted to include in the announcements made just before. To the surprise of the assembled students President McCosh continued, "And, O Lord, bless Professor Karge, whose French class will be held this morning at 9 o'clock instead of 9:30, as usual."

A Large Salary.

Mr. X., a prominent lawyer of Philadelphia, was much addicted to the habit of lecturing his office staff, and the office boy came in for an unusual share of admonition whenever occasion demanded and sometimes when it did not. That his words were appreciated was made quite evident to Mr. X. one day when a conversation overheard on the elevator between Tommy and another office boy on the same floor was repeated to him.

"Whatcher wages?" asked the other boy.

"I get $10,000 a year," said Tommy.

"Aw, gwan!" ejaculated the other boy derisively. "Quitther kiddin'!"

"Honest, I do," said Tommy; "$4 a week in cash and the rest in legal advice."—Harper's Weekly.

Blenheim.

A very "famous victory" was that of Blenheim, which is our corruption of Blindheim, the village on the upper Danube where John Churchill won his dukedom, his magnificent palace in Oxfordshire and his yearly pension of £5,000. This is still enjoyed by his heir, the present Duke of Marlborough, who annually places a French fleur-de-lis flaglet over the bust of his ancestor in the guardroom of Windsor castle, the condition of his tenure of the estate of Blenheim.—London Answers.

WILL CHARGE SMALL FEE.

Expenses of the Library Make This Necessary.

At a recent meeting of the End of Century Club, it was decided to charge a fee of $1.00 a year or 10c a month, payable in advance, beginning March 1st, for the privilege of reading the books from the library.

The public is aware of the fact that this library was opened and has been run under the auspices of this club as a free library; but the expenses are more than twenty women can meet without more outside help than they have been receiving. The first two years of the library's existence a few gentleman of the town helped us by subscriptions. And the Board of Aldermen have several times been very generous in assisting us, and this year have given $50 which is greatly appreciated, especially as we know of the demands upon their resources. But with this assistance together with our donations, we will not be able to meet the expenses of rent, paying a librarian, and adding new books, unless we have some other help, and we feel sure that all those who enjoy and patronize the library will be willing to pay this small fee.

It is not our desire to deprive anyone of the advantages of the library, so if there is anyone who is unable to pay this fee, if it is reported to the librarian, there will be a special committee to act upon it.

We also wish to state that there will be no fee charged for consulting the reference books; but they are not to be taken out of the library. The length of time to keep the books and the fines will be the same as heretofore.

"End of the Century Club."

The Way to His Vote.

Lord Beaconsfield's skill in picking up stray votes was well known. An illustration of it is given in a book by Henry W. Lucy.

At the time that the imperial titles bill was pending there was a certain pompous little Irishman, Dr. O'Leary, who seemed manageable and was desirable. One evening in the lobby Disraeli laid a hand familiarly on his shoulder.

"Dear Dr. O'Leary, the resemblance is most striking," he said. "I really thought I saw again my old friend Tom Moore."

The vain little gentleman was captured.

He Hits Back.

There had been a domestic spat at breakfast.

"You monster!" snapped the matron, who was always scolding. "You are not like my two former husbands. They were tender men."

"I never doubted that they were tender, Maria," ventured the meek man, "when you kept them in hot water all the time." And he just cleared the front porch two yards ahead of the rolling pin. — Chicago News.
