AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsp Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., March 5, 1909. Ayden is coming to the front, three large 2-story houses under construction at present.

J. W. Quinerly went to Grif-ton Wednesday.

Mrs. Geo. Tucker, of Whitakers, came Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. H. C. Ormond.

Guy Taylor has moved his family in the house vacated by C. A. Fair.

The wind Wednesday was destructive in Jacksonville. It blew the school house off the blocks while the school was in session, several houses were unroofed, and a few blown in pieces.

Miss May Smith is spending a few days at Winterville.

The stock holders of Ayden tobacco warehouse met Wednesday and decided to build another warehouse under same plan and charter as present one. The same officers were elected for another year as follows: Elias Turnage, president; J. J. Edwards, vice president; Robt. Worthington, secretary; R. W. Smith, treasurer. All present were well pleased with the success of the market for the past season, having done so well the first year.

Capt. D. G. Berry is going to have the prettiest and most up-to-date house in town when completed.

C. C. Needham returned from Elizabeth City.

The Ayden Retail Merchants association will meet tonight at J. J. Stokes. All the members are earnestly requested to be present as there is some business of importance to be transacted.

Lightning struck Earnest Williams near Ayden Wednesday during the storm and hurt him right bad, but not seriously.

KING'S CROSS ROADS ITEMS.

King's Cross Roads, N. C., Mar. 4 Some of the farmers are through plowing.

Miss Irene Smith attended the party at Caraway's school house Friday night.

Mrs. Addie O. Corbett spent Saturday and Sunday with friends near Daviston.

Miss Iola Smith has returned from Edgecombe where she has been spending some time.

It is almost time to plant corn. Tobacco plants are doing well in the cool weather.

J. A. Forbes' baby was burned Sunday morning so bad that it died Monday and was buried Tuesday afternoon.

We are having much rain. Marcellus Smith went to Farmville yesterday on business.

We have a Bible class at King's Cross Roads.

J. A. Barnhill and family, of Enfield, came in this neighborhood Friday and returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. Sam Joyner spent yesterday with her niece, Mrs. E. Smith.

Miss Ora Matthews returned home Sunday from a flying trip to Edgecombe.

Miss Ellen Tyson has a good school at King's Cross Roads. She had a betterment meeting Friday evening.

W. C. Moore went to Farmville Monday.

Miss Lanie Tyson spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Edie Smith.

Geo. Burnett went to Fountain this afternoon.

We are not having much sickness in the neighborhood now.

DAMAGE BY THE STORM.

Much Worse Than at First Supposed.

Since telephone lines have recovered from the effects of Wednesday's storm, more reports of damage have come in.

Around Farmville the storm was very severe. The tops were blown off of several freight cars standing on the railroad tracks, the roof was blown off a colored school house, a colored lodge building was lifted off the underpinning and let down on the ground, a market building was blown down and the chimneys to a number of houses torn off.

The roof of the home of Mr. J. H. Cobb, in Beaver Dam township, was blown off and let the rain in so that his furniture was badly damaged.

The Jackson school, taught by Miss Arah Davis, in Contentnea township was thrown into panic. There were 25 or 30 children in the building and while Miss Davis was standing in the door watching the storm the wind tore the door from its hinges, so frightening her that she fainted. The wind lifted the building off the foundations and moved it about six feet. Two or three of the children were slightly hurt, one of them getting a broken finger.

OLD FASHIONED SHOOTING.

The Record of Lord Malmesbury and Slow Firing Guns.

The second Lord Malmesbury, besides being one of the best shots of his day, was without question the most painstaking and careful chronicler of his sport who ever fired a gun. For forty seasons, ending with the year 1840, he kept a record of every cartridge he fired and the result of the shot—a feat which may have a parallel, but is hardly likely to be beaten. He fired in all 54,987 shots and accounted for 38,454 head of game, besides 480 which he did not add to his figures; they were the birds he killed when he hit more than one with the same shot. As for walking, there never was such an untiring pursuer of every bird and beast that could be entered in a game book. He calculated that he was out for four hours a day for ninety days in the year, which made 14,400 hours' walking in forty years, and since he walked at the rate of two and a half miles an hour he remarks that in all he must have covered 36,200 miles, "very nearly once and a half the circumference of the globe." He was never in bed for a day and not thirty days confined to the house by accident or illness, though, to be sure, his violent exercise affected his heart, and he died at sixty-four.

The list of his hits and misses are particularly interesting when you compare his records of shots at birds like snipe and woodcock, which were as difficult to hit in his day as they are in ours, with the kind of figures which would be likely or possible with modern guns. In the season 1819-20, for instance, Lord Malmesbury fired eighty-three shots at woodcock and bagged forty-five, and out of 411 shots at snipe he actually got 216, which is somewhat better than one out of two. Any snipe shot today would be pleased with a record of three out of five, taking the wilder, twistier snipe of late autumn and winter with the home bred snipe killed in August and September. You read these records and those of men like John Mytton, who would make a point of invariably killing fifty brace of partridges to his own gun on the first day of the season, and wonder how with their slow firing guns and their bad shot patterns they managed to kill even one bird in four. "A gun never shoots twice alike," Colonel Hawker wrote, and he shot with the best guns he could buy. How did they manage it?

Somehow, with guns which their great-grandchildren would not burden a keeper with, they did contrive to shoot as well as we do, and somehow the pictures made of them while they were shooting give you the idea that they enjoyed the shooting more.—London Spectator.

A majority is always better than the best republic.—Disraeli.

THE LEGISLATURE.

What Our Law Makers Are Doing at Raleigh.

FIFTIETH DAY.

In both branches the day was taken up mainly in considering old matters that had been set for special order. In the house the trust bill was passed over to the night session. Many bills passed final reading.

At the night session of the house, which lasted until midnight, the trust bill passed just like it came from the senate, this being the Blow-Bassett substitute for the Lockhart bill.

The night session of the senate was devoted to consideration of the revenue bill.

MERRY WIDOW BROWN.

A Merry Play, Clean and Wholesome.

The Musical Comedy Company presented the Musical Farce Comedy, "The Merry Widow Brown" last night at the opera house and it is the unanimous verdict of those present that this is one of the very best, if not the best musical organization that has ever played Tarboro. Everything pertaining to the performance was given with a dash and piquancy that lent a charm to the presentation of this tuneful, bright and clever comedy. One thing most noticeable in the performance, was the absence of the part of the comedians of all vulgarity or straining to produce a laugh. As the comedy has been written in such a vein that all the comedy situations are worked up to in a natural manner and thereby causes no strain upon the performer to create a laugh as is so often the case in a great many of the so-called musical comedies.

Another thing, that went a great way towards enhancing the beauty of this most successful performance, was the able assistance of the orchestra which the company carry. To hear them in their overtures and the incidental music of the piece is well worth the price paid and the "Vaudeville Olio" presented last night, which included such as The Marvelous Malcolms, Globe Rollers, Fred G. Cole, The Dancing Kid and Banjoist and his high jumping, and bag punch bull terriers, Ben Daniels, monologist and parodist, Gardner LaCled and Gardner, society sketch artists, presenting an olio of vaudeville acts that cannot be surpassed in any of the large cities in America as each and every act on the bill is a particular star in his or her line.—Tarboro Southern.

This company will appear in Masonic opera house, Greenville, on Next Monday and Tuesday nights.

Representative to Grand Lodge.

There was a very enthusiastic Pythian meeting Thursday night. The occasion was the election of representative to Grand Lodge, which meets in Hendersonville in the early part of June. Mr. E. G. Flanagan was elected as the representative of Tar River Lodge No. 93.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Aldermen Have a Long Meeting Thursday Night.

The Board of Aldermen held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night with seven of the members present, and was in session until past midnight. Much of the time was taken in hearing a report from the water and light commission and adopting ordinances, about 45 sections, governing the installation and use of water and light service, rates, etc.

A voucher for $810.22 in favor of the A. C. L. Railroad Co., was ordered to be drawn to take up a note that company held against the town for freights.

After hearing a statement from the water and light commission relative to outstanding debts against that department, an order was passed that when the $20,000 bonds authorized to be issued by the legislature are sold, the sum of $4,000 of this amount be appropriated to the water and light commission to pay off this indebtedness.

A motion that the water and light commission discontinue charge against the American Tobacco Co. and the Imperial Tobacco Co. for water for fire protection, was deferred until next meeting for action.

An ordinance requiring the Standard Oil Co. to remove its oil storage tanks beyond the limits of the town was presented, but action on it was deferred to next meeting that all parties interested may have a hearing.

The matter of erecting a city hall was again taken up and a motion was adopted to proceed at once with the building, the cost not to exceed $3,000. Advertisement will be made for bids for the erection of the building.

Reports of officers for the past month were read and approved, and accounts were allowed.

SANS SOUCI CLUB.

Reported for Reflector:

The Sans Souci club was most delightfully entertained on Thursday afternoon by Miss Lizzie Jones. After dispensing with the business and the passing of the books, the literary program for the afternoon was enjoyed. This consisted of an interesting sketch of Mrs. Browning's life very charmingly read by Miss Irma Cobb and two of her selections read by Miss Hennie Ragsdale.

The hostess then furnished us with a romance of Romeo and Juliet, the blanks to be filled in with some of Shakespear's plays. Mrs. Charlie Forbes and Miss Hennie Ragsdale cutting for the prize, Miss Ragsdale was the lucky and happy winner of a very attractive book of toasts. Delicious refreshments were then served in two courses, after which the club adjourned to meet with Miss Irma Cobb on Tuesday afternoon March, 6th.

We were delighted to have with us Misses Jeffers, of Chase City, Va., Gertrude Williams, of Baltimore and Ellen Parker, of Washington, N. C.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S ADDRESS.

From his inaugural address Thursday it is evident that President Taft will follow to much extent the policies of ex-President Roosevelt. In fact he said:

"I should be untrue to myself, to my promises and to the declarations of the party platform upon which I was elected to office, if I did not make the maintenance and enforcement of those reforms a most important feature of my administration. They were directed to the suppression of the lawlessness and abuses of power of the great combinations of capital invested in railroads and industrial enterprises carrying on interstate commerce.

"The steps which my predecessor and the legislation passed on his recommendation have accomplished much, have caused a general halt in the vicious policies which created popular alarm, and have brought about, in the business affected, a much higher regard for existing law."

President Taft went on to urge relief of railroads from certain restrictions of the anti-trust law, and urged legislation giving federal supervision and restriction to prevent excessive issue of bonds and stocks by companies owning and operating interstate railroads.

Other topics outlined in his address was to safeguard all legitimate business and to make such revision of the tariff as will restore confidence. He wants such adjustment as will wipe out the hundred million dollars annual deficit in the treasury. He wants the Panama canal to be paid for with bonds, wants a proper army and navy and suitable fortifications maintained, and says "a strong navy is the best conservator of peace." He wants a change in money and banking laws and says promises must be kept as to postal savings banks.

He expressed hope for the increase of good feeling toward the South and said it was not his purpose to effect a change in the Southern electoral vote.

What the appropriations bill did for the Eastern Training School is very gratifying to Greenville. It means two other buildings to be erected and all of them equipped ready for the school to open next fall.

The negroes of Washington City have presented Senator Foraker with a massive silver loving cup in appreciation of his efforts in behalf of the discharged negro soldiers at Brownsville.

It is more than likely that Orum will get his reward for letting Mr. Taft out of a bad job.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Inauguration-Going.

To any one who may be attending the presidential inauguration from patriotic motives we hope that a sense of service rendered will bring reward. Office-seekers, always multitudinous on such occasions, have motives of their own. But the citizen who attends for the supposed fun of the thing makes a regrettable mistake. Mere crowds and tumult may please some people sufficiently, but the event has very little else to it. The performance is exactly the same each time—the outgoing and incoming presidents, perhaps two in one, drive with a motley array of marching organizations from the White House to the capitol, at a stand on whose eastern front the incomer, weather permitting, takes the oath of office and reads his inaugural address. Then they drive back again. Fireworks at night. Mr. Roosevelt deserves credit for introducing one variation into the monotony by his decision to duck out at the capitol and proceed trainward direct. There is certainly not a great deal to compensate the average inauguration-goer for the discomforts which he must undergo in a desperately overcrowded city—such discomforts, among others, as jammed, roped and picketed streets which severely restrict or perhaps altogether prevent his sight-seeing. Then the weather may do fearful and wonderful things—it usually does—to the exposed and largely helpless multitudes. The point which we make is not simply that the hardships and discomforts are considerable but that the attractions are ordinarily insufficient as an offset. We hope against hope to hear good reports from all in attendance. Washington at any other time for us.—Charlotte Observer.

He's From Missouri;
You Have to Show Him.

Governor Folk is from Missouri. He's regarded as a pretty good citizen himself. See what he says about a certain sort of citizen:

"I do not believe in the mail order citizen. IT IS BETTER THAT WE SHOULD HAVE A THOUSAND TOWNS THAN ONE LARGE CITY. If a place is good enough for a man to make his money in, it certainly should be good enough for him to spend his money in. The merchants have a just right to all the business of the town in which they have their stores, and every good citizen will help them to get it."

Did you ever see a FINE LARGE FACT so simply stated?

AN ART TREASURE.

The Owner Didn't Appreciate the Gem of His Collection.

Some years ago a well known art expert was summoned to act in the capacity of private appraiser to a young man who desired to sell at auction the contents of his father's picture gallery. The man appreciated his own limitations sufficiently to realize the need of such advice as the critic had to offer, though the actual depth of his ignorance was not patent at the beginning of the interview.

The two men were in the gallery, and the owner discoursed somewhat intelligently on a pair of enormous battle scenes for which his father had paid a fabulous sum and out of which he hoped to realize much more than the original price. A few other highly pictorial compositions came in for their share of approval. He would rather like to keep those really "good" things. But he felt that they would command the highest price at the sale. The expert passed them with a glance. He felt sure that the owner would realize his desire to keep them unless he was willing to sacrifice them for a tithe of what his father had paid for them a score of years before, when that sort of painting was in vogue.

From the moment the connoisseur entered the long room he kept his eye on a small canvas disdainfully "skied" above the opposite door. Though the light was bad and the position the worst possible, he took in the matchless sweep of technic in that painted head. As soon as the young man had exhausted his enthusiasm over the showy pictures the artist called his attention to the modest canvas.

"Oh, that's a sketch by an obscure German painter," the owner returned, "a thing my father picked up somewhere. It doesn't amount to anything. I had it hung up there to get it out of the way."

"Will you sell it for a hundred dollars?"

"I should rather think I would!" the owner replied in some astonishment. "But I don't want to rob you."

"And I don't want to rob you," his guest echoed. "That despised sketch is the best thing in your collection, the one that ought to bring the highest price. It is a Lenbach. No one else paints like that. A Lenbach needs no signature."

The owner was not convinced, indeed, was rather anxious to make the sale on the spot, and his doubt was not dissipated until the auction was over and he learned that the little Lenbach had brought something over $3,000, the highest price paid for any picture in the collection. The war canvases went for a song.

The Eyes in Writing.

Many persons who think their sight perfect have a greater visual power in one eye than in the other. With regard to the respective power of the right and left eyes, a well known optician finds that a person occupied in writing all day has, as a rule, stronger vision in the left. Writing with the right hand and his left arm resting on the table, his left eye is nearer his work, and its vision is more concentrated. This expert says that our race will never become so shortsighted as the German while football, cricket, tennis, hockey, etc., are encouraged in our public schools.

Needed a Stimulant.

A traveling man was riding in the smoking car of an express train, reading his paper, when a man rushed in from the car behind the smoker, evidently in great agitation, and said: "Has anybody in the car any whisky? A woman in the car behind has fainted!" Instantly dozens of flasks were produced. The man who had asked for it picked out the largest one, drew the cork and put the bottle to his lips. With a long, satisfied sigh, he handed it back and remarked: "That did me a lot of good. I needed it, for it always makes me feel so queer to see a woman faint!"—National Food Magazine.

PROBING CHARACTER.

A Test That Told the Young Woman All She Wanted to Know.

"Mr. Gunbolt, I am pleased to make your acquaintance," said Miss Greenscout, a debutante of the season.

"The pleasure rests upon my shoulders entirely," answered Gunbolt, a young man of considerable consequence to himself.

"I just heard you are from Hanktown."

"Yes, I lived there for several years, but the place got too slow for me. I had to move to a larger city."

"I suppose we have some mutual friends then," continued Miss Greenscout. "You know I visited in Hanktown several summers ago. I suppose you know Dollie Wrinkle, whose father owns a hardware store?"

"Sure! Dollie was one of my old sweethearts."

"Is that so? What a coincidence! Let me see, what street was it Dollie lived upon?"

"Out on Chestnut," replied Gunbolt.

"No, indeed, you are mistaken, Mr. Gunbolt, it was Walnut street. I can remember perfectly the stately mansion with the magnificent yard and the beautiful walnut trees surrounding the home."

"I beg your pardon, but my impression is that it was Chestnut. Probably the family has moved."

"No, it was Walnut. Dollie told me that she had lived in the house all her life. You see, I visited at the place and ought to know. She was so sweet. Wasn't it too bad about her mother dying?"

"Is her mother dead?" queried Gunbolt, feigning surprise. "She must have passed away after I left."

"Why, what do you mean? She died when Dollie was an infant. Really, Mr. Gunbolt, I don't believe you ever knew Dollie Wrinkle."

"Well, to tell the truth, Miss Greenscout, I never heard of her until you mentioned her name just now, and I didn't even know Hanktown was on the map."

"That's my situation exactly," responded the debutante supremely, "I just wanted to get an insight into your character before our friendship went too far. Goodby."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Wedding Ring Story.

It was the habit of Rev. James Spurgeon, grandfather of the great preacher of that name, to pray each evening under a certain oak tree in a secluded wood in Honeywood park. One night he dreamed, the story goes, that Satan appeared and threatened to tear him in pieces if he followed his accustomed route to the tree. There was another path by which he might go in safety. Remembering his dream, Spurgeon felt sorely tempted the next night to take the route in which Satan was not. But this would be to capitulate. Trembling in every limb, he made his way by the path in which the danger lay. He reached his goal in safety and in prayer and song returned thanks for delivery from peril. When his prayer had ended he rose to return. In his path lay a piece of solid gold "as large as a certain ring." All inquiry failing to discover an owner, he retained it and when he married had his wife's wedding ring made from his curious find.

Speaking the Truth.

The parson arrived unexpectedly to remain for supper with a large colored family in Kentucky. Immediately the cabin was in commotion, and mammy swept away the swarm of little pickaninnies with a few well timed warnings and reminders as to table manners. When supper was ready the possum and taters were tempting, and little Susie watched with despairing eyes the delectable viands diminish and fade away into nothing ere her turn came. When the parson had almost finished mammy turned to Susie and said:

"Have some mo' possum, honey?" A pair of indignant eyes flashed. "Mo'! I ain't had some yet!" exploded Susie.—Judge.

Why Foam on Ink Is White.

The foam was white. "How white the foam is!" said the pretty girl in a voice muffled by the sable stole drawn across her red mouth. "Yet the sea is green. Why, then, isn't the foam green?"

But the young sophomore laughed in derision of such ignorance.

"Gee, you are ignorant!" he said. "Beer is brown, but its foam is white too. Shake up black ink and you get white foam. Shake up red ink and the result is the same.

"A body that reflects all the light it receives without absorbing any is always white. All bodies powdered into tiny diamond form, so that they throw back the light from many facets, absorb none of it and are white by consequence. Powdered black marble, for instance, is white. And foam is water powdered into these small diamonds, and hence its whiteness."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Schools For Thieves.

In Tokyo there are regular schools in which thieving is taught by professionals. In Japan, as elsewhere, there is honor among thieves, and the entire "thieves colony" in the capital of Japan is governed by rules that are rigorously enforced. Their "codex," or body of rules, prescribes that the youngest beggars and thieves shall retain 10 per cent of their earnings; pick-pockets of the second class retain from 30 to 40 per cent, while the most skillful thieves keep from 50 to 60 per cent of their earnings! The greater part of what then remains is employed in keeping the thieves' academies in efficient working order.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away.
Greenville People have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins, to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffer backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will cure you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Can Greenville readers demand further proof than the following statement: Jos. Savage, Church St., Tarboro, N. C. says: "For some time my kidneys were disordered the passages of the secretions being scanty and at times painful, I had sharp pains across my loins and if I stooped suddenly, sharp twinges caught me across my back, making it hard for me to straighten. After using a number of remedies without obtaining relief, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. They removed the aches and pains in my back and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I have derived from them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
