GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 1909.

NUMBER 5478

ROCHDALE SPROUTS.

Rochdale, N. C., Mar. 30, 1909.
Benjamin Joyner, of Farmville, was in our section last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mills Smith and Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn went on a visiting tour Wednesday morning and returned in the evening.

J. R. McLawhorn, of Ayden, was here two days last week repairing some buildings on his Tucker farm near here. He was stopping with his son, C. E. McLawhorn, and returned home Thursday morning.

R. E. Willoughby went to Farmville Thursday morning and to Greenville in the evening.

E. S. Norman went to Greenville Thursday.

The young people had an ice cream supper at Rochdale Thursday night and a good crowd and a plenty of cream. All had a very pleasant time and enjoyed themselves well.

C. D. Smith went to Greenville Friday on business.

Lloyd Smith went to Farmville Saturday evening.

Misses Gertie and Trilby Smith went to Haywood Smith's on a visit Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn went to C. L. Tyson's Saturday evening on a visit and returned Sunday evening for Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Smith and David Smith, of Marlton, were in our section Sunday evening.

Benjamin Joyner and Charlie Newton, of Farmville, were visiting in Smithtown Sunday evening.

Mills Smith is delivering fertilizer at Arthur for some of the Greenville merchants.

There were six cars of fertilizer being unloaded at Arthur yesterday.

Little Miss Jannie Tyson of Renston, is visiting relatives in in our section.

A. A. Joyner went to Greenville Tuesday morning.

J. L. Wilkinson lost his corn barn Sunday night by fire. He lost about one hundred barrels of corn and two hundred dollars worth of guano stored in the barn. We did not learn how much forage and other stuff was in the barn or how it caught fire. His loss was heavy and our sympathy goes out to him.

They have a petition going the rounds for B. M. Lewis to be appointed county commissioner to fill the unexpired term that was caused by the death of Mr. Lang and I don't think that they could make a better choice in the county. He is an all-round good man. I have known him from his boyhood.

The teachers, Misses May Brooks and Mary Joyner, at Smith school house, wish to announce that the school will close Wednesday, April 7th. They expect Supt. Z. V. Judd, of Raleigh, to deliver an address at eleven o'clock. Dinner will be served on the grounds. Everybody is invited to come and bring a well filled basket.

Why Not Have Awnings Instead of Rag?

Editor Reflector:

Evans street in this town looks nice with its paved sidewalks. But don't look up at the awnings. What an eye-sore they are! Can't the town government take a hand, if the property owners will not, and have awnings put up in place of the old rags that now adorn the front of the stores? Shame on Skinflintism. Tax Payer.

NEW COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

B. M. Lewis Appointed to Fill Vacancy.

Today Superior Court Clerk D. C. Moore appointed Mr. B. M. Lewis, of Farmville township, a member of the Board of County Commissioners to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Commissioner A. V. Lang. The commission naming Mr. Lewis has been mailed to him and he is expected to qualify and begin his duties on the board at the meeting to be held next Monday.

The Reflector believes that this appointment of Mr. Lewis will meet the approval of the people of the entire county. He is from the same township and community in which Mr. Lang lived, and all things else being equal that section of the county was entitled to the successor on the board. But aside from this Mr. Lewis possesses every qualification needed to make a good commissioner. He is an excellent man of the highest character, conservative and upright in all his dealings, and a man of sound business judgment and good management. Clerk Moore was almost deluged with voluntary endorsements and requests for the appointment of Mr. Lewis, and these show how much the people esteem him. A wise selection has been made.

TOBACCO USERS OUT $45,000,000.

That's What "Joker" in the Revenue Laws Cost.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—What is designated as a "joker" that cost the consumers of tobacco in this country nearly $45,000,000, was found today in the existing revenue laws of the United States by Representative Dawson, of Iowa, who at once introduced a bill to correct the error.

Under the Dingley tariff law the two ounce packages of tobacco sell to the consumer at 5 cents each, and the four ounce packages at 10 cents. In 1898 a war revenue tax of 6 cents a pound additional was levied on tobacco. At the same time, in order to serve the convenience of the trade, authorization was given for the reduction of the size of packages from 2 3/4 and 4 ounces to 1 1/2, 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 ounces, thus enabling the smoker to procure a five cent and a ten cent package of tobacco "at the store."

In due time the war revenue tax was repealed. Somebody forgot, Mr. Dawson believes, to restore the packages of tobacco to the original sizes, and hence, ever since 1902, the consumer of tobacco has been paying the equivalent of the war revenue tax to the manufacturers of tobacco.

Representative Dawson figures out that the purchasers of each small package has been mulcted out of one cent and the purchaser of the larger of 2 cents and hence the "joker" has cost the consumer almost $45,000,000.

Mr. Dawson's bill proposed to restore the packages to the original sizes.

BLACK JACK ITEMS.

Black Jack, N. C., March 30.

J. A. Clark has returned home from Whitsett institute, where he has been attending school. We were very glad to see him again.

Miss Dollie Dixon, of Edwards, is spending a few days here with relatives and friends.

We enjoyed the commencement at Galloway's school house last Friday night. There was quite a large crowd. They all report a fine time.

Misses Janie Harper and Dollie Dixon spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Martha Williams.

W. L. Clark and son, George, went to Greenville Saturday.

Henry Dixon went to Greenville Tuesday.

Washington Mills does not seem to improve very fast. Hope that he will soon be able to get about.

Miss Alice Mills is spending a few days with her brother.

The farmers are very busy planting corn. It is a fine time, the weather is beautiful, and the trees are shooting forth their buds like spring is coming soon.

The young men of this community are thinking of organizing a debating society for the purpose of training them to speak on different subjects. We hope to have it in a few days organized and ready to commence work.

We are glad to see the Sabbath school at this place improving since the weather is so beautiful again. We had a large crowd out Sunday. They seem to be more interested in the good work that we are carrying on at this place. All that we ask is that all come out and take an active part and we will do all that we can to have one among the best Sunday schools in the county. Let us work together in peace and love.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

Three Stores Have Great Events.

Opening displays of new styles in millinery have become popular events, and afford much interest to the ladies especially. For several days past Greenville's fashion emporiums have been making ready for their spring displays and today the show of pretty things has been in full blast. The result shows that Greenville dealers are abreast with the times in styles and designs for the season, and their displays would do credit to a city. Fruits and flowers are the predominating trimming effects this season, with feathers rarely in evidence.

PULLEY & BOWEN.

This firm began their display Tuesday night and by the time the opening hour arrived the sidewalk in front of the store was thronged with ladies waiting for admission. Hundreds visited the store during the evening and today the stream of comers and goers has been constant. The store was most attractively arranged and the firm, as well as the ladies in charge of the millinery department, have every reason to feel gratified at the beautiful display. Nothing but expressions of admiration were heard from all visitors.

C. T. MUNFORD.

The big store is in all its glory, for it never had a more attractive display than that in evidence today. The large show windows were the first to demand interest, for they were so beautifully arranged that no one could pass without being attracted. And these were but a foretaste of what was shown within the store, for everywhere the artistic touch was in evidence. Besides all styles of hats there were rows of show cases that looked like a flower garden. It was a fine display.

MRS. I. F. LEE & CO.

This is a new firm in a new store, but their magnificent display shows that people not new in experience are in charge. Their hats for this season are marvels of beauty, evidencing the most artistic taste in style and finish. It was interesting to watch how eagerly the ladies examined and admired these. It is a display that does the proprietors and their helpers great credit.

VENEER PLANT STARTS UP.

Prominent Visitors Here to See it Begin.

The Cabinet Veneer Co., which for several months past has been building and equipping a large plant on the A. C. L. railroad and near the river, began operation today. The plant is one of the best to be found anywhere and will prove a valuable industry as well as make a good market for oak, poplar and other kinds of logs. Several prominent gentlemen from other points who are interested in the plant were here today to see it start up. These were F. J. Perkins and W. J. Rickey, of Indiana; Robert S. Gorham and Thomas Gorham, of Boston; Arthur Ellison, of High Point; J. W. Flint, of Enfield; and Capt. Norfleet, of Kelford. They are all well pleased with the plant and equipment.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., March 30.—All the passenger trains both on the Seaboard and Southern were tied up here today because of the wreck of a train just outside the city limits on the Seaboard. The truck of a double header freight going north broke and several cars were derailed. The wreck occurred south of the city where the S. A. L. and Southern trains run parallel and the wreckage is scattered over both tracks.

WEDNESDAY, MAR. 31, 1909.

The weather man should not be getting off any April fool business tomorrow.

The wireless is likely to get off something startling about Hunter Roosevelt any day.

Raleigh did herself proud in the primary election Tuesday and can now proceed to redeem her reputation.

The editors will whiff the mountain breezes around Hendersonville at their next meeting. That is all right.

The better element of Raleigh seems determined to come to the front. Long time starting about it, but making good headway since the race began.

The fool bill to limit the South's representation in congress has made its appearance again. Every now and then some member tries to gain a bit of notoriety by bringing it up.

Raleigh has pulled herself out of the disgraceful municipal muddle, or is in a fair way to do so. A primary election was held there Tuesday for city officials, and with one lone exception an entire new set of aldermen was chosen. The people started out for reform and are going to get it.

We thought something might be looked for. Now comes the report that an Italian steerage passenger on the Hamburg, the steamer on which Mr. Roosevelt was crossing the sea on his journey to Africa, wanted to kill him. Possibly the next day or two may bring the report that it is all a fake.

The Serious Side.

The sassy paragraphers, and the snappy humorists, both of prose and poetry variety, have had their flings at Citizen Roosevelt and his African trip and the newspapers have had columns of reading matter about it, with plenty of glaring cuts. So folks in this land have had an awfully jolly and funny time over the whole business. Yet, after all, there is a serious side to the affair. Hunts in Africa are dangerous. With the climate, especially when coupled with exposure that may come from hunting, there is danger, and certainly the animals that lurk here and there in the wilds of Africa are to be feared and an encounter with them means staking one's life. This is the serious side, and must be thought of by the people of the United States. Hence, Mr. Roosevelt will have their best wishes and the hope of all the people for a safe delivery from the hunt. Mr. Roosevelt is a great man. He is strenuous in his actions and often times too impulsive to fit the civic case, but he is unquestionably a man of ability and of courage. He is also a man greatly admired and has a strong following. His influence and, no doubt, personal partici-

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Her Answer.

An Atchison girl had a proposal of marriage Sunday night and asked a week to think it over. She went to all of her married sisters. One, who used to be a belle, had three children, did all her own work, and hadn't been to the theatre or out riding since she was married. Another whose husband was a promising young man at the time she was married, was supporting him. A third didn't dare say her life was her own when her husband was around, and a fourth was divorced. After visiting them and hearing their woes, the heroine of this little tale went home, got pen, ink, and paper and wrote an answer to the young man. You may think it was refusing him, but it wasn't. She said she could be ready in a month.—Atchison Globe.

To avoid paying a bond issue of $85,000 the people of Ulysses, Kan., capital of Grant county, moved their town bodily two miles. Only a few wells, the cemetery and a brick school house were left behind. The town site thus nearly vacated is worth about $1,500. In Indiana the people of a certain town were so disgusted with a "dry" victory in the county that they moved their town into the next county, which was still satisfactorily "wet." These two recent incidents could not possibly have happened anywhere except in the United States, and they show with much impressiveness what a great and versatile country this country of ours is.—Charlotte Observer.

The Baltimore Sun, after a careful examination of the Payne tariff bill, finds that the burden falls on the "consumer of modest means." That being the case, the Payne bill is strictly a Republican measure and perhaps nothing better was to be expected.—Greensboro Record.

Criminals in North Carolina are hereafter to be executed in an electric chair. This is shocking.—Durham Sun.

TRAGIC LEGEND OF VENICE.

Unique Weapon With Which the Man of Mystery and Murder Sought to Slay His Way to the Hand of the Woman He Loved.

The chronicles of Venice tell that in the earlier part of the seventeenth century a certain stranger, a man of dark and sinister aspect, arrived in the city. His name was Tebaldo. He appears to have been a man of unruly passions, of great intellectual power, but one whose talents found their chief outlet in crime.

One day he observed a beautiful girl leaving church, attended in a manner which showed she belonged to a family of high degree. She was, in fact, the daughter of an ancient and noble house. He fell violently in love with her. Though far removed from him in station, his blind passion took no count of this fact, and he determined to sue for her hand.

There proved to be, however, a more insuperable obstacle to his suit. The girl was already betrothed to another, a young nobleman of almost equal rank and fortune. The knowledge did not deter Tebaldo, who boldly presented himself before the girl's parents in the capacity of a suitor for her hand. As might have been expected, he met with a curt and unceremonious rebuff.

The repulse rankled in his mind. Enraged beyond measure, he shut himself up in his own house and there secretly studied a means of revenge. Profoundly skilled in the mechanical arts, he allowed himself no rest until he had invented a most formidable and death dealing weapon. This was a large key, the handle of which was so constructed that it could be turned at will. When it was thus turned a secret spring was disclosed, which, on being pressed, launched from the key head a fine needle or lancet. The latter was of such delicate construction that it penetrated the body of the victim and buried itself deep in the flesh without leaving any external trace.

The marriage of the betrothed couple was fixed to take place in the principal church in Venice on a certain day. Before the ceremony Tebaldo, cunningly disguised, stationed himself at the church door armed with his diabolical weapon. As the bridegroom was about to enter the building the concealed watcher pressed the spring and sent the deadly steel lancet into the breast of his victim. The young nobleman had no suspicion of injury at the moment. In the midst of the ceremony, however, he was seized with a sharp spasm of pain and sank fainting on the steps of the altar. He was hurriedly conveyed to his home, where the leading Venice physicians were summoned to attend him. In spite of their unremitting efforts he sank and died, nor were they able to discover the nature of the mysterious and fatal seizure.

With the removal of his rival, Tebaldo once more presented himself before the girl's parents and renewed his request for her hand. Their refusal to listen to him sealed their doom. In what manner he accomplished it is not known, but within a few days both had been done to death in the same sudden and mysterious fashion.

The exalted rank of the victims created a profound sensation, and when, on examination of the bodies, a fine steel instrument was found in the flesh terror became universal. The citizens feared for their lives. The utmost vigilance was exercised on the part of the authorities, but as yet no suspicion fell upon Tebaldo.

The bereaved girl retired to a convent, where she passed the first months of mourning in sorrowful seclusion. Tebaldo, however, sought her out in her retreat and begged to speak to her through the grating.

His dark, evil face had always been displeasing to her, but since the death of her betrothed and parents it had become repulsive. When, therefore, in the course of the interview he pressed her to fly with him he met with an instant and indignant refusal. Her scorn stung him to the quick. Beside himself with rage, he brought his deadly weapon once more into play and succeeded in wounding the girl through the grating, the obscurity of the place preventing his action from being observed.

On her return to her room the girl felt a sharp pain in her breast. Examination of the spot showed that it was dotted with a single drop of blood. Physicians were hastily summoned. Taught by past experience, they wasted no time in vain conjecture, but cut into the flesh and extracted the slender steel, thus saving the girl's life.

The dastardly attempt occasioned a public outcry. The visit of Tebaldo to the convent became known and caused suspicion to turn upon him. The emissaries of the law descended suddenly upon him, his house was searched, and there the abominable invention was discovered. Swift justice followed, and he ended his days upon the scaffold.

The key is still preserved in the arsenal at Venice.—Chambers' Journal.

ANIMAL LEGENDS.

The Buzz of the Mosquito and the Swallow's Forked Tail.

In Palestine, where several religions exist side by side, legends have crossed and intermingled in such a way as to make a distinct folklore. A collection of stories from "Folklore in the Holy Land," by the Rev. J. E. Hanauer, contains many Bible legends in new forms and with humorous additions. One explains how the mosquito came to buzz and why the swallow's tail is forked.

After the fall of man the serpent missed the reward which the evil one had promised him—namely, the sweetest food in the world. An angel was appointed to assign to every creature his food and dwelling place. The serpent asked for human flesh. But Adam protested and pointed out shrewdly that as nobody had ever tasted human flesh it was impossible to maintain that it was the most luscious of food. Thus he gained a year's respite for the race.

Meanwhile the mosquito was sent round the world with instructions to taste and report upon the blood of every living creature. At the end of twelve months it was to report in open court the result of its researches.

Now, Adam had a friend in that sacred bird the swallow, which annually makes a pilgrimage to Mecca and all holy places. This bird shadowed the mosquito all the twelve months until the day of the decision. Then as the insect was on its way to the court the swallow met it openly and asked what flesh and blood it had found sweetest.

"Man's," replied the mosquito. "What?" asked the swallow. "Please say it again, for I am rather deaf." On this the mosquito opened its mouth wide to shout, and the swallow darted in its bill and plucked out the insect's tongue.

They then proceeded to the court, where all living creatures were assembled to hear the decision. On being asked the outcome of its investigation the mosquito, which could now only buzz, was unable to make itself understood, and the swallow, pretending to be its spokesman, declared that the insect had said that it had found the blood of the frog the most delicious. Sentence was therefore given that frogs, not men, should be the serpent's food.

In its rage and disappointment the serpent darted forward to destroy the swallow. But the bird was too quick; the serpent succeeded only in biting some feathers out of the middle of the swallow's tail.

This is why swallows have forked tails.

ATTACKED BY A LION.

Awful Experience of a Railroad Man in Africa.

IN THE JAWS OF A MAN EATER.

Dragged From His Bed by the Fierce Monster, He Was Mangled and Gashed and Carried Off Bodily by the Brute.

The following description of an attack by a lion, as related to Mr. St. Michael Podmore, F. Z. S., while he was returning from a sojourn in the wild places of the earth, is so terribly realistic that we offer no apology for printing it. Mr. Podmore met the hero of this story while on a trip across the Pacific ocean and was shown the terrible scars on the man's body:

I was engaged on the transcontinental Cape to Cairo line, and our gang consisted of two white men and fifty blacks. We each occupied a separate hut.

One dark night I was aroused from sleep by hearing something moving backward and forward beneath my bed. Becoming alarmed, I listened breathlessly to a loud, long and indescribable snuff-snuff which broke the stillness of the night. My experience of Africa was not extensive, but I instantly realized that some wild animal was under my bed. Every one of my faculties became immediately paralyzed with horror. I was unable to utter a sound.

After a moment or two I became aware that a man eating lion was sniffing his way along the edges of the bed, perhaps a little puzzled at the mosquito curtains. I then felt I must do something, and instinctively, yet noiselessly, I huddled all the pillows and bedclothes over my head. No sooner had I done this than the lion, with a horrible purr, grabbed me by the right shoulder and dragged me out on to the floor and immediately began to suck the blood which streamed down my neck and chest, and every time I moved he bit me more savagely.

As I raised my knees to get into a crouching, protective position he gave me a little pat with his paw which nearly broke my leg and inflicted a dreadful wound. Then suddenly the monster dropped me out of his mouth, placed one massive paw on my chest, and then, throwing back his noble head, he gave four terrible roars of triumph and defiance.

My chum walked round the hut and then saw with horror the hole made by the lion, who had torn out the mat walls and crawled under my bed. Then it dawned upon him what had happened, so he ran round to the other side and kicked the door down.

All this time the only thing I seemed to take interest in was the loud sipping suck, suck, made by the lion as he drew my blood into his reeking jaws. I remembered, with a pang of regret, that I had not lived a model life recently, and I began to pray as I had never prayed before. As I prayed I thought how curious it was that I did not feel the slightest sense of pain with a man eating lion chewing my flesh and drinking my blood.

I had been lying on my back, with my neck and head resting against the side of the hut, when my friend smashed the door. As he did so the lion drove his terrible fangs into my right groin and leaped out of the hut into the darkness. As he ran with me he seemed to be twisting and jerking me round sideways, as though striving to get me on his back.

The lion ran across the clearing with me for about thirty yards and put me down under a big bonob tree. I lay on my back with the lion on top of me, occasionally gnawing with his great luminous, greenish yellow eyes, which filled me with unutterable loathing, so expressionless and cold were they, yet so diabolical in their ruthless cruelty.

The lion seemed perfectly content with his prey. I felt his long, rough tongue scraping up my thighs and abdomen, and as it crept higher and higher I felt little gusts of his horrible breath. I half turned my head away, but still the long, greedy tongue worked its way toward my throat. I could distinctly feel each bite, because, although it did not cause the slightest pain, yet as the fearful fangs were driven into a fresh place I was conscious of a strange numbness in that particular part.

During all this time the negroes kept screaming, "Nkanga, nkanga!" My friend kept running round the clearing in utter bewilderment. The appalling blackness of the night added horror to the thing which no pen could describe.

At last two negroes were induced to make a couple of torches of dry grass, and by the lurid and uncertain light of these the lion was seen standing over my prostrate body. He was an enormous brute, over ten feet in length, and with a luxuriant, tawny mane that imparted to him a most majestic appearance. My friend told me afterward that as he approached with his gun I was moaning and crooning softly to myself. For some time he was afraid to shoot lest he should kill me instead of the lion. He screamed out, "Keep cool, Jack, and I will see what I can do for you!"

As he crept nearer the lion took his rangs out of my groin and faced about, growling and snarling horribly. The rifle was leveled, there was a sharp report, and the first shot hit the lion in the eye. The ball as it came out shattered his lower jaw. Two more shots were fired, and the fierce monster fell dead by my side.—London Ideas.

Much Like Demosthenes.

"Woman," he said, "really ought to be a better orator than man."

"Why so?" she asked.

"Because," he replied, "to a certain extent at least she follows the methods of that famed orator Demosthenes."

"In what way?" she inquired, still busy with the finishing touches of her toilet.

"You remember," he answered, "that Demosthenes used to practice talking with his mouth full of pebbles."

She hastily took the pins out of her mouth and informed him that he was a mean old thing anyway.—New York Times.

He's From Missouri; You Have to Show Him.

Governor Folk is from Missouri. He's regarded as a pretty good citizen himself. See what he says about a certain sort of citizen:

"I do not believe in the mail order citizen. IT IS BETTER THAT WE SHOULD HAVE A THOUSAND TOWNS THAN ONE LARGE CITY. If a place is good enough for a man to make his money in, it certainly should be good enough for him to spend his money in. The merchants have a just right to all the business of the town in which they have their stores, and every good citizen will help them to get it."

Did you ever see a FINE LARGE FACT so simply stated?

AN ENGLISH BLIZZARD.

It Took a Regiment of Soldiers to Clear the Roads in 1836.

There was a certain Hercules engine which cut a noble figure in the English blizzard of 1836.

To appreciate the role played by the Hercules some idea must be given of the effect of the storm on other methods of travel. Fourteen mail coaches were abandoned on as many roads. Another was dug out of drifts five times between Exeter and London.

Another was buried so deep that it took 300 men, principally sappers and miners, several hours to make a passage to the coach and rescue the mails and passengers, while near Chatham the snow lay to a depth of thirty or forty feet, the military being turned out to the number of 600 to clear the way.

In London the drifts were ten feet deep, and hundreds of men and carts were employed hauling snow out to the fields in the suburbs. The markets were in a bad way. One day only four stall holders were able to reach a main market. Greens which a few days before the storm were being sold for threepence a bunch at market now fetched from tenpence to a shilling, turnips, carrots and celery becoming equally dear, while penny handfuls of parsley realized 2s. 6d., and the happy possessor of a bunch which he had previously purchased for ninepence realized for his prize no less a sum than 21 2s. 6d.

Amid all this confusion the pioneer railways covered themselves with glory by running trains almost without interruption. There was a deep cutting on one line where the snow had drifted badly, and great numbers of people turned out to see how the Hercules engine would get along. They imagined, of course, that she would be stopped, but to their astonishment the engine dashed right into the drift, "clearing her way through apparently without the slightest difficulty, the snow at the same time flying over the top of the engine chimney like foam from the broken waves of a violent sea, and notwithstanding obstructions the train came down from Greenhead (twenty miles) in one hour and a quarter."—London Queen.

Childhood Up to Date.

Little Harriet had broken the lid of the box in which her blocks had come. Calling her to account for it, her mother said:

"How did the box lid get broken?"

"I sat down on it when I wasn't lookin'."

"Oh, then you didn't mean to do it?"

"No, I didn't."

"Then mother will excuse you this time."

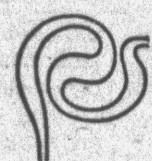

"Muvver can save herself the bother of scusin' me," replied Harriet. "I'll scuse myself if I need scusin'. That's my own play toy I broke."—Chicago News.

Kidney Troubles Attack Greenville Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quick with little warning. Children suffer in their early years—Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain. Women worry, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man, woman or child. Is to cure the cause—the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—

Cure all forms of kidney suffering. Greenville testimony proves it. Miss Susan Kinsaul, 503 N. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I derived great benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills and take pleasure in recommending them. For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and had distressing pains through my loins. My kidneys were very weak and the frequent passages of the secretions caused me great annoyance. My back pained me severely and when first arising in the morning I was so lame and sore that I could scarcely get around. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wooten's drug store and through their use I was entirely relieved of these troubles. The fact that my kidneys have given me no trouble since leads me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills most highly.

W. W. CLARK LEADS RACE.

New Bern Man Now First Choice for Judge.

Washington, D. C., Mar. 27.—The three Republican Congressmen from the State, Messrs. Morehead, Grant and Cowles, were at the white house today. They discussed the Eastern judgeship and ascertained that the president would not consider a western man, from which section they hail. This eliminates ex-Judge Spencer B. Adams and Thomas Settle, the appointment of both having been urged on different occasions by Republican congressmen.

The judgeship situation is now beginning to crystallize and it looks tonight as if W. W. Clark, of New Bern, has by far the best chance of capturing the plum. The president has asked many questions about Mr. Clark during the past few days and is much impressed with the fact that he has the consistent record of having voted for McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Some of the Tar Heel Republicans were disposed to balk at Clark, and one of them thought, when the president mentioned his name, that he was referring to Chief Justice Walter Clark. This caused a certain prominent Republican nearly to throw a fit, and he only became calm when assured by Mr. Taft that the Clark he had in mind had voted the whole Republican ticket, including J. Elwood Cox and his associates. Now the State Republicans claim W. W. Clark, of New Bern, as one of their very own.

The president has not decided the matter and another may be chosen, but as has been said, indications point to Clark's selection. He is certainly the favorite tonight over the other candidates.—T. J. Pence in News and Observer.
