THIS FOR "UNCLE BETTS."

First Man to Vote for Prohibition in Pitt County.

Editor Reflector:

Perhaps it will be interesting to your readers and to "Uncle Betts" to know who cast the first vote for prohibition in Pitt county. Last week while talking with some of the older folks about the wide sweep of prohibition the following bit of news was told me:

When Cleveland first ran for president in 1884, a prohibition candidate for president was placed before the people also. His name was St. John. Prohibition sentiment was by no means as strong then as it was in 1908 and there was only one lone man in the whole "state of Pitt" to cast a vote for this candidate—Mr. Stanley Parker. Some of Mr. Parker's friends laughed at him for being the only man in the county who wanted prohibition and he said something like this, "Yes I should have voted for him if I knew I was the only man in the United States, because prohibition is what I want."

The vote was cast in Beaver Dam township, where Mr. Parker still lives. Mr. Parker is fortunate enough to live to the time when the whole of North Carolina and a great many other States are prohibition, and when most every week some town, county or state "goes dry."

Money Making Scheme.

It is quite interesting to learn the various devices to which some people resort in order to sell their wares. For instance, several weeks ago two men came through this county selling clothing, one of them posing as the son of a wealthy Northern manufacturer and the other as a liveryman from Raleigh. After expatiating upon the particular quality of their cloth, they would induce their victim to buy, saying that their firm would send a tailor after them in a week, whose only charge for making the cloth into a first-class fitting suit would be $2 and board. And strange to say several of our county-men were gullible enough to order not only one but two suits and they are still waiting for their tailor who has not made his appearance nor doubtless ever will.

There are numerous such instances occurring in various ways every day, and yet we continue to believe we are striking a gold mine in such cases, if not actually "doing" the other fellow.—Pittsboro Record.

The Want Ads are Business Peacemakers

In the store, the office, the factory, the work-places, the home—wherever human interests clash, wherever workers and employers come to be discordant, wherever new workers or new work are the urgent need—the road to peace lies through the want ad. columns.

In almost every case, a peace-wrecking incident of daily life needs but the simple remedy of a little want advertising—whether it is the sudden exit of the servant, stenographer, clerk, cook, boarder, roomer, tenant; or the unexpected need to quickly "raise some money."

More and more, every day, in the lives and affairs of the people, the want ads. are coming to play the parts of adjusters, of vexation-preventers, of business peace makers!

GENERAL NEWS.

Some of the Happenings Over the Country.

Norfolk, April 1.—An early fire today swept an entire square away at Pine Beach, causing a heavy damage. More than a score of buildings were destroyed. The scene of the fire was just outside the Jamestown Exposition grounds and adjacent to the terminal of the Virginia railway. The town has practically been destroyed by fire within the last two years.

Georgetown, Ky., April 1.—A daring mail pouch robbery, in which the thieves got probably more than $50,000 in currency and checks, was made public yesterday, when iron and charred leather of two pouches were found by a boy near the crane from which they had been taken.

Leavenworth, Kansas, April 1.—It took 1,200 United States soldiers to maintain order and to prevent the prisoners from escaping during the fire which destroyed four buildings of the Federal military prison here early today. All of the 800 prisoners were marched out of their cell houses when it seemed that the whole prison certainly would be destroyed, and were held under heavy military guard until the fire was under control. Then after some of the cell houses had cooled sufficiently, they were marched back again.

What to Forget.

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's fault. Forget all the slander you ever heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault-finding, and only remember the good points which make you fond of them. Forget all personal quarrels or histories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are. Blot, as far as possible, all the disagreeableness of life; they will come, but will only grow larger when you remember them, and the constant thought of the acts of meanness, or, worse still, malice, will only tend to make you more familiar with them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday, start out with a clean sheet today, and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely and lovable.—Ex.

The Owl's Wisdom.

"In a hollow tree, during my vacation, I found two young owls," said a student. "I also found in the same nest two eggs. Puzzled that the mother owl should have abandoned her setting ere its completion, I laid the matter before my farmer host.

"The farmer told me that country people know well that the owl, after hatching half her brood, leaves the other eggs to be hatched by the new-born birds. These young ones are warm-blooded, they are helpless to leave the nest, and in nine cases out of ten they complete the hatch as well as the mother would have done. I'd consider this a superstition if I hadn't seen a proof of it."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Meeting of Aldermen Postponed.

Owing to the sickness of Mayor Whebedee the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Aldermen was not held Thursday night, but way postponed until Monday night, 5th.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Wilmington, N. C., April 1.—A grand jury in the Superior court here today found a true bill against the Diamond Match Company and its alleged representative Walter Buoy, of Charlotte, N. C., for alleged violation of the State anti-trust law, passed by the North Carolina General Assembly and prescribing a fine of $1,000 on corporations and $500 fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, upon individual violators.

Fayetteville, N. C., April 1.—At a meeting yesterday afternoon at 3:30 the Southern Life Insurance Company sold its business, amounting to four million and three quarters to the Jefferson Standard, of Raleigh, the price paid being $40,000.

New North Carolina Industries.

The Tradesman, of Chattanooga, reports the establishment of the following new industries in North Carolina for the week ending March 31st:

Hendersonville—$250,000 power plant.

Apex—$25,000 knitting mill.

Rutherfordton—Foundry.

Raleigh—Power company.

Judson—Lumber mill.

When to Lay By.

The absurd practice, so common all over the cotton belt, of stopping cultivation on a certain date instead of basing the length of time the crop should be cultivated on the stage of its growth and the weather conditions, is partially responsible for our small average yield. In most cases the yield can be much increased or the crop saved from great injury, by breaking the crust and preventing the evaporation of the water; that is, by saving it for the roots of the plants, instead of permitting it to go off into the air.

Of course, suggestions can be offered or plans made only for normal conditions, and if from any cause the grass and weeds get a start, the weeder and harrow will have to be laid aside and other tools used. But the methods of cultivation best suited to economical cultivation—that is, the use of the weeder and the harrow—are also the best tools for preventing the grass getting a start either in wet or dry weather.—Progressive Farmer.

The Little Things.

Do not punish the children for accidents which cannot be helped or which occur in unaccountable ways. Talk to them, and tell them that with a little care the loss could have been avoided, and impress it upon their minds that every breakage, or bit of destruction, is in some sort, a loss, and will bring hardship, or self-denial in order to be replaced. Teach them to think, and to realize that carelessness is always costly.—The Commoner.

The Grifton Bridge.

While at Grifton Thursday we walked out to see the new steel bridge that the commissioners of Pitt and Lenoir counties recently had built across the river at that place. It is an excellent bridge, built on the same plan and by the same company as the one at Greenville. The people of both counties adjacent to Grifton are well pleased with the bridge.

Red Men meet tonight.

ANIMALS' WEAPONS.

Toothless Ant Eaters Have Claws Capable of Killing a Man.

Not long ago a British scientist and animal lover contributed to the world the result of his studies of animal life. Not the least interesting of his observations was "How Animals Defend Themselves."

"The larger animals in general," he says, "are provided with weapons more or less effective. The carnivora have sharp teeth, with which they rend their prey, and the toothless ant eaters have enormous claws, capable of killing a man."

"Many reptiles use their tails to strike down their game, while a large number of animals are supplied with pungent odors or secretions that are equally potent as a defense. In certain groups we find enormous horns and tusks that are intended entirely for purposes of protection. In some cases they are upon the top of the head, as in cows or oxen. Again, as in the elephant or some cetaceans, they are highly developed teeth."

"Our common horned animals depend upon their head weapons for defense. They are of two distinct kinds and subject to a marvelous variation in the different families."

"One group, represented by the common cow, is called the hollow horned ruminants, because the weapons are hollow and persistent—that is, they are never shed except in one instance—the prong-horned antelope."

"Another great group, represented by the deer, have solid horns that are cast at certain times and grow again very rapidly."

"When a stag loses its horns it retires to the dense woods, away from its kind, and remains secluded until it is armed again. The growth of the new horn is very rapid."

"In the rhinoceros we find a curious arrangement, the horns in some being easily moved, seemingly only held by the skin. They form terrible weapons, however, though totally different in their construction from the ivory tusks of the elephant, with which they are often matched, being formed of hairy, fiberlike matter. Some species have a single horn, while others have two."

A Good Road from New York to Florida.

Rev. T. A. Cheatham, who recently returned from Pinehurst says that a number of wealthy Northerners informed him that the Automobile Association of the North had leagued together to build a macadamized road as near direct as possible from New York to Florida, to pass along the Coast line down to Weldon and from thence either by Henderson or Wilson in order to take in Pinehurst. The gentlemen informed him that they wanted the counties and cities along the route to help build the road since it would benefit the hotels and the territory through which it passed, and would prove a great advertisement, since the tourists would be stopping over here and in this way many would become attracted to our city.

Got the Laugh.

Passing through Winterville Thursday afternoon, the editor spied C. T. Cox standing in the crowd at the depot and stepped off the train long enough to get that laugh. Theodore prefaced it with a good joke on Captain Barr in reference to a prayer the latter made when in the hospital recently. The laugh came then sure enough, and was so contagious that it shook the train, or rather everybody in it. Theodore will take notice that it has been fixed with the powers that be in Greenville so that he can laugh as much as he pleases whenever he comes here, without fear of restraint or danger of being run in.

Manager Smith, of the telephone exchange, says the local ads, recently running in The Reflector have kept his construction crew busy putting in new phones. More evidence that advertising pays.

The Home Telephone and Telegraph Co., will sell a limited amount of advertising space in their new directory. The merchants and every one having anything to sell will find this class of advertising very profitable, as the directory will last for one year and will be distributed in Greenville, Ayden, Winterville, Grimesland and throughout Pitt county. FRIDAY, APR. 2, 1909.

The Butlers and Adams are having their inning at court in Greensboro.

When Democrats get over to advocating high tariff on any article it looks like wiping out political lines.

As to the Eastern North Carolina judgeship the Washington correspondents are on one side one day and on the other the next.

The Chamber of Commerce of Goldsboro has endorsed R. P. Foster to succeed the late Thomas Fitzgerald as one of the receivers of the Norfolk & Southern railroad. His appointment would be a good one.

Up in the Western part of the State a man who had been long employed by the Southern railway committed suicide, and now we see that his family is going to sue the railroad for a large sum on the ground that he overworked himself in the service of the road. That seems to be about the limit of damage suits.

The Durham Herald says "Two men can persuade a man to run for an office and three can make him think he is going to get it." That is quite true. It also sometimes happens that a man needs no one but himself to persuade him to run for office and it takes just one—the fellow who runs against him—to keep him from getting it.

If a tariff is wrong it is wrong, therefore one industry has no more ground for protection by a high tariff than another. If it is wrong to have a high tariff on steel it is equally wrong to have a high tariff on lumber. In fact the whole tariff business is more or less wrong, and every consumer should have the privilege of buying what he needs wherever he can get it cheapest.

The Concord Tribune is felicitating itself that one of the building and loan associations in that city has been doing considerable advertising with it during the past two weeks. This means that the association in question is going to do some business. The Charlotte associations, perhaps the most successful in the South, were liberal advertisers from the start, keeping themselves constantly in the eyes of the public. If a law were passed forbidding them to advertise their business, they would at once surrender their charters. Advertising pays in all lines of business, but is particularly effective in the case of building and loan associations.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Home Building & Loan Association of Greenville has also felt the effects of advertising. While not a regular user of newspaper space, it has done a good bit of it with beneficial results.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CHILDREN BEGGING FOR CHURCH FUNDS.

In a letter to the North Carolina Christian Advocate, a writer, signing himself "Itinerant" takes ground in opposition to a custom which, we are sorry to say, is in vogue all over the country—that of children begging for church purposes. In every city and town now and then you will see them on the streets, accosting every man they meet and either begging outright for a contribution to some church work, or insisting that he shall buy candy or something else they have for sale. At times they will make a house to house visitation for the same purpose to the great annoyance of the people in residence or office.

Besides the objections to this manner of raising church funds pointed out by "Itinerant" there is another serious one which, strange to say, seems never to have occurred to those parents who allow their children try to raise money in this way. That is that it tends to destroy the natural modesty and femininity of character of the little girls who engage in such work—and a large majority of the children who beg in the streets for church purposes are girls. Parents who would be horrified to learn that their little daughters had spent a whole day on the streets stopping every man they meet for the purpose of a chat will not only allow them to do the same if it is for the purpose of raising money for the church or Sunday school, but encourage them in doing so.

"Itinerant" says of the custom: "It may be seriously questioned whether it does more harm than good to send out a lot of small children on the streets of a town or city to raise money for the church. It is annoying to a great many people to be continually accosted by a swarm of little ones. Better for the official members to take a subscription book and present the matter in a business like way—first to all the members of the church, then to the friends among the outsiders. This will usually bring in ten times as much as the small coin collected by the little ones. When the church house is in need of repair it is the duty of the trustees to raise the money and do it. Do not make a pack-horse out of the little ones of the league, missionary society, or Sunday school, to carry the financial burdens which belong to the whole church."—Wilmington Star.

Patronize Home Talent—It Pays.

Last month a merchant a thousand miles from Chicago wanted to place over his store an electric light sign he had heard about in Chicago. Made a special trip there for specifications and terms. Too high!

Mr. Merchant returned home and incidentally told the local electrician about his troubles. Mr. Home Electrician replied that he could reproduce the Chicago sign, with improvements, at a price that suited. And he did so.

JUST THINK THIS OVER, WILL YOU?

HE GOT THE CHANGE.

Then He Got a Jolt When He Got Back to His Wife.

After haggling for twenty minutes over the price the dealer finally consented to let the vase go for $3.79. Mrs. Brownlee knew she was getting a bargain at that price, so she considerably refrained from insisting upon a further reduction.

"Have you the money with you to pay for it?" she said to Mr. Brownlee.

"I've $10," said Brownlee. "That'll do," she replied. "The man can change it."

Somewhat reluctantly Mr. Brownlee produced the bill. With equal reluctance the dealer refused it.

"No got a change," he said. "Saturday afternoon. Put alla da mon in da bank."

"But aren't there other shops near where they will change it for you?" asked Mrs. Brownlee.

"No leava shop," the Italian explained. "Boy gona home. Other customer he wants buy. Gota stay here."

Mrs. Brownlee was disappointed, but not discouraged.

"I must say," she said, rather severely, "that you don't seem very anxious to make a sale. However, I am bound to have that vase. Dear," to Brownlee, "suppose you get the bill changed. You'll only have to go down to the corner and buy a cigar."

Mr. Brownlee already had six cigars in his pocket, but he obediently made a trip to the nearest tobacconist's for another. He selected a strong, black cigar worth 15 cents and offered the ten dollar bill in payment.

"Smallest you've got?" asked the clerk.

Brownlee lied and said it was. "Sorry," said the clerk. "I can't change it. This is Saturday afternoon, and we've put most of our money in the bank."

Mr. Brownlee returned the cigar and renewed his quest for small change. The pursuit took him to two more cigar stores, two groceries, a drug store and a saloon. In the latter place, by appealing to all the other thirsty customers present, the desired change was finally secured in dollars, halves and quarters. Mr. Brownlee then took his bearings. He computed that in his wanderings he had traversed a distance of fourteen blocks and had consumed half an hour's time. As a result of that calculation he was in a bad humor when he again entered the little store.

"Here's the change," he said, "and a confoundedly hard time I had to get it too!"

Mrs. Brownlee patted his hand sympathetically.

"Oh," she said. "I'm so sorry! I shan't need it, after all. After you went out I saw several other little things that I liked, and I bought enough of them to come to the whole $10."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The Turkish Fez.

The use of the fez is not controlled by religious faith, for it is worn by all classes in the Turkish empire and even beyond its limits. It is said to derive its name from the African city of Fez. In the Levant it is more commonly known under the modern designation of tarbosh. While the fez is now distinctively Turkish or Mussulman, its use is by no means ancient among the Ottomans. It is said that it was introduced to Turkish use by the Sultan Mahmud II, who adopted it from the Greeks.

GAVE THE SALUTE.

The Old Soldier Obeyed the Command of the Young Officer.

At Siboney during the Spanish-American war a young lieutenant of a volunteer regiment was officer of the guard one day, and as he was strutting about in his new khaki uniform he noticed a man dressed in what looked like the cast off clothes of a private soldier coming toward him.

The man was apparently fifty-five to sixty years old, of dark complexion, with hair and mustache streaked with gray, and was clad in a faded blue army shirt, open at the neck, khaki trousers covered with mud tucked into boots in the same condition and a gray campaign hat much the worse for wear and having several holes cut in it for ventilating purposes.

He was strolling along, with his hands in his pockets, and passed the young lieutenant without a salute or a sign of recognition of his rank.

This was more than the young officer's dignity could stand, and he stopped the man with a sharp "Halt, there!"

The man halted and faced about, and the lieutenant asked:

"Are you in the army?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "Regulars or volunteers?"

"Regulars, sir."

"Haven't you been in the service long enough to know that it is customary to salute when you meet an officer in uniform?"

"I know that, sir, but down here we've sort of overlooked salutes and ceremony."

"Well, I haven't, and I want you to understand it. Now, attention!"

The man stood at attention.

"Salute!"

The salute was given.

"How long have you been in the service?"

"About thirty-five years, sir."

"Well, you have learned something about army regulations and customs this morning. Remember who gave you the lesson and when you meet me in uniform salute. I am Lieutenant — of the —. Now, what's your name and regiment?"

The man who had received the lesson had been smiling slightly under his mustache. Now he straightened up, saluted again and replied:

"General Adna B. Chaffee, sir, commanding the —th division."

When the dazed lieutenant found the use of his tongue again and began to excuse himself the old general said kindly:

"That's all right, my boy. You were right. Of course you didn't know. I suppose I do look pretty rough, and an enlisted man should salute an officer, even if we do overlook it sometimes. Always stick as closely to regulations as that and you will make a good officer."

The old soldier nodded pleasantly to the still bewildered young man and walked away.—New York Times.

Atchison's Most Generous Man.

They tell of an Atchison man who was going down street with a girl. She was one of the kind who believes in the power of the gentle hint, and as they passed a candy store she said:

"Doesn't that candy smell good?"

"Yes," the man replied, "let's stop here and smell it awhile!"—Atchison Globe.

Deciding the Ownership.

Two bosom friends were at odds over the ownership of an umbrella. "I tell you it's mine," persisted the first man.

"And I say that umbrella's mine," asserted the other.

"You're wrong. I've had it for six months at least. See the initials 'L. S.'?"

"Yes, but they're not your initials."

"No; they're the initials of the man I borrowed it from."—Lippincott's.

HANDICAPPED.

This is the Case With Many Greenville People.

Too many Greenville citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

The following statement should convince every Greenville reader of their efficiency.

J. Frank Powell, West Tarboro, N. C., says: "I suffered from a severe attack of La Grippe which left my kidneys disordered. Standing so much greatly aggravated the pains in my back and frequently I was forced to sit down. A dull ache across my loins kept me in almost constant misery and when I attempted to stoop or lift, sharp, shooting pains darted through me. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills and that they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since and my kidneys have been normal. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers."
