MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

ALDERMEN HOLD A LENGTHY SESSION.

General Matters of Importance Acted Upon.

The Board of Aldermen held its monthly meeting Monday night, the time being deferred from Thursday night of last week because of sickness of the mayor at that time. All members of the board were present and the meeting lasted until after midnight.

The street committee asked for information in regard to a culvert being built on Fourth street, the contractor being of the opinion that an 8-inch culvert as contemplated will not be sufficient. On motion the committee was instructed to have the size of the culvert increased to 12 inches if necessary.

A. L. Blow appeared before the board relative to a reduction of taxes on the Cabinet Veneer Co., action being deferred to next meeting.

The cemetery committee reported that the cemeteries had been cleaned out and were in good condition.

Reports of officers for the past month were read and approved.

F. G. James and H. A. White appeared before the board in reference to an ordinance submitted at last meeting prohibiting the storage of oil in town and unloading oil from tank cars into storage tanks. After some discussion a substitute ordinance was presented and adopted, the substitute forbidding the unloading of oil from tank cars on the main lines or regular side tracks of any railroad in the town, and requiring separate spur tracks to be built to storage tanks and tank cars placed on such spur tracks for unloading.

Some corrections were made in the tax list in the case of persons against whom taxes had been charged through error.

The sum of $100 was donated to the old soldiers to assist them in their annual reunion on the 10th of May.

The sum of $15 was donated to Hope Fire Company to pay the company's per capita tax for membership in the State Firemen's Association.

The chief of the fire department was instructed to have the hook and ladder truck placed in good condition at once, also to get necessary couplings for attaching fire hose to hydrants.

A communication from the Water and Light Commission was read recommending against the town furnishing water for fire protection free to corporations and stating that corporations should be placed on the same footing as individuals in regard to the use of water. Action on this was deferred to next meeting.

A bill of B. E. Parham for storage of cement and for damages to a horse caused by the animal falling in a ditch was referred to the finance committee for investigation.

A claim of Brinkley & Lassiter for damages caused by a sewer crossing their property was referred to the finance committee with power to act.

A claim of R. L. Humber for damages caused by the town using certain of his property for sidewalk on Dickinson avenue was referred to the finance committee with power to act.

Aldermen Flanagan and Hardee were appointed a committee to employ an expert side-

SOIL MAP OF PITT COUNTY.

OBJECT OF THE MAP AND WHAT IT SHOWS.

The Samples—The Report—How Maps May be Secured Free. Progress of Work and Benefits to be Derived from it Will be Given in the Columns of This Paper from Time to Time.

Mr. W. E. Hearne, of the bureau of soils United States Department of Agriculture, who has charge of the soil surveys in North Carolina and Mr. Frank P. Drane, who represents the North Carolina Department of Agriculture at Raleigh, are now completing the soil map of Pitt county. Within a few days Mr. Nelson and Mr. Hardison will join the party. Some work was done last fall, but it will require two or three months time to cover the county.

The base map used is being made up from the different sheets of United States geological survey. These cover most of the county and the remainder will be surveyed out so that a complete map of Pitt county will be made in one sheet on a scale of 1 inch to the mile. This map when published will show all the public roads, nearly all of the private roads, the streams, swamps, railroads, towns, post-offices, houses, schoolhouses, churches, names of places, township lines, and the elevation of land above sea level. On this base map will be shown in different colors the area and boundary of each kind or type of soil in the county, so that a person can look at the map and see at a glance what kind of soil there is in any part of the county.

Borings to a depth of 3 feet will be taken in the land to determine the character of the soil and subsoil. Several samples of soil and subsoil will be collected from each soil type and forwarded to Washington, D. C., and Raleigh, N. C., for both a mechanical and chemical analysis.

The report which will cover 30 or 40 printed pages will describe the location of Pitt county, its transportation facilities, markets, towns, climatic conditions and general surface features throughout, drainage, and condition of settlement. A chapter will also be prepared on the agriculture of the county, dealing with the crops grown, yields, value of these, size of farms, price of land, labor conditions, methods of cultivation, etc. Each soil type of which there are about 10 or 12 will be described in detail showing the character of its surface soil and the underlying material, the subsoil, to a depth of 3 feet.

These maps and reports will be published by the government and sent free to all who write to Congressman J. H. Small requesting one. Mr. Small has taken much interest in this section of North Carolina and it was at his repeated earnest requests that this work was done for the people of Pitt county. The maps alone would originally cost $2 or $3 each if made by the county or an individual and sold.

walk inspector to examine the concrete sidewalks of the town and report on their condition and durability.

GENERAL NEWS.

Some of the Happenings Over the Country.

Naples, April 5.—The Hamburg, with Theodore Roosevelt and party aboard, arrived here at 10:15 o'clock today, two hours and fifteen minutes late. A great crowd was at the pier and cheered the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. Ambassador Griscom went out in a tender to meet the ship. The Duke of Oasta, brother of the Duke of Abruzzi, sent one of his autos to convey Mr. Roosevelt to the royal villa.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 5.—A cigarette stub caused a $150,000 fire in the building occupied by the Stetson Piano Company today. The building was gutted. Five women music teachers were rescued from the building. As the firemen broke in the doors an explosion hurled them right and left, some flying all the way across the street. Three were injured so severely they had to be taken to a hospital.

CHARLOTTE INVITES GOVERNORS.

Chief Executive of Thirteen Original States to Participate in Celebration.

Charlotte, April 5.—The central committee which is directing the program of exercises to be held here on the twentieth of May in celebration of the 134th anniversary of the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, has invited the governors of the thirteen original States to come to Charlotte for the three days' festivities. Governor Eben S. Draper has accepted.

The people of Charlotte are preparing to give Mr. Taft the greatest reception ever accorded a president of the United States in a Southern city. Local officials of both the Southern and Seaboard railroads have given the assurance that ample train accommodations will be provided and that reduced rates will be offered. Special trains will be operated into the city on the 20th, "Taft Day", from all directions.

INTEREST IN GOOD ROADS INCREASING.

The mile of sand-clay road which the Board of County Commissioners recently had constructed under the direction of a government engineer as an object lesson in road building, is bearing fruit. People from various sections of the county have inspected this piece of road and it has awaked an interest in better roads that is spreading.

On Monday citizens living in a few miles of Greenville on what is known as the Farmville road, were before the commissioners with a request that the convict force be assigned to do a month's work toward building two miles of sand-clay road beginning at the limits of the town. This request was accompanied by cash subscriptions aggregating about $350 which the petitioners offered to donate to the township road fund to help defray the expenses of making this two miles of road. The people manifesting such an interest as this in tendering nearly enough money to defray the expense of a month's work by the convicts, the commissioners wisely accepted their proposition and ordered that the work proceed at once.

At the same meeting representatives from Bethel township were before the board asking for the convicts to be sent to build some good roads in that township, the township already having a considerable road fund to its credit to be used for this purpose. The board ordered that the convicts be taken to that township the first week in May to do the work.

Thus the good work of road building in the county is getting well under way, and The Reflector hopes it will go on until every section of the county shall have good roads.

Raleigh has done well once more by convicting three defendants of murder in the second degree who got sentences of from two to thirty years.

The crop of candidates for the Eastern Carolina judgeship is growing larger with the prospects of an appointment still further muddled.

They may scratch, but it is best to stick to them at least until the Charlotte Observer says take 'em off.

Those congressmen who think they are getting too much salary might return part of it. But will they?

Suppose President Taft should appoint a Democrat for judge and the senate refuse to confirm him.

They have been to Washington and returned, and no appointment of judge is yet announced?

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Sport.

"The slaughter of animals of any kind for mere pleasure ought to be prohibited by law. It is the writer's firm belief that a fully awakened conscience will recognize animal rights as well as human rights, and certainly there is no right more sacred to either animal or human than the right to live.

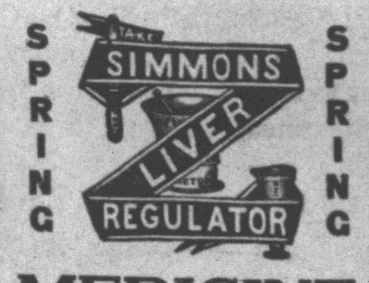

"To the writer, nothing short of the wholesale massacre of human beings could be more hideous than going out with a shotgun to kill birds, or with a rifle to destroy the graceful antelope or busy rabbits or squirrels, all actively at work performing offices in the economy of nature. Think of the millions of murders which are daily committed in the name of sport, of the vast number of noble, happy creatures which are shot down, either killed outright, or maimed and mutilated, to linger out a miserable existence, and finally to die of pain or starvation."—Dr. J. H. Kellogg.

"The Biggest Four."

Good churches, good schools, good roads, good citizens. We have heard of the "big four", but the above four things enumerated are the biggest four things of public interest of which we have ever heard or read. The last of the four named is the logical result of the other three named. How can a man be a pious church member when he must travel over roads to church which make him have evil thoughts? How can a man be what he should be without some intelligence, and how can he be intelligent if he must stay at home three months in the year on account of bad roads?—Newton News.

When Andrew Jackson was president the big surplus in the treasury was distributed to the States and used for educational purposes. If a Republican of this generation had been president instead of Old Hickory there would have been a deficit instead of a surplus. Now Murdock, of Kansas, wants the States to return that $28,000,000. Kansas was not a State then. Though it has a big school fund from public lands that no old State enjoys it wishes those States to tax their people to return this sum to help Kansas and other new States.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Pouring Prosperity Through a Puncture.

Ever see a drunken man trying to fill a bottle with the bottom broken out? It's a great waste, and it looks mighty silly.

But it's no more foolish and no more wasteful than for a sober man to expect his town to fill up with people and bubble over with prosperity when he is continually pouring his dollars into the wide world outside THROUGH THE MAIL ORDER HOLE in the bottom of his home town.

MORAL: Patronize home industries.

Man's Contrariness.

One of the most curious traits of that most curious creature, man, is the fact that the very things he most admires in a sweetheart he condemns or ignores in a wife. Before they were married when she coquettishly stuck a flower in her pretty curls he went into rhapsodies of romantic fervor. After the honeymoon when she tries the same little Cupid's trick he most likely does not even see that she has adorned herself with a floral wreath to win a compliment or a kiss.—Annesley Kenealy in Woman's Life.

Refused to Accompany Her.

A noted German lyric soprano, who may as well be nameless here, as she is no longer before the public, developed in her later years a habit of singing out of tune. One night at a small company, being asked to sing, she promptly consented, and her hostess then went to Otto Lessmann, the German critic, who was present, and said: "Herr Lessmann, will you accompany Madam Blank?" "With pleasure. Where is she going?" "Why, to sing." "No, pardon me, not there."—New York Tribune.

An Easy Remedy.

He—Your milliner's bill cost me last year as much as the salary of my two bookkeepers. That is more than I can afford. She—Well, discharge one of them.—Fliegende Blatter.

What the eye sees not the heart is not.—Camplou.

Mothers and Husbands.

Once I was young, now I am old, and I have never seen a girl that was unfaithful to her mother that ever came to be worth a one eyed button to her husband. It is the law of God. It isn't exactly in the Bible, but it is written large in the miserable lives of many unfortunate homes. I am speaking for the boys this time. If any of you chaps ever come across a girl that, with a face full of roses, says to you as you come to the door, "I can't go for thirty minutes yet, for the dishes are not washed," you wait for that girl. You sit right down on the doorstep and wait for her, because some other fellow may come along and carry her off, and right there you lose an angel.—Bill Arp.

A Dubious Tribute.

The young theological student who had been supplying the Bushby pulpit for two Sundays looked wistfully at Mrs. Kingman, his hostess for the time-being. "Did you like the sermon this morning, if I may ask?" he inquired. "You done real well with the material you selected," said Mrs. Kingman, with much cordiality. "As I said to Zenas on the way home, I've heard a dozen or more sermons preached on that text, and this young man's the first one that ever made me realize how difficult 'twas to explain."—Youth's Companion.

We have committed the Golden Rule to memory. Now let us commit it to life.—Markham.

BAIT FOR ALLIGATORS.

The Way a Mexican Indian Gathers in the Ugly Beasts.

A Pinto Indian of eastern Tabasco adopted a novel method of catching alligators. The Indian's weapons were a harpoon, a stout club and a coil of tarred lariats. For bait he used a sucking pig, a box of something which smelled offensively and several chunks of half roasted meat.

Selecting an overhanging bough about six yards from the water's edge, the Indian stripped off its leaves and suspended from the fork the squealing pig. That was the bait for the eyes and ears of the alligator.

Opening the box, he used its offensive contents to grease a string, one end of which he tied to a bush, and, weighting the other with a piece of wood, threw it into the river. That was the nose bait.

Between the thicket and the water's edge was a long sand dam, capped with a row of gnarled logs. Taking the chunks of meat, he placed them at equal intervals between the beach and the ridge of the dam. "This is my grub bait," said the Indian. "It will make him mount the barrea" (barricade).

Stimulating the pig with a kick that caused it to squeal for the next ten minutes, the Indian waited in ambush, harpoon in hand. One end of a long lariat was fastened to it and the other to a tough elastic sapling. The sun had set and it was growing dark when a dark object was seen rising slowly from the water and sprawl up the dam. The first chunk of roast bait was gobbled.

"He's smacking his chops!" chuckled the Indian. "It's the same one eyed old sinner that owes me two pigs, but he's going to pay his debts."

Gobbling the second chunk, the alligator crawled on, swallowing the third, and at the sight of the hanging pig stopped and glared. Suddenly he pushed forward and fell into a sandy hollow behind the dam.

Instantly he turned and headed for the dam. Up sprang the Pinto and hurled the harpoon through his scaly hide. "I got you this time!" he shouted.

Jerked back by the tension of the lariat, the alligator made the leaves fly with his switching tail and would have snapped the rope if the elasticity of the sapling had not broken the force of his spring as he plunged forward again and again.

Seizing the club and jumping around the floundering prisoner, the Indian dealt him a whack across the head that laid him sprawling on his back. Three more blows, and the alligator had paid his debt.—New York World.

The Care of the Eyes.

When one is using the eyes for close work it is wise to change the focus at intervals and gaze off at a distance. If the distant view is of green mountains and fields it will be most restful. If the air in the room can be frequently changed that will rest the eyes also. One should never use the eyes for study or work before breakfast or after the strength has been reduced by disease or a nervous strain. A book should be held about eighteen inches from the eyes. The light for work should be steady and for an entire room diffused rather than spotty.—Harper's Bazar.

Disraeli Among the Lords.

Disraeli was a past master of the art of flattery, but his audacity carried him out of danger. Soon after his elevation to the house of lords he was asked by a brother peer how he felt in his new surroundings. "Oh, don't ask me," he groaned; "dead and buried."

Then, remembering that his questioner was of the company which he was condemning, he added, "and in the realms of the blessed!"—Westminster Gazette.

JOHNSON'S JAG.

A Telephone Talk That Must Have Had a Queer Sequel.

McCarty has a fondness for a joke. If a really glittering opportunity turns up, his well controlled conscience is no obstacle to his devoting all the time necessary to the thorough and artistic performance of his jokelet, which is bad for business, but seems to be good for McCarty's digestion.

The other afternoon the telephone rang. A woman was on the wire. She had the wrong number, which made no difference to McCarty. He was in need of relaxation, and the following one sided conversation ensued:

"Yes—yes, this is humpty-umpsteen-seven Rector."

"Who? Mr. Johnson? Oh, yes, Mr. Johnson—sure," he lied pleasantly.

"Did you want to speak to him?" inquired McCarty sweetly.

"You're sure it's Mr. Johnson you want to talk to?"

Here McCarty held his hand over the mouthpiece and forcibly admonished the office boy, who, with humane intentions, had come to rescue the 'switchboard, suspecting trouble. "G'wan now! I'm doin' this," remarked McCarty, fixing the mental with an eagle eye.

"Could you give me the message, ma'am, and I'll deliver it to Mr. Johnson?" he resumed with engaging politeness.

"Oh, you must speak to him personally if he is busy?" McCarty's voice was an interrogation point.

"You want Mr. Johnson himself to step to the telephone, and you are Mrs. Johnson?"

"Well, ma'am, you see he ain't stepping much now—that is—I mean—he is—well—er—er"—He hesitated in elaborate confusion.

"Yes'm, I am explaining what's the matter. He—well, you see, your husband would be willing to come to the telephone, but he isn't exactly able."

"No, he's not just what you'd call busy."

"No, he's not ill. He's doing nicely."

"We have 'im on the lounge in the directors' room, and we're doing all we can for him"

"Oh, no, ma'am, you needn't be at all alarmed. He's not able to walk yet, but we'll soon have him all right."

"No, no—not ill. I say he's not ill; he's dr—that is, intoxicated, ma'am, but you needn't—What's that?"

"You've never seen him intoxicated—well, you ought to see him now. What?"

"You—ill—"

"Oh. She's rung off."

"Now, who in the deuce—who d'yer s'pose Mr. Johnson is, and what d'yer s'pose will be comin' to him when he gets home? Oh, gee!" And McCarty gurgled with joy as he swung back into his seat, and his typewriter clicked innocently out upon the office atmosphere.—New York Press.

Breaking Out the Colors.

A pretty sight aboard ship is the breaking out of the flags on reaching a port. At the appointed time a seaman takes his station at the forward mast and another at the rear mast. In his hand is a small silken bundle, tightly rolled. This is sent aloft. When the signal to break out the colors is given a cord is pulled, the bundle unrolls, and a splendid silk flag flutters out into the breeze. At the foremast is that of the nation whose port the ship is entering, while that on the rear mast is the flag of the steamship company, the ship's nationality being advertised by a large flag at the stern. The latter is lowered, dipped, by way of salute when an other steamer is passed out in the ocean.—H. J. Blanton in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Politician and Patriot.

Teacher—What is the difference between a politician and a patriot? Scholar—A patriot does something for his country; a politician does his country.—Pittsburg Press.

It is sometimes expedient to forget what you know.—Syrus.

A WARNING DREAM.

The Vision Lincoln Saw Several Times in His Sleep.

Napoleon believed devoutly in dreams as warnings or even as forecasts of what was to come, and even he who most prides himself upon his freedom from superstition knows of or has experienced at least one dream that cannot be explained as a mere result of overfeeding.

When we contemplate dreams and their ramifications science can help us but little in their explanation. While Collins showed this to be so in one of his most ingenious novels, "Armada," Warning dreams or premonitions may be the result of natural laws which we do not understand.

Lincoln was not counted superstitious because he had some confidence in the prophetic character of one dream, at least, for it visited his sleep on several occasions, and he spoke of it seriously to members of his family and to his closest friends. In telling of this vision he said he seemed to be in "a singular, indescribable vessel, but always the same, moving with great rapidity toward a dark and indefinite shore."

The dream preceded several marked incidents during his occupancy of the presidential chair, notably before the battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg.

On the morning of the memorable 14th of April he informed members of his cabinet that he had dreamed this same thing the night before and believed that they were on the threshold of some momentous issue. So impressive were his remarks that his auditors were profoundly moved, but no seer among them could read the warning aright and foresee the awful news of his assassination which should be flashed that night to a stunned and horrified people!—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Odd Old Custom.

When a new associate of the Royal Academy is elected some of the academy models dash off with the news, and the first to arrive with the glad tidings at the house of the fortunate artist is by custom rewarded with a guinea. It says much for the honesty of artists' models as a class that no case is known of one of them having obtained this guinea by false pretenses from some obscure and wealthy amateur.—London Punch.

Not Her Fault.

"It is the duty of every man and woman to be married at the age of twenty-two," said the lecturer. "Well," said a woman of thirty, with some asperity, "you needn't tell me that. Talk to the men."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Consideration.

The only true source of politeness is consideration—that vigilant moral sense which never loses sight of the rights, the claims and the sensibilities of others. This is the one quality over all others necessary to make a gentleman.—Simms.

Senatorial Temper.

A good way to tell the disposition and temperament of a senator is to watch him when he gives the three rings for the senate elevator. The rule is when three are given, no matter who is on the elevator or where it is going, the elevator man must hasten the car in answer to the rings. If the senator who rings is at peace with the world and the White House he will permit the car to go to its destination with the passengers. If the bell ringer is a grouch he compels the car to be stopped, and he has to be carried to his objective point, no matter who is aboard or how much hurry they may be in.—Washington Star.

Arizona's Wonderful Canyon.

How many Americans trot off to Europe in search of something new who have never seen and probably never known of the Grand Canyon of Arizona, the most stupendous, awful, mysterious, beautiful and attractive natural wonder in the world! It has a depth of 6,000 feet, is over 60,000 feet wide and incloses a magnificent river, framed in by giant peaks with all the colors of the rainbow. This magnificent canyon has been brought within easy reach by Pullman car from our great cities. A trip can be made from New York in three days and from Chicago in two.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Storm Nose.

The curious name "storm nose" is given in Germany to the wave of high barometric pressure which often precedes a storm or a heavy squall. The barometer rises suddenly and then falls more gradually. It is believed that this phenomenon is responsible for sudden changes in the level of the sea. Observations on the seas surrounding Denmark have led to the conclusion that the change of level thus produced sometimes amounts to no less than three feet.

Was Dr. Johnson Bashful?

On the eve of leaving London for Canada Mrs. Brooke, who wrote "The History of Emily Montague," the first novel written in Canada, gave a farewell party, Hannah More, Johnson and Boswell being of the company. Dr. Johnson was obliged to leave early and apparently departed after wishing his hostess health and happiness. Shortly after a servant whispered to Mrs. Brooke that a gentleman was waiting below to speak to her. Running downstairs, the fair novelist found the venerable lexicographer. "Madam," said he ponderously, "I sent for you downstairs that I might kiss you, which I did not choose to do before so much company."

Birds in Winter.

Though birds have a much higher temperature than a man's—man's is 98, while theirs is 107—they suffer cruelly from the winter cold. In a mutton country it is not uncommon to find sheep with dead birds fastened on their backs. The little, cold creatures snuggle in the sheep's wool to get warm, their feet become entangled in the fleece, and they starve to death.

COX'S MILL ITEMS.

Cox's Mill, N. C., April 5.

There was a large and well behaved crowd at the closing of Miss Lela Roach's school at the McGowan school house Wednesday night. After a song and music by the school Prof. Lineberry spoke in his happy manner for more than an hour on educational lines and fully captivated the crowd. Miss Roach gave a gold pen to the one that made the most improvement in writing and it was awarded to Eula May Cox, the daughter of W. S. Cox. Next was a Bible given by W. F. Carroll for the best attendance and that was awarded to Lee, the little seven year old son of Macon Haddock. The prizes were presented by Prof. Lineberry in a most appropriate way. In all it was a most enjoyable occasion and we hope to have him with us again.

Farmers are about done hauling fertilizers and have begun to plant corn. With good weather they will most finish this week. Tobacco setting and cotton planting will begin between the fifteenth and twentieth. Tobacco plants seem to be plentiful and look well. Farmers should not forget to plant a plenty of corn and peas, as bread is the staff of life. It is not well to plant all tobacco and cotton, if they do they may expect to pay high for it. We should plant a plenty of peanuts to fatten our meat. When a farmer has a well filled smoke house and barn jow prices don't hurt him so bad.

Miss Lela Roach returned to her home at Coxville yesterday. Little Alma Laughinghouse accompanied her home.

Miss Lala Chapman has been visiting the Misses Carroll for the past few days and her old students were very glad to see her.

Charlie Tucker, from near Greenville, and Earnest Tripp, from near Winterville, were in our section Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Cox, of Winterville, were visiting their son, W. S. Cox, Sunday.
