WILL FARMERS TAKE ADVICE?

We are in receipt of a communication from an experienced tobacco man in the West, and among other things he asks this significant question: "Don't you think the more you advise farmers to plant small crops of tobacco the harder they will strive to do the reverse?" Since receiving this communication we have thought much on this line, and it really seems that the query carries with it a most significant truth, that the farmers are determined to act directly in opposition to the advice given them on the tobacco subject through the newspapers and trade journals of the country. It seems strange that intelligent men should be so blind to their own interest and suspicious of foul play from those who attempt to give them the best advice on a subject that is of so much importance to them.

Through months of hard toil the Southern Tobacco Journal has striven to give its farmer readers the very best advice on this subject. All the time we have advocated small crops and good tobacco, and yet we find that the planters are suspicious of our intentions and seem to think that they are biased by some clique or ring. It is hardly necessary to say that such suspicions are entirely unnecessary and that the Journal is owned and controlled by no one except its editor and proprietor. We have advocated small crops in Virginia and the Carolinas simply because we knew it was for the best of the planters. We have advocated the growing of good tobacco only because we are convinced that no other kind pays the cost of production. Last year the acreage was reduced simply because it was a matter of necessity. The farmers had been growing large crops, and consequently poor tobacco, so long that they were actually unable to plant a large crop.

The reduced crop and better tobacco has placed many of them better in circumstances this year, and we should not be surprised to see many of them go back to their old folly again. If you do this, farmers, our hands are clean from the error you make. We have given it from a purely unselfish motive. We have used all the argument necessary to show you the foolishness of over-production and now if you will not heed the warning given the evil that must follow your error will be upon your heads, not ours. In this effort we have not stood alone. The newspapers throughout this and adjoining States have lifted their voices heroically against the sin of over-production, and even their good intentions have also been treated with suspicion. You know yourselves the error you commit in trying to grow large crops, and yet you have not the manhood to correct the wrong. Your jealousy think that you neighbor is going to plant an acre more than you, and you don't want him to beat you on this score. You hear so much about the probability of a small crop that you want to put in a big crop and steal a march on your neighbor. You lose sight of this important truth: That the planting of a large crop insures poor tobacco, and hence poor prices.

Planters, it is time to give up such foolishness and be yourselves for once. It is time to throw aside those petty jealousies which have held you slaves so long, and for once act upon the

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Yesterday the application of Prof. Z. D. McWhorter, of Mount Olive, for the position of Superintendent of the city schools for the coming session was accepted at a meeting of the school board of the city. Prof. McWhorter is an educator of long experience and is a valuable find by the board to fill the position of Prof. W. V. Boyle who has tendered his resignation to become effective with the close of the present session.—Rocky Mount Record.

Wilson, N. C., April 21.—The same old unloaded pistol claims another victim. At the Dennis-Simmons lumber camp near Middlesex, on the Norfolk & Southern road, last Sunday morning two negro boys were playing with a pistol when it was discharged accidentally (as is claimed by the boy who held the pistol). The ball entered just back of the crown of the head and imbedded itself in the boy's brain.

The boy who was shot—Sylvester Griffin—was brought to Wilson last Monday morning and taken to the Philadelphia Hotel on the "East Side," where he now lies in a critical condition—his tongue and right side being paralyzed. It is said to be a hopeless case.

THE JUDGE WAS WITH HER.

And Witness Did Not Have to Tell Her Age.

During the progress of a trial in court Wednesday, a woman whose face indicated that she had seen numerous summers was on the witness stand. While under cross examination, one question asked by counsel was her age. The woman fell back on her rights and refused to answer, whereupon the lawyer appealed to the court.

"Do you object to telling your age?" asked Judge Cook.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"Are you married?" was the next question.

"No, sir, but I have been."

"Then you are a widow," remarked the judge, and turning to the lawyer added "The court declines to make the witness testify."

Suit Against Asylum Officials.

The Taylorsville Stout of last week had the following:

The parents of Miss Bolinger, who was stabbed and killed by young Rader in Catawba county last year, have brought suit against the executive board and superintendent of the State Hospital, Morganton, for damages, claiming negligence on the part of these officials in releasing Rader from the asylum.

"It will be recalled that Rader was an inmate of the Morganton asylum but was released at the solicitation of his parents and carried to his home in Catawba county. Soon after his release he met Miss Bolinger, who was a former sweetheart of his, at church and stabbed her to death. The suit against these officials is a private one and not against the institution itself."

recommendation of common sense. Throw aside your suspicions that the newspapers are advising you against your best interests, and know that such advice is given from a higher motive and that your prosperity means the prosperity of the entire country.—Southern Tobacco Journal.

IMPROVE THE HIGHWAYS.

In his speech before the tobacco growers Tuesday Col. Grimes referred to the rapid growth and development of Pitt county in the cause of education. He said educational progress and improved highways went hand in hand and made more for the development of the material prosperity of the people than anything else. There is nothing the people of this county can do that will add as much wealth in as short time to what we already have as the improvement of our highways. Like education it requires agitation to get this improvement. Unfortunately those whom improved roads would most largely benefit and who would derive the greatest economy from the establishment of improved roads are more or less silent on this question.

The sand-clay road which the county has recently built is an object lesson and is causing more favorable comment than all the talk that can be made about this question and a few more such roads in this county within the next year, and within the short space of a few years, every important public road in the county will be made into this kind of a road. When that good day comes the value of the property lying along and adjacent to these roads will be worth double what it is today, and every acre of Pitt county land will be increased proportionally.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

Rochdale, N. C., April 21, 1909.

I will say to the editor and readers of The Reflector that hereafter I will write under the head of Rochdale Items instead of Rochdale Sprouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills Smith went to Greenville Wednesday evening shopping and came home in a shower of rain.

Mrs. C. L. Tyson and son, Leon, of Renston, were visiting in our section Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Smith went to Greenville Saturday.

Mrs. Mills Smith and children went to visit her sister, Mrs. R. A. Nichols, of Poketink, Saturday.

Eld G. H. Crumpler came down from Wilson Saturday evening and spent the night with Ivy Smith. He preached a very good sermon at 11 a. m. Sunday and went to Greenville that evening to hear Dr. Colyer, the able evangelist that has commenced a two weeks' meeting in the Christian church there.

Lloyd Smith went to Greenville Saturday.

R. E. Willoughby went to Farmville Saturday evening.

We had a very good Sunday school at Smith's school house Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Starkey and J. Robt. McArthur spent the evening at Mills Smith's Sunday.

Misses Rosa and Ellen Smith went to Pearce's school house near Ayden, Friday, to attend a picnic. Miss Ellen returned home Sunday and Rosa Miss returned Monday. They report one of the finest times on record.

We learned last night that Mr. Joe Barrett, one of the mail carriers of Farmville, died Sunday and was buried Monday evening.

Some of the farmers in our section will soon be transplanting tobacco. R. E. Willoughby says he expects to commence this evening.

SUPERIOR COURT.

April Criminal Term in Session.

The following cases have been disposed of:

Lafayette Dudley, removing crops, not guilty.

The grand jury returned a true bill for murder against Aaron May, charged with the murder of Mack Harris.

Mollie Butler, keeping bawdy house, guilty.

Bill Faison, trespass, not guilty. Samuel Brown, larceny, mistrial.

Mack Daniel, assault with deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapon, guilty of second charge.

Fred Dixon, Babe Daniel and Adrian Page, cruelty to fowls. Dixon not guilty, Daniel and Page guilty.

Ed Patella, larceny, pleads guilty, sentenced six months on roads.

Joe Ross, assault with deadly weapon, not guilty.

Mack Brown, failing to list taxes, pleads guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs and taxes.

Robert Clark, abandonment, guilty, sentenced seven months on roads.

Willis Jenkins, assault with deadly weapon, guilty.

J. B. Hardy and Alfred Hardy, highway robbery, not guilty. State takes appeal to Supreme court. This case consumed all of Wednesday and attracted much interest.

GAMBLING IS GAMBLING.

Judge Cook Says Playing Cards for Prizes Must Stop.

Judge C. M. Cook holds the opinion that gambling in all its forms is contrary to law and should be stopped. Wednesday he had the grand jury brought before the court and delivered to them a special charge on this subject in which he pointed out the evil effects of any kind of gambling. He said it had come to his knowledge that a number of ladies in Greenville had been playing cards for silk stockings and other prizes, which he considered a form of gambling having a very bad effect on the morals of the community. He directed the foreman to investigate this matter and make presentment of every violation he could find.

Judge Cook said that in making this charge and giving this instruction to the grand jury it was not his purpose to bring these ladies into court at this time, but he wanted the presentments made and would then have the ladies advised that they must cease this practice of playing cards for prizes, or if he came back to hold another court here would direct the solicitor to draw a bill of indictment against every offender.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds W. M. Moore has issued the following licenses since last report:

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

E. G. Cox, of Greensboro, was here today.

D. J. Whichard, went to Washington today.

F. V. Johnson went to Washington Wednesday.

Richard Randolph went to Washington Wednesday evening.

John Ivy Smith went to Washington Wednesday evening to attend the jubilee.

Mrs. V. H. Whichard left this morning for Panacea Springs to visit her daughter.

Mrs. George Hackney, of Wilson, spent Wednesday here with her son, E. L. Daughtridge.

A. F. Kennedy, of Panacea Springs, spent last night here and returned home this morning.

Mrs. W. L. Tucker and Miss Jennie Congleton went to Washington this morning to attend the jubilee.

J. J. Dancy, of Richmond, came in Wednesday evening to be with his sister, Mrs. M. M. Nelson, who is very sick.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., April 21, 1909.

J. D. Cox came in from Fairmont, Robeson county, Saturday evening to be at home a few days. Rev. T. H. King filled his regular appointment at Tucker's school house Sunday afternoon.

The primary for nominating town officers to be elected the first Monday in May was held Monday night. R. G. Chapman was renominated for mayor by acclamation. A. G. Cox, L. L. Kittrell and J. K. Barnhill were renominated for aldermen and C. S. Smith renominated for policeman. The greatest harmony prevailed. We have an excellent set of town officers and our people appreciate their efforts in keeping the town affairs in excellent shape.

We were delighted to have Rev. Mr. Joyner and Miss Lillian Munn, of Ayden, with us Sunday. They brought with them about twenty-five bright children. They sang at the Baptist church Sunday morning and rendered a most delightful temperance program at the Free Will Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bring those children again. We want to congratulate Miss Munn for the excellent manner in which she has trained those children. You may talk about child training all you please, but we say carry out Solomon's injunction.

Several of our citizens are attending court this week but we are glad to say none of them are "defendants."

Misses Edith and Beulah Munn, of Ayden, attended services here Sunday.

Jesse Rollins and Eugene Cannon went to the show last night. The boys got pretty muddy while returning. They will tell you about the trip.

Meeting Growing in Interest.

There was another delightful service in the Baptist church last night. Rev. Mr. Lumpkin preached an excellent sermon on power in the Christian service, how to obtain it and the price to be paid for it. The attendance at this service was larger than at any time since the meeting began.

Services again tonight beginning at 7:45.

Greenville Firm Bids.

Mr. C. V. York returned Wednesday from Raleigh where he had been to represent the Building & Lumber Co. in bidding on a contract for an additional dormitory to be erected at the A. & M. College. There were eleven bidders, the average being about $43,000. The Greenville firm made the second lowest bid, being about $400 above a Newport News firm who got the contract at $38,470.

FLASH LIGHT TO MARS.

In July the planet Mars will be within thirty-five million miles of the earth, or five million miles nearer than ever before. Dr. Pickering, Harvard's professor of astronomy, thinks that he can be able to send out a signal that will attract the attention of the people of Mars, taking it for granted that Mars is inhabited by a race of intelligent human beings. His plan provides for a series of mirrors occupying about a quarter of an acre in extent and forming a great searchlight. He thinks the reflection from these mirrors would reach Mars and the ray could be shot in dots and dashes, like a telegraph code. It is all rheoretical and would be an interesting experiment but for one thing. Professor Pickering figures that his flashlight plant would cost $10,000,000. It is to be imagined that he would have some difficulty in floating that amount of stock.—Charlotte Observer.

Certainly he would on such a senseless project as that. What do our folks need to care about Mars forty million miles away from us? There are enough people on this globe to look after, without trying to cover so much empty space.

They must regard a call for a meeting as a joke. At any rate the last time the Retail Merchants Association was asked to meet only three members put in their appearance, so we are advised by the secretary. That is not a manifestation of much interest in matters looking to the advancement of their business. With an inactive merchants association and an inactive chamber of commerce Greenville is not likely to get all that belongs to her until there is a change.

Senator Tillman made a call at the White House the other day, something he had not done in several years. The reason assigned for this bit of self-denial was that he desired to wait "until there was a gentlemen inside." Won't that make Roosevelt show his teeth when he reads it?

The Wisconsin legislature passed a resolution calling upon congress to investigate the cornering of wheat. What's the use? As long as such gambling is allowed of course a man with money enough will corner a product if he can. The thing to do is stop the gambling.

An income tax amendment has been offered to the tariff bill now pending before the United States Senate. The income tax feature will likely get killed, but ought to be a live and active law.

When our Bob Glenn opens his face there is something said, and when he says a thing he sticks to it. Even the Texas legislature is wiser by having gained this knowledge.

We do not attempt to explain why they are not biting, but it is a fact all the same.—Durham Herald.

Maybe they have learned some sense,

The way the sisters in the convention of the Daughters of the Revolution are playing politics to get the offices in the organization, shows they have learned their lesson well from the men folks.

A town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the way to a cemetery, and it is not hard to kill a town. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses his town and its prosperity furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give to city affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. A man against a fair and liberal government is the yellow dog under the dead wagon. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is so stingy as to be howling hard times, preaches the funeral and sings the doxology, and thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care.—Winchester Evening Star.

An exchange says, and truthfully, that it is very foolish to waste energy in trying to damage our competitors or in knocking some worthy enterprise. It says that the same energy exerted in furthering our own interests will do us a hundred times more good, and at the same time will be less likely to make us enemies. This is all true, and if every man would act upon the assertion, material conditions would improve wonderfully. But, alas! in matters of advice, it is so much easier to give than to take.—Durham Sun.

"MARKED COPY" on a newspaper wrapper is sure to make the receiver open and read.

Last year a southern man bought fifty copies of his local paper containing a suggestion for a factory location, marked them and mailed them to fifty individuals or concerns that might be interested.

Result: Twelve immediate inquiries, three propositions for the factory site, one thriving factory located which today pays wages to 175 persons living in that town.

FOILED THEIR PLOT.

The Way Mme. Alboni Frustrated a Scheme to Hiss Her.

"Once upon a time, when Mme. Alboni was at Trieste," writes Henry C. Lahee in "Famous Slingers of Today," "she was informed of the existence of a plot to hiss her off the stage. Having ascertained the names of her detractors and where they were to be found, she donned male attire, to which her short hair and robust figure helped to complete her disguise, and went to the cafe at which the conspirators met. Here she found them in full consultation, and, taking a seat at a table, she listened to their conversation for a time. After awhile she addressed the leader, saying: 'I hear that you intend to play a trick upon some one. I am very fond of a little practical joke myself and should be glad if you would allow me to join you on this occasion.'

"With pleasure," was the reply. "We intend to hiss an opera singer off the stage this evening."

"Indeed! And of what is she guilty?"

"Oh, nothing, except that, being an Italian, she has sung in Munich and Vienna to German audiences, and we think she ought to receive some castigation for her unpatriotic conduct."

"I agree with you, and now please tell me what I am to do."

"Take this whistle," said the leader. "At a signal to be given at the conclusion of the air sung by Rosina the noise will begin, and you will have to join in."

"I shall be very glad to do so," said the singer and put the whistle in her pocket.

"In the evening the house was packed—every seat was occupied—and the audience warmly applauded the opening numbers of the opera. In due course Mme. Alboni appeared, and at the point at which she was about to address her tutor a few of the conspirators began to make a disturbance, not waiting for the signal.

"Without showing any concern Mme. Alboni walked down to the footlights, and, holding up the whistle, which was hung to her neck by a ribbon, she exclaimed: 'Gentlemen, are you not a little before your time? I thought we were not to commence whistling until I had sung the air.'

"For a moment a deathly stillness prevailed; then suddenly the house broke into thunders of applause, which was led by the conspirators themselves."

A Medal of Blood.

Garibaldi was once presented with a medal made of his own blood. The giver was Dr. Manuil of Naples, who was well known as a petrifier and preserver of the human body. Dr. Manuil in offering his gift to Garibaldi said that whenever the general looked at it it would brace him up for the last fight, and across the medal were engraved the words, "The Blood of Garibaldi is Forever Red." The strange medal is preserved by the general's descendants.

Reminders.

Many are the methods to which busy men resort in order to remind them to write that letter, to buy those ribbons, to keep that appointment with Jackson. One ties a piece of tape around his walking stick, a second knots his handkerchief, a third puts his loose cash in an unaccustomed pocket.

A very successful plan is that of a shrewd man of business. A liberal dose of pepper or snuff spread over his handkerchief greets his olfactory nerves whenever he extracts it from his pocket. And then he exclaims, "That reminds me!"

Another effective method is to place your finger rings on your key ring. By this means you are not only reminded of that "something" by the absence of your rings from your finger, but every time you use your keys the fact is forced upon your attention.—London Mail.

One Way He Could Help.

An eastern college graduate applied for work in a Michigan lumber camp. He was told to get busy on one end of a cross saw, the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman. At first all went well, but at the end of the second day the young man's strength began to wane. Suddenly the old man stopped the saw and spat.

"Sonny," he said, not unkindly, "I don't mind yer ridin' on this saw, but if it's jest the same to you I wish you'd keep yer feet off the ground."—Everybody's.
