Mrs. R. Croom went to Greenville this morning.

Have a Bank Account.

The following which comes from the Abbeville (S. C.) Press, is good advice and ought to be passed along. It relates to the virtue of saving money through a bank account. The Press says:

Every man who has a surplus dollar should deposit it in one of the banks. Start a bank account, no matter how small it may be, and you will feel better and you will be richer. The banks are glad to have even the smallest deposits. They pay interest and you, the farmer, who have nothing to do but to watch the crop grow, will be kept busy seeing your bank account grow. Money on deposit is the safest investment that can be made. All the stock of the bank, and every stockholder is personally liable for it. The main thing for you to do is to make the deposits and take the proper receipts for it, then your baggage is checked for a higher and better financial standing. To have a bank account on the right side of the ledger is the best thing on this earth—except a good wife, which this editor has, up to this time, been unable to get.

Editor Unbosoms Himself.

We want the news. If your wife whips you let us know, and we will put you right before the world. If you have company tell us, if you are not ashamed of your visitor. If you have a party or gathering of any kind bring around a cake, seven or eight pies and a chunk of ham, not necessarily to eat, but just to show your friendship and appreciation. You needn't mind inviting us, as the chances will be that our wardrobe will not admit of our attendance. We want the news, that's all.—Key-essville (Mo.) Record.

We will let you rest if you will buy one of our rice hammocks. Carr & Atkins Hardware Co.

AT THE CHURCHES.

Where You Can Worship Tomorrow.

Baptist—Sunday school, Baraca and Philathea classes meet at 9:30 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7:45 p. m. by Rev. G. T. Lumpkin. The 3:30 service will be exclusively to men and boys above 16 years.

Primitive Baptist—Preaching in the court house at 7:45 p. m. by Rev. Sylvester Hassell.

Christian—Sunday school and Baraca classes meet at 9:45 a. m. Every member is requested to be on time, and bring some friend. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. by Rev. S. D. Colyer. A male quartette from A. C. College, Wilson, will be here and furnish music at each service.

Episcopal—Sunday school and Bible class at 9:45 a. m. Morning service and sermon at 11 a. m. There will be no service at night on account of the appointment at Ayden.

Methodist—Sunday School 9:30 A. M. Preaching 11 A. M. by Rev. J. L. Rumley. On account of revival services at the Baptist and Christian churches there will be no service at night.

Baraca and Philathea classes meet with Sunday school at 9:30. Let every member of these classes be present and bring some one who does not attend. We want 300 present Sunday. Do your part and they will be there.

The Baraca Movement.

The growth of the Baraca movement in Greenville for the past six months has been something wonderful. Where there were only about 15 or 20 men in the Bible classes of the different schools, there are now fully 250. Do you realize what this means to our town, 250 men studying the Bible every Sunday? It means an uplifting of the morality of the town; it means men living more as they should live. Readers are you a member of these classes? If not, join Sunday morning and help the young men of your town to live better lives.

Neighboring Towns Suffer.

Sunday morning fire at Scotland Neck destroyed two large warehouses, two box cars, a large lot of cotton, hay, peanuts, fertilizer, merchandise and railroad track to the value of about $15,000.

Tuesday morning fire destroyed two dwellings in Windsor, the old Branch house, one of the oldest in the town and the handsome residence of Mr. Geo. L. Madre.

Christian Church Meeting.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather Friday night, a large crowd attended the service in the Christian church and heard Dr. Colyer preach another excellent sermon. Prof. Bowles sang "Memories of Mother" Service tonight at 7:45 p. m. The quartette from Wilson is expected to arrive on this evening's train and sing tonight.

The Baptist Meeting.

Being Saturday there was no service in the Baptist church this afternoon, nor will there be any tonight. Sunday four services will be held - at 9:30 a. m. in connection with the Sunday school, at 11 a. m., at 3:30 p. m., and at 7:45 p. m. The 3:30 service will be only for men and boys above the age of 16.

GENERAL NEWS.

Some of the Happenings Over the Country.

Kapiti Plains, British East Africa, April 23.—Theodore Roosevelt has reached the hunting grounds and tonight he will spend his first night in Africa under canvass. A big camp has been arranged near the railroad station here for the Roosevelt expedition and last night lions were prowling about the vicinity of the tents. The country is green, owing to the recent rains, and there is every prospect of good sport. The commoner varieties of game are plentiful and the huntsmen will lose no time in getting started on their shooting trips.

Lisbon, April 23.—A series of violent earthquake shocks occurred here tonight, and seismic disturbances, according to reports from various places, were felt throughout the whole of Portugal. For a time fears were entertained of a repetition of the great earthquake of 1755, which demolished the city.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—Word came from the White House today that the president is looking with favor on Judge Henry G. Connor, of the State Supreme court, for the Eastern Carolina judgeship, and that if a Democrat is chosen he stands a fine chance to be Judge Purnell's successor.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 23.—Florida today took a long and expected step toward State-wide prohibition. The house of representatives, 53 to 16, adopted the McMullen joint resolution providing that in 1910 a constitutional amendment shall be submitted to voters to decide whether they wish to have forever prohibited in Florida the "manufacture, sale, exchange and barter of all intoxicating liquors and beverages."

A Creed for the Discouraged.

"I believe that God created me to be happy, to enjoy the blessings of life, to be useful to my fellow beings; and an honor to my country.

I believe that the trials which beset me today are but the fiery tests by which my character is strengthened, ennobled and made worthy to enjoy the higher things of life, which I believe are in store for me.

I believe that my soul is too grand to be crushed by defeat: I will rise above it.

I believe that I am the architect of my own fate; therefore, I will be master of circumstances and surroundings, not their slave.

I will not yield to discouragements, I will trample them under foot and make them serve as stepping stones to success. I will conquer my obstacles and turn them into opportunities.

My failures of today will help to guide me on to victory on the morrow.

The morrow will bring new strength, new hopes, new opportunities and new beginnings. I will be ready to meet it with a brave heart, a calm mind and an undaunted spirit. In all things I will do my best, and leave the rest to the Infinite.

I will not waste my mental energies by useless worry. I will learn to dominate my restless thoughts and look on the bright side of things.

I will face the world bravely. I will not be a coward. I will assert my God-given right and be a man.

For I am immortal and nothing can overcome me.—Virginia Opal Meyers.

SUPERIOR COURT.

April Criminal Term in Session.
The following cases have been disposed of:

In the case of Mollie Butler, convicted of keeping a bawdy house, the judgment of the court was that she be imprisoned six months in jail, sentence to begin Nov. 1st, 1909, and to pay the costs.

Mack Mobley, selling liquor unlawfully, guilty.

Will Dunn, selling liquor unlawfully, guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

John Collins, house breaking, pleads guilty, sentenced six months on roads.

Jack Jones, larceny, guilty.

Twelve negroes all in one bill indicted for gambling, entered a plea of nolo contendere, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Pearl Price, running gambling house, not guilty.

Peter Harrington, selling liquor unlawfully, not guilty.

James Ennett, removing crop, guilty, fined one penny and costs.

LAYMANS DAY.

Meeting to be Held at Stantonburg.

Arrangements have just been perfected by the pastors of the Washington district of the North Carolina Methodist Conference for the holding of "Laymans Day," for this district on Friday April 30, at Stantonburg in Wilson county. The program arranged for the event is as follows:

9:00 a. m. Love Feast.

10:00 a. m. "He that is not with me against me." A Layman.

10:10 a. m. "A teachers duty to his church." Prof. N. C. Newbold, Washington, N. C.

10:40 a. m. "Ideal organization of Laymen on a circuit," Mr. John T. Thorne, Farmville, N. C.

11:10 a. m. "Spiritual power among Laymen." Dr. D. B. Zollicoffer, Weldon, N. C.

11:50 a. m. "The Laymans movement," Dr. John C. Kilgo, president Trinity college.

A picnic dinner.

2:00 p. m. "Laymen and their privileges." Hon. F. A. Woodard, of Willson, N. C.

2:40 p. m. "Crosses and crowns in a life of service." Hon. T. J. Jarvis, Greenville, N. C.

3:30 p. m. Reports from the district by local leaders.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Rocky Mount, N. C., April 23.—Set fire by lightning striking the house, the stemmery, prizery and storage warehouse of the J. C. Braswell Tobacco Co., is today a heap of smouldering ruins. During a most severe electrical storm about five o'clock this morning, the building was set on fire about midway the roof, and the fire spread rapidly.

Murder in Second Degree.

Late Friday evening the jury having the case against Alfred Person and Mornetta Person for the killing of Ed Davenport, brought in a verdict finding Alfred Person guilty of murder in the second degree, and his wife guilty of assault. The man was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary, and judgment was suspended as to the woman.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

An Easy Jail.

In one of the Basque provinces of Spain there is a prison the doors of which are opened every morning, allowing the prisoners to go into the town for housework, gardening or some trade. Some act as commissionaires. In the evening they quietly return to the prison at the appointed time, and after being identified by the jailer the bolts are drawn for their admission.

SATURDAY, APR. 24, 1909.

If you took 'em off the warm days, guess you feel sorry for it now.

When Patten pulled out and left the other fellows in the wheat corner they went to losing on their holdings.

If you have been playing poker, President Taft says you must pay up your losses before being considered for appointment to office.

A newspaper asks if farming pays. Well, wheat farming would appear to be fairly profitable at present.—Durham Sun.

But it was the fellow who got the "rake off" on the corner and not the farmer who found the pay.

There is no question The Reflector is more anxious to see the people of Pitt county aroused on than good roads. Every farmer who comes to Greenville should take time to go out Dickinson avenue beyond the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and see the two miles of sand-clay road built by the county under the direction of a government engineer. Then he should go back home and not rest contented until he has awakened among his neighbors the desire to have a road like it. Such roads can be built cheaply all over the county, and there is no estimating their value.

Says the Wilmington Star: The Charlotte Observer gets off the following, and we think it ought to be ashamed of itself for putting in the Garden of Eden plea as a defense to its outrageous conduct:

"A friend of the paper, a lady, favors the Observer with the following; 'A Charlotte bank man is responsible for this. Don't you think it is good enough to print? Mr. Wood and Mr. Stone were standing in front of Stone & Barringer's yesterday. A lady in a sheath gown passed. Immediately Wood turned to Stone and Stone turned to Wood. Then both turned to rubber.'"

The government is preparing to take the next census. The work will begin next April. North Carolina will have ten supervisors, one for each congressional district, at a yearly salary of $1,500, with $1 per thousand population in addition. These will appoint 1,500 enumerators who will get from 2 to 4 cents a head for persons listed. The president appoints the supervisors and the senate confirms them. It is generally understood that North Carolina will have seven Democratic and three Republican supervisors.—Washington City Item.

At last they seem to have a Patten on wheat cornering in Chicago.—Durham Sun.
 Oh, Jim! Why do you chime in so unexpectedly?—Greenville Reflector.
 To put a ring in your ear for the wheat buy and buy, David.—Durham Sun.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Teachers.

Editor Johnson, of Charity and Children this week lays down the proposition that you may take all the editors and lawyers and bankers and business men together, and they are not doing so much for the future glory of the State as the people who are called to teach and who are answering the call. At first glance this might be considered a broad assertion, but it is not. There may be some teachers who are following the profession who have never "been called," but it is true, as Charity and Children says, that "the teacher who loves his work and the children committed to his care, occupies a place of tremendous power and wields an influence that crosses the boundaries of time and stretches through the cycles of eternity. They are not fortune-builders, but character-builders. They are not making money, but they are making men." That much said, Editor Johnson goes a step further in the way of a suggestion for the recreation of these teachers. He would have them attend the assembly at Morehead City. A little whiff of the salt air and a few days' rest and change, he argues, "will work wonders for the jaded toilers who give more service for the money they get than any class of people in the round world." It will be noticed that Editor Johnson speaks only of the male teachers, but he does that possibly as avoiding the consequent complication of he and her. But the estimate he places on the services of the teachers of the State is not at all overdrawn. The fact is, the State ought to send all of the teachers to the annual assembly, free of cost, providing for their railroad fare and hotel bills. These teachers have been pulling North Carolina out of the illiterate column at a rapid rate. They are doing more by the State than the State is doing by them.—Charlotte Observer.

Few persons are aware of the immense amount of lettuce shipped from the eastern part of this State to Northern markets. Not many years ago none, or very little, was shipped from there, but now its cultivation is a most profitable and important industry. To give our readers an idea of the quantity of lettuce raised in that section, we will mention that on last Saturday fifteen car-loads were sent from Wilmington alone. Each car carried 400 baskets, and each basket was worth from $1.50 to $2.—Pittsboro Record.

A DETECTIVE'S RUSE.

Clever Method by Which He Secured Some Evidence.

"I had to resort to a queer ruse once to get an admission from a man I was after," said a private detective. "There had been some trouble at a club between two young men. One threw a glass of wine into the other's face. The other did not resent the insult as he should have done. When his father heard of it he threatened to disinherit his son unless he whipped the man who had thrown the wine in his face. The father was a member of the same club, and he made a wager of a wine supper that his son could and would whip the other fellow. Soon after this the son met the man who had insulted him and whipped him. The fight occurred on a prominent street, and as two of the young man's friends were with him at the time there was talk of an action against them and his father for conspiracy. Our agency was retained to get the evidence needed.

"It was decided that it would be necessary to get an admission from the father of the young man who had made the assault. I was told to get it. I tried many ways and failed. He did not know I was a detective. He had known me for a number of years, but thought I was engaged in other work. I had another plan to get from him what I wanted. I told him a New York publication was having the affair written up and illustrated.

"I said I had seen the picture of the fight which had been prepared for it. He was pleased at the publicity that the fight was to get, for the story of the affair at the club had been printed, and he wanted it known that his son had avenged the insult. I intimated that if he cared to see it I thought I could get him the picture that had been prepared for publication. He was eager to see it.

"I had a friend, a newspaper artist, who made me a picture. He made a faithful copy of the street scene where the fight occurred, and he made a fair likeness of the figures in it. The picture showed one man stealing up behind another and striking him from the rear. Behind him were two other men, who were supposed to have accompanied him to see fair play. The father was thought to have been in the neighborhood, but as he wasn't seen he was left off the picture. He examined it carefully.

"Who are these two men?" he asked, pointing to the two onlookers.

SIBERIAN HARD TACK.

Many Uses of a Bread Much Favored in Cold Countries.

Of all the hard tack breads of the universe I have found by actual experience the small ringed bread of Siberia the most substantial. When the Russian engineering parties were constructing the Siberian railroad this white ring bread (with the coarse rye bread) was their main staff of life.

It is made without salt or yeast and is first steamed, then lightly baked to expel the moisture. Some curious uses were made of these breads by the engineers. When soaked in hot pure tallow for a few moments till they sank they were used in soups or soaked in and eaten with tea during the severe winter-months. This tallow bread was considered the most heat producing article in the dietary. It should be utilized by our arctic explorers.

Another curious use to which it is put is as an extempore candle or coffee-pot boiler. A nail is used to make about eight holes in the tallow ring bread. Wax vestas are placed in these and ignited. It will burn slowly for about an hour, emitting a strong heat, sufficient to warm and light a small tent and boil the tea or coffee water. There is a rather strong odor of toasting bread, but that is tolerated in preference to smoke. While sojourning with the engineers in Siberia I have also seen them using the larger sizes of ringed bread as makeshift quilts for Sunday afternoon sport in their tents, and the bread would stand the knocking about pretty well and would eventually appear in the soup at the evening meal.

Small Siberian storekeepers also use the ringed bread as an abacus or primitive counting apparatus for calculating small sums in rubles and kopecks and simple figuring. Three strings are suspended above the counter. Ten breads are strung on each. The top line represents the rubles, their money transactions rarely going above ten, and the two lower strings stand for the kopecks. Of course the strings of bread can be increased to mount into the thousands and up if desired.—Scientific American.

OCEAN TRAVEL.

Luxury That Grooms the Passengers on an Atlantic Liner.

The luxury of ocean travel has reached such a state of perfection that land-bred and timid passengers may almost delude themselves into thinking that they are still on shore when they are in the middle of the ocean.

When the luncheon bugle sounds you go in to tidy your hair. The sun is shining in through your window or at least one of the windows, for there are two in your drawing room, one in the bathroom and one in the bedroom. Beyond your drawing room—which might be in the Winter palace, Nice, for all the resemblance it bears to a ship's cabin—is furnished in old gold and white. A soft carpet of old gold, a sofa piled luxuriantly with cushions, several chairs, a table, a wonderfully equipped desk, on which rests a drop light, are at your disposal. You stop a moment to admire the panels and etchings and the hangings, which are embroidered with drooping wistaria in faint green. An electric grate fire, with a genuine mantel, lends an air of spaciousness to the room. You notice that your gowns have been hung in one closet and your blouses in another and that shoes, slippers, umbrella, etc., have been carefully stowed away in places provided for them.

The third day out, if the weather is fine, is the social height of the trip. The ship's types are by this time all fully developed. The bridge fiends have become known to each other, and they never leave their game except for meals. There is the usual contingent that each morning comes around to tell you how early they were on deck. You have stood at the prow and watched the schools of dolphins jumping straight for the ship, you have rushed excitedly to the rail to watch a passing steamer with which your vessel exchanges salutes by running up innumerable little flags, and you have marveled at the land birds that always follow the ship across, and perhaps you ask the steward to set out some fresh water and a plate of crumbs for them.

If you enjoy spontaneous vaudeville the hour in the ship's gymnasium will be your regular rendezvous every morning, and aside from the fun which you will have in watching the other perform unaccustomed stunts on the frisky camel, the spirited horse or with the vibrators you will receive direct benefit from the exercises, which are the best thing to be recommended for the maintenance of sea legs.—Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly.

ALDEN'S NAPLES STORY.

A Glass of Capri Wine and a Statue That Nodded.

The late W. L. Alden, the humorist, was one of the most abstemious of men—in fact, he was pretty near being a teetotaler. I don't know that I ever saw him take wine or spirits in all the years I knew him except a glass of claret at the midday and evening meals during his last illness.

During the later years of his life he spent the winter abroad, sometimes in Genoa, sometimes in Naples and once, I think, in Cairo, and usually his four or five months' residence on the shores of the Mediterranean would not cost him more than £50.

Once on his return from Naples I remember his telling me this story: "I, a brother novelist, was in Naples also and asked me one night to dine with him at one of the big hotels on the water front just outside Naples—one of those hotels along that massive stone embankment against which the waves of the sea often break in showers of spray thirty or forty feet high.

"After dinner we went for a walk along the embankment, and we got pretty well drenched with the spray. Soon we reached a statue, and, lo, it nodded gravely toward us!

"Did you see that statue nod?" said I to me.

"I certainly did," said I.

"Well," said he, "I'm going back to the hotel and to bed before I get run in. It's that confounded Capri wine."

"So, ashamed of ourselves, back we went and sneaked up to bed. But at breakfast table next morning both of us seemed to be amazingly fresh considering our dissipation of the night before, and we could not understand why we had such good appetites until the waiter said:

"Did the gentlemen feel last night's slight earthquake?"—Pearson's Weekly.

THE OBJECTION TO JOHN.

It Was Easily Removed When the Situation Was Explained.

The Gaylords and Nelsons have always been neighbors and intimate friends. So when John Gaylord at twenty-four, as fine a fellow as ever was, began to see what an altogether charming girl Molly Nelson was there was naturally no opposition. Indeed, as the "affair" became serious it was evident to all, including John and Molly themselves, that the parents concerned were delighted. As yet there was no formal announcement, but every one knew that it was "understood," and evening after evening John talked to Molly on the front porch, often lingering after the other Nelsons had retired.

The surprise of the two was consequently great when one evening a shuffling step was heard in the hall, and presently Mr. Nelson appeared in slippers and dressing gown, candle in hand. Quite evidently he had gone to bed and then got up for some purpose.

"Why, father, what is the matter?"

Molly's cheeks were burning, as her father stood there hesitating and eying John closely. John, leaning against the doorpost, where he had stood for the last fifteen minutes saying good night to Molly, felt decidedly uncomfortable under Mr. Nelson's gaze.

In fact, it was embarrassing all around. But John is a young man who goes straight to the point.

"Is anything wrong, Mr. Nelson?" he began. "Am I to infer that you object to my being here?"

"Well, no, not exactly, John," Mr. Nelson coughed slightly, hesitating. "It's only that mother and I would like to get a little sleep."

"Father," cried Molly, quite indignant, "we couldn't have been disturbing any one! John has been talking very low!"

"I don't doubt that, my dear," Mr. Nelson was beginning to enjoy the situation. "It's not that, nor have I any objection to John's talking to you. In fact, I haven't an objection in the world to John nor to his conduct, except"

Mr. Nelson is open to suspicion of having prolonged the matter unnecessarily at this point.

"—except in one thing. Mrs. Nelson and I do object seriously, my dear John, to the habit you seem to have formed this evening of leaning against the bell push. Our bedroom is next to the kitchen, and this continuous bell ringing is not conducive to repose."

EARTHQUAKES OF OLD

Strange Ideas of the Ancients as to Their Causes.

WARNING SIGNS OF SHOCKS.

Pliny Says They Were Shown in the Air, Clouds and Water and by Animals—The Two Mountains That Crashed Together and Then Receded.

If we search history to find to what causes the ancients attributed earthquakes we find that the Babylonians believed that all occurrences of the kind were due to the influence of the stars, especially of the three to which they ascribed thunder—namely, Saturn, Jupiter and Mars. The seers of the day believed that these disturbances were caused by the stars moving with the sun or being in conjunction with it, more particularly when the stars were in the quartile aspect.

Pliny chronicles the report concerning one Anaximander, a Milesian, who warned the Lacedaemonians to beware of their city and houses. And legend has it that the city was soon afterward destroyed.

Pliny, who wrote his natural history in A. D. 77, conceived that earthquakes were caused by the winds, as "the earth never trembles except when the sea is quite calm and when the heavens are so tranquil that the birds cannot maintain their flight, all the air which should support them being withdrawn. Nor does it ever happen until after great winds, the gust being pent up, as it were, in the fissures and concealed hollows."

Many scientists have observed that all great convulsions of nature are likely to be preceded by calms; also that birds and animals generally exhibit certain presentiments of the event, facts which the wise men of ancient days noted and accounted for in their different ways.

Pliny says: "When an earthquake occurs there is often sound without any motion. When there is motion it is tremulous and vibratory. The clefts of the earth sometimes remain, displaying what has been swallowed up, sometimes concealing it, the mouth being closed and the soil brought over it, the city being, as it were, engulfed, devoured. Maritime districts are more especially subject to shocks. Nor are mountainous districts exempt. I have found the Alps and the Apennines frequently shaken by them. The shocks happen more frequently in the autumn and the spring. They also happen more frequently in the night than in the day. The greatest shocks are in the morning and the evening, but they often take place at daybreak. They also take place during eclipses of the moon, because at that time storms are lulled. They are most frequent when great heat succeeds to showers or showers succeed to great heat."

Pliny further says: "There is no doubt that earthquakes are felt by persons on shipboard. There are many signs for the mariner beforehand, however. The timbers of the vessel creak. The birds that settle on the vessel are not without their alarms. There is also a sign in the heavens, for when a shock is near at hand, either in the daytime or a little after sunset, a cloud is stretched out in the clear sky like a long, thin line. The water in wells is more turbid than usual, and it emits a disagreeable odor."

In describing the various kinds of shocks and expanding on his investigations on the subject Pliny remarks that "arched buildings are the safest; also the angles of walls and walls made of bricks suffer least. The earth movement that resembles the rolling of waves is the most dangerous, or when the motion is impelled in one direction. The tremors cease when the vapors have burst forth, but if there be no escape of vapor of any kind then the tremors may continue for forty days. They have been known to continue for two years."

The historian records the greatest "prodigy of the earth" as having occurred in the district of Mutina during the consulship of Lucius Martius and Sextus Julius, when "two mountains rushed together, falling upon each other with a very loud crash and then receding, while in the daytime smoke and vapor issued from them." Pliny says the wonder was witnessed by "a great crowd of Roman knights and travelers along the Aemilian way."

The same writer says: "The greatest earthquake which occurred in our memory was in the reign of Tiberius, by which twelve cities of Asia were laid prostrate in one night. During the Punic war we had accounts of fifty-seven earthquakes in one year. Nor is it an evil merely consisting in the danger which is produced by the motion; it is an equal or greater evil when it is considered as a prodigy. The city of Rome never experienced a shock that was not the forerunner of some great calamity."

Pliny, of course, takes a good many of his accounts from Aristotle, but his references to events are confirmed by other writers. Herodotus describes a great disturbance in his day, when "the sea came beyond Memphis, as far as the mountains of Ethiopia, and also from the plains of Arabia. The sea also surrounded Ilum and the whole of Teuthrania and covered the plain through which the Meander flows." Pliny makes actual mention of one of the Aeolian islands having "emerged from the sea." It was a matter of common belief among the scientists of Pliny's day that Sicily was torn from Italy by such a disturbance.—New York Herald.
