TERRIBLE WORK OF CYCLONE.

Destruction of Life and Property Through West and South West.

Atlanta, Ga., April 30.—An epidemic of cyclones and tornadoes does the like of which have not been known for years, swept through the South last night and all today, leaving in their wake hundreds of dead and mangled bodies, and the dismantled wrecks of property worth many millions.

It is substantiated that 60 persons were killed in Tennessee. Memphis reports heavy loss from towns within a radius of 100 miles in three States.

Atlanta and most of Georgia escaped with only slight property loss during the blow. But two young people, a brother and sister, William and Pearl Withra, lost their lives here this afternoon by the capsizing of a row-boat during a sudden squall.

At Ebenezer, 18 homes were blown down.

At Knoxville the greatest damage was from interference with commerce.

At Charlestown the storm swerved to the Hiwassee river from the Tennessee Valley, destroying much property. At Fayetteville three are known to have perished.

At Cuba many houses were blown down and at Gilestown, not even a shed was left standing. No fatalities were reported from either place, but information is very meagre.

At Horn Lake, Miss., half a dozen lives were lost and the property damage was very heavy. From neighboring towns come tales of men, women and children killed and homes wrecked. The tornado swept over into Arkansas, and killed eight persons, near Mammoth Springs, besides wrecking a score of buildings. Other points in Arkansas report heavy loss.

Chicago, Ill., April 30.—Belated reports show that the death and destruction caused by the terrific storm that swept over the Middle West last night were more extensive than at first indicated by the meagre telegrams carried over damaged wires. Three men were killed in Chicago by the collapse of a factory.

In the path of the storm before it reached the Great Lake region, great destruction of property is reported. At least 11 persons were killed.

At Golden, Mo., the business part of the town was destroyed and many homes were wrecked. Five persons lost their lives.

At Summerville, Mo., the wind created havoc and two persons were killed. Many were injured.

The storm was furious in Southern Illinois and at Texas City, near Carmi, four persons were killed and many seriously wounded. The town was wrecked.

Louisville, Ky., April 30.—Dispatches gathered throughout the South by the Associated Press tonight indicate that at least 114 persons met sudden death in the great wind that spread havoc throughout the region south of Ohio. The number of injured is probably three fold that of the killed.

Great damage to property and crops was caused in Michigan, on the east shore of Lake Michigan, Benton harbor and South Haven being in the path of the storm.

The rainfall here Friday afternoon and night was 3½ inches, the heaviest that has occurred in sometime.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town Briefly Told.

Ayden, N. C., May 1, 1909.

C. C. Needham was called to Old Trap Saturday to be at the bedside of his mother, who was very sick.

Joe Griffin, the 12 year old son of R. L. Griffin, stuck a nail through his foot at the graded school Friday causing a very painful wound.

W. A. Darden and T. J. Worthington, both of Greene county's leading citizens, were here Friday.

Mrs. J. R. Smith and children are spending the week end with relatives in the country.

Paris Green at J. R. Smith & Co.

We regret to learn that Guy Ross was taken sick with pneumonia before reaching home at Zebulun from attending the funeral of his mother here last week.

J. R. Smith Co. & Dixon are repairing their electric light lines.

Mr. Hassie Corbett is remodeling his residence on Lee street.

The "Red Raven" hose for ladies and gentlemen is one of the best on the market at

J. R. Smith Co.

H. C. Ormond and J. J. Edwards returned Monday from Stantonburg where they had been attending the Methodist conference.

There was a great deal of damage done in this section by the heavy rain and wind storm Friday evening and night. The Frizzle water mill, about three and a half miles from here, was completely washed away and the dam across Hen Coop swamp was demolished. To what extent crops and other property is damaged is not yet known.

FELL FROM THIRD STORY.

Not Only Not Hurt But Cured of a Lisp.

New York, April 29.—A tumble of 40 feet from a third story fire-escape to a store-paved yard, that would have killed most adults, not only did not seriously hurt 7-year-old Katie Goliskie, of Brooklyn, but cured her of a lisp she had had from her babyhood. Besides, it gave her a vocabulary of big words that astonished her parents.

"Are you hurt, dear?" asked the mother, when she rushed down stairs to her child.

"Well, not materially, I think" was the astonishing reply. "My head is a little cut, but I guess it is not serious." She spoke without the slightest trace of the lisp that had always marked her speech.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Selma, N. C., April 30.—About seven o'clock last evening Mr. H. H. Burgess, of Ramseur, N. C., an employe of the Southern railroad was killed by the shifter here. He had fired his engine preparing to be called out and started for supper when it backed on him, killing him instantly.

Winston-Salem, N. C., April 30.—No less than a dozen valuable cows and a number of dogs bitten by a rabid dog, have been killed in this county this week. Two mules bitten by the same dog will be killed if investigation proves that the dog had rabies.

ACCIDENT AT ICE PLANT.

One Man's Arm Broken—Another Slightly Injured.

Friday while hands were raising the large smoke stack at the new plant of the Greenville Ice Co., one of the wire ropes broke and let a heavy pole fall. In getting out of the way of the pole George Washington, a colored man, was caught in the rope and struck by a heavy pulley and one arm was broken. Another colored man, Ed Weathington, was also hurt on one leg, but not seriously.

The Rest Room.

As they learn more about it, the Rest Room in the Hoell building grows more popular with ladies coming in from the country. The use of these rooms is absolutely free to all ladies, and this provision for their convenience is made by the people of the town who contribute to its maintenance. Ladies who visit the town are given a cordial welcome to the Rest Room.

The Town Booster

Who's the town booster? The citizen who praises his own town. The citizen who encourages local enterprises. The citizen who helps along home improvements. The citizen who patronizes the home merchants. The citizen who gets his job printing done by his local newspaper. That man's The Town Booster!—Mt. Olive Tribune.

Ten Dollars Reward.

There will be paid a reward of ten dollars for the arrest of any person or persons found spitting tobacco juice on, or defacing any of the bulletin boards of the Christian church, anywhere on the streets of Greenville.

H. W. Whedbee, Mayor.

The par value of a share of stock is $100 and the weekly payments 25 cts per share. Payments, if preferred, can be made monthly on the first Saturday in each month, being governed by the number of Saturdays in the month.

The Home B. & L. Ass'n.

Delinquent tax sales for both the town and county will take place Monday.

ENGINE OFF THE TRACK.

Passenger Train Delayed More Than Two Hours.

This morning the engine of the north bound passenger train on the A. C. L. road got off the track here and the train was delayed some over two hours. At the road crossing near the plant of the Building & Lumber Co. the heavy rain of last night had covered the track with dirt and when the engine struck this the wheels were lifted from the track and let down on the cross ties. The train was running slow, and Engineer Turrentine discovering that his engine was off the track quickly brought his train to a stop without any damage being done.

All the wheels of the engine were off the track and after several efforts by the crew it was found impossible to get them back without other assistance. An engine and crew came down from Parmele to render assistance and by good work the engine was back on the track and the train ready to continue its journey by 10:45.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., May 1, 1909.

Dr. B. T. Cox left Thursday morning to accompany Jno. Lewis McGlohon to the hospital at Norfolk, where Mr. McGlohon will undergo an operation for appendicitis.

A. G. Cox and R. H. Hunsucker went to Grimesland Thursday on a business trip.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry went to Raleigh Thursday on business connected with the institution for the blind and from there to Mt. Vernon Springs on educational business.

We had one of the largest rains of the season here yesterday afternoon and last night.

Grifton School Closing.

The closing exercises of the graded school at Grifton will take place on Thursday and Friday of next week, 6th and 7th. The concert by the school will be on Thursday night, and Prof. E. C. Brooks, of Durham, will deliver the annual address Friday morning. A picnic dinner will follow the address.

The Christian Church Meeting.

Although the storm Friday night was very bad, and kept many people at home, between 50 and 60 persons were present at the Christian church to hear another one of Dr. Colyer's excellent sermons. Services tonight at 7:45. Subject, "What Must I do to be Saved, No. 2."

B. & L. Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of The Home Building and Loan Association will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, 4th, in the mayor's office. There should be a large attendance, as it is the time for the election of directors.

"Your name is written on my heart" said the young man to his betrothed. "That's good" said the girl. "Now have it written on a life insurance policy in the Mutual life of New York." H. Bently Harris will fix it for you. 5 1 1td 1tw

Rev. W. O. Bodell will preach in Delphia.Moye chapel Sunday morning at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

J. W. Goodwin, Jr., of Philadelphia, came in Friday evening to visit relatives.

Willie Beddingfield, of Rocky Mount, came in yesterday afternoon for a visit to relatives here.

Rev. G. T. Lumpkin, of Winston-Salem, who has been assisting in the meeting in Memorial Baptist church during the past two weeks, left this morning for his home. Mr. Lumpkin is an earnest preacher of the Gospel and his sermons brought joy to our people who love to hear the Word of God preached plainly. His coming here has done the church and the town much good.

Rev. J. H. Shore, of Greenville, was present and preached the anniversary sermon to the Odd Fellows here on Sunday morning. While it is known that Rev. Mr. Shore is an able and forceful speaker, he did himself great honor on this occasion. The sermon was a fine one. One that would have done anyone good to heed, whether he be an Odd Fellow or not. Mr. Shore also preached in the Baptist church on Sunday night to a large and appreciative audience.—Franklin Correspondence, Lousburg Times.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

May.

Fifth month.

The oyster is out of date now.

April gave us a heavy parting rain.

County commissioners will meet Monday.

This May day was not of the pretty kind.

The April term of civil court ended today.

Strawberries this month, potatoes next month.

The rain last night gave the revival meetings in the churches a small attendance.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered in the Baptist church tomorrow night.

If it ever rained harder than it did for a while Friday night, we do not know when it was.

Do not overlook the new series of The Home Building and Loan Association that begins today. Call on the secretary and take some shares.

The portrait of Jefferson Davis being engraved on the silver service to be presented to the battleship Mississippi by the State for which it is named, is the cause of certain Northern fire eaters blowing off a lot of hot air.

Castro, the banished president of Venezuela, hid his money at home and cannot go back after it, while the deposed sultan of Turkey sent his money out of the country and cannot escape prison to get it. One is in about as bad a fix as the other.

THE MENACE OF THE FLY.

Man's victory over his larger living foes is so complete that he is apt to regard himself as the unassailable lord of the earth. The mastodon fell before him centuries ago, and the lion and elephant are his easy prey today. Even the great snakes and sea monsters have disappeared from the regions he has claimed, and in the air he seems to have no more foes at all. But

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. as a matter of fact there are still some strenuous wars ahead of him if he is to remain the master of the world. What the mastodon could not do the pneumococcus may accomplish. What the python and jackal attempted, the rat, the mosquito and the house fly may achieve.

It is only in recent years that the menace of these apparently puny foes has been understood. Twenty years ago it was believed that malaria was caused by foul air. Today we know that it is transmitted by the Anopheles maculipennis, a mosquito. We know, too, the Stegomyia jaseiata, another mosquito, transmits yellow fever, that the tsetse fly carries the germs of the sleeping sickness, and that the rat is the bearer of the bubonic plague. Knowing these things, we war upon mosquito, tsetse fly and rat—and already the effect is enormous. Malaria is dying out in the world and yellow fever has disappeared from even its worst pestholes. In Africa the sleeping sickness is about to yield and in the Far East the bubonic plague grows less and less.

But there yet remains another bearer of sickness and death—the common house fly—and the maladies that he carries still rage. Tuberculosis is one of them, and others are typhoid fever, pneumonia and the terrible intestinal disorders of summer. The fly, of course, does not cause these diseases himself but he carries the germs that do. He walks in filth, and the microscopia organisms stick to his feet. A moment later he invades the dining room. Weeks afterwards there is illness in the house, and maybe death.

A great war upon the house fly is now being organized. It has the support of health officers in all the States, and it deserves the active aid of every citizen. It will go slowly, no doubt, at the start, for the public does not adopt novel prophylactic measures eagerly—witness the long opposition to vaccination—but in the end it is certain, a house or a city infested with flies will be regarded by all as a house or city disgraced. The fly has no excuse for existence. He is absolutely useless and utterly vile.—Baltimore Sun.

An exchange remarks that "a man can be more patriotic by paying his taxes than by taking off his hat to the flag." But the latter is more showy and no strain on the pocket.—Wilming ton Star.

It's Up to Us!

PROGRESS, which spells PROSPERITY, is but another way of spelling PUBLICITY.

In ADVERTISING, in making things known from man to man, from woman to woman, lies the secret of SUCCESS for which individuals and communities seek.

The day of waiting for BUSINESS to step in at the door and SUCCESS to blow in at the window is past.

We must go out and corral BUSINESS and coax SUCCESS.

And the one way to do it is spelt so: P-U-B-L-I-C-I-T-Y.

THE REPORTER'S DREAM.

Its Splendid Mendacity Dazed the Editor and His Friend.

The editor had worked off the Egyptian chestnut of the philosopher who accidentally tipped over a small water bottle just as he dropped asleep and after dreaming a forty-eight column dream awoke to find the water not yet all run out. I had told my famous story of the man who was overcome by slumber just as the clock was striking midnight, dreamed a long, complicated dream that took him half the next day to tell to his junior clerk, who couldn't get away, and awoke to hear the last three of the twelve strokes.

Cooper had sat silently listening, but now he braced himself up manfully, and, with a look of desperate resolve, he began:

"I had an even more wonderful experience than those you have been relating, gentlemen, myself. I had been out interviewing strikers, and when I got into the office and handed in my last bit of copy I was dead beat out. I dropped into this chair and was asleep before I struck the cushion.

"I straightway began to dream. I lived a whole lifetime, from a little babe to old age. Every step of my education, every difficult lesson, was reviewed in detail, even to intricate geometrical problems. I fell in love, courted and married three different girls, committed a murder, lived through every incident of a long trial and served a sentence of twenty years, every day of which was distinct and full of minute incidents of prison life.

"I sailed on a three years' voyage around the world and in the last month of the last year was wrecked on a desert island, captured by cannibals, nearly crushed by a boa constrictor, rescued by the Russians, only to be sentenced to Siberia, from which I escaped and wandered through the arctic regions for months, did splendid work as a reporter on a morning newspaper for several years, and the editor was just going to make me his assistant when I suddenly awoke.

"Some one had placed a pin in that chair, and I had dreamed that entire dream between the instant when I started to sit down and when I struck that pin."

And the editor and I arose, put on our coats in beaten silence and went home to bed.—Stray Stories.

Electricity In Fish.

Not the least remarkable of the members of the finny tribe are those which secure their food by means of the electric batteries with which nature has fitted them. The best known of these is the gymnotus, or electric eel, of South America. It possesses four batteries, which extend nearly the whole length of its body. The current passes from before backward and, remarkable to relate, extends through the animal's own brain. Large ones (they grow to six or more feet in length) have been known to kill a horse or a mule outright with a single discharge.

The thunderfish (malapterurus), one of the catfishes, found in Africa, which even in ancient times was highly recommended by the doctors for certain troubles, and the torpedo, or electric ray, which latter exhibits all the known powers of electricity, rendering the needle magnetic, decomposing chemical compounds and emitting the spark, are the other electric fishes that secure their daily food in this remarkable manner.—Chicago Tribune.

THE BOWERY.

New York's Famous Street Gets Its Name From a Home.

New York city's great east side thoroughfare gets its name of the Bowery through an ancient lineage that has come down through some 10,000 years, from the time of our Aryan ancestors, who planted the root that has grown into the well known name.

At the head of that street stood the home of Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch governor of New Netherlands, and it was known as Stuyvesant's Bowery, which was another name for Stuyvesant's home, the grounds of which stretched southward toward Chatbam square.

The growth from the Aryan root was simple enough, for it was only the expansion of "bu" into "bowery." This root "bu" meant to grow, dwell, be, become or build, so we see how "bower" and "bowery," carrying the idea of a home, naturally grew from it. When that root "bu" began to grow there was no such thing as a collection of houses into a city or even a village, but where our ancestors lived was among the shades of forest growths, where branches and leaves were builded into coverings that became homes.

This word "bowery" came directly to us through the Anglo-Saxon "buan," which meant to dwell. They also had the word "bur," which signified chamber, a covering in which to conceal or cover yourself, and from this Anglo-Saxon came our middle English "bower." In the Dutch, as it was used in New Netherlands in Peter Stuyvesant's time, it was "bowery."

The same root went into the Sanskrit and became "bhu," which meant to be, to exist, or the place where you were or lived, and from that came "bhav-ana," a dwelling house.

The Anglo-Saxon "bur" went into the Icelandic, meaning a room, and into the Swedish, where it is used for cage. It appeared in the lowland Scotch as "byre," a cow house. So in all of the family of languages it came to mean a covering, a protection, a dwelling or a home, and where the last Dutch governor of the New Netherlands lived came to be known as his bowery and later the Bowery.—New York Herald.

It Might Be Either.

A bony, lank village youth of artistic bent, who was sniffed at by his fellow natives, finally disappeared from his usual haunts. He was missed chiefly because his peculiar personal appearance was bound to attract attention wherever it was exhibited.

No one seemed to know whether the lad had gone till the storekeeper, returning from a visit to a nearby city, announced that he had discovered his whereabouts.

"I found him," he proclaimed. "He was in the art museum."

"As a curio," inquired one, "or as an object of art?" — Youth's Companion.

His Fatal Slip.

"Madam," said a benevolent looking man as he raised his hat to a lady who had opened the door at which he had knocked, "I am soliciting subscriptions for a home for necessitous children. We have hundreds of poor, ragged, semicivilized children, like those at your gate, and our object is—"

"Sir, those are my own children." And the front door was slammed violently.—London Mail.

LAZY STREET.

A Bremen Legend of the Seven Sons Who Never Worked.

There is a short, quaint street in Bremen the name of which embodies a legend. The story of "Faulenstrasse" comes within the range of possibility, and perhaps the title really did have some such origin as is attributed to it. The late Bishop John F. Hurst tells the legend in "Life and Literature in the Fatherland."

Once the thick forest grew where the street now runs, and the trees were old, large and strong.

On the edge of this wood lived an aged couple who had seven sons, all big, strong and lazy. Indeed, the boys were drones, and the neighbors said when the brothers passed, "There go the idle seven." Every one laughed at these big lads who never worked. At last the brothers grew tired of being mocked. Said one angrily:

"We cannot go out of the house without even the children coming up behind us and pulling our coats and crying, 'Lazy fellows!' Let us go to work."

At first the six other brothers laughed at this proposition, but finally, wearied of the neighbors' taunts, they concluded to earn their livelihood. They told their father of their resolution, but he smiled scornfully.

"You have been idle too long to be industrious," he said.

The boys persisted in their assurances, however, and at last the father said:

"If you are really determined to go to work I will give you each a sum of money in gold and a new suit of clothes. But first you must give me proof that you are in earnest. You must each procure an ax and a spade and, carrying your ax on your right shoulder and your spade in your left hand, walk in procession through the streets of Bremen."

At first the young men shook their heads, but finally they accepted the test. The people all came to their doors to see the strange procession go by. "The world must be coming to an end," they said.

The father kept his promise, and the boys took their money and their clothes and went off. They wandered far, worked, persevered and acquired property. Years passed away. Many comforts came to the little home in the woods, but the sons never appeared.

One beautiful spring morning the citizens of Bremen were astonished to see seven well dressed gentlemen, each carrying an ax and a spade, marching in procession through the city streets. There was much curiosity and also great excitement when it was found that the "seven idle sons" had returned.

A beautiful house was built where the little home stood, and the old people were surrounded with every luxury. No road ran to that part of the woods from the town, so the brothers built a broad way with their own hands.

"What shall we call our street?" they asked each other when it was finished.

"Much of our lives has been spent in idleness," said one. "What we have lost we can never get back. Let us warn young people who are inclined to be lazy. We will call the way Faulenstrasse, or Lazy street."

His Apology.

Two leading teetotal lights of the "lang ton" of Kirkcaldy were returning home one night after attending a highly successful temperance meeting when they managed to get spilled out of their trap, receiving some damage. A local editor, after giving full details of the accident, added with grim humor, "Fortunately both gentlemen were sober at the time." The veiled suggestion that they were not customarily sober greatly irritated the temperate couple, and a strong letter was written to the editor demanding an apology. The apology duly appeared. It ran: "Messrs. — and — demand an apology for our having stated that at the time of their accident they were both sober. We have pleasure in withdrawing our observation."—London Chronicle.

Illustrious Barbers.

William Winstanley, to whom we are indebted for the "Lives of the English Poets," began his career by soaping faces. Farr, who introduced coffee into England; Dr. John Taylor, whose eloquent voice so often sounded in St. Paul's; Jean Baptiste Belzoni, giant and explorer; James Craggs, secretary of the south sea bubble; Mr. Herbert Ingram of the Illustrated London News; Allan Ramsay, the "Gentle Shepherd"; Lord Chancellor Sugden, Lord Tenterden, Jeremy Taylor and Blzet, the composer of the opera "Carmen," were born and bred and were trained in barbers' shops.—London notes and Queries.
