TRIBUTE TO THE CONFEDERACY.

EXTRACTS FROM MR. E. L. STEWART'S SPEECH.

Delivered to the Bryan Grimes Camp on Memorial Day.

I declare to you today, my countrymen, as I stand here on this auspicious occasion, with countless emotions surging through my breast, each struggling for the mastery, I thank God that my people are a people of simple tastes and upright minds, renowned for their devotion to their native land, and for their fierce love of liberty; a people who have drunk into their souls with their mother's milk, that man is of right and ought to be free, and that when they felt that this freedom was being infringed upon, they had the moral courage and stamina to throw every other consideration to the winds, and wade through four years of hell to assert their rights, and place the spotless banner of freedom on a pinnacle beyond the reach of those who would besmirch its purity.

A people is its own judge. Under God there can be no higher judge for them to seek or court to fear. In the supreme moments of national life, as in the lives of individuals, the actor must resolve and act within himself alone. The Southern states acted for themselves, and the Northern states for themselves. And when the lines of battle formed, Lee and Jackson were in the ranks beside their people.

The South in my opinion, said General Lee, has been aggrieved by the acts of the North. I feel the aggression, and am willing to take proper steps for redress. It is the principle I contend for, not individual or private benefit. As an American citizen, I take great pride in my country, her prosperity and institutions, and would defend any state if her rights were invaded. Secession is nothing but a revolution. Still, a Union that can only be maintained by swords and bayonets, and in which strife and civil war are to take the place of love and kindness, has no charm for me. I shall mourn for my country, and for the welfare and progress of mankind. If the Union is dissolved, and the government disrupted, I shall return to my native state and share the miseries of my people, and, save in defense, will draw my sword on none.

In General Lee was such a hero vouchsafed to us and to mankind, and whether we behold him declining the command of the Federal army to fight the battles and share the miseries of his own people; proclaiming on the heights in front of Gettysburg that the fault of the disaster was his own; leading charges in the crises of combat; walking under the yoke of combat without a murmur of complaint; or refusing fortunes to go to Washington and Lee University and train the youth of his country in the path of duty, he is ever the same meek, grand, self-sacrificing spirit. Here he exhibited qualities not less worthy and heroic than those displayed on the broad and open theatre of conflict, when the eyes of nations watched his every action. Here in the calm repose of civil and domestic duties, and in the trying routine of incessant tasks, he lived a life as high as when, day by day, he marshaled and led his thin and wasting lines, and slept by night upon the field that was to be drenched in blood again upon the morrow.

His service to his country can never be properly measured in words. The full strength of his intellect; the purity of his character can scarcely be comprehended by the human mind. History has been, perhaps, more gracious to him in the distribution of her laurels than any other general of the Confederacy, and rightfully and properly so. But my friends, there is one other character who played a short, though strangely bold and conspicuous part in this terrible drama; and it is with a short sketch of his early life, together with his brief, though terrible, and awe-inspiring actions during the second war for independence that I would make bold to entertain you for the remainder of my time.

In the little town of Clarksburg, West Virginia, on January 21, 1824, there were ushered into this grand old Southland of ours a tiny, baby boy; and this little babe, though prominent in his insignificance at that time, was destined to be one of the greatest careers that fortune ever presented to man. This small atom of humanity, the joy of the household, and the pride of his father's heart became the mighty Stonewall Jackson.

Sprung from a sturdy Scotch-Irish race, reared in a wild country, and surrounded by those environments capable of producing a strong character, no wonder he was destined to inspire men to almost superhuman effort, and to strike terror to the heart of the foe.

When only seven, his sister and soon afterwards his father died. No property was left, and the mother was forced to sew, teach and care as best she could for her little fatherless ones. When only eight he saw his mother pass away, but her dying words and prayers were never effaced from his memory.

While just budding into young manhood he was forced to leave home and seek employment. It is sad to think of this young man thus thrown upon the world without mother, or sister, or any human influence, save his own will to keep him in the right way. But during the period of his wild rough life there burned in his heart an ardent desire to reach that condition in life from which he had been thrust when left a poor, orphan boy. And even now, the great God who has said that he will be a father to the fatherless was opening up the way to a great and notable career for this poor homeless boy.

In 1843 he secured the position of a cadet in the academy at West Point. Clad in homespun clothes, his whole wardrobe packed in a pair of saddlebags, he set out for Washington. There, this youth, eighteen years of age, strong, ruddy-faced and full of courage, received the appointment, and after an easy examination was admitted to this place of distinction.

Aged Man Stricken.

Mr. G. W. Cox, one of our oldest citizens who lives on Sutton lane, about noon on Monday became suddenly ill with something like hemorrhage of the brain, and his condition has since been serious.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., May 12, 1909.

Prof. Lineberry went to Raleigh Monday morning on business connected with the institution of the blind.

J. C. Bell, a student of the medical department of Richmond College, spent Tuesday here on his way home at Pollockville. He is an old pupil of W. H. S. We were glad indeed to see him back. He will complete his course in medicine next year.

Rev. E. T. Philips filled his regular appointment here Sunday morning at the Free Will church. There was an exercise given by the children at night.

J. R. Smith, of Ayden, was here yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied home by Miss Norma McLawhorn.

Miss Elizabeth Boushall and Rev. T. H. King went to Greenville yesterday afternoon.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the annual sermon at the commencement of Winterville High school will be preached by Rev. C. L. Greaves. All are most cordially invited to this service.

ROCHDALE ITEMS.

Rochdale, N. C., May 11, 1909.

Misses Agnes and Trilby Smith went to Farmville Thursday evening to attend the school closing exercises that night.

Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn and Miss Janie Tyson went to C. L. Tyson's on a visit this morning.

Mrs. Ivy Smith and Mark Smith, F. M. Smith, Misses Rosa and Ellen Smith and Nannie and Carrie Belle Smith, and R. E. Willoughby, E. S. Norman, Robt. and Jessie Jones went to Farmville Friday to attend the picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith and Miss Gertie Smith went to Farmville Friday evening to attend the school closing.

Miss Em Joyner, Miss Bacon and R. J. Pulley and Frank Beaton, of Greenville, were visiting at Ivy Smith's Sunday.

Lloyd Smith went to Greenville Monday to bring out his wife's piano that had been shipped from Henderson.

Your correspondent went to Greenville Monday to attend the old soldiers' reunion and had a good time considering the rain. We had plenty of dinner, though it got rather damp before we could eat it and we got damp with it also.

Fruit agents are plentiful this spring. Another one passed through last week.

Mrs. B. P. Willoughby and children were visiting Mrs. C. E. McLawhorn Saturday night and Sunday.

On Sunday evening the people gathered at Smith's school house to attend Sunday school and to hear a sermon by Rev. J. B. Cook, of Greenville, but they were disappointed as the preacher failed to come. We had a good Sunday school.

Mr and Mrs. R. A. Nichols, of Pickett, were visiting at F. M. Smith's Sunday.

Humphrey-Lang.

J. D. Bowles went to Farmville this morning on the 7:25 train to witness the Humphrey-Lang wedding. He reports a lovely trip and says that it was one of the prettiest marriages he ever witnessed. The bride and groom passed through Greenville on 9:55 train enroute to Norfolk where they will spend a few days.

SLOGAN FOR GREENVILLE

Prize Will be Given for Best Suggestion.

The Reflector wants a slogan for Greenville, or a catch phrase in advertising and attracting attention to the town. For instance, the city of Charlotte has adopted "Watch Charlotte Grow," a slogan that has become familiar everywhere. Now we want one equally as good for Greenville, and will give any reader of The Reflector an opportunity of making suggestions as to what it shall be. The person making the best suggestion before the first of June will be awarded any $3 Parker Fountain Pen at the Reflector Book Store. The only rules governing this contest are as follows:

All suggestions must be sent to The Reflector in writing before the first day of June.

The suggestion must contain not less than three nor more than six words.

Any person can make as many different suggestions as desired.

The Reflector is to have the privilege of using any or all the suggestions made as the paper deems fit in advertising Greenville.

Three gentlemen, whose names will be announced later, will be asked to act as judges, the suggestions all to be referred to them. The one they deem best will be adopted as Greenville's slogan and the $3 Parker Fountain Pen awarded in accordance with their decision.

Building and Loan Officers.

The directors of The Home Building and Loan Association who were elected at the recent annual meeting of the shareholders, met Tuesday afternoon in the office of the secretary to elect officers of the association, with the following result:

R. C. Flanagan, president.
D. J. Whichard, vice president.
H. A. White, secretary and treasurer.

H. W. Whedbee, attorney.
The salary of the secretary and treasurer was increased from $25 to $35 per month, owing to the constantly growing business of the association placing heavier duties upon him.

Don't be Afraid to Tell.

Some people have an idea that it is pushing themselves forward and wanting to get in the paper if they tell the editor any item of news, personal or otherwise, with which they may be concerned. This is a mistaken idea which they should dismiss from their minds. It is not forwardness at all, but simply a matter of interest. An editor or reporter cannot find out everything himself—he cannot tell everybody who comes, everybody who goes, nor everybody who has visitors. The Reflector can be reached by three telephones—Residence number 36, printing room number 56 and business office number 74—through which it would be easy to give an item that would take but a few moments of your time. If you are going away on a visit, or return from a trip, or have guests in your home, just step to the telephone and tell us. Other people are interested in these things and it will be appreciated all around.

Lost—Ladies' watch, old gold M. L. B. engraved on case. Fob attached with M. B. D. engraved. Two pictures inside of watch. Finder will be rewarded $5 if return same to Reflector office.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

C. M. Jones went to Norfolk today.

A. B. Moore went to Oak City today.

H. B. Harris went to Williamston today.

Miss Clyde Cox arrived from New Bern Tuesday, being summoned to the bedside of her father who is very sick.

E. G. Cox and daughter, Miss Helen, of Greensboro, arrived this morning to be with his father, G. W. Cox, who is very sick.

Rev. C. M. Morton, of Wilson, is stopping over for Dr. Colyer's lecture tonight. Mr. Morton will spend the night with Mr. Bowles at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hooker.

Confederate Monument.

A committee with R. W. King chairman and W. B. Wilson treasurer has been appointed and will begin work at once soliciting funds to erect a Confederate monument here. Voluntary contributions are asked for and payments can be made to W. B. Wilson. The Reflector will publish the names of all contributors and has been authorized to begin the list with the following names:

H. W. Whedbee for Mayor.

The time is fast approaching when the citizens of Greenville will be called upon to choose by popular vote the man who shall fill the office of mayor for the ensuing term, and I desire to place in nomination the present incumbent, Mr. H. W. Whedbee, who has already demonstrated to our people that he is an executive of rare ability and knows how to conserve the people's interest, as well as give us a progressive government.

In view of these known qualifications, I hope every citizen who stands for clean politics and progress, will attend the primaries and cast their vote for our present excellent mayor.

No one is needed to show that there are plenty of North Carolinians not averse to having an office.

Charlotte has invited the Southern Baptist Convention to meet next year in that city. We hope Charlotte will get it.

And now the report comes from Africa that Hunter Roosevelt has killed a rhinoceros. It is almost time for the elephant to stand still and be shot.

That scientist who was recently asking for $10,000,000 to help him try to communicate with Mars, now says he was only joking about it. Still further evidence of his lack of sense.

The Raleigh Times suggests that it would be a nice thing in Governor Kitchin to appoint Locke Craig to succeed Judge Connor on the Supreme court bench. It would indeed, but it is seldom that politicians rise to such magnanimity in regard to men who were their opponents.

The government postoffice department has issued an order giving the rural mail carriers of Mecklenburg county a holiday on May 20th. Now listen out for more envy from unbelieving South Carolinians of this further recognition by the government of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

Get Wise.

If the gentleman mentioned in the item below, taken from the Lumberton correspondence of the Wilmington Star, would consult Greensboro's crack farmer and gardener, Andrew Joyner, or just take a look at his garden, he would hear or see something to his advantage. Mr. Joyner doesn't do a thing to keep off the sparrows from his coming up garden sassa but stick a peg at each end of the row and one in the middle, and on these he stretches just two ordinary white spool cotton strings about four inches above the plants. The birds sit in the middle of the row and pick at the contraption, twist their necks all sorts of ways, wondering what it is, but they never dare light on it or under it. Occasionally a sparrow wrings his neck broke, but Mr. Joyner says he cannot help that as much as he regrets this dainty morsel for the cat. The plan is a simple one, and effective for protecting the young plants.

The Lumberton correspondent says: "Mr. Hector McMillan, becoming very much worried over the attention his garden was receiving from the English sparrows, decided to keep them out by placing a scare crow in his garden. He arranged an old coat on a stake in the garden with the arms stretched out in a threatening position and came down town feeling that he had beaten the pests for once. When he returned for dinner he was dumbfounded to find a sparrow's nest already built in the pocket of the coat he had thought to frighten them away with. Mr. 'Hec' says now nothing but killing will do the birds any good." - Greensboro Record.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

How It Looked to a Republican.

Greensboro, May 11.—That some republicans are inclined to view with composure if not good nature the loss of as big job to the party as the Federal judgeship, is shown by the following extract in a letter received in this morning's mail from a well-known Republican of another city:

"Well, now that the agony of the Eastern judgeship is over, you correspondents can dispassionately survey the field and contemplate the havoc which is disclosed as a result of the pitched and pitchy battle.

"Any number of gentlemen have, as it seemed, been weighed in the balance and found wanting, whilst others eager in the fray, are among those counted as actually slain.

"The number of wounded is almost alarming, but there are none to be counted as missing.

"The show-up, or show-down, which went on at Washington for some time, seems to have resulted disastrously to those who made proffer of themselves. Only one of this class, as it is told from Washington, seems to have received commendatory mention, touching their personal or professional pulchritude, and that one was the genial and handsome Harry Skinner. The report is that when he exhibited himself, the president remarked that he looked more like a judge than any he had theretofore seen.

"Knowing your personal friendship for Skinner, please do not forget to say, that he at least drew the consolation prize, while all his party comrades drew 'boobies.'"—Andrew Joyner in News and Observer.

No Bleached Flour.

The roller mills of this and all other communities in the United States have been notified that on and after the first of June there will be no more bleached flour sold.

The national pure food act of December last prescribed May 9 of this year as the limit for the manufacture of this article of food. Owing to the inability to dispose of it all the state limit has been extended to June 1, after which time all flour made by this process will be seized and confiscated.

This law greatly diminishes the beauty of the finished product, the almost snow white article that looks good and appears to have no pestilence that walks in the darkness or destroys in the noon-day. The June flour will be far darker and less appealing to the eye. The passing of the snowflake loaf will cause sorrow. But it has been decreed by the scientists as dangerous, as dangerous as the scientific kiss was eleven years ago last fall.—Durham Herald.

Dispatch.

Dispatch is the gift of art or doing a thing right quick. To do a thing right and to do it quick is an attribute of genius.

Hurry is often mistaken for dispatch, but there is just as much difference as there is between a hornet and a aunt when they are both on them on duty. A hornet never takes any steps backward, but a aunt always travels just as tho he had forgot sumthing.

Hurry works from morning until night, but works on a treadwheel.

Dispatch never undertakes a job without first marking out the course to take and then follows it, right or wrong, while hurry travels like a blind hoss, stepping hi and often, and spends most of her time in running into things and the balance in backing out agin.—Josh Billings.

It Had Been Dead.

"That old tightwad uncle of mine is dead."

"Has his will been read yet?"

"Did you hear what I called him?"

WHERE TO BUILD.

Rocky Site No Longer Advised—Clay the Ideal Soil.

Strange as it may seem, after 2,000 years of talk and song about the advantages of founding one's house upon a rock, one of the very things that modern builders tell us to avoid in selecting a site is rock. That is principally because of the great cost of excavating a cellar in rocky soil.

Another objection to rocky soil is that water will not soak through rock and so runs down it. Some of this water would be almost certain to seep through the cellar walls, making the cellar damp, or it might undermine the foundations.

Again, rock often contains springs. If a spring were opened during blasting it would mean either that the water would have to flow through the cellar or be deflected, a costly operation. A house built upon a rock also vibrates during thunderstorms.

Clay is perhaps more to be avoided than rock. Clay collects water and spreads under pressure. It expands in wet or frosty weather and contracts in summer. Frozen clay clings to brick or stone and often causes dislocation of cellar walls and piers.

Also it is impervious to water. Thus an underground layer of clay will prevent the proper drainage of rainwater and leave the soil foul and sodden. Finally, it is extremely costly to excavate. Undesirable for building purposes also are made land, sand and silt. Made land is not always stable.

Gravel is the ideal soil for building purposes. It is porous and drains perfectly. At the same time it is sufficiently stable to support foundations. A gravelly elevation is the ideal building site.

Depressions or levels between rocks are likely to retain water, even though the depression is slight and the elevations distant. The ground water thus retained stands at a level. Small gravelly elevations form islands, as it were, in a subterranean lake, and upon them houses may be built with perfect safety. The cellar floor will be above ground water level, and no rainwater will drain into the cellar.—Circle Magazine.

A Tall One.

"I've been all over the world," remarked the globe trotter, "but I have never seen a place like Madagascar—such vegetation, such charming natives, such food!"

"When I went there I was a sailor on a schooner. We lay in a Madagascan harbor for several weeks. Well, will you believe it, at the end of the first week a deputation of sailors waited on the captain. They threatened to mutiny unless a certain demand was granted.

"Now, what do you suppose they demanded? Salt pork—salt pork, mind you—instead of what the captain had been giving them!"

"And what was that?" inquired the auditors.

"Partridges and pheasants, grouse and quail, and"—

At this point the interest shifted from Madagascar and its charms to the question of the raconteur's veracity.—New York Times.

Nietzsche's Swan Song.

One of the really pathetic documents of modern times is entitled "Ecce Homo," and it is the last work that Friedrich Nietzsche wrote before he went mad. The daring poet-philosopher, whose thought, whether for good or for ill, has already permeated the whole intellectual atmosphere of our epoch, was never more vividly revealed than in this remarkable book. Like all his works, it is a rhapsody, written at white heat, marked by extravagance. But in one important respect it differs from them all. It voices a sense of peace and serenity he never before had realized. At the very moment when darkness was overwhelming him he seemed to experience a marvelous exaltation. His song floats out over the world like a hymn to infinite joy.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake is Made
by Many Greenville
People

It's a common error
To plaster the aching back,
To rub with linimentsumatic joints,
When the trouble comes from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills,
And are endorsed by Greenville citizens.

Mrs. T. S. Norman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I gladly give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any other remedy I ever used.
I suffered severely from a dull ache through the small of my back. There was also a soreness across my kidneys and I was hardly able to get around on account of the sharp darting pains through my loins. When arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and had but little ambition or energy.
Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Woote's drug store, the backache and pains have entirely disappeared, I do not suffer from headaches and that tired, languid feeling has vanished. My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been so satis-sfactory that I do not hesitate to give them my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,
New York, sole agents for the United States.

take no other.

A Popular Lecture.

Dr. Colyer will deliver his farewell address tonight in the Christian church under the heading of a lecture. His subject will be "Out of Failure into Success."

This is a most popular theme and those who have heard Dr.
Colyer or this subject say that there is nothing to equal it.

Mr. Bowles will sing "Let not your heart be troubled."

Munford's Big Sale.

The big special sale at Munford's opened this morning with a rush. For an hour before the time of opening the doors people were gathering on the sidewalk in front of the store and by 9 o'clock there was a throng.
When the doors swung open the crowd rushed in and the store was soon full to overflowing, every one eager to make the first purchase so as to get one of the prizes. The first ten lady purchasers each received a free dress pattern and the first ten men each received a hat. It was almost as interesting as watching a crowd at a circus.
