TRIBUTE TO THE CONFEDERACY.

EXTRACTS FROM MR. E. L. STEWART'S SPEECH.

Delivered to the Bryan Grimes Camp on Memorial Day.

He was now promoted to the rank of Lieutenant General, the next to the highest in the service, and was soon after called to the assistance of Lee, who was stationed in front of McClellan's army on the banks of the Chickahominy river. Jackson ordered his men to attack the enemy in the rear. Before them was a swamp, a deep stream, a woods filled with armed men, and cannon belching forth shot and shell. The work was hard, but when Jackson gave the order, his men swept forward with wild cheers. Above the clang and roar of musketry arose the cry of Jackson, Jackson. The men rushed on through the swamp, across the creek, and up into the wood, driving the enemy from point to point, until they gained the top of the hill. The enemy, now thrown into wild disorder, retreated all along the line, and the battle of Cold Harper was won by the Confederates. The very name of Jackson had struck terror to the heart of the foe.

The name that swells the Poet's song,
That makes humanity sublime;
That teaches patriots to be strong,
That heads the warrior list of time.

It seems as though some supernatural power was ever present to direct and guide this mighty man. In the principal battles of the war, the Stonewall Brigade, which he commanded, took a part prominent and distinguished, reflecting great glory on their chief. The secret of his success, was beyond all doubt due to his realization of his utter dependence upon Almighty God, the giver of all good and perfect gifts, and whose Holy presence he never failed to invoke when on the eve of battle. In the terrible battle of Chancellorsville, which commenced at eight o'clock at night, and raged 'til ten, Jackson was at the head of his column. The pale moon sent her silvery rays down into the heart of dismal wilderness, whose echoes awoke to the sound of tramping feet, the rattle of musketry, and the groans of the dying. Through moonlight and shadow, with these sounds ringing in his ears, Stonewall Jackson rode forward to his death. Having ridden up the turnpike a short distance, and finding the enemy advancing, he attempted to regain his lines, when the Southern men taking his staff for a squad of Northern cavalry, opened a rapid fire upon them. He was wounded in his right arm and right hand. His horse, no longer controlled by the reins, galloped back toward the enemy, when Jackson seized the reins with his bleeding right hand and turned him back in the road. One of his aides now stopped the horse, and placing Jackson upon the ground, summoned a surgeon. Soon after he was placed upon a litter, but the fire was so deadly that it was put upon the ground, and the officers lay down beside him to escape death. When the fire changed, the party attempted to move on, when one of the men caught his foot in a grape vine, letting the litter strike the ground. Jackson fell upon his wounded shoulder, and for the first time groaned most piteously. Ere long they reached the hospital, where about midnight his arm was amputated, and he fell into a quiet sleep. On waking

PROHIBITION PROGRESSING

Capital of West Virginia Goes Dry on July 1st.

Special to Reflector.
Charleston, W. Va., May 13.—By a vote of ten to thirty the city council closes more than fifty saloons and makes the capital city absolutely dry on July 1st. This will put Kanawa county on the water wagon entirely, it being the last.

he asked one of his aides to go to Richmond for his wife and child. He talked about the battle, and other things, but principally of the Omnipotent God, and the world beyond. He knew that death was very near, that he was soon to sheath his sword, and enter into another career. But ah! that peace, which descends like rays of golden sunshine, and permeates the Christian's being, had so filled him, that when the time came he fell into a peaceful sleep to be awakened only by the gentle touch of God's Holy Angels. To his weeping wife he said, "I know that you would gladly give your life for me, but I am perfectly resigned. Very good, very good, it is all right."

I have seen the light come over the eastern hills in glory, driving the hazy darkness like mist before a seaborn gale, 'til leaf, and tree, and blade of grass, glittered in the myriad diamonds of the morning rays, and I thought it was grand. But the grandest thing, next to the radiance that flows from the Almighty Throne, is the light of a noble and beautiful life wrapping itself in benediction around the destinies of men, and finding its home in the bosom of the Everlasting God.

Let us not forget our fallen heroes—for the history of the world presents no sadder, nor yet more magnificent page, than that wherein is inscribed the heroic fortitude, and sublime sacrifice of our gallant dead. Let the honored soldiers of proud, imperial Rome sleep forever in the catacombs of Italy. Let England bury her dead in that grand mausoleum where sleeps forever the dust of centuries.

Let France erect her proud Pantheon, where after life's fitful fever they sleep well. But let the honored shrine of our gallant Stonewall Jackson be erected in the great heart of our Southern people, a temple not made with hands, eternal and sublime.

He and Lee are buried side by side near the Virginia Military Institute. There the sweeping winds proclaim our heroes' fame, and nightly the glittering stars chant in heavenly chorus, "They shine, they shine with our brightness."

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat,
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.

His shivered sword is red with rust,
His plumed head is bowed;
His haughty banner trailed in dust,
Is now his martial shroud.

And piteous funeral tears, have washed,
The red stains from his brow;
And the proud form by battle gashed,
Is freed from anguish now.

And when I, my pilgrimage have made,
And I am numbered with the dead;
I'll join in Heaven the old brigade,
With Stonewall Jackson at its head.

Be sure to see the handsome belt buckles, monogram engraved free, that will be shown in the show window of Pulley & Bowen's store on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Tax Payer Recommends no Change in Aldermen.

Editor Reflector.
My attention has been called to the fact, by an article in Wednesday paper signed "Citizen," that at the approaching municipal election to be held on the 7th day of June, 1909, the town of Greenville will be called upon to select five aldermen, one from each of the several wards of the town, three of whom are to be elected for the term of two years, to wit:—those from the second, third and fourth wards.

The gentlemen who now represent these wards are Messrs. C. S. Carr, from the second ward; E. B. Higgs from the third ward and E. G. Flanagan from the fourth ward, all of whom I am informed are now members of and constitute the present finance committee of the Board of Aldermen of the town of Greenville, and have directly in charge the sale of the $20,000 of bonds to be issued for the purpose of liquidating the floating indebtedness of the town of Greenville.

I know that none of these three gentlemen would enter into an unseemly scramble for election as aldermen from their various wards, and in fact would much prefer not to serve as aldermen, unless it be from a sense of duty as representative citizens of the town. The people of the town know these three gentlemen and know that they need no praise from me, but in my humble judgment the people of the town of Greenville could not do better than elect these gentlemen again, who have so faithfully and so well served the town without remuneration. It is not my custom usually to have anything to say in respect to the election of aldermen in any other ward than the one in which I live, but I simply desire to call the attention of the people of the town to those whose terms of office expire and to the very great need of having the very best men available to fill these positions under the present condition of our town.

There are also two other gentlemen whose term of office expire and who are elected for one year, Mr. J. B. White from the first ward and Mr. W. S. Moye, from the fifth ward, and I am informed that they have performed the duties of the office of aldermen in the very best possible manner, and have freely given of their time without remuneration in the discharge of their duties.

In my opinion, it would be a very great mistake to make a change in the Board of Aldermen just at this time, and these gentlemen should be earnestly requested by their friends to again accept the nomination and serve as aldermen of the town of Greenville. "Tax Payer."

WINTERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL.

Commencement Exercises by the Graduating Class.

The graduating class, twelve in number, of Winterville High school, occupied the Thursday night program in the commencement exercises and gave one of the most unique entertainments it has been our pleasure to attend. Everything about the program was original, even to the class songs, and the large audience was taken by complete surprise. The class was composed of excellent material and showed that they had used their opportunities well.

The welcome by Hassell House and the oration by William Lineberry were brim full of merit. Miss Olinda Newton gave a splendid history of the class, and Miss Olivia Butt fittingly prophesied what the future of each member should be. The class will be cleverly given by Miss Mamie Chapman, and the class poem by Miss Bertha Carroll was a real gem.

When the presentation of trophies came by Johnnie Kittrell, even the class was taken by surprise, for none of them knew what was coming. From a corner he pulled out many ludicrous objects, and calling out the class one by one made the presentations in humorous remarks and personal hits that almost convulsed the audience with laughter.

Equally amusing was the "casting away as each member of the class walked up to a well and threw in some object, explaining how it represented what had given them most trouble through the period in school.

The presidents of the sophomore and junior classes were also called upon the stage for a gift from the seniors and when the junior representative found that his was "nothing" he retorted in a verse or two of poetry that turned the joke entirely.

A touching feature of the exercises was the presentation by the graduating class of a beautiful desk to the school which was accepted with much feeling by Prof. Lineberry.

The Debate Tonight.

As was announced in the Reflector Friday, the debate between Goldsboro and Greenville will take place in the Masonic opera house tonight at 8:30 o'clock. The debaters will arrive on the Coast Line train at 4:30 this afternoon.

The Goldsboro boys have selected a committee composed of three prominent citizens of Greenville. That the contest is going to be a close one, there is but little doubt. The Goldsboro boys recently had a joint debate with the Durham high school, and the papers reported a good contest. They further stated that the Goldsboro boys are splendid debaters.

The Greenville boys are going into the discussion with grim determination. Both of them have good speeches and both speak well. Just how they will measure up with the Goldsboro boys remains to be seen.

The Greenville Debating society extends a cordial invitation to the public to come out and hear the discussion. They ask that they and the Goldsboro boys be aided by being given the best attention by all who attend. They also ask that babies and small children be kept away, as their past experience with this class of our citizenship has not been so satisfactory.

Elsewhere in this issue "Tax Payer" makes some timely suggestions in regard to re-electing those members of the Board of Aldermen of Greenville whose terms expire soon. The reasons he assigns for this should impress themselves upon the voters of the town. There are conditions to be met, and plans already formulated to be carried out, that need men of experience to handle. The floating indebtedness of the town, for instance, must be provided for in a bond issue that has already been authorized and for the sale of which negotiations are pending, and inexperienced men are not as capable of handling such matters as those thoroughly conversant with conditions. Managing the affairs of the town is a question of no small importance, and to do what is best should be the first thought that prompts every citizen. Greenville is at that stage when capable men should be in charge of affairs.

Good Roads and Good Schools.

They are closely related and usually go together. In fact both are marks of the civilization of a people. The county or the section that takes no interest in them brands itself as wanting in the spirit of progress that has become so general in our good State. The time was when we could better afford to rock along over red gulleys and send our children to log school-houses than now. We were struggling to get on our feet for a decade or two after the close of the war, and could not do then what we are abundantly able to do now. The fact is the prosecution of our own business and the enhancement of the valuation of our own property demand that we provide better facilities for transportation and that we educate our children that they may meet the new and larger opportunities of this new and brighter day. Besides the forward movement of those counties that have been wise enough to supply themselves with good roads and good schools is an object lesson before our eyes that we can neither gainsay nor resist. There is nothing for us, who have been backward in these respects, to do, but to join the procession that is marching along. We cannot afford to be mossbacks. It is folly to cry out for economy when it comes to vital questions such as these. Indeed we cannot afford to delay what we should have begun ten years ago. Charity and Children.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake is Made by Many Greenville People

It's a common error To plaster the aching back, To rub with linimentsumatic joints, When the trouble comes from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills, And are endorsed by Greenville citizens.

Mrs. T. S. Norman, 911 Evans St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I glad'y give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement as they have proven of greater benefit to me than any other remedy I ever used. I suffered severely from a dull ache through the small of my back. There was also a soreness across my kidneys and I was hardly able to get around on account of the sharp darting pains through my loins. When arising in the morning, I felt tired and languid and had but little ambition or energy. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wooter's drug store, the backache and pains have entirely disappeared, I do not suffer from headaches any more, and the languid feeling has vanished. My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been so satisfactory that I do not hesitate to give them my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name-Doan's-and take no other.

A Reminder.

Mamma-What are you doing with that string, Lola? Lola (aged five)-Tying it on my finger, mamma, so if I forget anything I'll be sure to 'member it.-Chicago News.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., May 13.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity: Trade generally continues irregular some lines are fairly active while others are quiet Wholesale dry goods, notions and shoes continues quiet and filling in orders are not up to expectations. Travelers are out with fall sample of these lines but buying is not active. Building is active, especially in residential properties, erecting an active demand for supplies in this line. Dealers in seeds, fertilizers and implements are busy indicating active farming operations. Favorable weather has prevailed throughout the district this week and crops are reported in good condition. Indications are for an increased acreage of corn and tobacco. Increased shipment of strawberries and early vegetables from North Carolina points, comprise a feature. Naval stores are firm at recent prevailing prices. Drugs and furniture supplies are fairly active. Retail trade shows improvement, but the sale of seasonable goods continues backward. Collections continue slow.

The silver belt buckles with free engraved monograms, which will be displayed in the show window of Pulley & Bowen's store on Monday and Tuesday, 17th and 18th, will be the first thing of this kind ever exhibited here. Give us a call.

The Pious Burglar.

Concerning the prejudice against whistling on Sunday in Scotland this story is told: Two men who had done a burglary job on Saturday night went on Sunday morning into a wood to divide the plunder. One of them began to whistle over the division when his companion said, with horror, "Hoot, mon, I would na have come out wi' ye if I had known you would whistle on the Sawbath!"
