NUMBER 5533

"OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME"

THIS IS ADOPTED AS THE SLOGAN FOR GREENVILLE

Over 250 Suggestions Considered by the Committee
Mr. J. W. Brown Wins the Prize for The Best Suggestion.

Greenville, N. C., June 3, 1909.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE REFLECTOR:

We, the undersigned, selected by you to pass upon the proposed slogans for Greenville and to award to that person, who, in our opinion, suggested the most appropriate slogan, the Fountain Pen so generously offered by The REFLECTOR, beg leave to report as follows:

After two days' careful consideration of the more than 250 proposed slogans submitted, many of which in our opinion are most excellent, we have selected the following:

"OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME."

The selection of the slogan from the great number submitted to your committee, we found no easy task. The one chosen by the committee, which was proposed by Mr. J. W. Brown, was selected not alone on account of the words forming the slogan, but also on account of the sentiment expressed by the words; which we, your committee, believe should be, and is, the spirit in which Greenville welcomes all persons.

H. A. White,
H. W. Whedbee,
Committee.

Trade Report.
Richmond, Va., June 3, 1909.
Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity:—
Trade conditions generally remain unchanged no irregularity is noted, some lines being fairly active, while others are quiet. Machinery and railroad supplies show some activity. Manufacturers of and dealers in agricultural implements report business well up to expectations. Fertilizers sales continue active for the advanced season. Dry goods continue quiet. Leather is quiet and tanners are not busy owing largely to the high price of hides. Lumber is more active than in the early spring months. Building continues brisk. Naval stores continue firm, no material change in prices being noted. Railroad reports show increase in freight receipts. Weather conditions have been favorable and crop reports are encouraging. Collections continue quiet?

Gem Theatre.
The performance last night was well patronized and everyone seemed well pleased with the program, especially the picture entitled Antony and Cleopatra, which was one of the best subjects ever shown in Greenville. Electric fans have been installed insuring a cool and well ventilated house, also a piano. Illustrated songs will be one of the features hereafter. Two of the subjects tonight are a very interesting picture entitled "Making Glue" and "We Close at Noon," a comedy. Help to make the program one of the strongest ever shown in the city.

Masonic Opera House.
Today's program "The Note in the Shoe," a pretty little romance showing some of Cupid's pranks the plot of this subject shows one of the subtle ways he has in bringing about the affinity condition in two hearts entirely unlooked for. "One Busy Hour," Jim Smith kept a grocery store, and business was so quiet that his hardest work was to keep his clerks awake. "Lunatics in Power," a picture that is full of life and fun. Come out tonight and be with the crowd and in the coolest place where you can see the finest and most refined pictures.

Death of Mr. Horton.
The remains of Mr. M. P. Horton, a veteran hotelist of Farmville, N. C., passed through here today from Asheville for Farmville, where the funeral and interment occurred this afternoon.
Mr. Horton with his family, moved to Asheville about the first of January, hoping to regain his health. He was some fifty years of age and universally esteemed by all. For fifteen years he has conducted the Hotel Horton in his native town. He leaves a wife and five children to whom we extend our sympathy.—Wil-Times, 2nd.

At a recent meeting of the End of the Century Book Club the following resolution was unanimously adopted:
"The End of the Century Book Club sends friendly greeting to the Woman's Club of Greenville, and wishes them success in their laudable work."
If you have not registered for the town election you should do so tomorrow.

Thrown from Buggy.
This morning Mrs. W. B. Wilson and her little son, Francis, were out driving. Approaching the road gate near Mr. L. C. Arthur's the horse took fright at the gate and upset the buggy, throwing both Mrs. Wilson and the little child out in the road. Fortunately neither of them was injured, but the buggy was badly broken.

Splendid Machine.
This morning The Reflector man and members of his family enjoyed an auto ride with Mr. H. H. Hines in his handsome Reo touring car. Mr. Hines is agent for the Reo and other makes of machines, and since his location in Greenville has overwhelmed much automobile interest here. He has several machines at his garage.

Meeting Begins Tonight.

OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME.

The committee consisting of Mayor H. W. Whedbee, Postmaster R. C. Flanagan and Mr. H. A. White, who were requested to take charge of the suggestions for a slogan for Greenville received by The Reflector and select from the list the one deemed most suitable for the purpose intended, has performed this duty as will be seen by the report published elsewhere. The gentlemen went over the different suggestions carefully, and their earnestness and interest is shown in the elaborate report they may make. It was no small task that they performed, and The Reflector certainly feels greatly indebted to them. The town is also indebted to them. The town is also indebted to them, for there are no citizens among us who have a deeper interest in the welfare of the town than these gentlemen.

Mr. J. W. Brown is to be congratulated that his suggestion has been adopted as Greenville's slogan and that the committee awards him the $3 Parker fountain pen at Reflector Book Store. That his suggestion is a splendid one all will admit, as it speaks for itself—or rather, speaks for Greenville.

OUR GREENVILLE, YOURS IF YOU COME, sounds well and now that it is adopted as Greenville's slogan it should be taken up by every business man and citizen and used to attract attention to Greenville. The Reflector is going to use it day after day and stamp it on the minds of every one.

The various ways in which the slogan is to be used in advertising Greenville—buttons, banners, cuts for printing stationery, etc.—are matters now to be determined. The business men in ordering stationery and other printed matter should have Greenville's slogan placed thereon. There are various ways in which it can be used

In the list of suggestions, which we are publishing, are several excellent ones, and some would be appropriate for advertising certain lines of business. As these suggestions now all belong to The Reflector the business men will be permitted to use them in their advertisements.

After beginning to set up the list we found that the demand for the capital G. is so great that it cannot all be printed in one issue but will have to come in installments.

Judge H. G. Connor has been duly sworn in as judge of the Federal court of Eastern, North Carolina and is now holding his first term of district court in Raleigh.

This is The Reflector's Greenville slogan issue.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Lower Rates If Called For.

The Landmark recently had something to say editorially about express rates, showing that over-charges by the express companies were so frequent as to appear to be the rule rather than the exception.

Following this an article from the New York Times was printed in The Landmark of May 21st, setting forth that express companies will carry packages of merchandies worth less than $10, if this fact be stated and payment made, to any point in the United States or Canada, regardless of distance, for 1 cent an ounce with a minimum charge of 15 cents. For advertising and printed matter the rate is still lower—1-2 cent an ounce, with a minimum charge of 10 cents. This rate, however, must be called for. It is a rule of the express companies to make a higher charge, in some cases 50 per cent., more or less, unless the shipper makes request for the cent a pound or half cent a pound rate, as the case may be.

Some of The Landmark's readers who took notice of this article have put the directions in practice at the local express office, with the result that lower rates have been secured. Others who have occasion to ship packages by express will profit by taking note of the regulations, for it is distinctly stated that the low rate will not be given unless it is asked for.

This matter or rates, it should be borne in mind, is not the fault of employes of the express company, and they should not be held responsible. The employes do not profit, as a rule, by the over-charges, but in not giving lower rates unless asked, they follow the rules of the company.—Statesville Landmark

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.
 Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.
 When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.
 Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

 Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.
 Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

MANNING THE STATIONS.

Discipline Aboard Ship at Sea in Times of Emergency.

At no time is the perfect organization aboard ship so well illustrated as in the time of an emergency. The slightest scent of danger in the wind must find every man ready. And every man is ready. Every man has a number. Every man has a station. A bell tap may send your dining room steward off at a run just when he is serving your soup. At the bell tap he is no longer your steward. He is "No. 78" in the ship's emergency organization, and when he gets to his station he finds Nos. 54, 45, 236, 117, 248 and some others there to act with him like a machine. Aboard a big ship there are sometimes as many as sixty stations about the vessel, and at the sound of an alarm bell thirty seconds have not elapsed before every man has responded to his number at his station and is ready to act, to fight fire, to man the lifeboats, or what not.

Up in the wheelhouse is further exemplification of what system will do. Within reach of the officers are a dozen contrivances of machinery that connect with every part of the ship. A touch of one lever closes a bulkhead in this or that compartment of the hold, a touch of another mans all emergency stations, a lever here mans lifeboat so-and-so, and a lever there mans any one or all. Here is a telephone, its wires extending to every part of the ship, and an officer's voice carried to a distance station in the bowels of the ship is so magnified by mechanical means that it can be heard twenty feet from the receiver and fairly bellows its orders.

A sailor or steward never knows at what minute, day or night, he may be called to his station. At the sound of the signal bell he must be at his post. There is a drill of some kind every day aboard ship, but the men never know whether they are running to a real fire or only a drill. Boats are uncovered, falls overhauled, davits swung out. Every boat must have its compass, night signals, fresh water and provisions ready for immediate action. From the chart room the captain can start a squad in the most remote part of the ship simply by pressing a button, and the flashing of tiny electric lights faithfully record how every detail of the drill is being carried out. A chart gives the location of all bulkheads, and a tiny light sparkles when this or that water tight compartment is closed. In case of a collision every bulkhead below the water line is closed by a turn of a lever in the wheelhouse, making the modern ship practically unsinkable.—Van Vliet Adling in Book-keeper.

He Dazed Lew Wallace.
Shortly after the first success of "Ben-Hur" Lew Wallace had occasion to go over to London and one day picked up a pirated copy of the novel at a railroad newsstand. To his amazement he found the subtitle left off, a preface interpolated and one of the chapters rewritten. Of course he boiled with rage, and as soon as possible he called on the publisher. That gentleman coolly admitted his crime and told Wallace he thought the amended form better adapted to the British taste, doncherknow. His gall was so stupendous that the novelist was awed and went away without spilling his gore.

It Was Good Advice.
A wildly turbulent peasant was once a witness in a trial before Chief Baron O'Grady. The counsel, after pestering him for some time, put a question to him which reflected on the witness' character.

"If you ax me that again I'll give ye a kick in the gob!" was the answer.

The counsel appealed to the court, stating that an answer was necessary to his client's case, ending up with the query, "What would your lordship advise me to do?"

"If you are resolved to repeat the question," replied the court, "I'd advise you to move a little from the witness' stand."

THE SOLDIER'S SLANG

Army Vernacular as Odd as That of the Navy.

MANY QUEER EXPRESSIONS.

A Man Just Enlisted Is Called "a Rooky," and Men Who Enlist at the Beginning of Winter and Desert in the Spring Are Called "Snowbirds."

The army has just as odd a vernacular as the navy. To the uninitiated some army expressions would convey little or no sense, as, for example, if a soldier were heard to say, "The top told me to report for kitchen police and help skin the spuds for slum for supper," the hearer would have several guesses before he would come anywhere near what this meant in the patter of the barracks.

In plain language, it means that the first sergeant (the ranking or orderly sergeant) had told him to report to the cook to assist him in peeling the potatoes to make the hash or stew for supper. Hash or stew is always "slum," and the first sergeant is "the top," "kitchen police," a man who assists the cook in the preparation of meals and the washing of dishes, pans, etc.

A man who has just enlisted or has not yet been in the ranks long enough to be considered a full fledged soldier, having learned all his duties, is called "a rooky," and woe be unto the "rooky" who gets "fresh" before an old sergeant who has been in the ranks since before the fresh "rooky" was born! He will be told in any but gentle terms by the old timer: "Shut up and go about your work. Your name is not yet dry on your enlistment paper!" meaning that when he was sworn in and promised to serve for three years and obey the "orders of the president and the officers appointed over him" he had signed his name to this paper and the signature had not had time to get dry.

When a man says he is going to "take on" or "take to another blanket," he means that he is going to re-enlist. The government, in the clothing allowance for each man, provides a blanket; hence the term to "take another blanket."

The guardhouse is called "the mill." Some ill behaved soldier away back in the past (the term is a very old one) no doubt thought his term in the guardhouse ground out toward its end very slowly, so he applied this now much used name to the prison of the garrison.

When "the top" says, "Get your blanket and go to the mill," the soldier knows he is in for a tour of duty in the guardhouse, and his blanket means one or more nights, for in that much to be avoided place nothing is supplied in the way of comforts, and each occupant carries with him his blanket, or more if he has them, to make his rest more comfortable.

All meals are called "chuck," and along toward mealtime the expression, "Is it not time for chuck call to blow?" is heard very frequently.

"Snowbirds" are men who enlist in the winter about the time snow begins to fall and the real snowbird puts in its appearance and desert in the spring when the robins appears. They "take on" only to tide over the winter with its discomforts.

Any deserter is called a "skipper."

Two men who share the same small tent or whose bunks are side by side in the barrack room are called "bunkies." This ancient term originated in the days of the very old army, when the bunks were "built for two" and two men slept side by side on a mattress filled with straw and one blanket apiece, much different from today, when each man has his hair mattress, pillow, sheets and blankets. A "bunky" always has a chew or filling for a pipe for his mate, when he might tell another man that he has not enough weed to "put under your nail."

All fines received from a court are called "blind," so that a man who received ten days in the guardhouse and a fine of $3 would tell his comrades that he "got ten days in the mill and five blind."

The commanding officer of a company or the post is always the "old man." If he is not liked other terms, not parlor talk, are used.

All field musicians are called "wind jammers" on account of their jamming of wind into the trumpet that calls the men to labor or rest.

Every man on the completion of his term of enlistment is given a discharge. At the bottom of his paper in olden times was a space in which the character borne by the man during his term of enlistment was written. If his service had been bad this part of the discharge was cut off, and it was called "a bobtail." In speaking of the length of time a man has to serve before he has completed his term of enlistment the term "butt" means less than a year. So to say he has a year and a little less than two years he would say "a year and a butt."

There are a number of men in the ranks who save their money and lend it to others. The rate is very high. If a man borrows $2 he must pay $4 at pay day. This is called "cent per cent." The term "one more shingle on the White House" means that the man has completed one more tour of guard duty consisting of twenty-four hours.

Many of these terms quoted are of very old origin, so old that if you ask the oldest man in an organization when he heard it first he will probably tell you, "Oh, it was used when I took my first blanket."—Major B. W. Atkinson in New York Tribune.

PERILOUS WORK.

Dangers of Railroad Surveying in Mountainous Regions.

Sometimes the work of mountain railroad surveying parties becomes intense and dramatic. The "chief" lowered into a deep and rocky river canyon, is making rough notes and sketches, following the character of the rock formation, and dreaming—dreaming the great dreams that all great engineers, great architects, great creators, must dream perforce. He is dreaming of the day when, a year or two hence, the railroad's paths all have crowded themselves into this impasse and when the folk who dine luxuriously in the showy cars will fret because of the curve that spills their soup and never know of the man who was slipped down over a 600 foot cliff so that the railroad might find its way.

It is then that the work of the surveying party begins to have its thrills. Perhaps to put that line through the canyon the party will have to descend the river in canoes. If the river be too rough, then there is the alternative of being lowered over the cliff sides. Talk of your dangers of Alpine climbing! The engineers who plan and build railroads through any mountainous country miss not a single one of them. Everywhere the line must find a foothold. That is the problem that must be solved. Sometimes the men who follow the "chief" in the deep river canyons, the men with heavy instruments to carry and to operate—transits, levels and the like—must have lines of logs strung together for their precarious foothold as they work. Sometimes that foothold is lost, the rope that lowers the engineer down over the cliff sides snaps. The folk riding months later in the cheerful dining cars do not know of the graves that are dug beside the railroad's path.

It is all new and wonderful, blazing this path for civilization; sometimes it is even accidental. An engineer, baffled to find a crossing over the Rockies for a transcontinental route, saw an eagle disappear through a cleft in the hills that his eyes had not before detected. He followed the course of the eagle, and today the rails of the transcontinental reach through that cleft and the time table shows it as Eagle Pass.—Edward Hungerford in Outing.

Unhealthy to Dine Alone.

The solitary eater is always tempted to take too large mouthfuls and swallow them too quickly and either eat too much or too little. Eating is only one part of feeding and without digestion is not only useless, but injurious. Those who eat in company have to devote a certain amount of time to talking and attending to each other's wants. This makes the period between the mouthfuls longer and gives more time for digestion. Then, again, conversation at mealtimes usually takes a cheerful turn, and the tone of both body and mind is raised, the heart and nervous system act better, the flow of digestive juices is stimulated, and a larger amount of actual nourishment is obtained from a smaller quantity of food.

The Boy Was Not the Fool.

The other day a little boy was sent to a shop for a penny's worth of cobbler's wax. The shopman, thinking of quizzing him, said: "Won't shoemaker's wax do?"

"Aw doan't know," replied the lad. "Aw'll go an' see."

He returned again directly and, addressing the shopman, said: "Mi faither says that shoemaker's will do."

The shopman handed it to him, smiling, and said: "What is the difference?"

"Well," said the lad, going toward the door, "mi faither says there's same difference as there is between you and a donkey, and that is they're boath alike."

And then he was off like a shot.—London Spare Moments.

An Experiment in Theology.

Jimmie Irwin went to his mother on his return from Sunday school and said, "Mamma, the teacher told a story at Sunday school today."

Mother—Oh, no, dear, I think you are mistaken.

Jimmie—No, I'm not. She told a story.

Mother—Well, what was it?

Jimmie—She said that if I told a story the bad man would get me. I've tried it twice and he hasn't got me yet!—Delineator.

Sacrifice Prevented.

"You refuse me because I have a title," said the count bitterly, "but I will relinquish it. I will become a plain citizen."

"How noble of you!" responded the American heiress. "I, too, feel called upon to make a sacrifice. I will relinquish my fortune, and—Why, he's gone!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A FRIGHTFUL CONFLICT.

"Every time I see a tall chimney," said an Englishman, "I am reminded of a thrilling affair that happened when I was a lad in Bradford, England, my birthplace. A 250 foot chimney had just been completed, and two brickmasons only were left on the top to put the finishing touches on it. Both of them were big men. One of them, a fellow of gigantic strength, went suddenly insane just as the last bit of work was done on the chimney, and his companion looked on with horror while the maniac deliberately cut away the rope ladder leading from the top of the chimney to the ground.

"The maniac no sooner did this than he turned to his companion and calmly announced that he was going to throw him over the side of the chimney to the ground. They closed, and a terrific protracted struggle ensued. The workmen down below had seen the rope ladder when it struck the ground, and they knew at once that something was wrong with the two men at the top.

"They got away from the chimney at a sufficient distance to see what was going on up at the top, and they witnessed the frightful encounter between the two men. The maniac frequently by pure strength got his companion over to the very edge of the chimney. Every time he did this the sane man would muster up all of his force and push the madman back. The hand to hand battle went on for hours, while a company of firemen down below were endeavoring to shoot a line over the chimney by means of a rocket cannon. Finally the sane man got a certain hold on the madman and broke the latter's arm. Then the maniac lay quiet.

"After hours of aiming the firemen managed to get a line over the chimney, which the exhausted brickmason, almost 'all out' from his terrible struggle with the insane man, grabbed. Then he drew up the rope ladder, fastened it and came down to the ground, sinking into a semicomatose condition from which he did not emerge for days.

"Two firemen volunteered to go up the rope ladder after the maniac. They had nearly reached the top of the chimney when the insane man walked over to the edge, looked around quietly for a minute or so, paying no attention to the cries of his rescuers, and then dived headforemost to the ground. He was probably dead before he struck the earth, and he was picked up a shapeless mass."—Exchange.

Remarkable Clairvoyancy.

When people are determined to find evidence to convince them of a thing they are bound to believe there is never any lack of it. A certain man who accepted as true the pretensions of a charlatan who claimed to be able to tell the past history, character and future of any person from his handwriting said one day to a friend:

"Why, look at the things he is able to tell you from a mere glimpse at your handwriting!" The first thing he said to me was, "I see you never took a prize in orthography while you were at school," and it was true."

"Did he give you any idea how he knew that?"

"He said he could tell it merely from the way in which I had made the curves of the letters g and h in the word 'handwriting!'"

Not Quite Clear.

Mr. David could not be called stupid. He was rather slow, and added to this deficiency, his tongue had a way of getting mixed up. Not every one understood this, and as a result the poor fellow got into many complications. One day he was making a perfunctory call on a lady with whom he had little in common. He got up to go.

"I've enjoyed your society very much, Mr. David," said the lady. "I hope you will come to see me again soon."

"I've enjoyed my visit, too," he said. "I don't know when I've enjoyed one before."

"Mr. David!"

He thought a minute. "I didn't mean that," he added. "I meant that I don't know when I've enjoyed a visit here as I have enjoyed this one."—Youth's Companion.

A Rat Dog.

The canine specimen did not appear in any way remarkable, but he had a value. "Yes, sir," boasted the hotel proprietor, "that dog's the best rat catchin' dog in the state." Even as he spoke two big rats scurried across the office floor. The dog merely wrinkled his nose. "Rat dog!" scoffed the traveling man. "Look at that, will you?" "Huh!" snorted the landlord. "He knows them. But just you let a strange rat come in here once!"

ARAGO'S NOSE.

It Was Enormous In Size, but It Was Safely Anchored.

Emmanuel Arago, the French politician, was a nephew of the noted astronomer and was considered a handsome man, although his nose was extremely conspicuous. At one time he was traveling by train to Versailles when a child who was in the same car and who had watched Arago for some time with dilated eyes began to cry. In vain did the child's mother endeavor to calm the perturbed juvenile. The poor mother was in despair, and as the shrieks grew more and more piercing Arago felt bound to interfere and see what he could do. He said to the child:

"What ails you, my dear?"

Thus addressed, the child sobbed out, "Take off your nose."

Arago looked at the mother, who grew very confused and said:

"Ah, monsieur, excuse me—excuse my son."

"But, madame," said Arago, "what does he mean?"

The mother then explained that she had during the carnival taken her child to see a number of persons in masks and with false noses and he had become so excited that he could think of nothing else.

"By an unfortunate occurrence," she added, "we got into the same carriage as you, who no doubt for some good reason are prolonging the carnival. But you see what a deplorable result has followed. Let me then beg of you to have pity on a poor mother and take off your nose."

"But, madame," said Arago, stupefied.

"A little more and my child will have convulsions," shrieked the mother. "Take off your false nose."

"But, madame," said Arago in despair, "that is impossible. This is not a false nose, but my own!"

"Impossible, impossible!" cried the agonized lady.

"Touch it," said Arago.

The lady gave a pull at Arago's nose, but it did not come off in her hand, as she had expected.

"A thousand pardons," she said, "but pray—oh, pray, hide it with your hat."

ROLE OF THE COCOANUT.

The Staff of Life to the Natives of Sea Washed Island.

It is more than a coincidence that the tree which furnishes a greater amount of available material to man than any other in the vast kingdom of vegetables is the first to spring up on the bare rocks of the newly arisen coral reef. The cocoanut, so formed that it may have floated halfway across the Pacific, is thus universally distributed throughout tropical islands.

It thrives best near the sea, seldom penetrating far into the interior. Its hard shell is a coat of mail for the embryo plant, enabling it to stand hard usage for a protracted period and locking up securely the precious life in miniature.

The fibrous husk which envelops it and is seldom seen on the market on account of the greatly increased bulk breaks the jar which would be inevitable should the hard nut fall unprotected from the tall tree to the ground sixty or ninety feet below.

Such a blow would scarcely fail to break the shell, occasioning the loss of the nourishing milk so necessary to the germ. The outer husk not only breaks the jar of a fall, but buoys it up on the water, while the tough outer cuticle is waterproof.

Thus is the tree which offers to man almost in the raw state all his necessities freely scattered where the warm seas and their borders offer a footing, and from it the humble native secures sugar, milk, butter, wine, vinegar, oil, candles, soap, cups, ladles, cordage, matting, thatch for roof and material for raiment, combining food, clothing and shelter in a single gift, continually making waste places habitable.—New Age.

Building Up a Speech.

Before making a speech Charles Dickens would decide on his various heads and then in his mind's eye liken the whole subject to the tire of a cart wheel, he being the hub. From the hub to the tire he would run as many spokes as there were subjects to be treated, and during the progress of the speech he would deal with each spoke separately, elaborating them as he went round the wheel, and when all the spokes dropped out one by one and nothing but the tire and space remained he would know that he had accomplished his task and that his speech was at an end.

Doing It.

Old Lady (to grocer's boy)—Don't you know that it is very rude to whistle when dealing with a lady?

Boy—That's what the gov'nor told me to do, mum.

"Told you to whistle?"

"Yes'm. He said if we ever sold you anything we'd have to whistle for the money."—London Fun.

Running Conversation.

Collector (angrily)—You know very well, sir, that this bill has been running several years. Now, I put it up to you, what do you want me to do with it? Debtor—By George, I'd enter it in the next Marathon race if I were you!—Puck.

What Did He Mean?

"Yes; I believe that every intelligent woman should have a vote."

"But, senator, I understand that you were opposed to women's suffrage?"

"I am."—Judge.

OUR EARLY PAINTERS.

Benjamin West Started His Career as an Infant Prodigy.

Naturally the early painters in colonial times were immigrants. They were for the most part men whose names have long since perished and were probably of little account even in their own day. We picture these men with their paint boxes and rolls of canvas packed upon their knapsacks, trudging up hill and down dale, begging an occasional ride, putting up at road inns and painting a new sign to settle the landlord's score. As late, by the way, as 1788 Matthew Pratt, a resident painter of Philadelphia, found signboards as profitable a subject as portraits.

Benjamin West may be reckoned the earliest of native born American painters, for, although his birth occurred in 1738, a year after that of John Singleton Copley, his rise to notice preceded the latter's. West, in fact, began by being an infant prodigy and never quite got over it. It was a remarkable fact in itself that an artist should be born of a Quaker family in a little Pennsylvania settlement, amid the rigors of frontier life, and that without any known encouragement from his family and surroundings the child at six years old should have unmistakably shown artistic tendencies. The story is that while left in charge of a baby sister he tried to make a portrait of her in red and black ink. Then the following year some Indians showed him how to make red and yellow colors, while his mother allowed him to dip into her indigo tub and even made a brush for him from the fur of the cat. With these rude materials he executed some colored drawings that attracted the attention of a Mr. Pennington of Philadelphia, who presented him with a real box of paints and some engravings after Italian pictures. He made such rapid progress that before he was twelve years old he was practicing as a professional portrait painter in Philadelphia. By the time he was twenty-two he had saved enough money to visit Rome, whither his fame had preceded him. Three years later he reached London and was received with an enthusiasm that at once launched him into a success which only grew greater as the years went by. Finally he was elected president of the Royal academy and held this position until his death, when a great public funeral was given to his remains in St. Paul's cathedral.—Circle Magazine.

Falsifying an Old Proverb.

The adage "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on" is one that is unknown in many lands. A Breton bride likes to have a wet wedding and takes it unhappily when the day of her wedding dawns bright and sunny. Rain on her marriage morn is held to signify that all her tears are shed and that she will therefore have a happy married life. It is said that the Erza of Simbrisk call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep as much as possible, with the idea of getting the mourning of life over, so that only what is joyful may remain. In some countries this result is expected by sousing the bride with water. The Greeks think that a thorough drenching of the bride will bring her lasting good fortune.

The Quiet Way.

As the mother tossed aside her gloves the daughter looked up from her novel with a yawn.

"By the way, ma," she said, "have you found out yet what pa cut out of the paper?"

The mother sneered.

"Yes, bother it," she answered. "I bought another copy downtown and read the thing all through from start to finish. But for the life of me I can't see anything wrong with it. It's just an article on the healthy exercise housework gives."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Why Paperhangers.

Wall paper does not hang, and yet the person whose business it is to paste it up is called a paperhanger. The reason is simple. Long before the introduction of wall papers Arras, a town in France, was famous for its tapestries, called "Arras." These were used as wall coverings, and the men who were employed to put them up were called "hangers." When paper succeeded tapestries as a mural decoration the name "hangers" stuck to the men, though instead of being tapestry hangers they were now paperhangers.

A Use For Brains.

John Bright used to tell how a barber who was cutting his hair once said to him: "You've a large 'ead, sir. It is a good thing to 'ave a large 'ead, for a large 'ead means a large brain, and a large brain is the most usef'ul thing a man can 'ave, as it nourishes the roots of the 'air."

PROFIT IN GLENWOOD PARK LOTS

To begin an investment in the right place, even in a small way, often lays the foundation for a home or a permanent income. More fortunes are made in REAL ESTATE than any other commodity known. Where do you stand?

The people of Norfolk havestamped their approval on Glenwood Park Lots as the best investment by the great number of lots purchased within the last thirty days.

This proves that they realize what great development are about to take place at Sewell's Point and they want to share in the Profits

Newport News

27 years ago there was but one house standing upon what is now the prosperous city of Newport News.

This is well within the memory of the older citizens of Norfolk, but to the younger citizens and those who have moved to Norfolk within recent years, it is hard to realize, but nevertheless true.

The terminals of the C. & O. Railway, comprising coal piers, grain elevators, warehouses, &c., are located at Newport News, and demonstrates the fact that large cities are quickly built, where railroad terminals are located.

Lambert's Point

Less than 20 years ago the Norfolk and Western Railway purchased 250 acres of ground at Lambert's Point on which to build its terminals.

No building except an occasional farm house could be seen and much of the property was under water for lack of drainage.

Today Lambert's Point boasts of a population of about 12000 people, with many factories and business houses, all as a result of the terminals of the Norfolk & Western Railway.

Less than 4 years ago, the Tidewater Railway, now the great Virginian, purchased 525 acres of ground at Sewell's Point for its terminals and has already built the largest coal pier in the world and is now planning to build three more coal piers, three merchandise piers and two lumber piers.

These piers are being built to handle the great volume of products of this railway and together with the shops and business enterprises that will be in and around the railway's holdings, is in itself a guarantee that only a very few years will be required to build a city of many thousand people at Sewell's Point.

Glenwood Park is to be a high class residence section and is located in what will be the center of this new city and those who are fortunate enough to secure lots there, will find the investment to be most profitable.

Glenwood Park is the approved location for homes of the highest class and best paid employees of the Virginian Railway, who must necessarily live near to their work.

If you want to save money, if you want to invest some that you have saved, if you want to share in the great future of Sewell's Point, then buy lots in

GLENWOOD PARK

Many of the best business men of Greenville have purchased lots at Glenwood Park and those who have seen the property recommend it as being the best investment to be found anywhere. A FEW FACTS ABOUT LIVER TROUBLES

A dull sluggish liver always brings a dull, sluggish feeling to the entire body. When the liver works properly the blood courses through the body in a bright red stream. When the liver is inactive the blood becomes dull and muddy, and it is full of poisonous matter. A great many people try to get a fine, clear, pink and white complexion by rubbing things on their faces. They might rub a lifetime and the same yellow complexion would remain—for the liver causes it. Only bright, red blood brings fine complexions. Blood loaded with impurities from the liver sends the impurities out through the pores of the skin and turns the skin a brownish yellow.

To get rid of the dull, heavy feeling and muddy, yellow complexion get the liver to working again. Two 50c bottles of Bloodline will do it nine times out of ten. If you are troubled with constipation and straining use Bloodline Liver Pills with the Bloodline. For sale by M. M. Sauls, Ayden, N. C. and J. W. Bryan, Greenville, N. C.

Useful to Flirts.

A young man called on a patent expert and showed him an idea he wanted protected. It was in the form of an engagement ring.

"But," said the expert, examining the very ordinary looking circlet, "what is there patentable about this?"

"It is adjustable, sir," said the inventor proudly.—London Answers.

The Poulitice is a Barbaric Relic.

The poulitice is a barbarous relic of the days of witch burning. The typical horse poulitice is made of flaxseed. It is a soggy, unsavory, germ infested instrument of torture. Clapped upon the suffering baby's chest, it interferes with the poor child's breathing, infects his skin with the germs that cause pimples and boils and makes him unbearably uncomfortable and unhappy. The heat in the poulitice is its only valuable feature. The dampness does damage, and the flaxseed is as inert as so much sawdust or breakfast food. Why not use hot water bags or, better still, hot cloths?—Delineator.

Ho Get the Teacher.

A man called at a grammar school in a large city to see one of the teachers and, uncertain just which was the room he wanted, noted the bell buttons in the main corridor. He pressed one of them. His surprise was great when soon after the sound of the gong children and teachers fled forth from the various rooms, all in orderly line and with no excitement or crowding. The visitor had pressed the button which called for the fire alarm drill practice.

Wanton Waste.

The Nurse—You've been badly hurt. The Victim—Whatcha gointer do ter me now? The Nurse—Rub you with alcohol. The Victim—Gee, I wisht I'd been turned inside out!—Cleveland Teacher.

Why RALSTON SHOES are non-wrinkling

ORDINARY FLAT VAMP

RALSTON CRIMPED FORM METHOD

$4.00

As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last.)

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration) then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.
