PROF. R. H. WRIGHT PRESIDENT

OF EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL.

Prof. C. W. Wilson Also Secured—Plans for Opening the School This Fall.

The trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training school were in session here all day Friday. The most important matter before them was the election of a president of the school. After considering this important question in all of its phases Prof. Robert H. Wright was unanimously chosen. Prof. Wright, who was in the city at the invitation of the executive committee, had an interview with the board and after going fully over the situation and the opportunity for the development and growth of the school, accepted the presidency.

Prof. Wright was born in the county of Sampson in 1870 and is therefore in the very prime of life. He is a son of Mrs. Rettie Wright, who is herself a noted teacher and was the founder and promoter of the Coharie high school in that county. After completing the course in his mother's school he entered the University and graduated at that institution in 1897. He then taught a year at Spring Hope and two years at Oak Ridge Institute. He then took a year's course in training at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. While at Johns Hopkins he was elected a professor of English in the Woman's College, Baltimore. His work in that department was so eminently satisfactory that he was chosen principal of the East Baltimore high school, which position he now holds. This is a high class institution, having 800 students and 28 teachers.

Prof. Wright is a scholar of high attainment and a Christian gentleman in the best sense of that term. The board of trustees esteem themselves fortunate in securing him for president of this new institution. Prof. Wright will come to Greenville as soon as he can arrange to move his family and take up his new work with a spirit and determination to build up a great State institution, which shall render eminent service to the State and be one of its chief ornaments.

The board arranged to secure the services of Prof. C. W. Wilson, who has been for a number of years principal of the graded school at Scotland Neck. Prof. Wilson will do work under the direction of the executive committee. This school is fortunate in securing the services of this fine teacher and most excellent business man.

We are informed that the board elected some of the lady teachers, but their names will not be given out until they have accepted.

The board also directed the executive committee to select other teachers and make their report to a subsequent meeting of the board when final action will be taken in completing the faculty.

We are assured by the board that the work of organization of the teaching force will be completed at an early day and that everything will be in readiness to open the school, the exact date to be determined hereafter, notice of which will be given in ample time.

The four buildings originally constructed, to wit: administration, refectory, and two dormitories are now completed, and the work on the power house and infirmary is progressing rapidly; so that the public may now accept it as a fixed fact that the school will open this fall.

FLEMING-WALLACE.

Mr. Clair Fleming Weds Miss Annie Wallace at Jamesville.

Jamesville, N. C., June 9 1909. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallace, their daughter, Miss Annie Wallace was married to Mr. Clair Fleming, Wednesday evening, June 9th, at nine o'clock.

The front hall door and rooms were tastefully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, while the guests awaited the arrival of the bride and groom. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Meyzelle, of Jamesville, N. C., Miss Cherry, of Washington, entered the hall as bridesmaid, then followed the groom with his best man Mr. E. I. Fleming, of Greenville, N. C., and following came the bride leaning on the arm of her sister, Miss Kathleen Wallace. She wore a suit of old rose with hat to match. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Petree, of LaGrange, N. C., the pastor of the bride.

As the bride and groom passed out into the parlor they were greeted with hearty congratulations. The presents were handsome and numerous, showing the esteem of many friends and relatives.

The bride is a young lady of many attractions and the groom a popular employee of the Dennis Simmons Lumber Co. Their many friends wish them a happy wedded life.

A True Sign of the Actual.

One of our Durham contemporaries, we forget which one just at present, but both are good, tells an interesting incident in connection with the taking of the oath of office of Judge James S. Manning. The Bible used in administering the oath of office to the new member of the Supreme Court was one given him by his father in March, 1871. Judge Manning had kept and used the Bible ever since and it is certainly something that should indicate to others the true inward nature of the man. This one sign should be as true as a man's love for his mother. All outside glitter, which may or may not be a correct indication, can be pushed aside, because such a sign alone indicates the true spirit of the man.

The Bible given him by his father thirty-eight years ago had been kept and treasured by Judge Manning and such an incident is worth more than mere passing notice. It is something to think deeply and tenderly of and must be appreciated especially by those who know and admire Judge Manning.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Baracas and Philatheas.

The grandest trip of the season is to go to Asheville June 19th to attend this great convention. No loyal Baraca or Philatheas should miss this opportunity to attend the world-wide convention. A special car will leave Raleigh, N. C. next Friday night, June 19th, at 2 o'clock for Asheville. Be sure to make your plans to go up at this time.

The fare for round trip is $8.35 from Raleigh. Sleeper from Raleigh to Greensboro will cost $1.50 or $2.00 to Asheville extra for those desiring Pullman accommodations.

Longfellow Released on Bond.

Yesterday afternoon at seven o'clock, the bond of James S. Longfellow in the sum of $3,000 with the the United Surety Company, of Baltimore, Md., as surety, was presented to the clerk of the superior court and was approved by him and the sheriff directed to release the defendant. The bond is duly executed at the home office of the company and is perfect in every respect. The condition of the bond is that Longfellow appear and remain in attendance upon the sessions of the August term of court until he is discharged. The company is a good one and the state insurance commissioner certifies that it is duly licensed in this state. It does a good business in North Carolina and is solvent. Longfellow was released from custody by the sheriff, last night, and to prevent possibility of personal violence drove through the country to Falling Creek where he boarded the westbound Norfolk & Southern train.—Kinston Free Press, 11.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1909.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, the aged chaplain of the United States senate, died Thursday at his home in Boston. He was 87 years of age and had been in failing health several months.

It is beginning to look like it makes little difference, so far as the interests of the people are concerned, what the political complexion of congress is, as they all more or less eat out of the same spoon when they get there.

The Durham Herald is wondering "what it would be like if the Democrats were to get together and adopt such a platform as they really want." Guess it would be just like it is now, the men elected on the platform voting contrary to it.

There is much good property in and around Greenville on which there should be buildings. If you are contemplating the purchase of a lot here, but holding back with the thought that it is going to be cheaper, you will likely miss your calculation.

Rev. A. B. Crumpler, who was once a Methodist minister but several years ago left that church and became the leader of what is known as the Holiness sect, has publicly recanted his Holiness church to return to the church of his first love. He also urged those who followed him into his Holiness church to return to the churches with which they formerly affiliated.

Newspapers Made Part of Our Lives

In a recent address before the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, E. O. McCormick, who is recognized as an authority on the relations of the press to the public and the value of publicity in promoting individual and community prosperity, said this among other things about reading newspapers:

Reading the newspapers in as intimate a part of our every-day life as sleeping and eating. It is a rare person who does not at least glance over his daily or weekly paper, and to the great majority of people it is the only avenue open to their minds accessible to those who have things to sell. The peculiar strength which is all its own is well put by a recent writer in the following words: "The newspaper carries suggestions into the family circles at leisure moments in parlor or library where no salesman is ever permitted to enter." It is in closer touch with and exerts a greater influence in the home than any other printed thing. To start with there are in the older communities a vast number of people who have inherited the continuance of the paper which their parents read. It is as real to them as "proofs of holy writ." To practically all things it is their own choice. The intelligence of the world's doings is gleaned from its pages. That which many deem their own judgment as related to current topics is merely a reflection of what they have read in their home paper. What reaches them for the first time in to-day's issue, in a week or a day later has become their belief and knowledge. And now that I remind you of it, you have a friend or a neighbor whose conversation is largely made up of what he has read in the day's paper. He does not add any new thought to it, either, or indeed any new words, except perhaps the three—"they do say." Of almost equal value to the advertisers, in my judgment, is the distribution factor of the newspaper, for after all, distribution is the most important detail of advertising and the one which should command your constant attention.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"What Must I Do?"

Hundreds of young men now standing on the threshold of life are asking, "What Must I Do?" The sons of farmers are looking to the cities for an answer; the sons of merchants and tradesmen are looking to the country. There never was a time when the question was more important than now. Living now means activity, intent and persistent. The young man who chooses a profession without being prepared for it and understanding the measure of his work and its demands, simply enters on an uneven race and will be left far behind. Our schools hold out to you the golden opportunity where this needed preparation can be had. Seize it; improve it and make life a success.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

It was "our Greenville" yesterday. Would have been your Raleigh if you had come. Those who were here captured the city, and if there were any of you left at home you could have shared in it by coming.—Raleigh Times.

NATIONS THAT DIED.

Most of Them Went to Their Doom Fighting, as Did Rome.

Most countries which have died have gone down fighting. The Roman empire perished like that.

The empire of the west became so weak at last that it could make no stand against its enemies. Rome was sacked by the barbarians and eventually became not the capital of a vast empire, but the city of the popes, over which the pontiffs reigned as kings. Finally the city was taken without a real fight by the soldiers of the king of Italy.

The empire of the east had its capital at Constantinople. For centuries it was the greatest power in the world. But it became honey-combed with vice and enervated with pride and luxury; also it grew old and weak.

Then the Turks made a tigerish spring on Constantinople and took it by storm. The last of the Greek emperors died sword in hand, and his descendants are living in England today in very humble situations.

Egypt, once so powerful and famous under the pharaohs, was conquered by Rome and was afterward swamped by the Moslems.

The great moguls used to reign in India. In the days of Queen Elizabeth the mogul, or emperor of Delhi, as he was sometimes called, was so powerful that he thought it a vast condescension on his part to receive an embassy from the maiden queen.

But as time went on the great rajahs, or tributary kings, rebelled against the moguls. India was rent asunder by the wars between rival rajahs. This gave the Europeans a chance.

France at first held the upper hand and nearly conquered the land. But then England drove France back and seized the empire of the great moguls for herself. The heir of the moguls still enjoys a pension given by the British government.

Poland used to occupy a big place on the map of Europe. At one time it was much larger and stronger than Russia.

But Poland perished through her own faults and follies. The mass of the common people were slaves in all but name; hence the nobles and the people never stood together in times of danger or disaster.

Poland was a big country, but it was divided against itself, and Russia, Prussia and Austria combined were more powerful. They all three joined hands, and each took a large share of Poland in 1772.

In 1793 the trio of robbers made a second swoop. Only the ghost of Poland was left. Another year saw the end of the tragedy. The last remnants of Poland were swallowed up by Russia, Prussia and Austria.

The fate of the republic of Venice is one of the most dramatic in all history. Its doges ranked as the equals of the proudest kings. Its alliance was coveted by the greatest powers. All real power rested in the hands of the dreaded council of ten and the secret three. The latter was a trio of living mysteries and were known by name to practically no one in Venice.

So the government of Venice was a terror to its own people and the outside world. Then Napoleon came upon the scene, and "the Lion of St. Mark licked the dust."

Self Tending Beacons.
The acetylene lighted buoys of the Swedish coast keep in action seventy days without renewal of the single tubes of fifty liters of dissolved acetylene. Ingenious automatic lighting makes this possible. A bright reflecting surface and a black absorbing one give unequal expansion by daylight, thus closing a valve and shutting off the gas, but at night this action ceases, the valve opens, and the gas, automatically lighted, continues burning.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE MYSTERY OF MARS.

Old but Unsolved Problem, Is There Animal Life on the Planet?

With a planet so old as Mars and so far along in the process of life extinction the conditions of life would be severe, and only a highly intellectual and scientifically developed race could endure and master them. The engineering skill and constructive capacity to control the annual floods from the poles, store the waters and build the thousands of miles of huge canals would require scientific knowledge beyond that possessed by us at the present time and financial resources in excess of those we have yet accumulated. The nation that finds the digging of a little ditch at Panama so great a task would be helpless in the face of such a problem as these thousands of miles of Martian canals, if, indeed, canals they be. Yet, in view of the greater life age of Mars, such higher intelligence would be natural in the regular process of development, assuming that it has ever been the abode of intellectual life.

Scientists are in the main in a receptive state on this subject. They are not ready to admit that the existence of life on that planet has been proved. They do not deny it, but call for greater proof than a plausible theory. Among others than scientists there is in the main a disposition not to accept the Martian human life theory or the theory of life on any of the thousands of spheres that wheel and glisten in limitless space. They seem to think that such a theory conflicts with religion and dwarfs man and his importance in the scheme of creation.

This seems to be a very narrow view to take, since it appears to set bounds upon the infinite power and creative desires of the Almighty, whose great scheme of mortal and immortal life is not necessarily confined to a single planet or the few billions of human beings who are born and die upon it. As to dwarfing the importance of man, a few billions more added to the billions on earth would make little difference. Man is at best a small and insignificant creature, but if all embracing wisdom, power and love takes solicitous note of him it would be limiting those infinite qualities to say that one planet must be his abiding place. Therefore the question of human intelligence on Mars or any other planet of the solar system or the other great systems in remote space should be purely and simply a scientific one, to be accepted as true only when proved, but not to be rejected through sentiment or for any other reason whatever except lack of proof.—St. Louis Star.

Man's chief wisdom consists in knowing his follies.—Rochefoucauld.

THE PAY OF ACTORS.

Salaries Were Fairly Large Even in the Sixteenth Century.

An efficient actor received in 1635 as large a regular salary as $900, of which sum $7,200 is the modern equivalent. The lowest known valuation set an actor's wages at 75 cents a day, or in modern money about $1,800 a year. Shakespeare's emoluments as an actor before 1599 are not likely to have fallen below $4,000 in our money, while the remuneration due to performances at court or in noblemen's houses, if the accounts of 1594 be accepted as the basis of reckoning, added some $600.

Actresses did not appear until about 1662, female parts being previously taken by boys. Among the very earliest were Mistress Nell Gwyn of the king's playhouse and Mistress Knip. Both from having been "orange girls," earning a precarious existence about the theater, were raised to the affluence of $5 a performance, about $20 in present value.

By the time we reach David Garrick the emoluments received by the successful actor had steadily increased. Garrick himself could command $750 a week before he went into management, besides a benefit which would bring in virtually all that the house was worth, from $2,000 to $3,250 for the night. After he went into management his earnings were enormous, and he died leaving, at a low computation, over $500,000. Miss Farren's engagement cost the management at the height of her career $250 a week, which was what Mrs. Siddons also consented to receive from Covent Garden theater at one period of her fame. But this was far below what she could and did demand elsewhere and in the provinces, and in her biography we read that on tour $250 nightly was the sum cheerfully paid for the great actress' services. It must be remembered that the value of money in the days of the three players just mentioned was double what it is at present—i. e., $250 then corresponded to $500 now. Great as the sum then seemed, it soon became common, $250 a night being paid to Kean, Macready and even Fletcher. But it is, of course, dwarfed into insignificance by the emoluments received from the American public by such artists as Bernhardt, Coquelin and Irving. Bernhardt was paid $1,000 a night, which seems to have struck the Parisians dumb with astonishment. It is difficult to apportion Sir Henry Irving's receipts apart from Miss Terry's. But they undoubtedly were valued as high as $600 a night on tour.—STRENGTH MAGAZINE.

As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last.)

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration) then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.
