CHARLES CHAPMAN.

A Beautiful Piazza Wedding.

On the morning of the 16th of June at the beautiful country home of her father, Miss Gladys Cornelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chapman, was married to Mr. Hal Bessent Charles, a prominent young man of Dunn, N. C.

On this beautiful wedding morning as the sun rose from its deep sleep of the night, there was nothing in the horizon to mar the symmetry of the elements, save a veil of cloud that hid the stars by night, hanging but a hand's breath beneath the naked summit; which soon vanished before its mighty power. As she rose higher and higher we find her coquetting with the branches of the beautiful oak grove that surrounds the home, finding little avenues here and there, through which to cast her rays upon the ground. Amid these oaks stands Salem Christian church as a sentinel and guard, which has ever watched with vigilant care over the family of the bride, receiving into her folds in early youth this beautiful girl of fourteen summers.

The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and palms, while a good many cut flowers were used with good effect. On the piazza about fifteen feet directly in front of the hall door, was a large, double arch, or temple of flowers, while on either side of this and extending to the hall doors were palms and ferns. At one of the cross sections of the walks on the lawn, there was a single arch, and still another at the gates.

With the exact promptness of the sun, six sixty-five, Rev. Mr. Lane, minister of the Christian church at Dunn, N. C., came through the hall door, walking slowly down the aisle of palms stopping just beyond the main arch. To the beautiful strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, rendered by Miss Ruth, sister of the bride, H. T. Best and Thos. Dawson, the ushers, marched down the aisle drawing a piece of white ribbon. The groom next appeared with Mr. J. C. Clifford, of Dunn, as best man, he wore a suit of conventional black.

Little Rae Dawson and Lloyd Chapman acted as flower girl and boy, they preceded the bride and strewed bride's roses down the aisle. Next in order came the bride, dressed in a traveling suit of ashes of roses, wearing brides roses, leaning on the arm of her sister, Helen, who was dressed in a traveling suit, in harmony with the bride and wore pink carnations. As she neared the arch the groom stepped to her side, both halting while the music changed to "Traumeri," by Schumann, and with the solemn and beautiful ceremony of the Christian church they were made man and wife. After receiving congratulations from the minister, the music again changed, this time to Mendelssohn's wedding march while they all marched out beyond the remaining two arches. Upon reaching the gate they were received by the waiting carriages, the bride throwing a shower of brides roses upon her friends and bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles were driven to Grifton, where they took the early morning train for a two week's trip, visiting Asheville, Biltmore and other places of interest before they return to their future home at Dunn, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles possess a wide circle of friends as is evidenced by the vast number of very handsome and costly presents they received. They were too numerous for all to be mentioned, however we cannot refrain from mentioning a few.

A beautiful suit of furniture, given by J. K. Hardy, of Grifton. A table set of cut glass consisting of 18 pieces by four of their friends at Grifton—Dr. W. W. Dawson, J. L. Patrick, R. W. Brooks and Claude Dawson. A handsome toilet set by H. T. Best and Tom Dawson. A beautiful cabinet of silverware by Ashley C. Miley, Norfolk, Va. A cut glass salad bowl by Wilson G. Lamb, Williamston. Two very large Japanese vases by J. W. Draughon and Herbert McKay, Dunn. A beautiful hand painted bowl, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clifford, Dunn. A handsome Japanese tea set of 24 pieces by the parents of the groom. One hammered brass jardiniere by Messrs. Hewitt & Moore, Greensboro. A mileage book each, given by parents of the bride. A cut glass fruit dish, very elegant indeed, given by Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Wheeler, of Fairfield, Conn. Mr. Wheeler at one time owning the Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. The approximate value of the whole would go well beyond the $800 limit.

Mr. Charles is a descendant of an old English family on his father's side, while his mother was of Scotch descent. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Charles, of Mocksville, N. C. He is a purely self-made man, leaving home at the tender age of fifteen with that ambition that makes men of boys, he entered the electric machine shops of Charlotte and served his trade as an apprentice. To more fully equip himself for the duties of an electrician, he entered A. & M. college, taking the full course in this branch. Mr. Charles has for the past three years been in the employ of the water and light commission of Dunn.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chapman, of Grifton, and is a woman very much admired, at an early date developing that high and social character so pronounced in her parents. She graduated in 1908 at Peace Institute in the regular English course and music. Her father is one of Pitt's most successful merchants and farmers, at one time doing the largest mercantile business in the county. Being very much fascinated with farm life, he has broadened in this considerably.

There is a free masonry about this family that exacts no ceremony of introduction into your respect and confidence. They possess that beautiful spirit which welcomes their equal and yet not at all repulsive to their inferiors. These qualities, we would not say were inherited, but their intelligence wedded to love, and a regard for triples have begotten their characters.

R. L. Johnson,
Grifton, N. C.

For Sale.

COMING JUNE THIRTIETH.

A Musical Feast for Our People.

Lovers of music in Greenville and vicinity should take advantage of the opportunity to attend the recital in the opera house on Wednesday, June 30th, by Misses Helen Marie and Harriette Day and Phyllis Woodall, of the music faculty Meredith College. Note the following said in praise of one of these ladies:

"One of the swellest affairs of the season was a drawing-room musicale given by Mrs. H. O. Stone to Mr. and Mrs. George K. Pullman of Chicago. Many musical people were bidden on that occasion, and the singing of Helen Marie Day of Boston proved intensely interesting. She inherits a musical combination as soloist and pianist. Her voice, which is admirably trained showed real power and carrying quality with perfect assurance. Her manner of singing shows broad musical cultivation. The guests showed a most cordial appreciation."—Boston Transcript.

Gem Theatre.

A big audience witnessed the performance of Julius Caesar at the Gem last night and pronounced it the finest motion picture ever shown in Greenville. Not only was it photographically perfect but the machine also did its part, not the slightest jump or flicker being perceptible. This is a new machine and in perfect condition and does not hurt your eyes. Again tonight we lead in feature subject especially when we present such a picture as "The Montana School Marm." This is the talk of the trade, pronounced by experts to be the best film subject of the month, a beautiful western story full of heart interest. As an added attraction and one perhaps that appeals to the people of Greenville more than any other we will show in detail the recent, New York to Paris Automobile Race. This is a very fine picture and shows the many trials of these plucky drivers around the world in which the American Thomas car finished first. If you are interested in automobiles, this is a chance of a lifetime and you should not fail to see it. Remember our machine is in excellent condition and the pictures will not hurt your eyes. The lucky number last night for the $2.50 was 008296 and won by Miss Louray Barnhill.

Quite a Novelty.

While here a day or two ago, Mr. T. L. Willingham, of Ayden, gave The Reflector a sample box of his capsules of "Soul Tonic," a unique invention of his own. He conceived the idea of distributing Scripture quotations in this novel way. He puts thirty capsules in a neat box bearing a descriptive label, and in each capsule is a little roll of paper on which is printed a quotation from the Bible, the idea of the quotation being to suit the individual need. Mr. Willingham sells these boxes at 15 cents each postpaid. There is no doubt that good can be done by people reading an appropriate verse of Scripture under certain conditions, and to accomplish this is Mr. Willingham's idea in this novelty.

At Grifton.

On next Sunday at Grifton Prof. E. C. Brooks, of Trinity College, will address the Sunday school in the Methodist church at 10 o'clock. At the same services Mrs. J. M. Mount will sing a solo. Everybody invited.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Get your ice cream, fruits and candies at the Candy Kitchen.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

E. B. Ficklen went to Williamston today.

D. E. House went to Bethel Thursday evening.

W. L. Patrick and J. I. Smith went to Norfolk today.

Miss Eloise Bacon left this morning for Henderson to visit relatives.

James Long, who has been on the sick list for the past few days is out again.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hadley and children, of LaGrange, are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thomas returned Thursday evening from their bridal tour.

Mrs. J. W. Brown went to Hookerton Thursday to visit relatives. Miss Thelma Dixon, who has been visiting here, returned with her.

F. G. Flanagan returned this morning from Hookerton where he had been to embalm the body of Mrs. Giles, wife of the Methodist minister there.

Mrs. W. T. Phelps, who is in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, was operated upon Wednesday and her condition is reported to be good as could expect.

Dr. Charles Laughinghouse has returned from Asheville where he had been attending the meeting of the State Medical Society. He was elected one of the delegates from this State to the Mississippi association.

W. E. Hearn and F. P. Drane, who have been here several weeks making the surveys for the soil map of Pitt county, left today for Gastonia where they will do similar work in Gaston county. These gentlemen made numerous friends while in Pitt and have done a work here that will prove of great value to the county.

Some Watermelons.

The Reflector man went down to the C. G. Starkey store and outted in to Mr. J. L. Starkey, the manager, to see how he was getting along with that car load of watermelons. They were piled all up and down both this and his up town store and yet there were many more at the car to be unloaded. "I never saw so many melons in one pile in my life as were in that car," he said. "I believe they are going to count out around 2,000. I want you to go out to the car with me and look at them." We went and it was worth the trip. They are fine flavoured melons, too, for we have tried them. Besides selling them rapidly to the local retail trade, Mr. Starkey is shipping small lots of them to dealers in nearby towns.

One of Our Boys.

The Reflector is always glad to keep track with our home boys when they go to other parts of the country and to note the success they are making in business, hence it is gratifying to read the following item taken from the Tribune, of Tampa Fla.:

Harvey Jones, who has been one of the experienced and affable druggists of the Hutchinson-Cotter main store, has resigned, effective today. Mr. Jones has accepted a position as traveling salesman in the Florida territory for one of the largest drug houses of Philadelphia. He has many friends and the capacity for making more and will prove a great success on the road.

FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1909.

Every day produces evidence that faith in Greenville is well founded.

There is plenty of room for boosters and hustlers in Greenville, but the town has no use for kickers and drones.

The president's idea to put a tax of two percent, on the earnings of corporations may be expected to arouse the opposition of the latter.

That Gould divorce trial in progress in New York gives another show down of the moral depravity existing among some of the wealthy high fliers.

In December Governor Hughes, of New York, appointed a committee to investigate the stock and cotton exchanges and report on their methods of doing business. The committee has made its report and the exchanges were marked O. K. Pretty good whitewashing, that.

Owners of automobiles in North Carolina should not overlook the fact that by July 1st they must obtain a license from the Secretary of State and be furnished by him with a placard number to go on each machine. There is a penalty for failure to comply with this law.

The filibustering reports that the government was running down and under which two boats were held under blockade in Virginia waters, proved to be unfounded. The boats turned out to be the property of the Venezuelan government, but nothing is said about what went with the piano boxes filled with guns.

The Rural Telephone.

The rural telephone system in Union county is perhaps the most complete in the State. We are told that it covers every township and scarcely a farmer of any pretension is without telephone facilities. The county is so well equipped that it amounts to a city exchange. The farmers not only use the telephone for social, but for business purposes. Their wives and daughters can keep up with the county and town gossip, while the farmer knows exactly what he will get for his produce before he loads it on the wagon to haul it to market. The telephone brings the country home very close to town and the comfort and pleasure it fails to give is supplied by the rural carrier with the daily paper and letter mail, for, over the good roads, the rural telephone idea is spreading over the State and Rowan is the next best equipped county. The plan of organizing farmers into rural companies is simple and safe. The idea, we believe, originated, or was developed, in Union county, and is worthy of investigation by all rural communities that want to bring themselves up to date.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

This pardoning of convicts on condition that they become good citizens does not seem to work well in this State. Governor Kitchin has just sent back to the penitentiary to finish out his term a Sampson county man whom Governor Glenn pardoned three years ago. Only a few months ago a convict from another eastern county whom the present governor had pardoned on condition of good behavior was back on the chaingang within two weeks after receiving his pardon, for a violation of the law committed after he had been released from prison. There are instances where pardons conditioned on good behavior are proper, but they ought to be granted only in exceptional cases, and in every instance in which the condition is violated the governor should see to it that the original sentence is enforced in full; otherwise, the attaching of such condition to a pardon is a farce and does more harm than good.—Charlotte Observer.

The Lumberton Robesonian tells of a man living five miles from its town, who "bought an article in Chicago recently for 90 cents and when it arrived last week he found that the freight on the same was $1.20—the freight amounting to just what he could have bought the article for here in the first instance." As an additional advantage of a home purchase, he would have had the privilege of inspecting the article and knowing it was all right. It is always the safest plan to trade with the home merchant.—Charlotte Chronicle.

CRUELITIES IN CHINA.

Torture of Prisoners Carried to Point of Refinement.

HOME OF THE WATER DEATH.

A Worse Infliction Than That of Being Tied to a Beam by the Thumbs and Big Toes—The Bastinado and Flogging With Split Bamboo.

China is a land of contradictions and mysteries. It bristles with surprises. The phlegmatic nature of its natives is in marked contrast to their inherent cruelty.

"What a poor, weak looking baby!" you might say to a Chinaman about his offspring, and he will merely shrug his shoulders in reply. Meet him in a month's time and ask him how the youngster is getting on.

"The disease was a fatal one," he will answer, with another significant shrug. If the child were a girl you could safely draw your own conclusions as to its fate. John Chinaman has no use for deformed or very sickly children, particularly girls.

Torture of prisoners has been carried to a point of refinement. One of the most terrible was surely the cage in which a man was placed so that his head just protruded at the top, while his toes only touched the ground sufficiently to prevent dislocation of the neck.

His hands were bound behind him so that he could not relieve himself, and he was left to be jeered at by the public until hunger and exhaustion put an end to his sufferings.

The day of the bastinado, too, is by no means over. The prisoner is strung up in a reverse condition, and the naked soles of his feet are pounded with a cane, with the result that the victim seldom recovers.

But the more common form of flogging is to beat the thighs with the concave side of a split bamboo, which cuts at every stroke into the flesh.

China, by the way, was the home of that terrible death by water drops. The victim's head was placed on a low hard block, and drops of water at short intervals were allowed to fall from a height on to his forehead—a far, far worse infliction than that of being tied to a beam by the thumbs and big toes.

The cangue is regarded as a comparatively mild sort of punishment. This consists of a wooden collar, about four feet square and four inches thick, which is placed over the prisoner's head, so that its full weight falls on the shoulders.

A description of the offense is also attached to the victim's body, and as he cannot feed himself he has to rely on the public for sustenance.

Conservative to a degree, it is not surprising to find that the wheelbarrow as a passenger conveyance is still in vogue, as, too, is the ferry, consisting of a light canoe, towed across the water by a number of swimmers.

Machinery for the most part is despised, and the mill, still used for winnowing the staple diet, rice, is of the simplest and most out of date description possible.

The rice is placed in a cement basin, over which is a heavy stone at the end of a long lever. This is worked up and down by two boards, in the form of a cross, attached to the axle of a huge hand turned wheel.

For simplicity of keeping a city informed of the time Canton would be hard to beat. In one of the temples are four large earthen jars on successive shelves.

Water descends by slow drops from one to the other, a brass scale on a float in the bottom, one indicating as it rises the hour of the day.

At 5 o'clock every afternoon the lowest jar is emptied and the upper one refilled. On the outside walls of the city are displayed boards with the number of the hour on them, so that all may see. And this has gone on without a break since 1321.

Funerals appear almost a mockery to the visitor. If money can be freely spent a manager is appointed, and from the highways and the byways street boys and beggars are collected, dressed up in amazing costumes, supplied with dazzling umbrellas, standards and boards, which are carried over their shoulders in a long straggle.

Others carry small houses and carts made of card paper, horses, men, women, etc., indicative of the dead one's treasures, and these, with heaps of paper coins and paper money, are burned at the grave so that they may be enjoyed in the life beyond.

Five mourners with gongs, gongs and wind instruments keep up a continuous series of howls and noises, to which is added the boohoo, boohoo, of an ear racking horn worked something like a garden hose.

Women are regarded as nothing in China. They are brought up in ignorance of the world outside, the one object of their life being to get married and have sons to follow the fathers. A girl is not even allowed to look upon her husband until she is actually wedded.—London Ladies' Field.

THE CHAMELEON.

This Curious Animal is Like Two Half Creatures Joined.

The chameleon is not allied closely to any other animal. It stands as a genus by itself. The nervous centers in one lateral half operate independently of those in the other. This seems outrageous, and it is, but it is true. The chameleon has two lateral centers of perception—of sensation and of motion. There exists also a third center—that common one in which abides the power of concentration by means of which the two sides of the creature may be forced to work in harmony with each other. But this center of concentration does not always dominate the situation. Notwithstanding the strictly symmetrical structure of the animal's two halves, the eyes move quite independently, and they convey distinct and separate impressions to their respective centers of perception. As of the eyes, so of the other members—each reports to and is controlled by its own center.

The result is that when the faculty of concentration becomes disturbed everything is jumbled. Let the chameleon be much agitated and its movements grow erratic. They are those of two creatures fastened together, or rather, of two half creatures joined.

Each half exhibits its intention of going its separate way. The result is a pitiable confusion of movement. There is no concordance of action. A curious example of the chameleon's helplessness when unduly excited is found in the fact that it cannot swim.

The shock of being plunged into water upsets the poise of its faculty for concentration. Forthwith each side strikes out wildly for itself, to its own undoing. The chameleon is the only four legged vertebrate that cannot swim.

When the creature is calm every impulse to motion is referred to the common center of concentration, and the entire organism acts in fitting accord with the commands issued by that faculty. Thus, while totally different impressions from the two eyes are transmitted from their centers to the common one, that concentrating power decides as to which scene is the more important and then directs the eye otherwise engaged also to regard it.

The same principle applies in the control of all the members—so long as the animal remains unexcited. Any observer may easily verify the existence of this dual nature in a superficial way by some experiments with a sleeping chameleon. A touch on one side of the animal will wake that side up, while the other side sleeps calmly on.

Friendship Insurance.

That there may be such a thing as carrying insurance too far is indicated by the case of Mr. Mulcahy and Mr. Mulhooly, two Irish gentlemen. Though they were known to be great friends, they were one day observed to pass each other in the street without a greeting.

"Why, Mulcahy," a friend asked in astonishment, "have you and Mulhooly quarreled?"

"That we have not!" said Mr. Mulcahy, with earnestness.

"There seemed to be a coolness between you when you passed just now."

"That's the insurance of our friendship." "I don't understand." "Why, thin, it's this way: Mulhooly and I are that devoted to wan another that we can't bear the idea of a quarrel, and as we are both mighty quick tempered we've resolved not to shpake to wan another at all!"—London Tit-Bits.

Unenterprising.

A woman who visited the British museum at London recently inquired of an attendant: "Have you no skull of Cromwell? I have been looking all around for a skull of Oliver Cromwell."

"No, madam," replied the attendant, "we've never had one."

"How very odd!" she exclaimed. "They have a fine one in the museum at Oxford."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Too Much French.

He was out with his best girl, and as they strolled into the West End restaurant he tried to put on an I-do-this-every-evening kind of look. When they were seated at a table a waiter approached them.

"Will monsieur have a la carte or table d'hote?" he asked.

"Both," said the young man, "and put plenty of gravy on 'em."—London Tit-Bits.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Greenville People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlements and sediment, Passages frequent, scanty, painful, It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in this locality.

Mrs. T. A. Mitchell, 809 Chestnut St., Kingston, N. C., says: "For a long time my kidneys were weak, causing the secretions to pass irregularly. There was a constant dull ache across the small of my back and I had bearing-down pains through my abdomen which bothered me both day and night. Finally reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and being much impressed, I procured a box. I used them in strict accordance with the directions and the backache and pains soon vanished and my kidneys became normal. I feel better in every way and therefore recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as an excellent remedy to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

China's Great Wall.

The builder of the Great wall of China was a great warrior emperor called Chi Hwang Ti, who lived about two centuries before Christ. To put a stop to the incursions of the Tartars and other northern tribes he caused this great wall—1,800 miles in length—to be erected. It required ten years to build it, and in his haste to have it completed he worked to death tens of thousands of his laborers. Even when finished it proved useless as a means of defense.

Parisian Amiability.

The mother-in-law question is as acute in Paris as in London, but there are ladies who do not seem to be always at loggerheads with their daughters' husbands. According to a witness in court, some sons-in-law are extremely tolerant fellows. A lady was giving evidence as to the disposition of her daughter's husband, and as evidence of his kindly nature she explained to the judge: "Oh, M. le President, the young man is of the completest amiability! Believe me, he has been married to my daughter eighteen months, and he has not once threatened to strike me!"—London Standard.

Why RALSTON SHOES are non-wrinkling

ORDINARY FLAT VAMP

RALSTON CRIMPED VAMP METHOD

As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last.)

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration) then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.
