STATE NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Taylorsville, June 19.—Mr. Joel Chatham, an aged citizen of this township, was run over and killed yesterday afternoon by passenger train No. 23, which leaves here at 8:30, just outside the town limits, near Connally & Teague's veneer plant. He had been to town to do some shopping and was returning home, walking on the railroad track. The engineer blew the danger signal, but it seems he did not notice the approach of the train until it was too close for him to get out of the way.

Raleigh, June 19.—The Council of State today decided unanimously for the state treasurer to accept the bid of the Raleigh Savings Bank for the entire issue of $500,000 State bonds July 1, at 103, this giving the State $13,775 principal and premium.

Mr. J. A. Howie has a unique device for his mail box. It is apparently automatic. When the letter carrier places the mail in the box and moves off, he can see the box moving toward the house apparently of itself. The box is on wheels, and by means of a cord attached it is drawn on two lines of wire into the house. When it is robbed of its contents a push sends it back to its wanted place on the roadside with matter posted or to receive again from the carrier.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Asheville, N. C., June 19.—Miss Bertha Langford, the young girl who was seriously injured yesterday afternoon in a runaway accident, died last night shortly before midnight from injuries sustained. While out driving, and in going down a hill, the shaft of the buggy broke, the end jabbing the horse in the side, and caused him to run away. She was hurled to the ground and her skull fractured. She received medical attention and was taken to the hospital, but death ensued.

On Friday morning, a very peculiar life came to a sudden end. Mr. William Thornton was a man who did things for himself. He pulled his own teeth, cut his hair, and made his own coffin. Thursday he took to the grave yard such tools as are needed in grave digging, saying that his life would soon end. Friday morning while in his garden pulling up weeds he fell dead. He was about 80 years old. The deceased was a resident of Elevation township.—Smithfield Herald.

Song Recital.

A very large congregation that overflowed the main auditorium of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was in attendance upon the song recital Sunday night. It goes to show the interest of the people of the town in the special song services occasionally held in the churches, and the splendid progress the choirs are making along musical lines is also evidenced.

The program of this recital, as published in Saturday's paper, was carried out, and every number was excellently rendered. The congregation thoroughly enjoyed the entire program, and will be delighted when the time comes for another such feast of song.

Only eight days left for listing your taxes, and double tax is the penalty if you fail to give in before the list taker.

ABOUT BUILDING AND LOAN.

President Wittkowsky Has an Eye on Greenville.

Saturday Mr. H. A. White, secretary of The Home Building and Loan Association, received a letter from Mr. S. Wittkowsky, president of the North Carolina Building and Loan League, that The Reflector has been given the pleasure and permission of publishing.

Charlotte, N. C., June 17, 1909.

Mr. H. A. White.

Greenville, N. C.,

My Dear Sir:
I received a few days ago the marked copy of The Daily Reflector showing the condition of your B. & L. association, but I was so far behind with my correspondence that I could not acknowledge it until now, and I take this occasion to congratulate you in your good showing, and bid you God speed in this cause. I know you will agree with me when I say that our meeting at Raleigh was all that could be desired. I found much more enthusiasm and zeal and larger attendance than any former meeting, and particularly am I gratified by the fact that we had seventeen new associations to join our league.

I have been hard at work on B. & L. matter ever since I returned. I am going to Columbia, S. C., in the morning to make a speech tomorrow, and am booked to speak in Durham next week.

Now, my boy, keep up the good work, and I hope some day that we will have our annual meeting at your good town.

Your very truly,
S. Wittkowsky.

Greenville joins the wish expressed in the last paragraph of Mr. Wittkowsky's letter, and right now extends the league an invitation to meet here in 1911.

Baptist Baraca Class.

The class was presided over by Mr. J. B. Little, and in the absence of Dr. J. W. Bryan, who is attending the National convention at Asheville, Mr. Z. T. Broughton taught the lesson—Uncle Zack is a most efficient and instructive teacher, making his points strong and effective.

Later during the exercises President Flanagan came in and explained his lateness, saying he had taken an auto-ride Saturday night a few miles, when his machine decided it liked the fresh country air better than in town and remained out to take the early morning breeze, whereupon a short "nap" made him a little late.

It is noticeable that the bad weather, summer tours and outings, are now cutting the figures in church attendance. The report of the secretary showed only 46 present and collections $2.46. The hustlers are urged to hustle and bring the boys out. Every member should be present next Sunday and hear the report of the Asheville convention and see what our National Baracas are doing. All are earnestly requested to be on hand and bring a friend. J. R. H. Class Reporter.

Gem Theatre.

The program tonight is one of the best we have ever shown, not only in length but the class of subject surpass anything ever presented here before. You owe it to yourself to visit the Gem and enjoy an evening's entertainment amid cool and comfortable surroundings tonight.

STATON ITEMS.

Staton, N. C., June 21.

Mr. James L. Little came down and spent Sunday with his Uncle, Mr. G. T. House.

Jack C. Taylor spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Taylor.

Mr. D. C. Beech spent the day with his father-in-law Mr. J. W. Martin.

The crops are getting to have some grass as it has been raining so much that they can't work them, and besides they have been busy digging potatoes. The crops are all looking fine though.

Quinerly-Turnage.

Ayden, June 18.—A pretty wedding took place here Wednesday afternoon at St. James Episcopal church when Miss Helen Quinerly became the bride of Mr. Leslie Turnage.

The church was beautifully decorated.

The wedding march was rendered by Miss Blanche Reid King, of Goldsboro.

Rev. John H. Griffith performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of blue.

Mr. and Mrs. Turnage left on a bridal tour to Asheville and other points. They will be at home at Ayden after July 1st.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Quinerly and very popular.

The Editor Off.

If enough wherewith is collected in the meantime to assure rations for a week, the editor will leave this evening to attend the press convention at Hendersonville. During his absence The Reflector will be entirely in the hands of the boys, and girls, of the office and they will run it to suit themselves. We hope the readers will enjoy the change and get a better paper than usual. Notice is served now on any one who may get offended and want to fight over anything that appears not to their liking, to please settle it before the editor gets back.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds W. M. Moore has issued the following licenses since last report:

WHITE.

M. A. Joudy and Lillian Laughinghouse.

Elias Leslie Turnage and Helen Quinerly.

C. P. Smith and Rosa Harriss.

L. H. Jones and Annie Forest.

COLORED.

Henry Eleson and Jahe Staton.

G. E. Smith and Lillie Chapman.

Kings Daughters.

The King's Daughters and Presbyterian church will run a benefit at the Masonic opera house all this week. This will give everybody a chance to help these worthy causes and at the same time see the fine program of pictures every night. To night's program of pictures is "A Tax on Bachelors," "Mexicans Gratitude," a drama, and "Catching Wild Horses," "My Hat." Making all together a very fine and pleasing program.

First Cotton Blossom.

Today Mr. J. G. Moye brought The Reflector the first cotton blossom of this season. It was brought in by Frank Moye, a colored tenant on one of his farms. For the last three years Frank has been the first to show a cotton blossom here.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

If you fail to list your taxes and are charged double tax you cannot claim that you were not warned.

Nothing the home merchant can use has such a trade drawing effect as an advertisement in The Reflector.

Greenville looked like an automobile town sure enough Sunday afternoon. They were all on the go.

If you are going off for a summer vacation drop in and have The Reflector go to you every day to keep you posted on what is taking place at home.

There will be a meeting of The King's Daughters tomorrow (Tuesday) night, at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. A. L. Blow. It is for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Every member is requested to present.

Walking Stick Becomes a Tree.

Several years ago Mr. B. R. Jones, who lives on the Clayton road four miles from here, went to his pasture on Swift Creek, about a mile away, to look after some cattle. While there he cut a stick to use in walking through the woods. He used it until he reached home and set it aside. His wife took it to the garden to open some trenches in which to plant some cabbage seed. When through planting she stuck it in the ground with the little end downward and left it to show how far the cabbage seed were sown. It remained there for a year in which time it took root and began to grow. The following spring Mr. Jones transplanted it to the roadside where it now stands. It is a walnut tree about twenty five feet high and ten inches in diameter and is full of walnuts this season. Mr. Jones and his wife both vouch for these statements and they are as reliable people as we have in the county.—Smithfield Herald.

Going Out of Business.

Coming the Thirtieth.

Speaking of Miss Helen Marie Day, who with her sister, Miss Henrietta Day and Miss Phillis Woodall, will give a recital here on the 30th, the Quebec (Can.) Chronicle says:

"Miss Day has a splendid voice which is exceptionally well trained. She easily filled the big hall with its rich melody. Should she appear here again the hall would be crowded with an enthusiastic audience."

If they keep on taking chances at the blind tiger business, somebody is going to get convicted first thing you know.

If it was not for the Goulds' money they would not even be considered respectable. But money covers a multitude of sins.

This dissension in the party is doing no good, but those who voted contrary to the platform on which they were elected are responsible for it.

Those who eat victuals, wear clothes, cultivate crops and build houses to live in are the ones who feel the tariff heaviest, yet they get the least consideration when it comes to levying a tariff.

Mrs. Gould says she spent $40,000 a year for dresses, but how much her forty drinks a day cost is not stated. No doubt what she spent for drink alone would keep a majority of women in all the dresses they wanted.

This is the week when the editors of the State lay aside pencil and scissors for the time being and take themselves to the annual press convention. The meeting this year will be in Hendersonville, and after two days' session there the editors will go to Lake Toxaway for a day. It promises to be a delightful trip.

Faith in The South.

"The development of the Southern business, in my opinion, in the next five years will be phenomenal," is a statement, says The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, made in a letter by Mr. Harry Walters, chairman of the board of directors of the Atlantic Coast-Line and of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, to Mr. Jenkins, president of the Coast Line. The Manufacturers' Record makes the following comment upon Mr. Walters' prediction: "Mr. Walters is correct. His prediction that the development of Southern business during the next five years will be phenomenal is, we are sure, destined to be fulfilled. It is certainly possible for the South to accomplish more in material advancement in the expansion of railroads, the building of new lines; the increase of traffic, the development of mining and manufacturing enterprises within the next five years than it has done

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

during the last ten years. What it has wrought is only the beginning of its work. Its potentialities are almost without limit, and the world is now fast coming to realize that no other section of this or any other country offers as great advantages as the South."

These statements could not come from scarcely any more reliable sources. Each is thoroughly acquainted with conditions and prospects in the South, having for years devoted time and energy to their study; each is instrumental along his line in the development of this section and interested in its increasing prosperity. Such statements from them will give encouragement to those already devoting energy and means to Southern development and will influence not a few others as well.—Charlotte Observer.

Mr. Taft's Slight Slip Up.

They have the laugh on president Taft and the members of his cabinet, six of whom are lawyers, for the slip made in his message to congress recommending an income tax amendment to the constitution. He made reference to the income tax law of 1894 as being still in existence though nullified by the Supreme court. Said the president: "The putting on the statute books a law already there and never repealed will simply be suggesting to the executive officers of the government their possible duty to invoke litigation." He was in error because the act of 1894 expired by limitation in 1899, owing to a provision in the act which limited its operation to five years. The president and the members of his cabinet discussed the message for two hours before it was sent to congress, but none of them detected the error. That was of little consequence, however, and had no bearing on the point he wished to make, which was that the enactment of an income tax by congress under present constitutional provisions had failed because of lack of authority in congress under the constitution.—Charlotte Observer.

JARRED THE SULTAN.
Advice General Wallace is Said to Have Given Abdul Hamid II.
When General Lew Wallace was the American plenipotentiary in Constantinople he saw Abdul Hamid II. at close quarters—too close for comfort really—but his involuntary inspection was decidedly convincing as to the sultan's timidity.

It seems that from the day of his presentation to the sultan the general had grown in favor at the court and was frequently "commanded" to attend merely from the personal liking of Abdul Hamid for the American minister and the enjoyment of conversation with him. In those days the sultan was particularly vexed over affairs in Egypt. He felt that Egypt was his personal property, yet England had taken the control of the country out of his hands entirely. She had hardly said "by your leave," but had "advised" him that for the good of Egypt he, Abdul Hamid II., had better let her and then had gone ahead.

He had accepted the advice because he had nothing to say "no" with. Without a fleet what could any one say to England? This forced acquiescence worried the sultan continuously until he could not endure longer without madness. In his distress he summoned General Wallace and described to him in detail his humiliating condition.

The general listened with friendly sympathy, and the sultan, being relieved in thus talking in confidence to a man whom he knew to be sincere and altogether free from selfish interests, asked the minister what he could do under the circumstances. General Wallace said that he appreciated the trust and confidence of the sultan, but that, being the representative official of the United States of America, he could not advise the ruler of another country as to what steps that ruler should take against a third power, especially when this third power was on friendly terms with his own country.

The sultan acknowledged the correctness of this position, but besought the general to make an exception, saying that there was no other man in the empire to whom he could go for one single word of honest, disinterested advice. But the general repeated that he could not be false to his duty as a minister and envoy from his government.

Then said the sultan, "Tell me as a private individual; tell me as a friend." This appeal touched General Wallace deeply, and he said, "As a friend, then, and a private citizen, I will say this, that were I in the position you have described to me I should put myself at the head of my troops and fight to the bitter end."

At these words the blood left the sultan's face, and he fell to the floor in a dead faint. He felt their truth, and he knew, furthermore, that he lacked the strength of character, the force, the will power, to carry out such a program.

What would have happened had the sultan's heart been physically weak as well is not easy to conjecture. As it was, General Wallace did not leave the Yıldiz kiosk until long after the hour he had intended, and Abdul Hamid II. never again sought a confidential interview with the author of "Ben-Hur."—New York Press.

Painfully Clean.
Amsterdam enjoys an enviable reputation for its cleanliness. Owen Feltham, who visited Holland in the seventeenth century, was particularly impressed by the spotlessness of its streets and houses. "Whatever their estates be," he writes, "their houses must be fair. Therefore from Amsterdam they have banished scencle, lest it soyle their buildings. Every door seems studded with diamonds. The nails and hinges hold a constant brightness, as if rust there was not a quality, incident to iron. Their houses they keep cleaner than their bodies, their bodies than their souls. Go to one, you shall find the androns shut up in network; at a second, the warming pan muffled in Italian cutwork; at a third, the sounce clad in cambrick."

Crime and Penalty.
Aunt Jane—I think the young man who tried to steal a kiss should be punished. Dorothy—So do I, aunty, dear. Aunt Jane—I am glad to hear you say that, child. Dorothy—Yes; he—he should be punished severely for only trying.—Rochester Democrat.

Pandemonium.

WHY SO WEAK?
Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Greenville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffer backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep your kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Can Greenville readers demand further proof than the following statement:

Jos. Savage, Church St., Tarboro, N. C., says: "For some time my kidneys were disordered, the passages of the secretions being scanty and at times painful. I had sharp pains across my loins and if I stooped suddenly, sharp twinges caught me across my back, making it hard for me to straighten. After using a number of remedies without obtaining relief, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. They removed the aches and pains in my back and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I have derived from them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Who He Was.
At the crossing of the river Styx Death met a stranger with a grin on his face.

"Who are you?" demanded Death.

"I am your manservant," replied the stranger.

"My manservant!" repeated Death, somewhat puzzled to know what the new arrival meant.

"In other words, the valet of the shadow of Death," chortled the stranger.

It is perhaps superfluous to add that before journeying hence the stranger had been a professional jokesmith.—New York Times.

Ups and Downs.
"Ups and downs," said an etymologist, "is a phrase of curious aptness."

"Take ups. Aviators tell us, balloonists tell us, alpinists tell us, that the higher one ascends, the more exhilarating grows the air, so that it is quite common, at a height of a mile or so, for men to sing and shout in pure hilarity and joy. So much for ups."

"Take downs. Submarine boatmen and divers and miners tell us that the deeper one descends below the earth's surface, the sadder one becomes. Those depths resound with oaths, groans, sobs. So much for downs."

"Ups and downs—an apt phrase, truly."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A VOTE OF THANKS.

The Way Dwight L. Moody Handled the Question in England.

Possibly the most novel response ever made to a request to return a vote of thanks to a chairman was that made by Dwight L. Moody during his first visit to England.

He had attended a meeting at which the Earl of Shaftesbury was chairman. The duty of proposing a vote of thanks was assigned to him and the announcement made:

"Our American cousin, the Rev. Mr. Moody of Chicago, will now move a vote of thanks to the noble earl who has presided on this occasion."

The whole thing was quite out of Mr. Moody's line. English formalities might or might not have come gracefully from his lips had he attempted them, but he did not. With an utter disregard of conventionality he burst upon the audience with the bold announcement:

"The speaker has made two mistakes. To begin with, I'm not the Rev. Mr. Moody at all. I'm plain Dwight L. Moody, a Sunday school worker. And then I'm not your American cousin. By the grace of God I'm your brother, interested with you in our Father's work for his children."

"And now about this vote of thanks to the noble earl for being our chairman this evening? I don't see why we should thank him any more than he should thank us. When at one time they offered to thank our Mr. Lincoln for presiding over a meeting in Illinois he stopped it. He said he'd tried to do his duty and they'd tried to do theirs. He thought it was about an even thing all round."

That opening fairly took the breath away from Mr. Moody's hearers. Such a talk could not be gauged by any known standard. Mr. Moody carried his English audiences with him from that beginning to his latest labors.

Tom's Wellwisher.
In a Philadelphia club a member was met not long ago by the announcement from a fellow member that a friend of both had fallen ill.

"I understand from the physician," said the first member, "that Tom has brain fever. He'll recover, but it's thought his mind will be a blank."

"I trust the diagnosis is incorrect," came in fervent tones from the second member, "inasmuch as Tom owes me $100."—Lippincott's.

EUGENIE'S WEDDING DAY.

The Gift of Violets From the Market Women of Paris.

Even on her wedding day the Empress Eugenie received a sign of ill omen. The market women of Paris presented her with a mountain of violets on the day of her marriage to Louis Napoleon.

And those market women—they boiled over! They yelled and pushed and crowded into the palace gardens. They screamed and screamed for the empress until at last a window opened, and Eugenie stepped out on the balcony, and, ever eager to please, she held in her hands a great mass of the violets the market women had sent her.

Then suddenly one old fish wife shrieked out at those of the committee: "Pigs! Idiots! It is the flower of sorrow you have sent to her." While quick another raved out: "It is the color of mourning that you send the bride of the emperor! Violets—purple violets to a bride! Pigs! Idiots! Devils! It is an omen—a sign of evil!"

And then the fight began! Oh, mon Dieu! They are terrible! They tear one another like wild beasts! The gendarmes try hard to make order, when a voice up above us says out clear and gentle, "Oh, soldiers, don't hurt them!" And the idea that any soldier on earth could hurt a dame des Halles was so funny that everybody stopped fighting to laugh. And they laugh and laugh and wipe off the blood and slap the gendarmes and say, "Don't hurt us, messieurs—don't!" And they dance and shout, and the beautiful empress stands now by the emperor and bows and throws violets to the crowd, and all below cry, "Vive l'Imperatrice!" And she smiles and smiles and so returns. But that old witch was right! Yes, madame, though the violet was the flower of the Bonaparte, it is the flower of sorrow, not fit to send a bride! It was an omen and given at the Tuilleries it pointed to Chiselhurst.—Clara Morris in Woman's Home Companion.

Money may not be able to buy happiness, but it can buy off a great deal of unhappiness.—Lyndon.

Why RALSTON SHOES are non-wrinkling

As you have probably noticed, most shoes have a tendency to wrinkle and "bunch up" across the toes after the shoes have been worn a few times. This is the fault of the lasting (the process of pulling and stretching the leather over the wooden last.)

The RALSTON method has remedied this fault. Ralston vamps are first crimped (see illustration) then lasted. There are no bunches, no wrinkles, because every part of the vamp fits the last perfectly without straining the leather at any point. This adds to the wear of the shoe. It also explains the reason why Ralstons retain their smart appearance until worn out.

There are other unusual features of RALSTON SHOE construction which will appeal to you. Come in and look over our new styles.
