STRANGER FLEECED MANY.

Charlotte Citizens Taken in—Supposed Reliable Agent.

About the cleverest visitor Charlotte has had within the past few years was M. L. Rosewald, who spent over a month at the Central hotel, and for whom ex-Patrolman W. W. Irwin has been delegated to search the western part of the State and bring him back to Charlotte to answer to the charges of "obtaining money under false pretenses" and for "misrepresentation."

Over sixty of Charlotte's most prominent business men are interested in Rosewald's whereabouts.

Rosewald arrived in Charlotte about the middle of May and registered at the Central hotel. He represented the La Salle Extension University and sold a full course of instruction in "business administration" and all of the privileges of the course, including 36 special lectures and consulting privileges for three years. For the course, along with which 12 volumes of books were also included, he charged $57 to be paid on the installment plan.

Rosewald worked under Mr. W. N. Saunders, then of Richmond, Va., and from the surprisingly large numbers of subscriptions he sent in, Mr. Saunders became suspicious and came to Charlotte only to find that Rosewald had left for parts unknown. Previously he had settled with his man for contracts received and it was Mr. Saunders who swore out the warrant against him.

Rosewald in placing contracts was supposed to collect $7 in cash, leaving the remaining $50 to be settled for on monthly payments. For each new contract he received a commission of $10 and his game, as told last night by Mr. Saunders, who is after him, was this:

"On coming to Charlotte I have learned that Rosewald sent to me numbers of bogus contracts, along with which he forwarded $7, the first payment. For all of these contracts, numbering about 60, I settled with him by check for his commission of $10 on each contract. I find that a portion of these signed contracts he mailed to me were paid by himself, he having in some way erased the work "free" from the ones given out. In some cases I find that the subscriptions were regularly paid, but upon the original contract amounts other than $57 had been entered when signed, and afterwards removed by use of acids or other means.

"I learn that to more than a dozen people here he gave free subscriptions to the university, for which all have received letters inclosing bills for $50"

It is true that of the numbers of free contracts issued, nearly every man has received a bill. There have also been received letters from the La Salle concern, stating that "to facilitate the handling of our business, we have found it necessary to transfer your contract for business administration to the Interstate Finance Corporation of Philadelphia, to whom we request you to kindly make all future payments."

The letters caused some consternation among those to whom Rosewald had so generously presented his wares. Rosewald was clever enough to secure the signature of the man to whom he gave. The La Salle people

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Negro Woman Instantly Killed While Chopping Corn.

Wednesday afternoon, about three o'clock, while chopping corn in Mr. John Briley's field, near Great Swamp church, three and a half miles north of the city, Martha Little, colored, was instantly killed by lightning. The bolt struck her on the head, tearing her hat literally to pieces, but made no marks on the flesh. Blood came from the left ear and a slightly scorched place was found on her left hip, which were the only visible signs left by the great force. Mr. Briley, who was working right near, her, was knocked down and rendered unconscious for ten or fifteen minutes, but he is alright today. Several other hands working in the adjoining field were badly frightened, but no one was hurt. The storm was not severe in that vicinity and but little rain fell.

COXVILLE ITEMS.

Coxville, N. C., June 23, 1909.

Since the rain the farmers have been very busy trying to catch up with their work.

Miss Addie Butler, who has been visiting Miss Lydia Chapman, returned to her home near Vanceboro Saturday.

Miss Clara Brewer, of New Bern, spent a few days with Miss Lela Roach last week.

A young man from near Cox's Mill, came down Saturday night to see his girl. He arrived at his destination very late on account of the new stock law gate causing him to sit in the road awhile.

Miss Ida Burney and W. H. Chapman spent Saturday night and Sunday visiting Miss Geneva Edwards. They report a very good time.

C. L. Stokes is ahead of all the farmers in our section. He put in a barn of tobacco this week. It is reported that he has the best crops of tobacco in the country.

E. S. Laughinghouse and Claude Burney went to Ayden Sunday.

Miss Lillie Corey spent Sunday night with Miss Carrie Chapman. Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Smith attended church at Winterville Sunday.

Miss Annie Dixon, of Ayden, and S. F. Harper came to Sunday school Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Joyner and son, Loyd, are spending this week with her sister, Mrs. C. A. Tucker, near Greenville.

Miss Winnie Burney returned home from a visit to Ayden. Master Jack Quinerly came home with her to spend a few weeks.

Miss Faye Corey was a guest of Miss Sall Chapman Sunday night.

J. B. Corey and brother, Henry, went to Ayden Saturday.

claim that the contracts came filled out in their regular order, with proper signature to them, and the Charlotte gentlemen state that they signed the contracts, after Rosewald had written "Free" in glaring letters over its face.

The last heard of Rosewald was from Marion, and it is thought that he is now in Asheville. He is said to be a native of North Carolina, having been born at Williamston. For a number of years, it is said, he made Norfolk, Va., his home, but Mr. Saunders knows little about him, having been his employer for only six weeks or more.—Charlotte Observer.

STATE AND GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina and Other States.

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 23.—On Monday afternoon Mr. B. F. Harper, a farmer of the Castalia section of Nash county, was killed by a fall from his buggy, his head catching between the wheels and breaking his neck. It is believed that he was under the influence of whiskey or some dope.

Washington, June 23.—The Gazette Publishing Company's outfit was sold at public auction yesterday. It was bought by Mr. W. C. Rodman. It is understood that a stock company will be formed and publication begun July 1st.

Seventeen miners were killed by an explosion of gas in a coal mine in Wehrum, Pa., about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. The explosion was due to the ignition of a pocket of gas by the open lamp of a miner.

Leon Ling, the Chinese convert, alleged slayer of Elsie Seigel, missionary, in Chinatown, N. Y., has not yet been located, although detectives are making a diligent search for him all over the United State. Nothing new has developed in the case since the arrest of his former room-mate, Chung Sin. Respectable chinamen all over the country are wrought up over the murder and they are aiding officers of the law as much as they can.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., June 24.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity: The gradual improvement in business hretofore noted is well maintained. In some lines a more active demand was noted during the week, but in others there was no change in conditions. Manufacturers of paper and pulp report same in reams in orders and in inquiries, but at prices that are not entirely satisfactory. Receipts of fruit and vegetables are of fair quantity and the demand is moderate but prices are low. In the trunk and bag industry there is some improvement, and conditions are becoming encouraging. Building is active, confined mainly to residential property, resulting in a satisfactory demand for material and supplies. The weather during the week was favorable to the growing crops. Retail trade is at the period of the seasons dullness. Collections are fair and in some lines slightly better than reported for several weeks past.

Don't Miss It.

If you overlook and fail to attend the concert at the opera house next Wednesday night, June 30, you will miss the best concert of the season. Miss Helen Day, the leader in the concert, was soloist for the Roman Imperial band of Italy while in Europe, and also appeared in song recitals in Germany. The other members of the concert company are excellent artists and will please all who are looking for something good. They have just finished a tour of several towns in Western North Carolina and met with such success that they have already been engaged for another tour in that section.

WHITEHURST MOORE.

Mr. T. W. Whitehurst Marries Miss Estelle Moore, of Hamilton.

Their many friends throughout Eastern Carolina will be surprised to learn that this morning at nine o'clock at the residence of J. L. Hearne, in this city, the Rev. M. T. Lawrence officiating, Miss Estelle Moore, of Hamilton, became the bride of Thomas W. Whitehurst, of Greenville.

Although it was a surprise it was in no sense a run-away match, as the groom had obtained the consent of the bride's parents for the marriage to be consummated later in the year and the bride was here at the residence of Mrs. N. Baynor, supposedly getting up her trousseau, when the groom arrived on the Plymouth shoo-fly Tuesday evening and begun preparation for a wedding.

After the ceremony, and amid the congratulations and best wishes of their friends here, the couple were driven to the Coast Line depot, from which they boarded the morning train for Washington and points north.

The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Moore, of Hamilton and Mr. Whitehurst is secretary and manager of the Building & Lumber Co., of Greenville, where he has a host of friends and is very successful, his firm having just finished and delivered to the trustees the beautiful buildings of the East Carolina Training School.—Taboro Southerner, 23rd.

Ball Team Off to Tarboro.

Tomorrow morning the Greenville "Juniors" will leave here on the gas boat "Mayona" for Tarboro, where they will meet the strong Tarboro team in the afternoon. The Greenville boys have a well rounded team and expect to put a strong fight for victory, although Tarboro is known to have a fast aggregation of ball players.

There will be room on the boat for about ten persons besides the team, and anyone desiring to go may do so for the exceedingly low rate of 50c far round trip.

The boat will leave the Baptist landing at 7:00 a. m. sharp, returning will leave Tarboro at about 7:00 p. m. For tickets see Kenchin Cobb or Conrad Lanier.

The Southern Learning Some Sense.

The Southern Railway seems to have adopted a different course, and a wise one, with regard to litigation. Some years ago the policy was never to compromise a case in court; fight it out was the motto. The result was that it got body hurt in every way. We notice, however, cases are frequently compromised now, of course where the facts are against the company. This is a wise policy. It is not only a direct saving, but places the road in better shape before a jury in other cases. It shows a willingness to do what is right, and it may be stated that the road has been getting some verdicts recently which is a rarity.—Greensboro Record.

THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1909.

"Our Greenville" Yes, the best in the east. Come live with us and let it be yours.

Mr. Manufacturer, Mr. Cotton Mill Man, look to the east and locate your factory in "Our Greenville."

We don't believe there is a town in the world the size of Greenville with a finer or more genteel citizenship.

Some time early in the spring we suggested giving our visitors ice water to drink by placing ice around the fountains enclosed by a coil of pipe and a large box. Nothing has been heard of the suggestion since and now it is summer it is greatly needed.

That was a clever crook who worked the Charlotte business men out of their hard cash and stripped. He selected the most prominent men in the city to work his game on, and they bit like young suckers. Guess they will "keep their eyes skinned" in the future.

Greenville has had for a number of years the reputation of having the most beautiful women, horses and turnouts of any town in the State, but we are now witnessing the passing of the beautiful horses and turnouts. They are being rapidly displaced by the noisy and fummy automobile, which line our streets today. We are sorry to see this, for in our opinion there is no nicer and prettier thing than a well kept horse and buggy. The auto is very nice for rapid transit, but give us the horse and buggy for pleasure every time.

We do not believe the people of the United States could have selected a man for the president's chair who is nearer the opposite of Col. Roosevelt in everything than Mr. Taft. He is extremely so in the brevity of his messages to congress. One of our exchanges suggests if he goes into condensation much more that we put them in display type so that the reading public can find them. Why, if you remember, when Roosevelt was on the job the papers that could print his messages had to put them in nonparial type to keep from making books.

General Julian Carr has been mentioned as the probable recipient of the ministerial appointment to China. The appointment of Connor to the judgeship of the East Carolina district seems to have put our party to thinking that all the pie to be handed out by President Taft to the South will be landed by the Democrats. We hope the general will get the appointment if he wants it—he is a deserving Democrat—but we certainly hope he will not make as big fool of himself over it as others did over the judgeship appointment.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Boats of Concrete.

The latest use to which concrete has been successfully applied is in the construction of boats and barges. The Gabelini Company, of Italy, after working for eight years on concrete constructions of various kinds, has demonstrated that the material is practical and economical for boats, both large and small. The concrete barges have the following dimensions: length fifty-one feet, beam sixteen feet. They are built with double bottoms, and are practically unsinkable. The cost of such a boat is thirteen dollars, and after years of use they are said to be in perfect condition. Modern barges (which cost slightly less), after five years of service require repairs to the extent of thirty per cent. of their initial cost. This is due to the fact that the concrete hull has a perfectly smooth exterior, thus reducing the friction which becomes such an important item in boat maintenance. Although Signor Gabelini says he has thus far made no installations of motive power in his barges, this can readily be done, in which case it would seem that his achievement would mark an epoch in sea-going vessels.—Success.

The Latest.

We join the Evening Chronicle in expressing pride that a murder trial should have developed "confusional insanity." This is the very latest brand of homicidal excitement against a foe and beats New York miles. We would not have any one overlook, either, that the hypothetical question was nearly two thousand words long. The only trouble about this sort of thing is that New York has apparently dropped it and once more begun casting about for something new.—Charlotte Observer.

The Value of Good Digestion

Is easy to figure if you know what your stomach is worth. Kodol keeps the stomach at par value, by insuring good digestion. Kodol cures Dyspepsia.

Kodol insures good digestion by absolutely duplicating Nature's normal process, in perfectly digesting all food taken into the stomach.

While Kodol is doing this, the stomach is resting—and becoming strong and healthy. A strong and healthy stomach guarantees a sound and active brain.

The man with a sound stomach—a stomach that is doing for the body just what Nature intended it to do—is the man who is always prepared for any emergency. He is "there with the goods."

The man with a sick stomach, is a man sick all over. When the stomach is irritated by undigested food, the blood and heart are directly affected. Then dullness, unnatural sleepiness, sick-headaches, vertigo and fainting spells, and even serious brain trouble develop. Kodol will prevent these.

Spurring the stomach and brain to special effort by "tonics" and "stimulants" doesn't cure anything, or accomplish any good. Neither does dieting. Indigestion and the serious ailments which it induces can be averted and corrected only by natural means.

Kodol supplies this natural means. It performs the stomach's work for it—just as the stomach should perform it—while the stomach takes a little rest, "for the stomach's sake."

GREETING SPRING.

An Old and Picturesque Custom in Switzerland.

The 1st of March is a day of joyful festivity among the school children in most of the Engadine communities in Switzerland. At 4 o'clock in the morning a party of school-boys march through the village clanging cowbells, big and little, with all their might to proclaim the dawn of a boisterous day to their slumbering schoolmates still abed.

As the day grows bright the boys gather, each one with a huge bell hung around his neck, on the village square, where they form in ranks, according to their size. When the preparations, always conducted amid great excitement and juvenile jubilation, have been completed the procession starts on a tour through the streets to the accompaniment of furious bell ringing and noisy yodeling.

One of the eldest of the demonstrators, with a milk pail on his shoulder and dressed in the costume of a dairyman, with yellow breeches, white stockings, low shoes, finely embroidered braces over a shirt of spotless white, turned up sleeves, displaying a brawny arm, the dairyman's hat perched jauntily on the back of his head, marches proudly at the head of the herd. At the end of the procession is another big boy with a big staff in his hand like a herdsman.

All this reminds us of the way the cows go to the Alps to the sound of bells. The whole festival is nothing but a spring celebration to herald the return of the milder season, which has been looked forward to with longing for months. The custom is said to be of Roman origin; hence its name, "Chalanda Marz" (from Kalendare), which justifies the assumption that, from the period of the year chosen for the observance of this festival, it must have originated in the mild climate of Italy and not in the cold clime of the Engadine.

In the way described the troop marches on from house to house and is presented by the matrons with rice, chestnuts, sausages, bread and even money. The hotels are all visited, and the guests always contribute some small change. Out of the proceeds a general jollification is provided, in which the girls of the neighborhood take part.

How intense is the youngsters' enjoyment of the Chalanda Marz festivities can scarcely be imagined by any one who has not looked on at these annual junketings.—Exchange.

THE MUFFS MEN WORE

They Were Decked With Lace and Bows of Ribbon.

A FASHION OF OTHER DAYS.

Their Use Was Quite Common, Too, and Not Confined to Fops and Dandies—Double Muffs Were Once in Vogue—Extremes of Style in Sizes.

Muffs were invented for the use of a man. At least so the legend goes: It seems a classic shade found the air of the world so beastly cold when he resuscitated to earth after his death that his hands were almost frozen.

Consequently it was decreed that the slayer of the poor young gentleman should kill enough sables—evidently sables were appreciated even in those early days—to make a covering for the frosted fingers. He did it, and that was the origin of the muff.

Even if one is not prepared to accept this account of the first muff as authoritative there is one thing that is certain. It is only in very modern times that muffs have been the exclusive property of women. Up to the third quarter of the eighteenth century men were quite as addicted to them as women were.

In the wardrobe accounts of Henry, prince of Wales, for 1608 the prices of two muffs are set down. The most expensive cost £7, a very big sum in those days, and is described as being made of cloth of silver wrought with pearls, plates and Venice twists of silver and gold. The other was a comparatively plain one of black satin embroidered with black silk, and its price was proportionately less, only 60 shillings.

At the time of Charles I and Charles II. there was a curious fashion of double muffs, a small one for each hand, something like a big loose cuff. The single or ordinary muffs carried by the English ladies of Hollar's etchings are of medium size and made entirely of smooth fur, arranged, as a rule, with the hair running round the muff.

At the extreme end of the century, after the advent of William of Orange, men's muffs were still small and were generally suspended from a ribbon round the neck, but in 1703 it seems to have been more usual to loop the muff to a coat button. There is a widely prevalent idea, I think, that masculine muff wearers invariably belonged to the dandy class—the fops, beaux and macaronies—but this was not actually the case, although the fashion was certainly scoffed at by some contemporary writers.

Staid and elderly gentlemen carried muffs habitually. For instance, Dr. Josiah Tucker, dean of Gloucester and a famous political economist, was so attached to his huge fur muff that he carried it even when officiating at the cathedral services. Englishmen, however, do not seem ever to have favored lace frilled muffs such as were affected by Frenchmen during the early part of the eighteenth century, but contented themselves with trimmings of ribbon bows, adornments quite sufficiently effeminate, one would think.

Muffs, both ladies' and gentlemen's, varied much in size at different times from the reign of Queen Anne onward. In 1710 they were very tiny, but grew somewhat larger during the following couple of decades. In 1740, however, they had decreased again, and a little later Horace Walpole writes of sending George Montagu "a decent smallish muff that you may put in your pocket, and it cost but 14 shillings." But by 1760 both sexes were carrying such capacious muffs that pet dogs were often concealed in their warm recesses. About this time, by the way, muffs made of feathers were introduced by reason, it is said, of an unusual scarcity of furs in the market.

In 1786 ladies' muffs—men, except such eccentric fogies as Dean Tucker, had by this time given up wearing such things—were decidedly diminutive. However, at the beginning of the nineteenth century they were again of monster proportions and so continued for about thirty years.

Two muffs of the year 1800 shown in a fashion plate of that year are of long, shaggy fur, and in the print one is colored yellow and has a bow of purple ribbon in the center, while the other is deep brown and has no trimming. Another huge muff of rough, dark fur is shown in a set of fashion plates for 1803.

A few years nearer our own time the modish muff was large, flat and so widely open at the ends that it could have afforded but scanty protection to the wrists. One example was made of ermine, a fur which was in high favor from this time up to the mid-Victorian period.—London Queen.

Buried Treasures in Morocco.

In Morocco it is customary for a man to bury most of his riches in a place known only to himself. This custom is practiced by all Moors, for they cannot trust their own family, who would murder them directly if it were known where the money was. At the death of the head of a family in Morocco digging operations commence at once, but seldom is the money discovered. There must be many fortunes buried away in odd corners of the country. An instance came under the writer's notice at one of the coast towns. During the demolition of a house a considerable sum of money was found built into the wall.—London

His Meek Retort.
"Convicted?" exclaimed the prisoner in disgust. "Well, I'm not surprised. My lawyer made a fool of himself."
"I tried to represent you faithfully," remarked the lawyer mildly.—Judge.
