LETTER FROM MR. J. A. LANG. WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF WESTERN PART OF THE STATE

Differences in Customs of the People
—He Still Looks Longingly
Toward Greenville.

Mr. Editor:
Since leaving our home in Greenville your paper has been a regular visitor to our house, and a very welcome one, as it has kept us posted on things generally down there.

And as I have not written to but few of my friends that I left behind, I thought some of them might be interested in a few lines in The Reflector, of our stay in the mountain country.

We lived up to July 1st in the beautiful town of Hickory, the metropolis of Catawba county, and found it to be a very pleasant and agreeable town to live in, its citizens being as clever and social as any people to be found any where, and my family are still residing there. But as my object for leaving my dear old county was to seek health, I decided to come still further west. I am now at this point (Andrews, Cherokee county) which is the extreme western county in the State, and in the mountains proper. I am not only trying to find health here but profit as well, as I have associated myself with a good roads construction company, and have taken a contract to build about seven miles of McAdam street and road through this town and adjacent country.

This is still a rough country, but not so far behind the times as it was prior to the building of this Western N. C. R. R. formally known as the Duck Town branch, but now a part of the Southern system. Since the building of this road there has come into this country a great many people from other states and bought up most of the wealth here, such as timber and mining lands, and have built up small towns with good dwelling houses, banks and churches, with mountain tram roads running into the towns, hauling in the timber, wood and minerals from off the mountains. Most of those who have come in here seeking wealth, were people of means, intelligence and enterprise, and they have stimulated the native mountaineers to be more industrious and enlightened and they have improved considerably since the days when Governor Vance used to come through our eastern country telling us about the crude ways of living of these people. Yet they are a long way behind the central and eastern part of the State in some particulars. But they are enterprising enough in this little town to vote bonds to build them a good graded school and twenty-five thousand dollars for street and road improvement.

They are somewhat patriotic, too, as they did not fail to celebrate the 4th of July. On my arrival here on the 3rd, I found them having a big time over a base ball game, between the town team and an Indian nine, in which the Indians were the victors and nearly the whole town turned out to witness it. After night the celebrating fete was a wrestling bout in which Hanging Dog and the crack wrestler of the town were the chief participants and in this stunt the big Indian was the winner. The exercises wound up on Sunday, the 4th, at a country school house near by, with an all day singing contest for a prize of ten dollars between two Sunday school singing classes. There are a tribe of Indians in this section known as the Cherokeees, same name as the county, and I suppose the county took its name from them. I was surprised to learn they did not associate or mix with the negro but have great respect for the whites, and contempt for the negro. They say white man first, Indian next, dog, and then negro. This shows you the estimation in which he is held by the Indian.

I find some different enterprises up here from anything I have seen before. For instance, they here a factory for grinding up chestnut wood and extracting acid from it for tanning leather. There is also near here a plant for grinding up white rock, known as talc (long a) and used for adulterating flour, sugar, &c. so I am informed.

This country has minerals of different kinds. Gold is found some in the mountain streams, I am told a man can easily make a dollar or more per day washing it out of the sand from these streams. There are also veins of copper, iron and mica found here. Only a few days ago a northern man came here and paid a big price for an option on a few acres of this mountain land, on which he thought he had found Rutilite. I visited an iron mine a few days ago in which the percent of iron is profitable to work, but is not being worked on account of some trouble between the owner and the lessee. These people are getting to believe they have fortunes hid in the earth and whenever a prospector comes around they are jubious and afraid to name any price for the land.

The customs of the people are quite different from those of our level country. They ride mostly on horse back, buggies being scarce. It is a common thing to see a woman come riding into town on the back of a mule, with a basket of berries, apples or some kind of fruit.

I guess I have said enough for this time. May give you more later, if this does not find its way to the waste basket.

"Our Greenville, yours if you come." I am coming.

J. A. Lang.

OPEN LETTER FROM CAPT. LOVELACE.
To the Tobacco Farmers of Pitt and Surrounding Counties

Our tobacco market will open on August 2nd, and I am sending you this as a personal invitation to come to see me at the Gum Warehouse, and lets see if we can't make it mutually agreeable and profitable to do business together this season at the "Old Gum," the birth place of the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Company, and the one house that every friend of the Company should love to patronize. I shall do my part to hold you, once you bring tobacco to me. In extending this invitation I do not lose sight of the fact that with practical men, dollars out-weigh sentiment, and once you come to see me, I propose to convince you that it will be to your interest to drive to the Gum every time. In other words it is my purpose to make the Gum the leader of high prices on the Greenville market, and I only ask an opportunity of demonstrating to you that by reason of my long connection with the tobacco business, and knowledge of the weed, gained in both factory and warehouse, I am prepared to fully protect all who favor me with their patronage.

Trusting that I may number you among my customers, I am,
Yours to serve,
JOHN P. LOVELACE,
Manager the Gum Warehouse, Greenville, N. C.

FARMERS CONSOLIDATED TOB. CO.
HAS ENLARGED ITS PLANS FOR THE COMING SEASON.

Offers Great Opportunity to Tobacco Farmers for a Powerful Organization.

The Reflector has in the past had much to say about the Farmers Consolidated Company, its progress from year to year since organization, and the advantages it offered the farmers for organizing and controlling the sale of their crop. The record of this company is an open book, and if it had not possessed merit and been conducted on conservative business principles it would not have reached the great success which stands to its credit today.

It is a pleasure to know that the company today is larger and stronger than ever, and is operating warehouses in Greenville, Robersonville, Kinston and Wilson. Here at home it has acquired three houses, and will operate them all this season.

Mr. O. L. Joyner, president of the company, has organized the forces well for this season and will do a large business. The different houses of the Consolidated this season will be manned as follows:

GUM WAREHOUSE.
J. P. Lovelace, manager.
C. F. Meadows, floor manager.
J. L. Gibson, assistant floor manager.
W. P. Edwards, bookkeeper.

STAR WAREHOUSE,
F. D. Foxhall, manager.
N. Mallory, floor manager.
E. B. Thomas, bookkeeper.
E. A. Brown, assistant bookkeeper.

PEOPLES WAREHOUSE.
C. R. Townsend, manager.
T. H. Walker, floor manager.
B. I. Conn, bookkeeper.
W. Leslie Smith, assistant bookkeeper.
Z. T. Broughton and J. I. Thompson are auctioneers for the three houses.

President Joyner with an efficient clerical force will direct the business of the company from the office in the Shelburn building.

If the farmers who make tobacco will take advantage of the opportunity that is offered them by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, in a few, very few, short years they will have the richest organization of farmers in America, and in the accomplishment of things the most powerful. The tobacco farmers are waking up to a realization of their importance and are seeing advantage of co-operative effort. It is the ambition of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company to erect a structure that will prove a monument to the tobacco farmers and a credit to their industry.

Small Blaze in Store

About 2 o'clock this morning Night Policeman W. H. McGowan saw a small blaze in the store of C. G. Starkey. The officer broke the glass in a window, went in and put out the fire before any damage of consequence was done. Only a few shelf goods were scorched. The blaze is supposed to have been caused by rats gnawing some wax tapers that had match heads on them, as it was found among these. It is fortunate that the blaze was discovered and put out so promptly.

Local business is looking to the opening of the Greenville tobacco market next Monday as the beginning of activities for the fall. ### John Small and the Chicken.

I met a most interesting man on the train two weeks ago. The car being crowded a passenger came and sat down by me. Having a newspaper eye, I looked him over to see what I could make out of him. His speech was broken but I could not get the hang of it.

"What country were you born in?" I asked.

"Russia," I understood him to say.

"Where do you live?"

"Baltimore and Washington, North Carolina."

"North Carolina is my State but I live in Washington, D. C. now."

"Do you know John Small, congressman from Washington?"

"Yes, indeed, quite well."

"Is he a friend of yours?"

"We have known each other a long time. When I first went to Washington we lived at the same hotel, and eat at the same table."

"He is a bully fellow."

"Yes; and a smart man and a good lawyer."

"Yes."

"Well, when I first went to the hotel to board John Small he get all the good things to eat—the good chicken, the breast, the legs, the thighs, and I git the wing, the neck and the feet. "One day I say to John Small how come that I get the neck, the wing and the legs and you git the good chicken, and he say he give the negro waiter twenty-five cents a week, to boot; and he do it. Then I give the waiter some money and he bring me the good chicken. "That John Small is one smart man."

Mr. Small's friend is now a well-to-do business man with interests in Baltimore, Washington, Salisbury and other towns. —H. E. O. Bryant in Charlotte Observer.

Now let's think back a little. Don't you remember how some good people trembled in their boots because Mr. Taft is a Unitarian? All sorts of calamities were foretold if he should be elected. Well, he was elected and who among us gives the matter a thought today? Somebody made much ado about nothing and the hysterical saw visions of shame and ruin for the nation. Is he capable! Is he honest? are more sensible questions to ask about a public official than, Is he a Baptist, or Methodist or a Unitarian?—Charity and Children.

If the people who pay the tariff realized how much they pay the Republican party would be swept off its feet in the next election. All signs now point that the next campaign will be fought on the tariff question with a good chance for Democratic victory, especially in view of the fact that it has been discovered that the Republican party can be just as much responsible for hard times as good times.—Rocky Mount Record.

If it is lucky to have a rabbit's foot, wouldn't it be four times as lucky to have all four of them?—New Bern Sun.

No, there is no luck at all in fore feet.—Greenville Reflector. That is very bright, David, and we are proud of you.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Rheumatism has for years been regarded as an exceedingly painful disease but it has only been discovered within the last few years that it is this terrible trouble that is either directly or indirectly causing thousands of deaths yearly throughout our country. If Uric Acid is allowed to stay in the system sudden death can scarcely be averted. If any sufferer will go at once to J. W. Bryan's and get a bottle of "Bloodine" the guaranteed remedy for Rheumatism. They will positively be cured. Bloodine in large bottles cost 50 cents. In old chronic cases where their is acute pains, "Bloodine Rheumatic Liniment" should be used with "Bloodine." Also for sale by M. M. Sauls, Ayden, N. C.

The Value of Good Digestion

Is easy to figure if you know what your stomach is worth. Kodol keeps the stomach at par value, by insuring good digestion. Kodol cures Dyspepsia.

Kodol insures good digestion by absolutely duplicating Nature's normal process, in perfectly digesting all food taken into the stomach.

While Kodol is doing this, the stomach is resting—and becoming strong and healthy. A strong and healthy stomach guarantees a sound and active brain.

The man with a sound stomach—a stomach that is doing for the body just what Nature intended it to do—is the man who is always prepared for any emergency. He is "there with the goods."

The man with a sick stomach, is a man sick all over. When the stomach is irritated by undigested food, the blood and heart are directly affected. Then dizziness, unnatural sleepiness, sick-headaches, vertigo and fainting spells, and even serious brain trouble develop. Kodol will prevent these.

Spurring the stomach and brain to special effort by "tonics" and "stimulants" doesn't cure anything, or accomplish any good. Neither does dieting. Indigestion and the serious ailments which it induces can be averted and corrected only by natural means.

Kodol supplies this natural means. It performs the stomach's work for it—just as the stomach should perform it—while the stomach takes a little rest, "for the stomach's sake."

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

HONESTY IN CHINA.

You Can Trust a Native to Perform Whatever He Promises.

"Chinese life or the phases of it that you see along the highroads of the northwest would appear to be a very simple, honest life, industrious, methodical, patient in poverty," writes Samuel Merwin in his book, "Drugging a Nation." "The men, even of the lowest classes, are courteous to a degree that would shame a Frenchman.

"I have seen two soldiers," writes Mr. Merwin, "who earned 10 or 20 cents a day greet my cook with such grace and charm of manner that I felt like a crude barbarian as I watched them.

"You soon learn in China that you can trust a Chinaman to carry through anything he agrees to do for you. When I reached Taiyuan-fu I handed my interpreter a Chinese draft for $200, Mexican, payable to bearer, and told him to go to the bank and bring back the money. I had known John a little over a week, yet any one who knows China will understand that I was running no appreciable risk, and the outcome justified my faith.

"The individual Chinaman is simply a part of a family, the family is part of a neighborhood, the neighborhood is part of a village or district, and so on.

"In all its relations with the central government the province is responsible for the affairs of its larger districts, these for the smaller districts, the smaller districts for the villages, the villages for the neighborhoods, the neighborhoods for the family, the family for the individual.

"If John had disappeared with my money after cashing the draft punishment would have been swift and severe. Very likely he would have lost his head. If the authorities had been unable to find John they would have punished his family. Punishment would surely have fallen upon somebody.

"The real effect of this system, continued as it has been through unnumbered centuries, has naturally been to develop a clear, keen sense of personal responsibility. For whatever may occur somebody is responsible. The family in order to protect itself trains its individuals to live up to their promises or else not to make promises. The neighborhood, well knowing that it will be held accountable for its units, watches them with a close eye.

"When a new family comes into a neighborhood the neighbors crowd about and ask questions which, in view of the facts, are not so impertinent as they might sound. Indeed, this sense of family and neighborhood accountability is so deeply rooted that it is not uncommon on the failure of a merchant to meet his obligations for his family and friends to step forward and help to settle his accounts. It is the only way in which they can clear themselves."

Difficulty Easy to Overcome.

"But are you able to support a wife?" asked the old gentleman.

"Well," replied the youth, "you know it is said that two can live almost as cheaply as one in such circumstances."

"Ye-es; I've heard that stated," admitted the old gentleman doubtfully.

"So it occurred to me," went on the youth cheerfully, "that you would not begrudge the slight extra cost that will be entailed as a result of this addition to your family."
—Chicago Post.

Strategy.

"Doctor, that ointment you left for my husband to use on his rheumatic elbow may be all right, but there's no use telling him to rub it in. He won't take the trouble to do that. You don't know him as well as I do."

"I think I do, madam. I put some stuff in that ointment that will make his elbow itch like fury, and he'll have to rub it."
—Chicago Tribune.

THE UNGAINLY GIRAFFE.

In Flight This Harmless Animal Is Anything but Graceful.

I never care to shoot a giraffe. As a specimen he is unnatural unless mounted as he stands, and standing he would look uncouth unless one found him some such place to stand in as the rotunda of the capitol at Washington.

The giraffe is too old to shoot; no one can tell how old he is—much older probably than the elephant. And no one would dream of shooting an elephant were he not prodigiously destructive to the farmer and were his tusks not worth a great deal of money. But the giraffe is perfectly harmless. He was never known to hurt any one, and he gets his living off the upper boughs of thorn trees, which no one can reach but himself and nobody else would eat if he could reach them.

To see the giraffe's beautifully mottled skin towering up among and over the flat green thorn trees is surely one of the strangest and most beautiful sights the animal world offers man. As he stands and dips and bends and twists his nine foot long neck in and out among the armed branches of the tree he is grace personified. I was watching seven of these creatures, the king, his harem and his children, all gathered around one green topped tree. From seven points of vantage they dipped into it at once, stooping under an unusually thin armed bough bending on another. Their necks seemed to twist two or three ways at once. I had the good fortune to be able to come very near without alarming them—less than a hundred yards—and with my glasses I could see them as though they were not more than ten yards away.

But when at last the treacherous breeze betrayed us and they plunged into flight—well, no one could call their movements graceful. The immensely long fore legs are thrown forward, as you see a very high stepping horse sometimes throw his fore legs forward till the hoof for the fraction of a second is pointed straight out in front. The giraffe makes this motion with a sort of jerk at the end of it, as though he intended in the first instance to fling his hoof as far forward as he could, and then with a sort of afterthought brings it to the ground. As it reaches earth he flounders forward with his high shoulders and lifts both ungainly hind legs together, lifting and planting them together or almost together. There is a great antediluvian lizard known to us that had two brains, one to move his body and another to move his abnormally long tail. It looks as though the giraffe, like the long lizard, needed two brains also, one to move his hind legs and another to move his fore legs.—W. S. Rainsford in Outlook.

Heroes and Cowards.

Courage is an uncertain quantity; it varies with circumstances. A man who fancies that he is afraid of nothing ventures on the slippery pavement in winter and suddenly discovers that he is very much afraid of falling and hurting himself.

It is on record that a man who was as bold as could be in the morning could never be relied upon for courage after dinner.

Some French soldiers during the war of 1870 gallantly assaulted an almost impregnable position, although death seemed certain. Three years later two of those gallant fellows were in a theater when an alarm of fire was given, and they displayed extreme cowardice, pushing over women and children in their frantic efforts to escape.—Pearson's Weekly.

An Oversight.

"Waiter," said a guest at a hotel as he inspected his bill before leaving, "there is one item omitted."

"What item, sir?" inquired the waiter.

"The manager said 'Good morning' to me yesterday and has forgotten to charge for it!"
—London Telegraph.
