WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

News Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C., July 31, 1909.

Miss Clyde Chapman spent last week with Miss Lizzie Cox, near Shermidine.

Misses Clara and Janie Braxton left yesterday morning to visit friends in Virginia.

Dr. Dixon, of Ayden, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Mollie Fox went to Kinston yesterday and returned the same day.

Miss Lizzie Cox is visiting Miss Clyde Chapman this week.

Marvin Taylor, of Grifton, was in town yesterday.

Misses Lena Dawson and Olivia Cox left yesterday for Wilmington and Wrightsville.

On Wednesday afternoon the mothers of Winterville meet with Mrs. E. E. Cox, for a very helpful and enjoyable gathering. Mrs. Butt, the president, was in the chair and presided during the exercises.

One feature of the program was a reading from the Essay, "What's worth While." After that there was an interesting discussion of human nature, and its relative tendencies to good and bad. Although the mothers present were very good, and their friends were all good, and their children were very satisfactory; yet they believed that it is a hard struggle for any of us to do our duty. The mother's meeting has a large membership and is to be congratulated on its aims and attainments.

Yesterday morning at half past five o'clock the members of the Young Peoples' Christian Union met at the Baptist church, where they were taken on wagons and buggies to Bryant's landing, a beautiful place about three miles up the Tar river from Greenville. They reached there at half past nine. The channel and best fishing place being on the opposite side of the river, their first fun came in being carried across in little boats which could take only six at a time. With some rocking and dipping of the boats and a few shrill cries from the lasses they were all safely across. Another boat had already taken a large bundle of fishing poles and some bait, and all were soon quiet for the fish to bite. The quiet, however, did not last very long for an eel being landed in the center of a group of girls caused some disturbance. After two hours of fishing—and profitable fishing, too, fruit was carried over from the wagon and they feasted on melons, cantelopes, peaches, apples, plums and grapes. Then all went up the river about half a mile to a spring. Near the spring the grass was so thick and green they decided to eat dinner there, so hurrying the boatmen down the river after the many and large baskets, as some one expressed it, they sat on the grass in groups, some of only two in number, and talked of—well I can't say what the smaller groups talked—but the others laid plans for the evening. The boys came with the dinner and at one o'clock they stood around the table eating, laughing and making merry. The evening was spent in boating, fishing, reading, strolling, bathing and a few lay in the green grass beside the still waters of the Tar and went to sleep. On their way home they came by Greenville, stopping only at the East Carolina Training school at a few minutes. They reached Winterville about ten o'clock. Every one reports an excellent time and one that will long be remembered. They wish to thank Mr. Frank Worthington for his kindness and wish him well in his home on the banks of the Tar.

A. L. French, President.

A Card of Thanks.

The ladies of the Methodist church desire to give public expression of their hearty thanks to the automobile owners and drivers who contributed so much toward making their party a success last evening.

We deeply regret that so many of the cars promised were in the hospital awaiting "operations," and trust they will have a speedy recovery.

However, we wish specially to thank Messrs. Fred Forbes, Payne and Brown and Mr. Sledge, who was driving the car of Messrs. Will and Tom Hooker, for their untiring efforts in trying to handle the crowd, which they did splendidly to the pure delight of all who took the ride. Gentlemen we thank you.

Mrs. E. A. Moye, Jr.
Mrs. T. A. Person,
Miss Lil Wilson.

Several Greenville Masons went to the picnic at Moyeton, near Stantonsburg, on Friday. A large crowd was present and they had a big time. The singing class of the Oxford asylum was there and gave a concert.

GIRLS WIN.

Outplay Men in Vigorous Game of Baseball.

Weldon, N. C., July 29.—At a picnic given today in honor of young women from Greenville, the fair visitors challenged the young men to a game of ball, and won by a score of 3 to 1. Of course, the umpire was accused of rank decisions in favor of the young women. It did appear to the spectators that the umpire called everything that was thrown across the plate a ball when the women were at the bat, while for the men everything was called a strike if it was anywhere in sight when it passed over the batter's head.

The features of the game were the splendid base running of Mrs. Barr, chaperon; the batting of Misses Green and Spear and the beautiful work of Miss Joyney at third, Miss Warren at shortstop and Miss Critcher at second. Misses Evans and Forbes scored the game, no record was made of errors.

Dog Fight.

There was a dog fight on the street early this morning that came near causing trouble. A man from the country brought a bull dog in with him. The country dog and a town dog got in a fight when the owner of the town dog used his pocket knife on the country dog, resulting in some feeling between the owners of the dogs. It would not be a bad idea for the aldermen to prohibit the privileges of the streets to unmuzzled bull dogs. They are really dangerous and likely to cause trouble any time.

Planting Fall Potatoes.

Ex-Representative S. M. Jones, of Bethel, was here Friday, and we heard him say it looked almost like spring planting time around Bethel, the farmers being busy hauling fertilizers and planting largely for a fall crop of Irish potatoes. The Reflector believes the fall crop of potatoes can be made as profitable as the spring crop, and the Bethel township farmers are going at the matter right—except that they ought to also make their own fertilizers and not buy so much of the commercial kind.

Dr. F. D. Swindell Dies Suddenly.

Kinston, N. C., July 30.—Rev. Dr. F. D. Swindell, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, died suddenly last night in Beaufort, where he has been spending some time recuperating.

He has been in poor health for several months. During his stay at Beaufort he still supplied his pulpit here, coming up Saturday and returning Monday. He had so much improved that he was making arrangements to return here next week with his family. He went out with a sailing party and on returning went to his room and retired for the night. At daylight he was found dead. It is supposed that death came about four o'clock. The interment will be held in New Bern tomorrow.

SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1909.

There are but five months more of this year, and they will likely be busy ones.

President Taft is said to have shown his best smile when the Wrights made that good flight with their airship.

Some day they may get through with the trial of that Asheville bank case. Likewise there may be an end to Thaw some time.

Perhaps Congressman Cowles thought it would bring him to public notice more than anything else. He got the notice all right, and so did Dr. Eliot.

They may talk about the automobile road from the North to the South going this way or that way, but the thing that is puzzling us is who is going to build it any way.

So far this has been a tough summer on The Reflector—nearly everything being done on a credit and very little money coming in. Now that the tobacco market is about to open we hope our friends will bring us some money as soon as they can get a little ahead. Do not wait for a dun to be sent you, but come along as soon as you get to cashing tobacco checks.

A meeting will be held at Swan Quarter, in Hyde county, on Wednesday, August 4th, to take final action in regard to the proposition to drain Mattamuskeet lake and adjoining territory. This drainage proposition is a big one, and if carried to successful culmination will mean much not only to Hyde county but also to the whole of Eastern North Carolina. There is not a county in all this section but has much valuable land that could be redeemed with proper drainage, and if brought to a condition of cultivation will make this indeed the garden spot of the world.

A New York publisher advertises the "Scattered Nation" as the work of Zebulon B. Vance, "Late U. S. Senator and Governor of West Virginia." Jumping Jehosaphat! This from the home town of that Ogden who seems to think all the benighted ignorance of the country to be concentrated in the South and that he holds a divine commission to enlighten it. We leave it to the Charlotte Observer to express our feelings in the matter. Our command of words is utterly inadequate for the task.—Norfolk Virginian Pilot.

Zeb Vance governor of West Virginia! Did you ever see such a manifestation of ignorance? Ogden should keep out of the South until he can drill some sense into his own people. We are not surprised that the Norfolk paper lost words to express its feelings.

From the way we hear many farmers talking, another year will see Pitt county engaging more largely in the production of food crops. That means that the farmers following this plan are going to be more independent, for those who raise their own supplies and live at home can snap their fingers in the face of the trusts. The farmers of communities ought to come together and raise enough wheat to justify the establishment of a flour mill. There is just as good wheat land in Pitt county as anywhere, but the farmers have not been growing it because there were no mills convenient for grinding it into flour. If the farmers will agree to raise the wheat the mills will come to them. At the present high price of flour it will certainly pay the farmers to raise enough wheat to make what they need.

Don't Knock.

"If there is a chance to boom business, boom it. Don't be a knocker. Don't pull a long face. Hope a bit. Get a smile on you. Hold up your head. Get a hold with both hands. They pull. Bury your hatchet. Drop your tomahawk. When a stranger drops in tell him this is the greatest town on earth. It is. Don't get mulish. Don't roast. Be jolly. Get popular. It's dead easy. Help yourself along. Push your friend with you. Soon you'll have possessions. Be a good fellow.

No man ever helped himself by knocking other people down. No man ever got rich trying to make people believe that he was the only good man on earth. You can't climb the ladder of fame by stepping on other people's corns. They're their corns; not yours. And they're tender. Keep off the corns.

All men are not alike. Once in a while you will find one who is very much alike. But some are different. You're not the only shirt in the wash. If you don't like their style let 'em alone. Don't knock. You'll get used to it. There's no end of fun in minding your own business. And it makes other people like you better. Better have others get struck on you than get struck on yourself. Nobody gets struck on a knocker. Don't be one. Be good.—American Printer.

Several of the papers in this State are commenting on the fact that no legislature has enacted any bills against baseball. Just give them time. Some towns have started on the circus and probably they will get the legislature to stop baseball. Who knows? The legislators have got to do something to earn their pay.—New Bern Sun.

THE STAGE IN JAPAN.

Origin of the Drama—Women's Arduous Preparations of Dress.

There is a legend in Japan that the theater had its origin in that country in the ninth century by reason of an earthquake which took place in the province of Yamato. A large crevice was formed by reason of the upheaval, from which emanated poisonous vapors which spread death and destruction all around. An awful scourge was the result until the priests conceived the idea of performing a symbolic dance of incantation on the grass covered hill outside the temple. As if by magic the death vapors vanished, and peace and happiness were restored to the country. The legend concludes that this is how Japanese acting originated. The Japanese word for theater, shibai-ya, is supposed to have come from its origin, shibat, meaning sod, and ya, a house.

In Japan when a Japanese lady intends to go to the theater she is called upon the day previous by a hairdresser to build up the artificial structure which is the pride of every Japanese highborn lady. This necessitates her spending the night in her state dress, reclining her head on a wooden block, called makura. A few hours before going to the theater she covers her lips with a thin layer of gold, as it takes several hours for this paint to change into the cherry color which lends charm to the artificial white complexion of the face.

"As a rule, Japanese performances last from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., although certain historical dramas which follow the life of the hero through all his vicissitudes to his death go on for several days.

In Japan, officially, the social position of the actors is that of the lowest class of society, but in reality they enjoy great consideration and are idolized by the general public.—Washington Post.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Desormes" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint-Martin theater, the actor Lafontaine, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourgeois dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Bookman.

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and dearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perceptions of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

TORN CURRENCY.

The Way Mutilated Bills Are Redeemed by Uncle Sam.

In the hands of John Doe or Richard Roe any mutilated note of legal tender in the United States is redeemable at its face value, provided a clear three-fifths of its physical surface be presented at the redemption window of the United States treasury department.

Doe or Roe may have to submit to a little questioning, perhaps, as to how he got it or how the accident happened lopping off that other two-fifths. But if he doesn't stammer and choke or attempt a clean cut for it he'll get the full value of the mutilated bill.

By inference, then, neither Doe nor Roe may expect anything doing if he shall present less than the prescribed three-fifths of the piece of currency. But the national government, still liberally disposed toward Doe and Roe, will accept a fragment that may be less than three-fifths, but clearly more than two-fifths of the original note, paying just half the value of the original bill, however, as penalty for the accident.

In the case of James Brown Smith, Esq., known and respected in his home city, he may recover the full value of his note that is under two-fifths measure provided that he will appear before an officer of the law qualified to administer oaths and make affidavit as to time, manner and place in which the mutilation was accomplished. This affidavit will be attested by the official seal of the officer, who also must be prepared to attest in like manner the good character of the affiant. Except in the above instances insufficient portions of a note or notes are returned to the person presenting them for redemption. Paper currency which has been destroyed totally is not redeemable under any circumstances.

Beware of torn currency in general. A bank ought not to pay it out to you for the reason that the government is so willing to exchange new currency for it. And if you have torn it accidentally yourself you ought to save the pieces and go to the nearest subtreasury to effect the redemption.—Spokane Sportsman Review.

The Naming of Ypsilanti.

The story of the naming of Ypsilanti, Mich., dates back to the time of the Greek revolution. Some feeling arose over a name for the town, and a meeting was held at which the admirers of General Demetrius Ypsilanti, the Greek general who was important as a leader for the people, won, and the Greek name was given to the city. Some years ago an attaché of the Greek legation at Washington heard of the city of Ypsilanti. The evident origin of the name interested him, and he wrote to the mayor of Ypsilanti, asking how it happened that the city had the name of the Greek general, which he said was also his family name. He asked if there were any Greeks there and wished to know something of the city. The reply told him something of how the city received its name, and he responded with an offer of a portrait of his kinsman if the city cared for the gift. Later this was received and cared for.—Argonaut.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?" "Your dog barks a good deal. Can't you do anything to stop him?" "Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"—Chicago Record-Herald.
