RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

As it hath pleased Almighty God to call to her reward the wife of Brother J. E. Buck, be it resolved:

1st, That it is the sense of Mohican Tribe No. 56, Winterville, N. C., that the community has lost an amiable woman, and Brother Buck has lost a loving and faithful companion.

2nd, That we feel deeply the sorrow that has come over the entire community in the sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. Buck.

3rd, That the deepest sympathy of this entire brotherhood is hereby extended to Brother Buck and all the relatives in their hour of sorrow.

4th, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and a copy be sent to Brother Buck and copy to The Reflector.

Odd Fellows Meeting in Bethel.

The delegation of Odd Fellows attending the district convention held at Bethel, returned Friday. They report a splendid meeting, and good time. The convention was honored with the presence of two of the grand lodge officers, the Grand Master and Grand Warden of the jurisdiction of North Carolina. The visitors were royally entertained by the good people of Bethel, who never left a stone unturned for their comfort and pleasure.

The next meeting will be with Phalanx lodge, Washington, on Thanksgiving day.

For proceedings of meeting see the North Carolina Odd Fellow. E. E. Griffin, Sec.

Our Greenville, yours if you come.

ORDINATION TOMORROW.

Rev. B. F. Huske to be Raised to Priesthood.

Sunday will be an interesting day at St. Paul's Episcopal church. At the morning service Rev. B. F. Huske, the rector, will be ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Strange. The ordination sermon will be delivered by Rev. R. W. Hogue, formerly rector of St. James church, Wilmington, but now of Chapel Hill. Other visiting clergy who will take part in the service are Revs. I. W. Hughes, of Fayetteville; W. J. Gordon, of Williamston, and F. N. Skinner, of Beaufort. Mr. T. C. Davis, of Wilson, who has been senior warden of his church for fifty years and is now in his 80th year is expected to come down for this service and look once more on the scenes of his early life here. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Huske, of Fayetteville, parents of Rev. B. F. Huske, will be present, and several of his friends from other towns are expected.

Chaperones—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Daughtridge and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Laughinghouse.

Advertising Which Pays.

The business world was electrified this week at the outcome of that one-inch advertisement at which Jones & Laughlin ran in a paper of small but high-grade circulation recently, and which brought their $3,000,000 order from the Russian government. Pretty good investment that, from a one-inch advertisement—$3,000,000. There might be manufacturers who would not expect to duplicate this order themselves, believing that such an accomplishment was one grand exception proving the rule that advertising was a profitable investment.—New York Commercial.

MEETING OF TRUSTEES.

Completed Arrangements for Opening of Training School.

The Board of Trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training School held an all day session here Friday completing arrangements for the opening of the school Oct. 5th. Only one member of the board was absent. Those present were T. J. Jarvis, of Greenville; J. Y. Joyner, of Raleigh; Y. T. Ormond, of Kinston; J. B. Leigh, of Elizabeth City; I. T. Turlington, of Smithfield; J. R. Bannerman, of Burgaw; and J. C. Parker, of Trenton.

The board completed the faculty of the institution and did much other detail work which will be furnished later for publication. The date for the opening of the school is October 5th, and October 7th was named as the day for the inauguration of President R. H. Wright. This will be made a notable day for the school and for Greenville. Right now the people of the town should begin planning with the faculty and trustees of the school to make this inauguration day the most prominent one in the history of Greenville.

AT THE CHURCHES.

WOODPECKERS ATTACK

Telephone, Telegraph and Electric Light Poles.

Considerable damage is being done to telephone, telegraph and electric light poles by members of the woodpecker family. These birds originally built their homes in the dead or dying trunks or limbs of trees, but for some reason best known to themselves, have come to the conclusion that the peeled pole offers better conditions for a home.

They have become so ravenous of late their depredations are attracting considerable attention among those who are compelled to use quantities of wooden poles. Their activities spread over a wide portion of the United States, notably in the South, Southwest Central West. Cedar poles seem to be the ones most frequently attacked. The birds bore into them at any height from the ground, and the holes which they make are often two or three inches in diameter and four or five inches deep. Such an amount of wood drilled from a stick of timber which is carrying a load of wires naturally weakens the strength of the line.

It would, of course, not be a difficult matter to exterminate these birds. However, this is not desirable, as they are among the most beneficial forms of bird life native to this country, because they destroy large numbers of insects which seriously damage forest and food crops. It seems, therefore, that methods should be undertaken to compel the birds to revert to their former habit of boring rather than exterminate them.

Frequent inquiries have been made by the Forest Service in this connection, but the only information to date which the government has been able to obtain is that on a casual inspection of treated and untreated pole lines in Louisiana. In that region it was found that poles which had been impregnated with creosote oil were not attacked by the birds, whereas untreated poles under the same conditions were very severely injured.

Whether or not creosote will prevent such attack is not definitely known, but the service is investigating this problem, and should this oil prove a preventative, it will fulfill a two-fold purpose: It will protect the poles from decay and destruction from animal life. In southern Indiana, some members of a traction company thought they could prevent further destruction of their poles by filling the holes in the wood with stones. The birds, however, simply drilled around the stones and made the conditions much worse. This apparently does not seem to be a means of preventing their depredations.

It Was Not Good.

There was a good sized audience in the opera house Friday night to witness Pinafore by the Ethel Morton Company, but the production fell far below expectation. Miss Morton herself was the only good part of the cast, her support being very poor.

Send in your orders Saturday for Sunday's delivery of ice cream. We make all flavors and deliver it at your home in perfect condition at any hour wanted for dinner. Peaches Bros. at the Candy Kitchen. 87

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL BRIEFS.

The Visitors Here and People Who Travel.

F. D. Foxhall went to Tarboro today.

C. V. York went to Norfolk today.

Amos Brown, of Grifton, who has been visiting relatives here, left this morning for Winterville.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. F. D. Winston, of Windsor, came in today to be present at the ordination service tomorrow.

Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb and her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Whedbee, left this morning for Toxaway to spend a month there.

Mrs. M. Cherry, of Washington, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. E. Griffin, returned home Friday evening.

Killed a Snake.

Friday afternoon Mr. G. E. Harris killed a large moccasin snake which habitated the large sycamore tree on the side-walk near his residence on Cotanch street. The snake was discovered there some days ago by the ice man and Mr. Harris prepared his gun for killing it at its next appearance, and Friday it was seen again coming out of a hollow several feet above ground when it was killed.

Mr. Paul Mitrick, who lives next door, thinking there might be more snakes in it, built a fire to drive them out but none were discovered. He had a hard time extinguishing the fire for it caught the dry, rotten wood inside where it was impossible to get to it.

Is a Brickbat a Half Brick or Less?

Is a brickbat a half brick or any fraction of a brick? Most people, doubtless, are under the impression that a brickbat is any portion of a brick.

In the Superior court this week it was in evidence that one of the defendants had a brickbat in his hand while the trouble was on. A co-defendant in the case went on the stand and when asked if the other fellow had a brickbat he said no.

"What did he have?" asked the solicitor.

"About a quarter of a brick," was the answer.

"Isn't that a bat?" asked the solicitor.

"No," answered the witness.

"What is a bat?" asked the solicitor, getting interested.

"A half brick," calmly answered the witness, with evident assurance of the soundness of his position.

And so there you are.—Statesville Landmark. 87

MINTING NEW PENNIES STOPPED.

The government was about to put a new one cent piece in circulation, but after the mint had started to make them the treasury department ordered that no more of them be issued, owing to the fact that the designer made his initials V. D. B. too conspicuous. The new penny, quite an attractive coin, will be regarded as a curiosity, and the mintage being stopped when not many had been made, they will doubtless be much sought after as souvenirs. The only ones The Reflector has had the privilege of seeing were sent by Congressman John H. Small. The penny is about the size of the small ones already in use. One side has a bust picture of President Lincoln, circled above his head the sentence "In God We Trust." The word Liberty appears just behind his collar, and the figures 1909 in front of his breast. On the reverse side are two stems of grain forming a wreath about two-thirds around the coin. In four horizontal lines are one cent, United States of America, the words one cent being much larger than any others on it. Circled above this in very small letters is the sentence "E Pluribus Unum" and near the opposite edge under the stems of the wreath are the initials of the designer. The Reflector does not think these are so conspicuous as to detract from the appearance of the coin, for they are so small that we had to look closely to find them at all. We are glad to get the coin and will keep it as a curiosity.

For years a contest has been going on in Gaston county over the question of moving the county seat from Dallas to Gastonia. Three elections have been held on it. The second of these was six years ago when Dallas won by a very small majority. The time coming when the building of a new court house was necessary, the question was opened again. Gastonia offered a donation of $43,000, while Dallas only came up with $21,000. The citizens of the county again voted on the question Thursday. A very large vote was polled and Gastonia won by a majority of 629.

Tomorrow, August 8th, the editor of The Reflector will pass another mile stone in life's pilgrimage. While he has been on the journey longer than the average, he does not feel that his years are telling on him at all and is not ready to be Oslerized.

The New York World says "Thaw, if set free, will devote his life to literature." That will not be altogether as bad as if he took to the lecture platform. But he should not be set free.

In committee appointments made just before adjournment of the extra session of congress Thursday, Congressman John H. Small was placed on the committee of expenditures in public buildings, postoffices and post roads. He can render his people good service on that committee.

The Durham Herald says "The extra session of congress was not worth the trouble." Nor the price, either.

President Taft says he is pleased over it. His predecessor would have said de-lighted.

Most of the blind tigers seem to see well enough to avoid being caught.

We can wait to see what the revised tariff is going to do.

The law in Minnesota, which forbids the sale or giving away of cigarettes in the State, has gone into effect and will be watched with interest. Yet, according to reports, there is already a scheme on foot to get around the law, and, of course, old inter-state commerce will, as ever in cases of this character, be the loophole. Wisconsin also possesses anti-cigarette laws, but the law of the government allows jobbing through the mails, so a person desiring to purchase cigarettes can send his money by mail to some point across the line and will get his cigarettes in a few hours. Verily, there are more ways of buying the "coffin tacks" than leisurely going into a glittering store and having a package passed over the counter, and some "kid" to meet you on the outside and hold you up for the baseball picture.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Just a smile, just a kind word of encouragement may help some poor creature out of the depths of despair and make the world brighter. Such a little thing to do, and yet how often it is neglected until too late.—Durham Sun.

DELIGHTFUL NORTHERN TOUR

Personally conducted to Washington, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec, four days in New York City, at very attractive rates, via SEABOARD AIR LINE.

Mr. C. H. Gattis, D. P. A., and Mr. Jas. Ker, Jr., C. P. A., SEABOARD AIR LINE, are arranging what will certainly be the most popular and delightful Tour of the season, especially in this so as the party leave the Carolinas on September 1, 1909, the most delightful time in the whole year to go on your Summer trip, and they will visit all of the principal points of interest of the North: Washington, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec, Saratoga, Ausable Chasm four days in New York City, and Philadelphia, and all the New York Theatres will be open for the fall. An attractive feature of this Tour will be the Historic Potomac, Passing the Grand Old Palatial home of "The Father of His Country."

The trip is to be made at the lowest possible figure consistent with the first-class hotels and other things connected with the Tour, which will include railroad fare, pullman, hotel accommodations, meals, sight-seeing trips, transfers and in fact everything, with the exception of meals in New York, and a few other minor expenses, nearly all the sight-seeing trips are included. This last feature is a very good one as it will enable the party to spend their time seeing the sights without the bother of the details, which will be looked after by Mr. Gattis and Mr. Ker, both of whom have had wide experience in this branch of the passenger service. Time will be spent in Toronto during the Canadian Exposition and stops will be made at all points of sufficient length to enable the party to see all points of interest without hurrying. Mrs. Gattis and Mrs. Ker will chaperone the Tour, and ladies should not hesitate to go alone. The Tour will prove a most interesting one. A very attractive illustrated booklet containing detailed information can be had upon application by letter or in person to the undersigned, and those interested should write at once, as the party will positively be limited, and those applying first will get the lower births, so it will be to your advantage to book early. Every detail has been arranged with the view to making this a most delightful and comfortable tour for all.

THE CENTER BRICK WAREHOUSE.

The Warehouse boys are getting quite gay, Which is likely to bring the editor better pay. While they change their style of advertising to verse, Putting their good traits and deeds very terse.

As it makes no difference whether the meters and rhymes are measured by the yard or a ten foot pole, Just so we strike at the point or hit near the hole. So we will make haste, but not too quick, And put in a lick for the CENTER BRICK.

The Center Brick has a strong, yet soft and mellow light, Which shows up your tobacco all right, Her location is the best in the town, Near the factories, stations, and where the people go up and down.

The Center Brick as a Warehouse, is all right, Will keep you cool in summer, and protect you the wintry night, Her stalls are good, though on top not quite so tony, Will keep warm your horse, whether fat or bony.

The Center Brick's reputation is already made, Without a single hint of a darkened shade, Her crew are men tried and found true, You might sift them and not a spot tainted blue.

There's old man Brinkly, the farmers' friend, Honest all the day long unto the end, You can tell by the cut of his frock That he never dealt in futures or watered his stock.

The man who has stuck to the people in thickest of the fight And dared to maintain the principles of justice and right. He has never stooped or winked at doings that were wrong, Nor listened to sweet strains of the alien's weird song.

He has stood fast at the helm without his collar And showed your tobacco to the last dollar, And if you want to see him brighter shine Just watch the Center Brick this 1909.

There is Hutchings the veteran auctioneer Has had many a farmer to give him cheer, He knows how to treat the tobacco boys And to add to the farmer's comforts and joys.

He is a judge of the weed and knows its worth And pushes for the high dollar with a smile of mirth While every attempt to besmirch his name Makes for him but greater fame.

There is "Bud" Spain, who figures your bill, As good as ever pushed a quill. A Pitt county boy and as true as the needle to the pole And gives justice in his transactions to every soul.

There is Rev. D. W. Arnold will assist in the clerical work And anything to add to the farmers interest he will never shirk, While upon the floor you will find Beaman, And night or day as true to duty as an old seaman.

There is Ed. Harris the idea! Guano man, Who does his fellowman all the good he can, Will carry the book and see you are paid right Always congenial and will treat you polite.

Least but not least assistant on the floor is J. C. Cook A house is not complete without a good cook, He is a farmer himself like all the rest And knows just what suits the farmer best.

To sum it up and aim ever so high If you Better THE CENTER BRICK You will have to scrape the sky.

FIRE ISLAND.

About the West Section of the Atlantic Coast For Wrecks.

No other section of the Atlantic coast line, not even the shores of Cape Cod, Nantucket and Block island, can offer a record of disaster surpassing the roll of shipwreck and death which is inscribed on the shifting sand dunes of Fire island.

For the last 250 years vessels have been going ashore on the beach, and every now and then you come upon their bones, rearing up gauntly out of the sand. Of course the great majority of the wrecks have gone the way of all things earthly. But the sight of half a dozen huge timbers projecting from the face of a dune, making an ideal shelter for a brief rest, suggests reminiscences of a tragedy of the past. Occasionally, too, the waves wash up some odd relic that the sands have been toying with for generations, and the old inhabitants of the coast, standing at their cabin doors, with shaded eyes, will point up and down the dreary perspective to the places where ships and steamers and any number of other gallant craft came to grief on the sands.

There are a peculiar charm and attraction about Fire island beach that are only to be accounted for by its desolation and the grim events connected with its history. This does not apply to the settlement clustered about the lighthouse and the observation towers, but to the long stretches, monotonous in their apparent sameness, that run eastward toward the sheltered waters of Shinnecock bay. It is almost unbelievable that such a barren, primitive landscape can be found within fifty miles of New York city.

At certain seasons of the year you can walk for hours and never see a human being. The only access that break in on the solitude are the twittering calls of the sand-pipers that flit overhead. At distant intervals faintly marked trails lead up the lows and bluffs inshore, tending toward the huts of lonely baymen, tucked away in the shelter of the dunes, scantily clad in dune grass and underbrush; otherwise, save for the wreckage that clogs the beach, you would not be aware that human beings existed anywhere. The sand covers everything, obliterating footprints as fast as they are made.

All the flotsam and jetsam of the sea come to Fire island. Bits of woodwork, parts of small boats, hatches, spars, balks of timber, water casks and chicken coops, bits of all sizes, from a matchbox to a derelict's shattered hull, are washed over the outer bar. If the ghosts of all the ships whose bones have been bleached on Fire island sands could be mustered they would tell the country's maritime history in chronological order.

Bluff nosed Dutchmen out of Amsterdam, stout English ships from Hull and Plymouth town, rangy Frenchmen, stately Spaniards, like the last victim of the beach, and many a goodly Yankee crew have listened to the thunder of the breakers and seen the white sand through the spray, stretching for miles beyond their ken, bare of human soul. But that was in the days before the establishment of the life saving service.

Many a storied ship has met her fate on Fire island beach. Merchantman and privateer, frigate and slaver, coaster, fishing schooner, yacht and liner have pounded themselves apart on the treacherous bar that scarcely shows beneath the gentle swell on a pleasant day. A rapacious destroyer, Fire island.—New York Post.
