REV. B. F. HUSKE ORDAINED.

BEAUTIFUL SERVICE IN ST PAUL'S CHURCH SUNDAY.

Impressive Ordination Sermon Delivered by Rev. R. W. Hogue, of Chapel Hill.

It was a beautiful day and impressive scene that marked the ordination to the priesthood of Rev. B. F. Huske in St. Paul's Episcopal church on Sunday. In order that the service be not too long, morning prayer was said at 9:30, by Rev. W. J. Gordon, of Williamston, giving a short intermission before the ordination which began at 11. At this hour a congregation assembled that was so large as to completely overflow the church, many having to be turned away for lack of room.

After an opening hymn Rev. R. W. Hogue, of Chapel Hill, who preached the ordination sermon, announced his text 2 Cor. 6:3 and part of 4. His subject was "Character of the minister consistent with his calling." He said that while men in other callings were more or less chosen for their business qualifications rather than personal character, when it comes to the minister of Christ he must be a man of character, and that character be consistent with his calling. He said the minister must be a man of sacrifice, a man of faith, a man of prayer, a man of courage, a man of vision. Each of these qualifications were emphasized with force by the speaker and illustrated with beautiful figures. It was a sermon that made a deep impression upon all who heard it, and was delivered with marked earnestness and eloquence.

Then with Rt. Rev. Robert Strange, bishop of the diocese of Eastern Carolina, the impressive ordination service was said. The priest was presented by Rev. Isaac W. Hughes, of Fayetteville. The other clergy present and taking part in the service were Revs. F. N. Skinner, of Beaufort, and W. J. Gordon, of Williamston. At the conclusion of this Bishop Strange requested the congregation to join in silent prayer during a space of two minutes for Divine blessing and guidance upon the young priest then to be ordained. This was done devoutly and it was a moment of deep solemnity and earnest supplication to the Heavenly throne. The bishop and all the visiting clergy then gathered together that they might join in laying hands on the head of the kneeling priest. Bishop Strange handed a Bible and stole to the priest with the commission of authority to enter upon the full duties and obligation of the priesthood.

In the large congregation were no more interested and happy worshippers than Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Huske, of Fayetteville, parents of the young priest, who with three others of their children, Messrs. M. S. and Caldwell and Miss Wilhelmina Huske, had come to attend the ordination. An uncle, Maj. B. R. Huske, of Fayetteville, and an aunt, Miss Nellie Fuller, of Durham, were also present.

Rev. B. F. Huske, the priest ordained, has lived in Greenville a little more than a year, and it is not too broad an assertion to say that every person in Greenville, irrespective of denomination, is numbered among his friends. His upright life, gentlemanly and courteous manner, and earnest devotion to duty have won the esteem of every one. He was born in Fayette-

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Hon. C. M. Busbee, a prominent lawyer and a leading Odd Fellow of the State, died Saturday morning in Raleigh. He was 64 years of age and had filled many positions of trust.

The ever-bearing peach tree is a reality. We have in our office a branch of a tree left by Mr. Alphonso Hildebrand, one of the most successful fruit growers of the county. On one twig is a large ripe peach, about the size of an orange, on another is a half-grown peach and a fourth grown one. The tree brings forth after the manner of the fig, throughout the summer, and, Mr. Hildebrand tells us, is very full this year.—Newton Enterprise.

Friday night J. H. Bunting, a traveling man of Wilmington, and P. C. Collins, cashier of a bank in Hillsboro, were in a room together at Black Mountain hotel, and created such a disturbance through the night that the proprietor of the hotel sent out to the home of a policeman to awake the officer and get him to go stop the disturbance in the hotel. When the officer went in the room where the men were they both made an attack on him, when he shot them both. The two wounded men were taken to a hospital in Asheville Saturday and Bunting died that night. Collins is also dangerously wounded.

Boordman, N. C., Aug. 6.—John Smith, who bears the optimistic title of "Happy Jack," who lives near here, and preaches at the "Holiness" church, became insane and made a murderous assault on the Inman family, but happily his efforts failed. He was overpowered and disarmed before he committed any damage. However, the crazy man was possessed of superhuman power and it took a desperate effort to subdue him. Smith is a Canadian and has resided here about eight years. He married Miss Kate Inman and they have two children. For some time he has been subject to fits, but no one dreamed that his mind was unbalanced. An inquiry was held and he was sent to the insane asylum.

Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Greenville is called in the court house at 8:30 o'clock, Tuesday night, Aug. 10th. Some important matters to the business men of Greenville are to be considered, and a large attendance is desired.

F. M. Wooten, President.

ville Aug. 15th, 1884, graduated from the State University in 1903, and took the theological course in the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was ordained deacon in Fayetteville on Jan. 28th, 1908, and in July following came to Greenville as rector of St. Paul's which place he has since filled most acceptably.

Bishop Strange preached an excellent sermon to a large congregation Sunday night.

Baptist Baraca Class.

Notwithstanding the hot day, the class made a very creditable showing in attendance. President Flanagan made a very appropriate talk in urging punctuality and duty of attendance, also in greeting the new members and new faces of old members. Dr. Bryan's lecture was very forceful and those absent missed one of the best talks of the season. The teachings of Paul to the Thessalonians was very strongly applied to the needs of the present day. Fifty were present and the collection was three dollars.

Prof. Wilson, of the Eastern Training School, made a good, practicable and telling talk to the Sunday school. Total present of the school was 193. We are anxious to see a full attendance on next Sunday and would ask the boys to get up early and be on hand.

The Marked "Tarpin."

A few days ago a highland tarpin was found on the Krauss old place near Mineral Springs with the initials "F. A. K." and the date June, "81," carved on its shell. The tarpin was brought to town and shown to Mr. Frank Krauss, who readily remembered having done the carving with his pocket knife more than 28 years ago. Mr. Krauss kept the tarpin here a few days and then sent it back to be liberated where it had been found.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Large Catch of Mackerel.

Mr. C. D. Rountree, who came home Sunday evening from Beaufort, tells The Reflector that fishing was fine the last few days he was down there. He went out trolling with a party of four on Saturday, when they struck a school of mackerel and hauled in 300 in a little over two hours steady fishing. He said it was the best fishing he ever saw and the party was very tired after pulling in so many.

TRAINING SCHOOL FACULTY.

Those Who Will Have Charge of the Institution.

At their meeting here last Friday the trustees of East Carolina Teachers' Training School completed the faculty for the first session, which will begin on Oct. 5th, with the exception of music instructors. The trustees decided to establish a music department in connection with the school, and correspondence is now in progress to secure teachers for this department. The faculty of the school is composed as follows:

Prof. R. H. Wright, president.

Prof. C. W. Wilson, bursar and instructor.

Prof. H. E. Austin, of Baltimore, teacher of science.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, lecturer on public school administration.

Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith, of Swan Quarter, lady principal.

Miss Mamie Jenkins, of Raleigh, teacher of English.

Miss Birdie McKinney, of Reidsville, teacher of Latin.

The rate of tuition to those who do not signify an intention to teach two years after completing the course will be $40 for the coming session; for instrumental music $40, for special vocal lessons $32. All fees and tuition are payable quarterly in advance.

Pool Rooms.

The average pool room in the average town is a den of sorriest. They are good time killers, they are corrupters of good morals because they are seductive; and the average one is doing more harm than did the saloon which property has been driven from the State. Recently this writer visited one of the most modern equipped pool rooms in the State. At eleven o'clock there were twenty-eight persons in the room. Most of them dressed like the average dude, inhaling his cigarette and belching up his occasional oath, while a few more were indulging themselves in a bet on two "crack players." At three o'clock the very same pool room had 31 visitors. Several of them were the husbands of young wives, who are working at various jobs for a living.—July Unlift.

"Undesirable" Citizens.

We still have a few men in this community who stand around on the street corners from morning until night complaining about the town, their neighbors, their taxes and the weather. Such men are mighty common clay and it is fortunate we have so few of them. They are of no use to the town, their families or their God. They seem to live but no one can tell how. Like mosquitos and flies, they are not fatal but disagreeable to have about.—Albemarle Enterprise.

The Newspaper.

Henry Ward Beecher once said: "In the United States every worthy citizen reads a newspaper and owns it. A newspaper is a window through which men look out on all that is going on in the world. Without a newspaper a man is shut up in a small room and knows little or nothing of what is happening outside of himself. A good newspaper will keep a man in sympathy with the world's current history. It is an ever unfolding encyclopedia, an unbound book, forever issuing and never finished."

The editor was delighted Sunday to shake hands once more with his boyhood friend, Rev. Isaac W. Hughes, of Fayetteville, who was here to take part in the ordination service. He is a son of the late Dr. Collin Hughes, who many years was the beloved rector of St. Paul's church here, and he used to come often from Chocowinity with his father when the latter came to fill his appointments. The young man followed the footsteps of his venerable father in the ministry, and is one of the most prominent of the clergy in the diocese of East Carolina.

Small Fire This Morning.

About 10 o'clock this morning there was a fire alarm which caused excitement for a short while. The dwelling house next to the Presbyterian church on Dickinson avenue, from which the family of the late Mr. J. W. Tucker moved last week, was on fire in the roof. The building belongs to Mrs. Godwin, who was having it fumigated, and the fire caught from some burning trash in a defective chimney. The fire department was on hand promptly and with one stream of water soon had the fire out.

SAND CLAY ROAD NEGLECTED.

Several months ago a splendid sand-clay road was built for about two miles outward from the Atlantic Coast Line railroad. It cost considerable money to build this road, but it was money well expended. The road was constructed by the county with convict labor, under the direction of a government expert road engineer, and was intended as an experiment and object lesson to the people of the county that they might see what good roads could be constructed of the material accessible. The building of this experimental piece of sand-clay road proved a great success. Everybody wanted to ride over it, and all who did so praised its excellence. It turned more people into good roads advocates than any other object lesson the county has had.

But there is another side to this question, and it is that side. The Reflector wants to emphasize now. It matters not how well a road may be constructed, it is not going to remain good always unless some attention is paid to it afterward. We have heard it estimated that even macadamized roads cost about 10 per cent. for perfect maintenance, and that the hardest rock roads require attention to keep them in order. But it seems this sand-clay road has had no special care since construction except what came from it being a part of the road over which the precinct road overseer had supervision. And anybody acquainted with the prevailing system of keeping up county roads knows what this means.

This sand-clay road has suffered under the recent heavy rains, and several bad washes and cuts appeared. We are told that the way these bad places were repaired was by the neighborhood road hands throwing in a few shovels full of ordinary dirt. The idea of thinking a sand-clay road can be repaired this way! It is worse than the Scriptural injunction not to patch a new garment with old cloth. It would be no greater folly to try to stop a leak in a metal or slate roof by nailing a shingle over the leak. Of course a sand-clay road should be repaired with the same material of which it is made.

The county commissioners should have some one to look after this road, and not leave its care to the ordinary road overseer and neighbor road hands who in looking after the roads do no more than the law compels them to do—and nobody blames them for it. 'Twere foolish to have built this sand-clay road unless it is to be properly cared for.

Kidney Troubles Attack Greenville Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quickly with little warning. Children suffer in their early years—Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women worry, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man, woman or child. Is to cure the cause—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—Cure all forms of kidney suffering. Greenville testimony proves it.

Miss Susan Kai-sul, 53 N. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "I derived great benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills and take pleasure in recommending them. For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and had distressing pains through my loins. My kidneys were very weak and the frequent passages of the secretions caused me great annoyance. My back pained me severely and when first arising in the morning I was so lame and sore that I could scarcely get around. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wooten's drug store and through their use I was entirely relieved of these troubles. The fact that my kidneys have given me no trouble since leads me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills most highly."

ulative insanity." It does not fit a murder case, but hits the spot for the gentlemen who skip with bank funds or embezzle money entrusted to their keeping.

The State Democrat, a new weekly paper recently started at Raleigh by J. O. Caddell, is an all round good one. It is not yet very large, but shows the stuff to grow on.

This is not a free-trade bill. It was not intended to be. The Republican party did not promise to make a free-trade bill. From Mr. Taft's statement on the tariff bill.

This comes pretty near descending to a cheap stump speech. Nobody on earth asked or expected the Republican party to pass a free-trade bill, but Mr. Taft by his campaign pledges and other utterances aroused the expectations of the country in a way that his party in congress has utterly failed to meet.—New York World.

Speaking of germs and new-fangled diseases, we are reminded of the observation of a wise old Methodist preacher not long since gathered to his fathers. He said he was at one time right much worried about germs, but when he learned that the good germs outnumbered the bad germs, and that a perpetual warfare was waging between them, he concluded to be hands off and let the germs fight it out. He lived to be eighty odd and was in harness till the last.—Webster's Weekly.

STONED THE BARON.

When De Frenilly Enraged the Mob by Not Being Lafayette.

In 1791 Baron de Frenilly was staying in Auvergne. At that time Lafayette, the hero of two worlds, was expected to take up his residence at Charaniac. Everybody was on the lookout for him, and in his "Recollections" the baron gives an amusing story of being mistaken for the great general. He writes:

Having gone to Clermont to meet my cousin and not knowing what to do while awaiting her arrival, I decided to set off for Riom and bring back some of its famous pies. So I ordered post horses and left early in the morning.

When passing through Montferand, a league from Clermont, I saw a huge crowd, and on asking for information found that Lafayette was expected to arrive that very day.

In order not to meet him I doubled my pace, reached Riom in half an hour and set off back to Clermont.

Everything went well as far as Montferand, but on descending toward Clermont I found the road from one town to the other lined with troops and people. However, I continued to advance. But before I had gone more than a few yards I heard voices saying: "It is he! It is he!"

Away I went like the wind. But the shouts outstripped me, and in a few minutes I was proceeding in the midst of a universal cry of "Long live Lafayette!"

On traveling a third of the way there were salvos of artillery, the troops beat the "general," flags saluted, and the municipality advanced on one side while the staff presented itself on the other. It was then absolutely necessary to stop.

Lowering the carriage window, I asked the mayor what he desired. "Illustrious general," he replied.

"Monsieur," I interjected, "I am not a general. For whom do you take me, and what do you desire?"

"We take you for whom you are, the illustrious General Lafayette." "Sir, I am not Lafayette." Whereupon a grenadier shouted, "No, he isn't!"

"Who is he, then?" bellowed the people.

"An emigrant! A spy! A traitor! An aristocrat! Hang him!" A volley of stones struck the carriage. My postilion did not wait for a second discharge. He was off like an arrow, and in ten minutes I was at the gates of Clermont.

To do them justice, I must add that the mayor brought me in the evening the apologies of the good people who had stoned me as a punishment for not being Lafayette.

Merely the President.

A characteristic anecdote of Lincoln dates back to the time when there were so many fires at the national capital that suspicion of incendiaries was entertained, and various northern cities began to offer the services of special fire brigades. The authorities of Philadelphia in particular were most urgent and sent a special committee to wait upon the president and urge him to accept the services of such a brigade. The committee was tedious and long winded, and the president was anxious to get back to the public business which demanded his attention. Finally, seeing no prospect of a termination of the interview in the usual way, he interrupted one of the orators in the midst of a grandiloquent flight by saying:

"Ah, yes, gentlemen, but it is a mistake to suppose that I am the head of the fire department in Washington. I am merely the president of the United States."

Force of Habit.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes."

"Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company."

"Well?" "Well, they're a vacant lot."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A WARY ANIMAL.

Traits of the Whistling Groundhog of British Columbia.

The whistling groundhog occupies a unique position in the affairs of the Indians of British Columbia as does the mowich, or deer, among the same people. This small quadruped attracts so little general attention that its importance to natural history would no doubt be overlooked were it not for the fact that it provides the source of important supplies to the Siwash. I have never heard of the white man attempting to rival the Indian in the chase of the groundhog, though, no doubt, when he becomes more generally known to civilization his numerous tribe will suffer a considerable diminution from white hunters.

I made the acquaintance of the "whistler" on a recent trip into the interior of British Columbia and found his kind flourishing wherever open grass lands were to be found. Pursuing the Indian trails, one may see them at any time. Their clear whistle, in a single soft note much like a boy's first pucker attempt, may be heard for a long distance, and immediately all the groundhogs in the community within hearing of its sound scoot into their burrows, and as the traveler proceeds the warning is passed from village to village, and the little mounds of dirt from their excavated homes, serving as lookouts, are deserted till the strange intruder passes.

At other times when they are not so watchful or perhaps the wind is dead or unfavorable they may be seen and approached within rifle range. My companion said he had shot many, but that they remained so close to their burrows when danger was about that they always succeeded in falling into the hole even if they were literally shot all to pieces. The Siwash do not attempt to shoot them, but set steel traps near their retreats and, catching them alive when they emerge, kill them with an iron rod which is carried for the purpose. They dry and store the meat for winter use, which is said to have a delicious flavor. The pelts are tanned with the fur on and pieced into beautiful quilts, which the hunter and prospector prize even higher than the four point Hudson bay blanket. They make a warm, dry cover for a frosty night and are light and readily packed into a small compass.—Brent Altsheier in Recreation.

Pluck.

"Pluck," said the financier, "is the secret of success."

"Well," interrupted the shabby man, "I'll give you $10 if you'll teach me your method of plucking."—London Telegraph.
